Khe Sanh Beats Off First Red Assault

No Income Tax Boost Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — There now is a clear indication the government will not raise income taxes in the near future but look elsewhere for the revenues it needs to replace the tax bill defeated in the Commons Feb. 19.

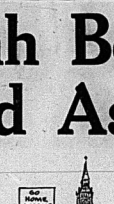
Revenue Minister Chretien told the Commons Thursday his department is preparing new payables of payroll tax deductions, to be sent out to employers by March 15.

The present deductions include a five-per-cent surcharge on basic income taxes, which Finance Minister Sharp announced in his Nov. 30 budget, and which started Jan. 1.

It, along with an accelerated schedule of tax payments by corporations, was defeated 84 to 82 in the Commons, precipitating the week-long parliamentary crisis which was resolved by a 138-to-119 confidence vote in the Commons Wednesday.

But the five-per-cent tax is still being collected, and will be until the revenue department can tell employers to substitute a new rate of payroll deductions. A government source said the tax has amounted to about $4 for most individuals, so far.

While producing the tables was a simple matter, run off by computer, the job of having them printed and distributed to all employers would take at least two weeks.



The government is not likely to go to this trouble and expense again in the near future if it can avoid it.

Hence the indication that it will turn to other tax fields to raise the $350,000,000 needed to balance the budget.

This amount is made up of $210,000,000 the government wanted from the five-per-cent income tax surtax, and $340,000,000 from the accelerated collection of corporation tax.

To find the $210,000,000, the government would have to turn to higher corporation taxes, higher sales and excise taxes, or some other field of taxation.

But the conundrum facing Mr. Sharp is how to find the money without adding unduly to inflationary pressures. An increase in personal income taxes is counter-inflationary, while higher taxes that lead to price increases are inflationary.

"Nothing personal, old chap. It's just your color!"

Seven Perish

PASPEBIAC, Que. (CP) — A mother and six of her nine children died Thursday when flames swept through their farm home in the nearby Gaspe-region village of St. Pie X, 325 miles northeast of Quebec City.

The last words uttered by Mrs. Jacques Aspirot, 36, as she dropped her three surviving youngsters from a second-storey window into the arms of their father were: "I'm choking."

The father, 40, standing below in the snow escaped with minor burns after he tried to save the other children.

Futile Attack Made in Fog

KHE SANH (AP) — More than 500 North Vietnamese soldiers attacked the Khe Sanh base through the fog before dawn today. They got to the barbed wire ring around the base before they were driven back with at least 70 of their men killed.

The North Vietnamese charged behind three sapper platoons in the attack on the base's eastern perimeter, which is held by a battalion of 500 South Vietnamese rangers.

A flight of U.S. B52 bombers, flying in direct support of ground troops for the first time in the war, dropped tons of explosives only 750 yards in front of the rangers' lines.

The besieged U.S. marine base in the northwest corner of South Vietnam was on a Red alert—meaning an attack was believed imminent—when the Communist soldiers came surging through the darkness and mist.

Some of the Communist sappers succeeded in placing Bangalore torpedoes under the coils of barbed wire that circle the two-square-mile base, but they were killed before they could set off the charges.

The early morning attack was the heaviest ground assault launched so far against the 5,000 U.S. marines and 500 rangers holding the Khe Sanh base.

An estimated 40,000 Communist troops are believed massed across the northern frontier for an invasion of South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces, with the Khe Sanh base their first objective.

Communist troops also made several other small attacks along the line held by marines in the northeast and southern sections of the base.

Casualties in all the attacks were "very light," U.S. officers said.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cloudy, mild conditions with a few snowflurries will persist today in the North and this cloud will spread into southern areas tonight and Saturday. A fresh outbreak of cold air will move into Northern Ontario tonight giving clearing skies and falling temperatures to that area on Saturday.

Catholic Schools Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — A 34-member committee representing major Protestant churches in Canada plans to ask members of the Ontario legislature to oppose a bid by the Roman Catholic Church to extend the separate school system in the province.

The committee, headed by Rev. William Berry of Ottawa, released a statement Thursday indicating it is against allowing public money in the upper grades of Roman Catholic high schools.

"Our protest is against the claim that any private secondary school is entitled to support from the public money available for education, and against the effort to create such political pressure to gain such an end," the statement said.

Mr. Berry, a United Church minister, said it is difficult to determine whether the 30-year-old committee speaks officially for the churches who sponsor it.

Winters Is in Race

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Winters today jumped into the Liberal leadership race as the 12th candidate.

He said he has submitted his resignation from the cabinet, to be accepted at Prime Minister Pearson's convenience, because he wants to be free of the strains of cabinet solidarity.

The widely-predicted announcement reverses a public statement seven weeks ago in which Mr. Winters said he would not campaign for the leadership.

$80,000 Is Stolen At Dorval

MONTREAL (CP) — Police started a province-wide search today for four hooded bandits who escaped with an estimated $80,000 in cash in a pre-dawn raid on an Air Canada cargo terminal at Montreal International Airport.

Sixteen employees and a CNR freight delivery agent were busy working in the freight terminal, about one-quarter mile west of the main terminal building, when three men marched into the office. A fourth remained in a getaway car parked outside.

There are no armed guards at the terminal.

Wielding sub-machine-guns, three of the bandits wearing woollen hoods entered the freight office.

Two jumped over the counters and forced about 12 employees to the rear of the cargo terminal. The third went directly to the "value cage" containing the Labrador-bound shipments. Lesser cargoes in other cages were not touched.

Blind Caring for Blind

Norma Claypool, an unmarried teacher in Pittsburgh, Pa., holds her adopted daughter, Patti Elaine, 3, who in turn, holds her baby doll. Both Miss Claypool and Patti Elaine are blind. In an unusual adoption case, Miss Claypool has been permitted, as a single woman, to adopt Patti Elaine. In her new home, Patti Elaine has changed from a quiet, fearful child into a bubbling, talkative live-wire. (AP Photo)

Britons Urge Queen Save Commonwealth

LONDON (CP) — Some Britons are going over the head of their now widely-criticized government with direct appeals to the Queen to save the Commonwealth from final collapse.

At the same time, editorials appeal for a Commonwealth conference to face up to issues of race discrimination with special reference to East African Asians forced out by Kenya, unwanted by India and largely barred from Britain.

Canada, Australia and others should be asked to accept Asian immigrants at an emergency conference, one newspaper urges.

The comments and proposals are made in a mood of anger by men of all political allegiances.

Coupled with a widespread feeling that British simply cannot accept all the migrants who want to enter in a sense both inside and outside the Labor party that the government has helped make what one supporter describes as "an unholy mess" of the issue.

Royal Assent Is Given Bill

LONDON (CP) — The Commonwealth Immigration Act, designed to stop the flood of Asian immigrants from East Africa, became law today when it received royal assent after an all-night sitting of the House of Lords. The bill will come into force at midnight tonight.

That was the deadline Asians in Kenya have been trying to beat because their livelihoods are threatened by "Africanization" laws.

More than 100,000 Kenya Asians have kept their British citizenship and in African eyes now are considered non-citizens.

As such, they must apply for new work permits. Those refused work permits must leave the country in three months.

Romania Quits Parley

BUDAPEST (AP) — A new rebellion has developed in the Soviet bloc, with Romania accusing the Kremlin of Stalinist tactics and walking out of the meeting of 66 Communist parties being held in the Hungarian capital.

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Roberts told the legislature Thursday the government's budget for the 1968-69 fiscal year will be brought down Tuesday, March 12.

Stanfield Opposes Curbs on Investment

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield told an audience of university students Thursday he opposes any new restrictions against foreign investment in Canada.

He said governments must ensure that basic institutions such as those in communications and banking are controlled in Canada.

"But I see no justification in going beyond that."

Outside domination might conceivably in future affect "the degree of enterprise" in Canada, but the country is not close to that situation, Mr. Stanfield said.

He spoke to about 200 students crowded into a common room at the University of Ottawa, where courses are conducted in both the French and English languages.

His Target A Hundred

Joseph Gannon, an employee at Canada Cement, has donated blood to the Red Cross 86 times. He was honored with a scroll at the annual meeting of the Red Cross last night. Very few people have donated 100 times but Mr. Gannon has no doubt that he'll make it. He is pictured here with some of the plasma bottles he filled.

New Gold Rush Begins Building Up in European Countries

LONDON (CP) — A new gold rush began building up in Europe today in an atmosphere of nervousness over the future of several major currencies, especially the British pound and the U.S. dollar.

Rumors from as far afield as Washington, Paris, Tokyo, Ottawa and Johannesburg combined to excite the gold market, always sensitive even to scare stories because gold buyers by nature seek security from paper currency when it seems uncertain to keep its value.

The price on the London bullion market, through which most private European demand is channelled, remained close up against the ceiling of $35.19% for the second day running. This is one-eighth of a cent below the maximum price at which the U.S. treasury will sell gold for dollars to foreigners.

The price of gold quoted in British pounds was up ¾ of a cent because the British pound was weak. It stood at only ¼ of a cent below the high set during last November's gold rush following devaluation of the pound. That rush cost U.S. gold stocks about $900,000,000.

Dealers agreed that trading today was the busiest since the last gold rush, although still nowhere near the same scale.

Demand at the opening of the market in London, when overnight orders are collated and the price for the day fixed, was estimated by dealers at about 10 to 15 tons, far below the 75- and 100-ton days of the heights of the last gold rush. Four or five tons represents a normal day's turnover.

Reports from the continent indicated that the two centres of activity were Zurich and Paris.

In Zurich, the U.S. dollar was under pressure and gold was in great demand because of rumors of a possible change in the U.S. gold-selling policy this weekend, dealers reported.

By noon the dollar had dropped to 4.3450 against the franc, the lowest rate for about 4½ weeks, and a fall of 45 points from today's opening.

Banking sources were sceptical about the accuracy of rumors circulating for the last two days that President Johnson would issue a decree this weekend changing the gold selling policy.

In Paris, published stories speculated that the United States would halt all gold sales by April 1 and apply for a huge international loan to stabilize the dollar.

The Japanese have emphatically denied that they plan to devalue the yen. But if they are forced to, it could affect trading patterns and other currencies.

The Canadian dollar also has come under pressure and Canada's currency is still weak on European markets.

Black Diamond Cheese Workers Sign Contract

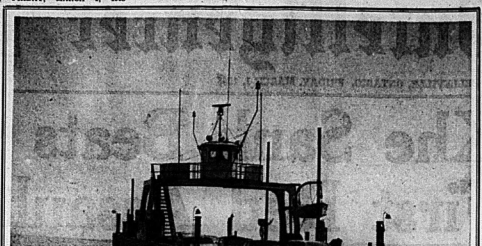
Mr. Donald G. Joss, chairman of the board of Black Diamond Cheese Ltd. and Ron Mansfield, president of Local 688, United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers Union today announced completion of negotiations for a two-year union contract at the local cheese plant.

Under the contract male workers will receive a 52 cents per hour increase over the two-year period while female workers will receive an extra 40 cents.

Increased premiums were accorded to certain key jobs and vacation with pay policy was improved to give three weeks vacation after eight years and four weeks after 20 years.

Also the company has agreed to the principle of a guaranteed wage once an employee has commenced the work week. If for any reason not beyond the company's control an employee is laid off during any given week he is entitled to his full weekly wage.

Local Talent For 'Follies'



PICTON (Staff) — Many will recall the success of last years "North Marysburgh Follies." It drew capacity crowds wherever it played in the county during the centennial year. It will be back this year, bigger and better than ever. Officials say that the show will run Friday and Saturday nights, March 15 and 16. Master of ceremonies this year will be Sam Gentile and all of the talent, as in the past, will be from North Marysburgh Township.

The show will be held in the auditorium of the North Marysburgh Central School.

Glenora Ferry Keeps Schedule

PICTON (Staff) — From the Glenora Dock the year-round ferry "Quinte Loyalist" appeared to be taking a route to nowhere as it left for Adolphustown in a heavy seasonal fog Thursday morning. A few minutes after leaving the Lake-on-the-mountain side it disappeared with its load of cars.

The ferry has only been out of operation part of one day so far this winter. Captain J. A. Halock, in charge of the ferries operation said that at the present time there is no problem with ice in the slips. "Before long," he said, "the travelling will be more difficult as ice in the narrows breaks up."

Only one ferry operates at the present time and both ferries are equipped with the latest in navigation devices including telephones and radar. Radar of course is not used at this time. The path through the ice to the mainland has been free clear all winter with the only holdup this year caused by ice in the dock slips An air bubble system keeps the ice from freezing in the dock areas.

Valuable Bible 'Handed Down'

DAU 'HIN, Man. (CP) — Handed down from generation to generation, a 368-year-old Bible now is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shave.

The Bible originally was in the possession of the Borthwick family of Dumfrieshire, Scotland, who were Covenanters.

The Covenanters, those who embraced a new religion of the Protestant Reformation of the 16th century—disciples mainly of John Knox—were subject to persecution which included the burning of Bibles found in their possession.

The Bible now in the possession of the Shave family was thrown into a fireplace but was rescued from the slow-burning peat fire and hidden in the thatched roof of a cottage. Scorch marks are plainly visible.

A marriage between a Borthwick and a Waters brought the Bible into the Waters family. Mrs. Shave is the last of the Waters family.

The Book of Genesis and the front cover, which was made of sheepskin, are missing.

A record of births, deaths and marriages listed in the Bible begins in the year 1650. The writing is still legible.

The heirloom was brought to Canada from Glasgow in 1907 by Mrs. Shave's grandfather, Thomas Waters, who settled in Saskatoon.

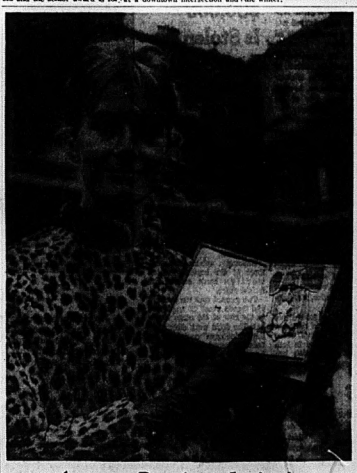
Activities at 'Y'

Bay of Quinte High School students will have an opportunity to participate in some specific study and at the same time prepare themselves for possible summer employment. The Belleville Family Y.M.C.A. is offering a Senior Y.M.C.A. Life Saving course for secondary school students during their March break.

"The course will be a concentrated one with two hour pool sessions in addition to special lectures sessions" said Glen Manthorne Men's and Boy's Program Director. "Candidates of necessity will have to be a strong swimmers in order to qualify for the course as there will be no time for swim instruction.

Both senior and junior awards will be available. The junior award is for those 14-16 years old and the senior award is for those 17 years and over. The latter award qualifies the individual to be a lifeguard under Ontario law.

Those interested are invited to contact Glen Manthorne Men's and Boy's program director at the Belleville Family Y.M.C.A. - Phone 962-9245.



Accident Causes Injury

Mr. Lawrence "Larry" Wray, former Belleville resident, and a retired air vice marshal with the RCAF, is recuperating in Toronto General Hospital after being seriously injured when struck by a car two weeks ago.

The former high ranking air force officer was struck by a car as he stepped off the curb at a downtown intersection and was thrown 135 feet by the impact.

He suffered a broken shoulder, fractured hip and also arm and leg fractures in the accident.

At the time of the accident, Mr. and Mrs. Wray were readying to leave for Florida, where they were to visit relatives for the winter.

Actress Receives Insignia

Actress Vanessa Redgrave holds the insignia of her CBE — Commander of the Order of the British Empire — as she leaves Buckingham Palace after being invested by the Queen for services to the theatre. Miss Redgrave was one of 166 persons honored at the first of six winter investitures.

Successful Year Reported At Red Cross Society Meet

After donating blood over 75 times Joseph Gannon was honored at the annual meeting of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society last night.

President of the society for the past year Archie Lewis presided over the meeting which heard the annual reports from committees, elected officers for the coming year and honored blood donors.

Mr. Lewis, who has been president of the society for the past three years, thanked everybody for their help before going into the annual reports.

Financially for the year ending Dec. 31, 1967, a surplus of $1,991.27 was reported on deposit by Newton Thompson, treasurer for the past year. The Homemaker service of the Red Cross accounted for the largest expenditure, $19,396.99.

Mrs. Helen Ketcheson was the chairman of the Homemaker committee. She reported that during the year 1967, 11 to 14 homemakers worked for 1,904 days on 179 cases. Over 100 of the cases were repeat and 210 children were cared for.

Senior citizens (71 of them) required 1,109 days of care and 20 welfare cases required 260½ days of service. The supervisor, Mrs. J. A. Buchanan who retired in January made 508 calls during the year.

Mrs. Ketcheson, Mary the Loan Cupboard committee reports — 193 people made use of the free service equipment provided by the Red Cross, wheel chairs getting the most use.

The individual Emergency Aid report assisted 22 families who for the most part needed food. In addition it was reported by Mrs. Ketcheson, other aids such as dentures, glasses and galoshes were provided.

During the past season 14 different outings were provided for 36 senior citizens of the list of the Red Cross, reported Senior Citizens' committee chairman, Mary Wright.

The Women's Work Committee was also very busy during the past year and shipped over 500 articles, layettes, shirts, sweaters, etc., to headquarters.

Mrs. F. M. Sprague was chairman of the committee which also made goods for local emergency aid as well as for shipment to the far east and other disaster areas.

The blood donor committee was headed up by President Archie Lewis, although its hopes for greater numbers of blood donors during Centennial year didn't materialize the committee did have its successes and was able to provide nine bottles of AB RH Positive blood, (one of the rarest types) during the October clinics.

Water Safety services noted an increase of 55 per cent in awards over 1966 and a total of 306 awards were presented.

Chairman Murray Workman reported that the programs were held at the Tops Motel pool and the Kinsmen pool.

Mrs. Herbert McCabe reported that the Disaster committee had a very busy year assisting 20 families and 60 individuals who lost all their belongings by fire. In most cases she said, there was little or no insurance.

The final report accepted at the meeting was that of the Bedside Nursing Committee. Eight students completed the 16 week course in nursing. Aid reports were Violet E. Else, which is held in Education Hall at Belleville General Hospital.

After the reports for 1967 were accepted by the society officers for 1968 were elected.

They will be for the following year: President — J. R. Cameron, past - President — Archie Lewis, vice-president Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, 2nd vice President — Mrs. Herbert McCabe, secretary Mrs. Ray Nolan, treasurer, Newton Thompson and the editor will be P. M. Till.

Larry Bayliss, chairman of the Ontario blood donor service, was guest speaker at the meeting last night and spoke to the group on the Red Cross and especially the Pilot plays from the blood donor angle.

Winter's ice still clings to Canniffon dam built back in 1922 without the aid of engineering know-how. Canniffon grist mill business in operation for more than 160 years has been sold to new owner.

160-year-old Grist Mill At Canniffon Changes Hands

One of the oldest water operated mill businesses in the Quinte district, the Canniffon grist mill dating back more than 160 years, has a new owner.

Local realtor Bev. G. Foster said today that the Canniffon mill owned by Roy Pound, had been sold to Frank Sterba of Toronto who will take over operation about the middle of March.

The original mill at Canniffon was constructed shortly after 1800 and with the exception of a few months in 1962 has operated continuously. The old mill structure, built of heavy pine timbers and faced with pine lumber was destroyed in a spectacular fire six years ago and was later rebuilt.

Mr. Arthur Holgate, still living retired at Canniffon, operated the original mill for 35 years until he sold it to Mr. Pound in the 1950's.

He purchased the mill in 1921 from the Lingham family and ran the combined grist mill and sawmill operation until he sold it to Mr. Pound.

When the mill was burned a few years ago only the grist mill operation was rebuilt.

It was Mr. Holgate who built the present concrete mill dam.

An old wooden dam structure at one time stored the water for the combined grist and sawmill operation, but time had finally taken its toll and the structure had to be replaced.

But no firm of consulting engineers was retained to draw plans. Neither was a building contractor hired to do the construction.

"I built the dam with day labor at a cost of about $6,000," recalled Mr. Holgate this week. "It would cost $25,000 or more to replace the structure today."

Mr. Holgate said he hired Solomon Spicer an old carpenter from the Flinton area to supervise the construction. Mr. Spicer had had experience in dam construction in his own neighborhood.

Three carloads of cement went into the construction.

That was back before the service lines of Ontario Hydro spreadeagled across the province.

But to take advantage of the newfangled lighting medium, Mr. Holgate installed his own generating plant. The same dynamo still operates the mill lights — and provides electric heat for the mill office.

County Wide Board Issue

Interim School Body Meets March 11

The initial meeting of a steering committee to plan the reorganization of Hastings County school boards into a single elected board of education will be held March 11 at Quinte Secondary School.

The meeting follows the introduction of a government white paper laying down guidelines for the establishing of the new units throughout the province by Jan. 1, 1969.

In Hastings County 12 members representing the present boards, will sit on the "Interim School Organization Committee" — the official government label for the planning group.

Although the white paper calls for the regional superintendent to give notice of the first meeting "not later than Feb. 15," several boards were not informed until a few days ago.

Regional superintendent, R. W. Frosts of Kingston was not available for comment this morning.

The method of selecting representation on the steering committee has also come under fire from some areas.

At a recent meeting of the Bay of Quinte High School Board several members complained that while they elected only one committee member — the same held true for other smaller boards.

"This hardly seems reasonable when you consider we administer almost 5,000 students while the smaller boards may have less than 500 students," one trustee said.

The Belleville Public School Board administers 5,400 pupils, the Bay of Quinte Board about 5,000 students and the remainder of the 27,000 students come under the jurisdiction of the ten smaller public school boards and the Trenton Board of Education.

The steering committee will prepare, for the use of the new county wide unit, summaries of present general board policies, statements of procedures used in the various school systems, descriptions of programs and special services and personnel listings.

The members will also prepare lists of salaries, payrolls and deductions, available accommodation in each of the systems ,enrolment of pupils, transportation and a report on the finances in each of the present school systems.

The steering committee may also appoint sub-committees to perform specific duties or tasks in the preparation of the report.

One of the major problems of the committee may be in the area of transportation. At the present time all public school students in the rural areas are bussed to school while secondary pupils may be required to walk as far as a mile to meet the bus.

Urban students walk to school in the cities and towns.

Teachers Won't Approve Quinte High School Board

The Bay of Quinte High School board is among 150 in the province not approved by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation at their sessions in Toronto today and Saturday.

The federation has asked its members not to sign up for a job with any board that has not yet settled its 1968-69 salary scale.

Bay of Quinte Board chairman James Clarke said this morning, superintendent Donald Stirling, assistant superintendent Leslie Reid and two trustees are in Toronto interviewing teachers to fill an expected 30 vacancies in the school system.

"We haven't reached agreement with the teachers on a salary scale but negotiations are proceeding amicably," he said. "We've held two meetings but its difficult to reach agreement before the larger centres settle."

Only seven boards throughout the province have been approved by the 26,000 member OSSTF.

Interviewing takes place at two Toronto hotels, and on Saturday, 50 of the larger boards will send recruiters to the colleges of education.

Mr. Clarke said he didn't anticipate the board would have any problem filling vacancies next year.

"If the OSSTF can control the teachers to the extent where they don't sign they're, in effect, conducting province wide negotiations," he said. "They're pressuring the smaller boards."

About 4,500 high school teachers are needed in Ontario to replace those leaving teaching and to staff new classrooms.

Popular Aspect of Military

CFB Trenton Band Plans Two Shows

TRENTON — Music is one of the most popular aspects of military tradition, and Canada's foremost uniformed musicians will test that popularity before a local audience this month.

The 55-piece Central Band of the Canadian Armed Forces is scheduled for two performances at CFB Trenton's No. 6 Repair Depot Recreation Hall Saturday evening, March 16, and the following afternoon.

Based at Canadian Forces Base Rockcliffe in Ottawa, the band has averaged as 25,000-mile annual touring junket since being formed in 1940.

European and U.S. audiences, student bodies, and isolated Labrador communities have heard the Central Band put through its musical paces. Acting in guards of honor for visiting dignitaries and heads of state is another regular band function.

To meet its many commitments, the band may be divided into smaller salon groups of various sizes, as well as dance orchestras of eight or 10 pieces.

Members of the band represent all parts of the Dominion and consider their task twofold: to develop Canadian music and musicians through their appearances, and to add to the stature of Canada's Armed Forces and the nation by acting as goodwill ambassadors abroad.

Since 1963, Captain Kenneth R. Moore of Niagara Falls has been band director, climaxing his career as a musician in the Royal Canadian Air Force since 1948.

Featured performers appearing with the Central Armed Forces Band include tenor Yvonne Sgt. Donald Laver of Edmonton, who has appeared on national Canadian television; accordion soloist Sgt. Alvin Minshull of Winnipeg; and Sgt. Gordon Rushworth of Toronto, winner of a Royal Conservatory of Music scholarship for trumpet playing proficiency.

Canada's international music ambassadors will provide music for a dance Saturday evening, March 16, beginning at 9.30. Tickets for the dance are available at CFB Trenton at $2.50 until Monday, March 11.

The 6 RD Recreation Hall will also be the scene of a free concert the following afternoon at 2.30, for armed forces and Department of National Defence personnel.

'Wild' Parts of World Shown In Kiwanis Club Travelogue

By A. HENDERSON

Last evening at the Collegiate Institute Ronam Wilhelmson, note traveller, photographer, author, and archeologist, presented his unique portrayal of "Africa - Timbuktu and Beyond," to an intensely interested audience. This prefentation is the second last travelogue of the 1967 Travel and Adventure Series sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville.

Mr. Wilhelmson who was introduced by W. J. Musgrove, principal of Moira Secondary School, is an American born in Lansing, Michigan. He attended St. Joseph's College in Indiana; and is a graduate of Pasadena Playhouse; appearing before more than 2,000 audiences with two successful seasons on Broadway. He was at the "wild" parts of the world with special emphasis on his quest; one time in Columbia three bandits set upon him and his party, one of whom shot him in the side. After staying one of them the rest fled.

"Timbuktu", said Mr. Wilhelmsen, is still thought to be a fable, by some, and until a few years ago there, when children become unruly, as his mother often threatened to banish them there. So, in due time, he set out...to prove it actually existed.

Timbuktu or Tombouctou is one of the leading cities of Africa's northern reaches, and is one of the important markets, north of the Niger River, being the centre of caravan routes from the north. The two main commodities are gold and salt. At one time, gold was exchanged for salt. The houses are made from a pinkish clay, as shown from the still standing ruins of many centuries. The largest is the Mosque.

The southern part of the country has desert, the finest universities in all of Africa. The Moslems, out of the east, destroyed a great part of the north. In the mountains there are strange cities, and the slave trade has again lifted its ugly head, with the slave person high in the mountains.

The people are of varying shades of black — some being almost a blue black. The slave trade includes both black and white.

The Arab influence is easily seen in the architecture and in men only. But in Timbuktu the women come quite early to the fore and are quite active. The pottery is quite similar to that of Mexico and is American Both in shape and design.

At Dakar things in general are more like western civilization; but with the difference of slave trade. There is also at Dakar a hotel, and the accidental residence.

The assembling of the Faithful at prayer was quite a spectacle with the long white gowns and reverential demeanor.

The most serious diseases are caused by the Tsetse fly, and maleria mosquitoes.

Lovely scenes were shown of shimmering waterfalls like long gossamer wedding veils; lofty mountain peaks, and on the plains between the hills the native grow much produce.

Government Spokesman

Conservation Authority Exerts Local Control

CASTLETON — An Ontario government spokesman last night stressed the local control that can be exerted by conservation authorities, even though they may be largely dependent on Queen's Park grants.

M. K. McCutcheon, Executive Director of the Department of Energy and Resources Management, said establishment of an authority was "purely a local decision."

Once that step had been taken, an authority would be "locally self - governing . . . with no pressure exerted at the government level to undertake any particular project."

Mr. McCutcheon spoke to the third area information meeting sponsored by committee to form an authority for the Lower Trent watershed.

The proposed region encompasses most of Northumberland and a strip of West Hastings Counties.

Last night's audience learned that 75 per cent of Ontario's population live in areas served by the province's 36 conservation authorities. One of the noticeable gaps is the Northumberland area, surrounded by Otonabee, Moira, Ganaraska, Crow and Prince Edward conservation regions.

In addition to Resources grants, an authority might also qualify for assistance from other government departments, such as Lands and Forests, for reforestation projects.

"I myself sit on seven interdepartmental committees," said Mr. McCutcheon, who is also an ARDA director for Ontario.

He emphasized that conservation authorities are corporate bodies. They can employ staff and make and enforce regulations — all this while receiving government grants to cover as much as 90 per cent of a given project.

The Lower Trent committee now hopes to proceed with an organizational meeting, which must be attended by delegates from two thirds of the 17 municipalities in the area. Prior to this, petitions from three or more municipalities in the watershed seeking formation of an authority must be sent to the Resources Minister.

If two thirds of those attending the organizational meeting favor an authority, the body is established by provincial order-in-council.

Post Office for Milford --To Serve 211 Families

PICTON — The federal government apparently has plans to grace the rural hamlet of Milford with a post office building all its own.

Construction tenders, closing March 28, are being called by the department of public works for building a "standard revenue post office." Postal statistics show Milford, about six miles south of here, services 53 householders in the community and another 156 on two rural routes.

For years, the area has been served from a local home.

At present it is administered by Mrs. Maxine Bongard from a former store operated by her husband before his death.

Mrs. Bongard today said property already has been surveyed by the federal department, and a Prince Edward County official added that land already had been purchased.

Details of the project were not immediately known.

One report said the post office is only one of a group planned to provide employment in various areas.

Douglas Alkenbrack, MP Prince Edward-Lennox said he had requested the project "six months ago."

One local newspaper quoted criticism of the scheme was unnecessary at a time of retrenchment in government finances.

However, indicated Mr. Alkenbrack, the project already had been placed in estimates before current federal cutback plans.

"I'm not going to change my attitude on it now," he added. "I want the post office building."

He said he had consulted with "local authorities" on the building which he described as a "revenue property for South Marysburgh."

Urban Renewal

The "backyard" buildings along the Moira River certainly do look depressing, as Belleville industrialist Fred Deacon has reminded us.

Stretching the imagination a bit, the scene is medieval — in the European style — but with none of Europe's old-world charm or look of permanence.

But this is not Europe and there the comparison ends. Belleville should not ignore its past, but it is the future with which it must concern itself most. Thus it is encouraging — as The Intelligencer's recent feature on downtown redevelopment indicates — to learn that the plans unfolded with such fanfare by the Chamber of Commerce some months ago are still being actively pursued.

The buildings mentioned above would become the backdrop in an imaginative scheme that envisages a circle route around the centre of the city, and a mall and downtown business area presenting a bright new image. A firm of consultants is to survey the whole problem of urban renewal. Their report is expected within 12 months, with the emphasis on downtown Belleville.

Belleville, with another major new industry on the way, is on the path of progress. Although there is a great deal to be done, the task is one that should give great satisfaction to all involved in it. We have the advantage of an area of natural beauty combined with a growing industrial base.

Medieval architecture may be all right for Europe, but not for Belleville where imagination is needed even to view it in this light. No — Belleville is part of the 20th century, part of 1968 and a future of unlimited possibilities. We must not waste such an opportunity for advancement.

Racial Prejudice

Racial prejudice knows no bounds — as the restrictions being placed by Britain on the numbers of Asians entering the country from Kenya indicate.

And in order not to let it appear like a matter of color — which it is — Britain says it will limit the number of immigrants from all Commonwealth sources to 1,500 a year.

Canada, meanwhile, has won praise from The Times of London for indicating it will accept Asian immigrants provided they meet this country's strict medical and economic requirements.

Australia and New Zealand are maintaining a "white only" policy in this situation — not surprising in Australia since it has always been the case there, but out of character for New Zealand where Europeans and its own native people, the Maoris, have long enjoyed racial equality.

However, before Canadians adopt any holier-than-thou attitude toward the policies of other countries it should be remembered that our own record in this regard is rather less than perfect, as witness the plight of many of the native peoples in the Arctic and on remote, unproductive, Indian reserves.

Parked Car Hazard

Cars parked for lengthy periods with their engines running can be just as deadly as one that is on the move and hits another vehicle or goes out of control.

The killer in this instance is carbon monoxide from the car's exhaust. The other day we read of an 18-year-old girl who was apparently overcome in this way. She was found dead after a night in an auto when the temperature outside dropped to 15 below zero. The car had run out of gas and it is thought she died from exposure. A young male companion was partly overcome but managed to reach a farm home near where the car had been parked.

And from Winnipeg comes word of four young people between the ages of 17 and 21 who were overcome by carbon monoxide gas in a garage on Pacific Avenue in the centre of the city. Police say the bodies, which included those of twin girls aged 20, had been in the vehicle about ten days.

The moral should be clear. Evangelist Billy Graham once said, "The Devil is here in a parked car." That is one aspect of it, but the one we have in mind has to do with staying alive. Leaving an engine running for a lengthy period while all windows are closed is to invite trouble.

Saigon Regime Shaky

U.S. Efforts in Vietnam Plagued by Air of Suspicion and Intrigue

What is the outlook in South Vietnam, a month after the Communists began their attacks on the cities? This is the first of three analyses by AP correspondents William L. Ryan and Peter Arnett. Ryan has worked in Vietnam several times, starting in 1954. Arnett has been covering the war for most of the last six years.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — Never in the years of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, officials say, has there been so much openly expressed worry and wonder about what lies immediately ahead.

The Americans still hold that U.S. forces cannot be defeated militarily. The Americans also say that the need was never greater than now for the Saigon government to face up to its problems and its dangers.

One of the biggest problems is how to rally South Vietnam's people solidly behind the anti-Communist cause. Another is corruption.

What has happened in the last month has produced a feeling among some Americans here that it's now or never for the South Vietnamese government.

South Vietnam has gone through a convulsion following what one high U.S. official on the scene now concedes was a "beautifully executed" offensive against 40 major population centres.

The big fear is that there difficulties will progressively weaken the country's internal political structure. That in turn would have impact on the strategy of Gen. William C. Westmoreland for defeating insurgent aims and establishing a government in Saigon which can stand on its own feet.

Few Americans here try to hide forebodings generated by critical situations in the military, political, economic and pacification fields.

One top-level U.S. official was asked why the United States did not put more pressure on its ally.

"They are a sovereign nation," was the reply.

Moreover, he added, there is an attitude among South Vietnamese leaders that the United States has no choice but to continue fighting this war.

But what of the arrests of members of the non-Communist political opposition, which could give the Saigon regime a black eye in the United States?

"They'll ask you," said the American, "What did you do with the rioters in Detroit? Didn't you arrest them, too?"

Open criticism of American actions and policy appears in the local press, obviously with government approval. For example, the Saigon Daily News recently spoke of rumors that the United States was collaborating secretly with the Viet Cong to force a coalition government.

This sort of press comment could not appear without government approval. The Saigon press is rigidly censored.

For Vietnamese politicians across the spectrum, these are nervous days. All manner of rumors flicr around this grimy city. About 20 non-Communist opponents of the government have been arrested. Most are suspected of connections with proponents of coalition as a way out of the war.

The arrests spotlight the misgivings held by the generals who run the government. Hits in the press, such as a Saigon Daily News complaint that Americans "meddle" too much in Vietnam's internal affairs, reflect a suspicion that the United States is actively interested in a coalition.

President Nguyen Van Thieu and his supporters say they will never stand for participation by the National Liberation Front in the government.

There are indications that President Thieu and Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky are dealing. One well-informed source says the two have not been on speaking terms since President Johnson's visit to South Vietnam in December.

This same source says that former generals now involved in politics are forming alliances with neutralist elements on the civilian side.

Two men prominently mentioned in this respect are Tran Van Don, chairman of a group called the National Salvation Committee, and Ton That Dinh, who as a general had a part in the 1963 overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem. Some sources connect Ky with this group.

Thieu and his supporters suspect anything labelled "from." They suspect any political move which might lessen their authority.

On the surface, South Vietnam has a constitutional government elected last September. Underneath, it retains the workings of a military regime, jealous of its authority and prone to crack down on any trace of opposition.

Americans say a great opportunity existed after the shock of the Tet offensive created an impulse among politicians to seek national reconciliation through unity. These Americans were dismayed when the government jailed non-Communist opponents. They felt the timing hardly could have been worse.

But the chief American worry is the mood of this capital, and how events seem to feed on atmosphere of frustration and foreboding.

Letters to the Editor

Writing From Toronto Mayor Scott Opposes Tax on Area TV Concern

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Through the generosity of your paper, I should like to say a few words to my friends, the citizens of Belleville.

Although my progress is considered excellent by the doctors, it is disappointing to me not to be at home with you now.

Always to be remembered, will be the hundreds of acts of kindness which you have demonstrated to me in the form of flowers, cards, letters, messages and prayers. For these I am most grateful as they have given me encouragement and support during my illness and I thank you all sincerely.

City matters have been a constant concern to me during my absence. There is a matter before council now that I must discuss with you.

Both before and after the election, I told you that we can and must have a friendly city and a I also said that the best way to get industry is to deserve it. We must have a friendly city and a good atmosphere for new industry and present industry.

This Private Bill to be presented to the Ontario legislature to tax the Cable TV business in Belleville must be stopped and withdrawn from the legislative committee.

I opposed this motion in all its stages last year in council. My reasons then were the same as now:

1. This is a large industry in Belleville and district;

2. Any tax, if allowed, will be passed on as a direct charge to the users of the cable and working men will be paying the tax;

3. This is bad advertising for Belleville throughout the whole country. No other city similar to Belleville has done this before. Ottawa, the only exception, has a tax but under different circumstances;

4 The Cable Company should be commended for removing the unsightly aerials from our city.

My feelings have been made quite clear to Acting Mayor Boyle.

As your Mayor, I am answerable to you for council. Acting Mayor Boyle must feel that he is not answerable to anyone.

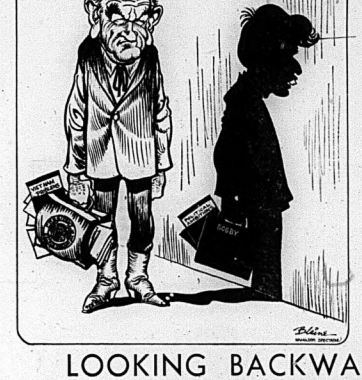
You, the people can stop this at the next council meeting.

It is not my intention to discuss why this private bill is being pushed through, but Belleville must not be hurt and our industrial success must not be destroyed.

I remain,
Your Mayor,
RUSSELL SCOTT, MD.
Toronto, Ont.

Tax on One Business Could Spread to Others

Editor,
The Intelligencer.



Next Monday city council expects to vote on the proposed additional tax on the Cable Television company. Acting Mayor Boyle says he is promoting this super-tax in the interests of Belleville. On the basis of the information released by Mr. Frank Murray on the matter, this tax has just got to be unfair.

Acting Mayor Boyle himself admitted the city needed more money and this was his sole reason for proposing this inequitable levy.

Citizens, beware! If he speaks sincerely then why start and stop with one business still in its infancy? Why the apparent persecution? These are questions all alert taxpayers should be asking. Why not tax the lawyers a percentage of their fees from each client? The doctors likewise? The garbage collectors could be taxed so much a can. Ridiculous? No more so than the singling out of one business above all others. A company, remember, that is already paying all the regular prescribed business taxes.

This is sincerity I as a taxpayer find most difficult to understand.

Catholic troops of Duc de Guise disputed with Protestants at Vassy, France 408 years ago today—in 1562—and the incident ended in a massacre. This precipitated religious wars which swept over France almost unchecked for nearly 40 years. They took the shape of small armed bands marauding, looting, and killing without decisive battles. Disorder ended when Henry IV of Navarre seized the French throne and granted the Huguenots (Protestants) partial freedom in 1598 by the Edict of Nantes.

Quits PC Party

Gordon Churchill Was Key Man in Diefenbaker Era

OTTAWA (CP) — Gordon Churchill was bitten by the political bug late in life, but made up for lost time later.

He was approaching 50 when he won a seat in the Manitoba legislature in 1946, on his way out of the army after fighting his second war.

This led eventually to the federal Parliament, which he entered with a 1951 byelection victory in Winnipeg South Centre. He was soon a powerful figure in the inner councils of the Conservative party.

Now 69, he gave up his privileged position Tuesday on a question of principle.

He decided to sit as an independent Conservative because his parliamentary group refused to prolong a debate to force the minority Liberal government to retract a confidence motion aimed at keeping it in office.

Mr. Churchill said he felt his party had capitulated on an issue vital to the soul of Parliament. The confidence motion asserts that an earlier tax defeat was not a vote of confidence.

It was really on appeal that Mr. Churchill decided to fight, rather than accept the decision. He's been in public for a long time.

In the First World War he served in the trenches of France as a machine-gunner, an unlikely role for the son of a Methodist Minister born in the little southern Ontario community of Colchester.

After surviving the First World War, he taught school, got married and furthered his education. He got both his bachelor of arts and master's degrees, and became a high school principal in Dauphin, Man.

He kept up his military connections between the wars, winning a commission. In the second conflict he fought in France and ended up in command of an armored personnel carrier regiment, which he had formed.

While in the Manitoba legislature, he worked on his law degree and had it by the time he entered the Commons, where he later headed a group of fellow MPs who worked for the election of John Diefenbaker as leader.

After Mr. Diefenbaker succeeded George Drew, Mr. Churchill played a key role in the 1957 Conservative election victory.

He laid the organizational groundwork for the party's campaign. It included a strategy paper suggesting it was possible for the Conservatives to unseat the Liberal government without substantial Quebec support, They did.

In office, the new Prime Minister Diefenbaker appointed his supporter trade and commerce minister, later sending him to veterans affairs. In the dying days of the Diefenbaker period. Mr. Churchill became defence minister.

When the Diefenbaker government was ousted in 1963, proved himself again as an able opposition debater. In one notable incident, he insisted on reading into the parliamentary record the copy of a letter said to be written by the U.S. ambassador to Canada of the time, Walton Butterworth.

The letter branded a forgery by the government and Mr. Butterworth, offered aid to the Liberals to help them unseat the Conservative government in 1963.

Mr. Churchill handled his departure from the party's parliamentary group with as little trouble for the Conservative colleagues as possible.

In effect, he said fighter said he has no real quarrel with anybody in the Conservative caucus. He just differed with the general view. So he wanted to get out to express himself.

He is still a Conservative, he said, and will remain one. He noted that he was always a strong party man, who some day might return to the ranks.

CN Research Head Keeps Tabs on Hovercraft Development

MONTREAL (CP)—Robert Rennie, chief of technical research for the Canadian National Railways, says he is keeping a close eye on developments of the British-invented hovercraft.

Part of his job is to watch for new forms of transport that could be useful to the CNR.

He says he has a man watching the progress of current hovercraft trials at Churchill, Man.

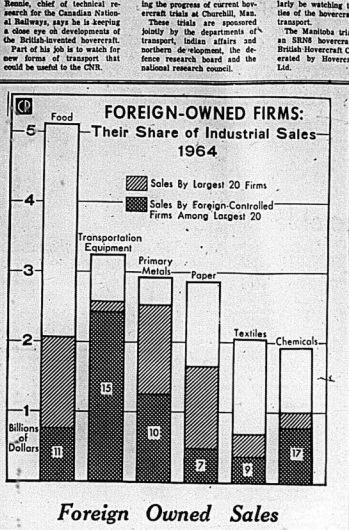
These trials are sponsored jointly by the departments of transport, indian affairs and northern development, the defence research board and the national research council.

The CNR man will particularly be watching the possibilities of the hovercraft for cargo transport.

The Manitoba trials are with an SR/N6 hovercraft, built by British Hovercraft Corp. and operated by Hovercraft Canada Ltd.

Its maximum speed is 60 miles an hour, its payload is 8,000 pounds and it has a range of 150 miles.

"As far as we see it," says Mr. Rennie, "the hovercraft might some day be useful for transportation beyond the end of the railway line in the north or in the Maritimes. But there are limitations where it can travel."



The hovercraft made its first popular appearance before the Canadian public last year, when it carried passengers across the St. Lawrence River between the mainland and the Expo 67 islands.

There are plans to inaugurate a hovercraft ferry service soon between Vancouver and Vancouver Island, sharply reducing the time normally spent on ferry steamers.

A service across the English Channel already is operational.

Mr. Rennie said the hovercraft might be useful for taking cargo from ship to shore in shallow waters or where there were no dock facilities.

A new hovercraft, the SR/N4, weighing 160 tons, had been launched in Great Britain and had great possibilities for cargo movement.

Foreign Owned Sales

Foreign-controlled firms accounted for a fairly sizable portion of sales in major industries in Canada in 1964. In the food industry, with sales of $5,101,000,000, the top 20 firms had a $2,040,400,000 share, about 40 per cent of the total. Of the top 20 firms, 11 were foreign-controlled and their proportion of total sales was 15 per cent. (CP Newsmap)

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Golds continued to soar as the rest of the Toronto stock market posted mixed prices in active mid-morning trading today.

The gold index advanced 2.46 points to 246.29 after reaching a 31-year high of 248.04 shortly after opening. Its level now is only slightly below the record of 252.89 set in February, 1937.

The index surged almost 10 points Thursday as reports of renewed pressure on the British pound and the U.S. dollar began coming in. In addition, there were rumors that the U.S. would stop selling gold abroad starting April 1.

Most of the unusually active demand for Canadian gold issues came from New York.

Campbell Red Lake gained ¼ to 38 and Giant Yellowknife ⅝ to 13. Dome Mines, which jumped 5½ Thursday and sold at 67¼ today, was unchanged at 65½.

Among the smaller issues, which recently have begun to catch up with the four-month-long boom in the bigger stocks, Camflo rose 30 cents to 6.30 in sales of 38,000 shares and Dickenson 20 cents to 5.10 in a 10,000-share turnover.

In the industrial list, Consolidated Bathurst, which cut its quarterly dividend in half, dropped 1⅛ to 16⅞ and Great Lakes Power, which owns more than 15 per cent of Consolidated Bathurst shares, slipped ½ to 18½.

On index, industrials were off .23 to 150.01 and oils .15 to 182.29. Base metals gained 1.01 to 101.02.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,238,000 shares compared with 929,000 at the same time Thursday.

Thursday, golds ballooned under a variety of rumors as other sections of the market slipped in active trading.

The gold index soared 9.69 points to 243.83 after hitting a 31-year high of 244.34 half an hour before close. Dome paced the advance, jumping 5½ to 65½ on sales of 4,700 shares. Most of the buying came from NXEW York.

One rumor, originating in Europe, said that the U.S. would stop selling gold abroad starting April 1.

Campbell Red Lake advanced 1¼ to 37¼, Kerr Addison ¼ to 16 and Giant Yellowknife ⅝ to 12⅝ on sales of 41,000 shares.

Sigma gained 65 cents to 7.95, Dickenson 30 cents to 4.90 and Camflo 20 cents to 5.90 in a 42,000-share turnover.

Planning Budget Approved

Belleville and Suburban Planning Board at a special meeting last night approved a 1968 budget totalling $43,170. This is a $1,870 increase over the 1967 budget.

The three municipalities in the planning area will share the cost of board operations, with Belleville paying $24,590, Thurlow $3,980 and Sidney $2,245. A surplus from last year will make up the remainder of the total.

Planning director P. J. Beavis recommended that city council budget a further $3,000 this year for printing and distribution of the official plan.

OLD AGE COMMON

Katmandu, Nepal has 3,100 people who are more than 100 years old in a population of 8,400,000.

Dear Doris: Your answer to Concerned about the hungry cats was pertinent. Certainly being kind means taking proper care of our pets. Our aim in T Kindness Clubs is "to a kinder people to kindness, not only to their fellow men, but to all fellow animals."

Children all over the world are joining with us. Letters by the hundreds are still pouring in from children who have read the prize-winning book "The Best of Friends".

In this delightful story of a stray dog and the girls and boys who helped it, the Kindness Club is introduced. The children write: "We are thrilled to know there is a real club! Tell us how to join."

The result? Many more Kindness Clubs, which means many more working to protect animals and birds and many more potential members for adult humane societies. — Aida Flemming.

The Kindness Club, Fredericton, N. B.

Dear Aida: I'm told you have branches in at least 14 countries. I will give details about books and membership to any writing in.

* * *

Dear Doris: Please send your information on "perceptually handicapped children." While does not sound as if it applies to my son (he's a bit too quick and witty sometimes, it is an almost last ditch stand to help him with his reading problem). At 11 in grade 5, he's almost given up trying to read. He spells exactly as it sounds, which can be pretty amusing. Arithmetic is no problem if there is no written word to struggle with. Science, history and geography have great meaning for him once he can understand what is written.

So many times over the last few years, some problem I've been struggling with, has been answered so wisely and kindly in your wonderful column, that I've jokingly said to myself, "Don't worry. Just wait. Doris is typing up your answer right now." You seem like an old friend I can turn to if things get too much.

Enclosed please find 20 cents for your booklet. — An Old Friend.

Dear Friend: Ok., here I go typing your answer. Which is that there is no recognizable connection between reading problems and intelligence; but sad to say the mistake is often made of putting the sufferer in a retarded class.

Your boy can doubtless be straightened out; a good deal is being done now, as the leaf let will tell you. Of prime importance is a correct diagnosis, to start with.

* * *

Dear Doris: I have often discussed this with my friends, who do not agree with me. The question is: "A well brought up young boy, in other words, a gentleman, will respect a young girl! "True or not?

Well, I say yes, but my friends say no. What do you think? — Fifteen-Year-Old.

Dear Fifteen-Year-Old: It's a happy thought. The catch lies in the words "well brought up". There are young boys who do their lessons, obey their mothers, wash behind their ears and all the rest of it; but whose education about young girls has been sadly neglected.

If their home education is well rounded and they see Dad showing attention and respect to Mother; and they are helped to see that in spite of pushy schoolmates and urgent physical urges, girls are for hand ling with care, then I'd say you are right.

Some do get such help.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

New Ideas in Serving Vegetables

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Mary I am in a slump over vegetables. I serve carrots, turnips, beans, spinach and cabbage. My family won't eat onions. The frozen vegetables seem so expensive. Cauliflower was 59 cents last week. I watch your column every day for new vegetable ideas. — Darlene.

ANSWER: Thanks for the nudge.

TOMATO RICE (easy)

One hour before mealtime tip into top of double boiler one 28-oz. can tomatoes and ½ cup raw rice. Add ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon accent, one sixteenth teaspoon garlic salt (or ¼ teaspoon onion salt) and 1 tablespoon butter. Stir well, place over boiling water in bottom of double boiler, cover and cook 1 hour, stirring 3 or 4 times. The best things about this are its lovely color, low cost and ease.

Are you cooking your cabbage to best advantage? I will list some of the rules.

HOW TO COOK CABBAGE

For best flavor and appearance cook cabbage rapidly but do not overcook. Use ½ to 1 cup of boiling water to cook 6 servings of cabbage. Cook until just tender. Allow 3 to 10 minutes for shredded cabbage 10 to 15 minutes for wedges.

Cabbage keeps its delicate green color if you avoid overcooking. The German custom of cooking red cabbage with a sliced apple and a small amount of vinegar (about one-third cup for 6 servings) helps to keep the pretty red color and adds an interesting flavor note also.

On your outdoor market I can buy a quart of nice small beets for 25 cents and a 4-quart basket for 75 cents. This is a good buy for budgeters.

HARVARD BEETS

2 cups cooked or canned sliced, diced or shoestring beets, well drained
¼ to ½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
one-sixteenth teaspoon cloves
½ cup mild vinegar, (dilute with water if desired)
2 tablespoons butter

(NOTE: Some grated orange rind may be added and if desired, orange juice may be used, instead of vinegar, with only 2 tablespoons sugar.) In top of double boiler mix sugar, cornstarch, salt, cloves; then stir in vinegar (or orange juice) and cook over boiling water until clear, stirring. Add beets and butter and cook over boiling water an additional 15 minutes. (OR turn into buttered casserole and bake, covered, at 375 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes.)

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I fixed Janie's favorite souffle, and it's no good cold. I wouldn't have bothered if I had known she wouldn't be home until later."

Father: "Let her eat it cold."

If a household is to be run in a fairly orderly manner, the cook has to set a definite mealtime. Family members should inform her of any delays — and not 10 minutes before the dinner hour.

Mother: "Dinner will be at 6:30 every night unless I let you know. If you're going to be late, phone as early as possible. It may make a difference in my meal plans."

MR. AND MRS. JOHN ALLAN SKINNER

Skinner – Douglas

Bridge St. United Church Chapel was the scene of the marriage Feb. 16, 1968 at 7:30 p.m. of Sandra Darlene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Douglas, R.R.2, Belleville, and John Allan Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Skinner, Belleville. Dr. H. M. Davis officiated and Alec Gordon played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a winter-white wool suit, dyed to match, the length of which was fastened to a headdress of white petals. She carried a large white 'mum sprayed pink and fastened with white ribbons.

Miss Sandra Fitzgerald, Belleville was maid of honor. She wore an apricot wool suit with matching head veil and carried a single large white 'mum.

James Ling attended the bridegroom and Steve Beare and Larry Scott ushered the guests.

At the reception at the home of the bride, her mother received in a brown wool crepe suit with black accessories and brown and gold flowered hat. Her corsage was of yellow carnations. To assist, the bridegroom's mother wore a turquoise silk knit suit with black accessories, pink flowered hat and pink carnation corsage.

Following a wedding trip to western points the couple will live at 271 John St. apartment 301.

Ann Landers

Separate Bedrooms Said Not at Fault

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 76, male, and an avid reader of your column. Every now and then you allow a reader to express an opinion on a subject of wide interest. Will you allow me to say something please?

ANN LANDERS

I have heard it said repeatedly that twin beds and separate bedrooms cause divorce. I hold that the opposite is true. Sleeping together can result in some very disturbing problems, such as snoring, throat-clearing, coughing, teeth-grinding, talking in one's sleep, restlessness, a disagreement over room temperature and dissension over the distribution of bed covers. Then, of course, for people who like to read in bed or listen to the radio or watch TV, there is the problem of the light, noise and choice of station or channel.

After 48 years of marriage I am an unqualified advocate of separate bedrooms. — WISCONSIN READER.

* * *

DEAR WIS.: I agree that after 48 years of marriage a couple might well find separate bedrooms a distinct advantage. But not much before, Dad.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15 years old and have very bad asthma. My mother used to accuse me of getting sick deliberately to get attention. No matter how hard I tried to convince her I was not faking, she wouldn't believe it. Then, too, she yelled at me a lot because my medicine was expensive.

One day I decided to prove I was really sick so I didn't tell her I was out of medicine. The next day I became seriously ill and after wheezing for 11 hours they took me to the hospital in an ambulance and put me under oxygen. The doctors said I was lucky to be alive.

Now when I am out of medicine I tell my mother and she doesn't complain about the price. It is still cheaper than the hospital. Do you think I was wrong to prove my case this way? It could have cost my life, but my mother believes me now. — A DEMONSTRATOR.

* * *

DEAR DEM.: You certainly chose a dangerous way to dramatize the validity of your illness. You also used your illness to punish your mother for distrusting you. All of this suggests that your asthma attacks might in some way be related to your relationship with your mother. I am not saying you are faking, but I am saying the asthma may well be triggered or worsened by an emotional problem and I hope you will get some professional help.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope you won't think I am dumb, but I'll bet plenty of other teen-agers worry about this problem a lot but they don't have the nerve to admit it.

When a girl goes out with a guy she doesn't know very well, and they go to a restaurant to eat, how does she know what to order to eat? I mean how can she tell if he is tight on money? A girl can't ask a fellow how much she should spend, can she? Please answer this in the column because a lot of kids would like to know. Thank you. — HUNGRY WITHOUT COMPANY.

* * *

DEAR HUNG.: Play it safe (and mannerly) and ask the fellow for "suggestions." For example, you might say, "I don't know what I want. What looks good to you?" If he says he isn't very hungry, curb your appetite till you get home where the food is free. If he orders up a storm you can assume he is well heeled for the evening and you can order what you like — within reason, of course.

Memento of 60 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kent, 4th concession Sidney, with diamond jubilee cup received by Mr. Kent as English schoolboy on anniversary of Queen Victoria's 60th year of reign.

Mr., Mrs. Fred Kent Mark 60 Wedded Years

Early school days in England and frequent appearances of Royalty were recalled this week by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kent R. R. 2, Belleville, as they prepared to celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary on Sunday.

One of Mr. Kent's most cherished possessions is a diamond jubilee mug received as a schoolboy in honor of the 60th anniversary of Queen Victoria's reign.

He recalls that all 400 members of his public school class received one of the mugs, and feels his must be one of the few still remaining in the hands of the original owners.

Mr. Kent remembers seeing Queen Victoria and also King Edward VII as they rode by Royal train through the town where he lived 25 miles north of London.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kent are English born — Mrs. Kent is from London — and both came to Canada with their parents shortly after the turn of the century to settle in the Northport area of Prince Edward county.

There the young couple later met and were married on March 2, 1910 at the Anglican church in Picton.

"I wanted to be married in an Anglican Church and the St. Mary Magdalene Church at Picton was the closest," said Mrs. Kent.

The snow drifts were so high that their team and sleigh was able to travel right over the fences on the way to Picton.

After the ceremony the couple returned home to Northport.

"Wedding day or not, the cows had to be milked," said Mr. Kent.

But farming was not to be the way of life for the Kents and in 1913 they moved to Deseronto where he was to work for Metcalfe Canners.

Later the couple moved to Napanee where in 1917 Mr. Kent went to work as a section hand on the railway. He became section foreman and lived at Mohawk, Stirling and Frankford before retiring. The couple now live in separate quarters at the home of their daughter, Mrs. W. (Nellie May) Savage, 4th concession of Sidney. They have one son Edward Kent living at River Valley near Frankford

Miss Frances Rose Potter — Peter Stone

Dr. Richard Potter and Mrs. Potter, Belleville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Rose, to Peter Stone, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stone, Kuala Lampur, Malaysia, formerly of Belleville. The marriage will take place May 25, 1968, in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville.

Church Women Study Service Home and Abroad

HOLLOWAY ST. UCW

The general meeting of Holloway St. UCW was held on Tuesday afternoon in the church hall with the president, Mrs. Ken Parks in charge.

After the opening Mrs. Parks welcomed all members and visitors and during the business period announced the coming hat show and World's Day of Prayer service March 1. Plans were also started for the June tea and the fall bazaar.

Reports of the Belleville Presbyterial held in Stirling recently were given by Mrs. Fred Wilson and Mrs. Mary White.

The devotional was taken by Mrs. G. Dobbs assisted by Mrs. R. Taylor and Mrs. M. Austin.

The program followed the theme of stewardship and recruiting with the chairman, Mrs. R. Taylor of that committee in charge, outlining church responsibilities for leadership at home and abroad and concluded with a stewardship skit presented by Mrs. I. Knight, Mrs. C. Burd and Mrs. D. Keller.

Lunch was served by Mrs. L. Reid's unit and a social half-hour followed.

COLLEGE HILL UCW

Japan is one of the fastest developing countries, members of College Hill United Church Women were told Wed's recent meeting in the church social hall.

Following a film on modern Japan, shown by Margaret Vessey, Susie Maikawa gave a first-hand description of Japan, where she lived for some time.

She told of the public baths, bad sprays, the educational system and of Hiroshima and the historical evidence of the bombing left for public viewing.

A record of the Japanese version of a hymn was played and members learned to sing it in Japanese.

Nellie Greenwood was in charge of the business meeting and Marie Ashton conducted the devotional. Assisting were Marie Ashton, Marjorie Cannon, Ilene Burr and Pat MacCallum.

Ida Dafoe reported on the UCW meeting in Stirling in January.

Nellie Greenwood reported that 90 visits to the ill and shut-ins were made this month. An explanation of the work of the Fred Victor mission was read with a note of thanks for the clothing sent to the mission.

Leona Bailey asked for boxtops to be shipped to Korea; women working in reopened factories there, Nylons and greeting cards are needed for craft work at Hastings Manor.

The meeting closed with a contest conducted by Pat MacCallum and won by Myrtle Bushell.

Executive members of the UCW are: president, Nellie Greenwood; vice-president, Marilyn MacIntosh; secretary, Mary Byrd; corresponding secretary, Frayne MacDonald; press reporter, Florence Watson; treasurer, Kay Dowling; social, Nina Veal and K. Soltenbarger; finance, June Moorcroft; flowers, Susie Maikawa; supply, Leona Bailey; Christian education, Ruth Daniels; cards, Lela Belcour; church board representative, Olive Williams; nominating committee, Marjorie Cannon, Pat MacCallum.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

The February meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Andrew's was held Tuesday evening at the church. The president, Mrs. V. Weir opened the meeting and Mrs. E. Fraser led in devotions.

Plans are being made for a garden party in June and an antique show and sale for September.

The Loyal Group entertained with games in the form of a sing-song and was enjoyed by all.

The Sunshine Group served refreshments and a bake sale concluded the meeting.

BETHEL-ZION BERETS

The second meeting of the Bethel-Zion Berets was held at the Bethel-Zion Hall. The meeting opened with the girls repeating the 4-H pledge. Each girl stated her basic wardrobe color. Caroline Wilson read the minutes. The next meeting will be on March 2nd at Mrs. Ray's in the morning. The discussion 'Planning Your Accessories'; 'Accessories to Complement You'; and 'Making Accessories for Yourself'; was led by Mrs. Ray.

Samples of hat materials were passed out which would be put in the record books.

Mrs. Wellman led the demonstrations and group work, 'Accessories Around the Clock'.

Mere Eligibility No Attraction To Eight Most Popular Girls

NEW YORK (AP) — Single men with dreams of being pursued and caught by a rich, famous, beautiful and talented woman this Leap Year might just as well wake up.

At least eight American women who largely answer to this description not only are not going to do any man chasing, they don't intend to be caught. Not this year anyway.

Thought the current demand for single men is much more than the supply, it takes more than mere eligibility to attract the likes of Joey Heatherton, Carol Lynley, Inger Stevens, Patricia McBride, Hedda MacRae, Marlo Thomas, Cathy MacCauley or Tremy Robb.

Indeed, most are happy to be single for the present, though. "It helps to be in love," says Hedda MacRae, daughter of age and screen stars Sheila and Gordon MacRae.

"Marriage is a ridiculous tribal rite," says 21-year-old Cathy MacCauley, Corn Products heiress, party giver and pop celebrity. Besides she likes "only flower children."

Though most of the celebrated single girls are too busy with their careers to consider marriage at the moment, they like men with masculinity, strength, a sense of humor, respect for women and high intelligence as the eventual life partner.

"A sense of adventure," is high among the requisites for Marlo Thomas, daughter of comedian Danny Thomas and a television star in her own right.

Lesley Gore, rock 'n' roll singer, is an old-fashioned girl who wants to be the pursued, not the pursuer.

Asked who they thought were today's most interesting men, the young celebrities gave Senator Robert F. Kennedy the most votes with others going to Paul Newman, Tony Bennett, Warren Beatty, Dean Martin, George Bundy, George Balanchine, Senator Everett Dirksen and Mike Nichols — men who were, in some cases, two or three times older than the young women casting the ballots.

But as Patricia McBride, ballerina for the New York City Ballet Company, put it, "These are men we can admire, which is different from being physically attracted to them."

Commission Extends Deadline

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. John Bird, chairman of the royal commission on the status of women, said Thursday that the commission has received 100 briefs and 200 letters.

The end of February was to have been the deadline for submissions to the commission, but the deadline has been extended to March 22.

Mrs. Bird said she is delighted with the careful preparation and thought put into the briefs.

"The briefs are tremendously valuable to the work of the commission and the future of men, women and children.

Exercise Combats Faulty Figure Problems

by Reba and Bonnie Churchill

These are literally "stick-to-it" exercises. Each routine utilizes a wooden rod as a resistive force to combat faulty figure problems. It's a constant reminder and corrector, as choreographer Leona Irwin illustrates in this torso stretch. Kneel, grasping dowel behind back, and slowly lean forward. Try to touch chin to floor. Although you may not accomplish this reach, you'll feel the stretch along the spine and back muscles. Now, straighten up, and you'll discover the extra benefits the rod offers. See how the shoulders stay squared, the chest raises, the rib cage lifts. Perform slowly four times.

If you enjoy more rollicking routines, try this waist and hip trimmer. Sit on floor, tailor fashion, with legs crossed. Place dowel behind shoulders and gently sway torso from side to side. Keep hips stationary. Repeat 12 times. Once you've "warmed up," increase pace and change position, rocking over on hips. Roll all the way over, so flabby section of thighs receives the massage action. As you swing down, press shoulders against stick and point it toward the floor. The dowel serves as a brace and prevents body from pitching forward. Repeat 15 times.

An exercise wand also can be used for more challenging routines. This drill, designed by conditioners for the more advanced athlete, begins by sitting on the floor, with the stick placed under the feet. Clasp rod and gradually lift legs. Generally, you can raise limbs only a few inches, but the abdomen-tightening effects are still felt whether you're in the mini league of a newcomer or the maxi league as is Leona. Don't overdo; instead, be consistent, for it takes time for muscles to respond. Begin with two "lifts", increase to five.

White Racism Held Main Cause Of Growing Division in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission demands compassionate, massive and sustained efforts—perhaps costing more money than the Vietnam war—to end the destruction and bitterness wrought by racial disorder in U.S. cities.

"Our nation is moving toward two societies, one black, one white—separate and unequal," declared the President's Commission on Civil Disorders. It condemned white racism as a central cause and warned:

"If we are heedless none of us shall escape the consequences."

Unless immediate action is taken, the commission said, "large-scale and continuing violence could result, followed by white retaliation, and, ultimately, the separation of the two communities into a garrison state."

The commission made scores of recommendations, including vastly expanded programs to provide 2,000,000 jobs, 6,000,000 housing units, drastically improved slum schools and overhaul of the welfare system designed to guarantee all Americans "a minimum standard of decent living."

The commission didn't estimate the cost of its proposals.

It seemed obvious, though, that the price tag could exceed even the $20,000,000,000 annual outlay for the Vietnam war.

Now must be imposed if necessary, the commission told President Johnson, but "there can be no higher priority for national action and no higher claim on the nation's conscience."

The White House had no immediate reaction to the report. Comment in Congress was sparse—probably because the document was released two days earlier than planned and most congressmen hadn't received a copy.

But even before its release, one major question was being raised.

"Where," asked Rep. George H. Mahon, Texas Democrat, "are we going to get the money?" He heads the House of Representatives appropriations committee.

So sweeping was the commission's bundle of recommendations that even its members conceded chances of Congress approving all of them were nil.

The 11-member group issued a 12,000-word summary report Thursday night—four months ahead of the deadline set by Johnson—after learning a newspaper had obtained a copy and was planning to publish it. The rest of the report—250,000 words —will be released Saturday night, the original date.

The commission spent seven months investigating riots in Newark, Detroit and 21 other cities. It concluded: "The urban disorders of the summer of 1967 were not caused by, nor were they the consequence of, any organized plan or conspiracy."

But militant organizations and individual agitators, it added, "helped to create an atmosphere that contributed to the outbreak of disorder." And it warned "that the continuation of disorders and the polarization of the races would provide fertile ground for organized exploitation in the future."

Time and again, the report hammered away at the growing division in the U.S.

"Segregation and poverty have created in the racial ghetto a destructive environment totally unknown to most white Americans," it said. "What white Americans have never fully understood—but what the Negro can never forget—is that white society; is deeply implicated in the ghetto. White institutions created it, white institutions maintain it, and white society condones it."

Through television and other media, the affluence of whites and many Negroes outside the ghetto was "endlessly flaunted before the eyes of the Negro poor and the jobless ghetto youth," the report said.

Frustrations of their "powerlessness," the commission said, led some Negroes to the conviction that there was no effective alternative to violence.

The police were not merely a "spark" factor in riots but to some Negroes had "come to symbolize white power, white racism and white repression," it said.

"And the fact is that many police tend to reflect and express these white attitudes," the commission added.

Among the commission's proposed remedies:

—Immediate action to create 2,000,000 new jobs in the next three years—1,000,000 by private industry and 1,000,000 by local, state and federal governments.

—Tax incentives and other subsidies for industries that locate in poverty areas and which give on-the-job training to hard-core unemployed.

—Sharply increased efforts to eliminate de facto segregation and racial discrimination in all schools.

—Early childhood education for "every disadvantaged child in the country."

—Reform of the welfare system to set "uniform national standards of assistance at least as high as the annual 'poverty level' of income—now $3,335 for an urban family of four.

—Require the federal government to pay 90 per cent of total welfare costs, eliminate residence requirements for welfare payments, lift the current freeze on aid to dependent children, and knock out the controversial "man in the house" rule designed to curb illegitimate births among mothers on welfare.

Police Stockpile Arms Against Future Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — In city after city across the U.S., police are stockpiling weapons of war—armored vehicles, helicopters, high-powered rifles.

They are recruiting civilians as ready reserves.

They are training squads of sharpshooters.

They are sending undercover agents into the slums.

Quietly but ominously, an Associated Press survey shows, they are preparing for summer and the riots they hope won't occur.

Even riot veterans are awed by some weapons developed in the aftermath of Watts, Newark and Detroit.

In Los Angeles, policemen watch a demonstration model of a 20-ton armored personnel carrier crush a barricade of abandoned cars.

The tank-like vehicle which costs $35,000 can carry 20 men in bulletproof safety.

It can be equipped with a .30-calibre machine-gun, tear-gas launchers, a smoke-screen device and chemical fire extinguishers.

"When I look at this thing," said Deputy Chief Daryl Gates, "I think, my God, I hope we'll never have to use it."

Police in most cities are tempering this show of firmness, however, with massive efforts to improve their relations with slum dwellers—"our first defence against riots," said Chief Thomas Reddin of Los Angeles.

Five armored vehicles cruised Detroit's streets last summer during the riot that left 43 dead. Since then, Detroit police have stocked up on 100 pairs of binoculars, 2,000 tear gas grenades and 1,200 gas masks and have asked for 25 special anti-sniper rifles, 500 carbines, 300 shotguns and 150,000 rounds of ammunition.

In neighboring Monroe County, the sheriff is spending his $50,000 riot-control fund on a $13,500 armored truck, 15 walkie-talkies, 100 rifles, 15,000 rounds of ammunition, 500 tear-gas canisters, and flak vests.

A thousand miles to the south, Police Chief James G. Littleton of Tampa, Fla., put it another way: "We have taken off the kid gloves with those elements who cause riots."

The Tampa arsenal, he said, includes 162 shotguns, 150 bayonets, five sniper rifles, 23 carbines and M-1 rifles, 300 gas masks.

In Michigan, Governor George Romney and mayors of 18 cities adopted this week a multi-point plan to head off riots. Romney has asked the legislature for $1,000,000 to finance police riot training and hopes to get another $500,000 from federal sources.

The Michigan state police have hired 225 new patrolmen, plus 20 men for its intelligence section, and wants to buy a helicopter.

Chicago already has acquired helicopters and is training four pilots. The department's highly mobile 600-man force has been instructing the city's 11,500 other policemen in crowd control and use of heavy weapons.

Elaborate plans have been made in Chicago to head off trouble when the Democratic national convention is held there in August.

Gen. Harold K. Johnson, army chief of staff, told congress recently the army has seven brigades within the United States "specifically earmarked and available for civil disturbance duty."

"These task forces represent a total strength of over 15,000 men," Johnson said. "Additional army forces are available should they be needed."

The army also has stockpiled riot-control gear in strategically located depots and is ready to airlift it to any city if the need arises.

Newark police are testing a closed circuit television system. Cameras scanning riot scenes can relay pictures to the safety of command posts where officers will make tactical decisions.

Developed are an "Instant Banana Peel" that makes streets icy slick, a foam that can submerge crowds and tranquilizer darts to subdue individual rioters.

Sunday School Lesson

Answer to Ultimate Query

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Dr. Arthur Ford, a Disciples' minister who claims to have had contacts with spirits of the dead, was scheduled to speak in the Foundry Methodist Church in Washington, D.C. There had been no publicity other than the announcement of his forthcoming schedule. Not long before the scheduled hour of his address, the sanctuary of the church was packed to the door, and hundreds had to be turned away — this in spite of the fact that a downtown church in a large city usually has difficulty getting a large evening crowd for any program.

This indicates something of the intense interest today in psychic experiences, and also in the possibility of contacting the dead. Bishop James Pike has renewed interest in this subject by claiming he has had visitations from his deceased son, J. B. Phillips, well-known for his modern translation of the New Testament, declares that in his recent book, "Ring of Truth," that twice since the death of C. S. Lewis, the late Oxford writer, Lewis has appeared to him to advise him about a certain problem.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for March 3 is "The Lord of Life and Death," John 11.

Books about the psychic experiences of Edgar Cayce have become best sellers. Ruth Montgomery, a noted journalist, has attracted much attention to the spirit world by her book about the amazing predictions of Jeane Dixon, and a later book, "Search for Truth," in which she tells of strange premonitions and other psychic happenings many people have experienced.

To all this a Christian will keep an open mind, but he does not base his faith in life after death on present-day claims of psychic experiences or on the validity of extra-sensory perception. Rather he bases such a faith on the promises of Christ, backed up by Jesus' own resurrection from the dead.

The claim of Jesus to possess full heavenly power reaches its climax in the raising of Lazarus from the dead. (John 11) Je sus had declared Himself to be the source of spiritual power by saying, "I am the bread of life" (John 6:35), "the light of the world," (John 8:12), "the good shepherd." (John 10:11) Now He claims to have power over death by saying, "I am the resurrection and the life." (John 11:25) He then demonstrated this power by calling Lazarus from the tomb. (John 11:43)

There is no point in trying to argue the authenticity of this miracle. Arguments will not convince those who do not believe the claims of Jesus and the claims the New Testament makes about Him. But to those who do believe in them, this is the great promise of Jesus' unique relationship to the heavenly Father.

Admittedly this miracle raises many difficult questions. Where was the spirit of Lazarus during the four days his body lay in the tomb? If Lazarus had known he had to live in fear of his life would he have wanted to be restored from the dead? (John 12:10) Would he want to face the experience of death a second time?

That many were convinced by this miracle is evident from what followed. So great was the excitement that news people flocked to Jesus in great numbers, so much so that national leaders feared it would bring about Roman reprisal. Fearing that Rome would interpret Jesus' following as a political threat, Jewish leaders feared that Rome would move in ruthlessly to nip such a possibility in the bud. Better that Jesus be put to death, Caiaphas argued, than that numerous innocent people should lose their lives in a Roman reprisal. (John 12:47-50)

There is no doubt that Jesus was referring to his own body death, spiritual and physical, in His words to Martha. (John 11:25) Those who followed Him, He declared, would be freed from spiritual death, and could look forward to the triumph of the spirit over physical death. Thus He gives assurance to all who ask the ultimate question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" (Job 14:14 RSV)

Maiden Speech in House

Medicare 'Dangerous Step' to Loss of Individuality: Potter

TORONTO (CP) — Conservative member Dr. Richard Potter has called Canada's medical care plan the most dangerous social measure conceived by the federal government.

The member for Quinte told the legislature Thursday the federal government has "forced medicare through legislation and is actually attempting to blackmail our province into cooperation."

He said Ontario contributes about half of all federal tax revenues and would get roughly $150,000,000 back if it accepted the scheme which goes into effect July 1.

"In effect then . . . the Ontario government must agree to adopt medicare or forfeit its grant from Ottawa. . . ."

"In other words, no matter what the government of a province the size of Ontario believes, it must accept the policy of compulsory state operated medicare, or suffer from excessive taxation."

Dr. Potter backed Premier Robarts' decision to keep Ontario out of the plan at least during its first year of operation.

"I cannot help but wonder," he said, "what country behind the Iron Curtain would not gladly buy their freedom back for much more than the $150,000,000 we are being pressured to accept for ours."

He also said that if the plan is accepted, private insurance companies no longer will be able to sell medical care insurance in Ontario.

Compulsory measures such as this are "insidious forces which are seeking to destroy our individuality as well as our freedom."

The forces were born with the baby bonus and gained strength with old age pensions "which everyone, regardless of need, receives."

"The most recent and most dangerous step is medicare," he said.

". . . We are still paying for each (previous) service provided, only now we pay in taxes instead of by direct payment, and we have turned control over to the state."

The provincial government did not escape Dr. Potter's critical eye.

He called on it during throne speech debate to:

1. Extend the provisions of the Hospital and Diagnostic Services Act to include nursing home care as an insured benefit;

2. Provide incentive grants to encourage the establishment of more nursing homes;

3. Add rehabilitation and chronically ill units to each active treatment hospital, rather than providing one for each area.

Dr. Potter said the proposals were designed to free hospital beds for active treatment patients.

In Quinte riding development of facilities for rehabilitation and the chronically ill, has lagged "far behind" active treatment services.

"A building program in our area will provide ample accommodation for both active treatment and chronically-ill patients. But so far no plans have been made for rehabilitation beds on a purely local level."

Dr. Potter claimed in the "majority of cases" severely-disabled patients are discharged for home convalescence without receiving any rehabilitation treatment.

Ontario already is planning area rehabilitation units. To be effective, such facilities should be established with every general treatment hospital, he said.

Arts Council Makes Plans

Arts Festival '68 is underway.

The event that drew Centennial Year crowds-for four successive nights now is firmly fixed as an annual cultural event for Belleville and district.

Subscription to this year's festival went on sale today, offered at bargain prices as the sponsoring Quinte Arts Council aims for a repeat of last year's success.

Some 650 passports are being offered in the next two weeks.

This year the arts festival will span a two-week period.

It opens April 10 with the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra at Centennial School.

The following week will see a Theatre Guild production and a Belleville Choral Society Concert at the school.

Between these two programs local arts, crafts and camera organizations will combine for a visual arts display night April 19 at the Hotel Quinte.

The festival also is the first major project of the recently-formed arts council, which in turn derived from the successful Centennial Year event.

A direct result of that initial venture was to improve communications between all the participating cultural groups in the area.

Public response encouraged the concept of continuing the combined effort as an annual event.

The Quinte Arts Council was formed — and successfully sought city council funds to subsidize the program.

Organizational work already is off the ground. Last night subscription kits were distributed to key personnel at the home of Mrs. John O'Flynn.

In turn, the kits will be placed with sales teams at follow-up meetings across the city.

Meeting Deferred

Trenton Councillors Feud

TRENTON — A town council feud has erupted over the legality of a special meeting yesterday. Councillor Paul Tripp who called the meeting to report on a local businessmen's proposal for a marina at the mouth of the Trent River, said today the meeting was adjourned "illegally".

Mr. Tripp, chairman of council's industrial and economic committee, was to report on the proposal made at the Feb. 19 council session by Eben James, president of Trenton Cold Storage Ltd. Mr. James had offered to build and rent a finger dock facilities for town use on his firm's riverside property. The rental would be $3,000 a year for the docking facilities which would accommodate about 40 boats.

Councillor Tripp said he was about to present his report yesterday when another councillor informed him the meeting had been called off. "There was a quorum present yesterday", the irate councillor said. "Council should have voted to discuss my report or to adjourn the meeting."

Councillor Tripp said yesterday's action on the part of Mayor James Macdonald was illegal.

Mayor Macdonald today said the entire issue has been "a comedy of errors."

"At the last meeting of council it was decided that all council members should be in attendance for discussion of this issue."

By 4 p.m. yesterday, the appointed time for the meeting, councillors Tripp, E. M. Parker, Gerald Weaver, and Edward Todd were in the town offices, the mayor said.

"By 4.20 I was unable to locate councillor McDonald (Duncan) and we didn't expect councillor Kinney" (councillor Douglas Kinney is vacationing in Florida.)

The mayor said councillor Todd moved to defer the meeting and his motion was seconded by councillor Weaver. He said a motion for deferment is not debatable.

The meeting, if it was a meeting, was held in the mayor's office across the hall from council chambers, where Mr. Tripp said he was sitting when informed the meeting was adjourned.

Mayor MacDonald said "I made the mistake in not having a clerk in the room," but repealed his justification in postponing the meeting — that councillors had agreed the important issue should only be discussed with all members present.

"I don't know what all the fuss is about," said the mayor, noting that the marina proposal was recommended by councillor Tripp's report and a submission from the Chamber of Commerce.

In his offer to the town Mr. James indicated construction on the docks would facilitated if begun while the ice was still in the mouth of the Trent.

Mayor MacDonald said the issue would be on the agenda at Monday night's regular council session.

Pilot Project

County Welfare System for Hastings First in Province to Include A City

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The successful administration of a welfare department is more than merely handing out money to needy people.

It also calls for re-motivation and rehabilitation of welfare recipients — a big percentage of whom help to swell the racks of the unemployed.

That's the feeling of city welfare director Reginal E. Tucker who is now working overtime in setting up the County of Hastings — Belleville welfare system scheduled to go into operation on May 1.

"I have every hope of meeting the May 1 target date," said Mr. Tucker in an interview with The Intelligencer this week.

The Belleville department director will become administrator of the joint county-city system when it goes into effect in the spring.

When the county - city welfare system goes into operation it will be a "first" in Ontario, in that it will be the first time that a county welfare unit will have incorporated a city.

At the present time there are 18 county or city welfare administrations in the province, but none of these include a city. Until now cities have always operated their own welfare departments.

Currently Mr. Tucker is visiting all rural municipalities in the county with the view of meeting local officials, whom he hopes to bring into the welfare administration picture as much as possible.

He notes that just because county welfare is to come into being in May this does not mean that people will automatically stop contacting local officials when they want help.

It does mean, however, that all present welfare cases in the county will be visited and re-documented.

"It means that we will start afresh," says Mr. Tucker.

All employees now with the Belleville welfare department will be taken into the county system at the time of the changeover.

Mr. Tucker estimates that five field workers will be necessary to satisfactorily handle the case load. The county system will have a total personnel of eight employees, including Mr. Tucker as director of the two office workers.

Belleville now has two case workers so this means three additional case workers will have to be hired.

The county's more than one hundred miles in length will not pose any administrational problems according to the director.

He says there will be a sub-office opened at Bancroft with a resident field worker stationed in that area. The Bancroft sub-office will be located in the new county home currently under construction in the northern village.

In addition to the welfare sub-office branch offices of the children's aid society and the county health unit will be located at the Bancroft county home.

The Bancroft sub-office will look after the relatively sparsely settled north 12 townships in the county.

Mr. Tucker sees a much more efficient welfare service in the rural areas with advent of county administration.

The main reason for this is because there will be full time welfare workers trained in the specific field in which they operate.

This will be in contrast to the part time currently given welfare administration by municipal officials under the present operation.

Normally municipal clerks assume much of the responsibility for welfare administration, these people devoting possibly 10 per cent of their time to this phase of duties.

Under the new system trained workers will be able to give attention to rehabilitation and help get recipients back on their feet.

"Welfare is no longer a matter of mere dollars and cents," Mr. Tucker says. "It also calls for rehabilitation and re-motivation, guidance and encouragement to help recipients regain self respect and self dependence."

In most instances this means assisting the welfare recipient (family head) to find a job.

For this reason the proposal is that at least one worker in the county welfare system will be a man with special training in dealing with unemployed employables.

He will work with up to about 30 cases at a time, sending encouragement and incentive for men to seek employment.

Mr. Tucker says this field worker will work closely with Canada Manpower in finding jobs. In many cases, however, finding a job will be dependent upon the recipient upgrading his education and acquiring trade skills.

Already at the city welfare department employable welfare recipients are required to visit the office twice each week. The purpose of this is to discuss what the recipient is doing in an effort to find a job and to add encouragement for him to continue to seek work on his own.

If necessary, employable persons are encouraged to leave their home communities to seek employment.

"You have to go where the work is," he points out.

A native of England Mr. Tucker is a former field supervisor with the Ontario Department of Welfare and Social Services and already in this capacity had been to Belleville on three occasions before deciding to make his home here.

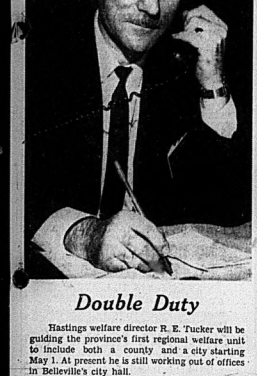
Mr. Tucker was in the city temporarily back in 1963 following the resignation of then welfare director George Whitman.

Last year he conducted an investigation of the city welfare department following public complaint of its administration under Daniel Aitken.

One of the recommendations in Mr. Tucker's report to city council called for an improvement in relations with other agencies and for more consideration of welfare applicants.

Now that he has been named welfare director at Belleville, Mr. Tucker is making certain that the recommended good public relations are maintained.

And this goes for welfare recipients as well as for association with other agencies and officials.



"I will talk with anyone at any time," says Mr. Tucker, "I may not be able to help them, but at least I will listen to their side of the story."

Prior to coming to Canada about eight years ago Mr. Tucker was engaged in health and social work in England. He had been with the Ontario department since 1961.

Before coming to Belleville he set up a county welfare agency in Kent county, and also assisted in the organization of the Nipissing district unit.

For the Hastings-Belleville system he sees a lot of work ahead before everything is working smoothly.

"Not all of the old will disappear overnight. There will be a period of hard slow progress — but we hope that the service will be a little more on the right side," he said.

Double Duty

Hastings welfare director R. E. Tucker will be guiding the province's first regional welfare unit to include both a county and a city starting May 1. At present he is still working out of offices in Belleville's city hall.

SPORTS SLICES

It was spring time in the Alpine Rockies that lovely morning in late Feb., 1859. We were in beautiful Zurich, a glistening gem in the foothills crown of Switzerland.

In the background the snow-crested Alps reflected the rays of a brilliant Swiss sun. In this beautiful city of watches, cheese and flowers, pansies bloomed in private gardens.

It was the day before the Belleville McFarlands emplaned for Bratislava, Prague and the biggest test in their hockey lives.

If hospitality is any criterion, the McFarlands, immaculate in green blazers with the "Canada" crest, were to the good Zurich burghers like those of other vitsited Swiss centres, the biggest thing to hit Switzerland since the first cheese drummer slid'd down the Alpine slopes a dozen centuries ago.

Plane departure times left a few hours for shopping and on my way "downtown" to search for a "frewhi" Swiss watch and an "honest-to-goodness" Swiss Alpine hat (a request from a young "boarder" named Peter) I ran into three of the Macs bent on the same mission.

I joined forces with Minnie Menard, Red Berenson, and Moe Benoit. It wasn't long before the Swiss muppets were strung out behind us like the tail of a comet.

The hockey fates have dealt strangely with this trio of Macs over a period of almost nine years.

Red Berenson was a beardless youngster of 20, fresh out of Michigan State University, who joined the Macs three days before their departure very scan.

The young redhead's goal was that of all aspiring youngsters, the National Hockey League. But unlike some, he placed his education ahead of hockey fame and glory.

He told me on that morning jaunt in Zurich he had turned down a two-year contract ($13,000) with the Montreal Canadiens. He wanted experience and had joined the Macs to get it. You know the rest.

Berenson hit the sports headlines recently with a sequence of standout efforts with the St. Louis Blues. He had been lin-ead-out with the Habs but soliddy was fleeting. Now he has achieved his goal, a permanent spot with an NHL club.

Incidentally, Red was the leading scorer in the first leg of the world hockey tournment in Czechoslovak. He had two hat tricks, one against Poland the other against Switzerland.

And what Belleville fan can forget his debut here with the Macs. His first stint was a rink-length scoring effort. He was "made" a Mac. Over there, the Czechs loved him.

Moe Benoit, a highly popular favorite here has been with the same group since his return. At present he is "laid up" with a double fracture of a leg.

But fate struck dramatically, ironically at the third member of that day's shopping trio.

Minnie Menard was struck down by cruel circumstances in the waning light, agewise, of a brilliant amateur hockey career. He has lost the sight of an eye playing the game he loved since he was old enough to teethe on a hockey puck.

No one was to blame, It was, as they say in industry, the result of an occupational hazard .But that fact doesn't lessen the cruelty of the blow.

From what I have been told the fates that use the financial strings have not acted too kindly to the Menard case.

But that has nothing to do with the rallying of the MacFarlands forces, player and fan, to the aid of the man who gave his best amateur years to Belleville amateur hockey.

Minnie scored fifty-goals one season and, if memory serves, it is a record that still holds in senior hockey regardless of category.

Old buddies, sports "friends and foemen" alike are lending willing shoulders to a special "Minnie Menard Night" slated for March 22nd.

Friend and foe in sport are like, although in reverse, the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady, "sisters under the skin" when a helping hand is needed to assist one out down by the circumstances of fate.

I'm sure the many friends of Minnie, made here over a decade of loyal effort, will get behind the "Menard Night" effort.

The tickets are available now at $1.50 each. Get one or a dozen in appreciation of a guy who put the name and fame of his hockey life to fans of Belleville and district, and who was no small factor in bringing national, international and global hockey honors to the city of his adoption.

Rampaging Rangers Threaten Hawks!

Bruins Dunk Leafs

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fuse a back and get a winner appears to be a formula that works for New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

Right wing Rod Gilbert and centre Jean Ratelle both have undergone operations for spinal fusion, the careers of both have appeared in jeopardy and both have charged back to prove there's nothing for the Rangers to worry about.

JEAN RATELLE

Playing brilliantly they lead the Rangers into third place in the Eastern Division standings Thursday night as the, New Yorkers wiped out Detroit Red Wings 4-2. Ratelle got two goals and Gilbert an assist.

They play on the same line, of course, and have since they were kids in Montreal.

Gilbert, now tied with Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks in second place in NHL scoring with 70 points, played in agony for years before having the first of two back operations during the 1961-62 season with a second necessary during the 1965-66 campaign.

Ratelle had his back operation in 1966 and last year managed only six goals and five assists.

But with the Rangers losing only one of their last 11 games, the pair have had a fabulous February—Gilbert scoring 10 goals and earning 14 assists while Ratelle has popped in 10 goals and added 12 assists.

Gilbert now has 28 goals and 42 assists—leading the league in the latter department—while Ratelle has 27 goals and 41 assists.

Stan Mikita of Chicago leads the league with 71 points on 35 goals and 36 assists while Hull has a league-leading 41 goals to go with 29 assists.

The Rangers now trail Chicago by only one point with Boston Bruins a point further back.

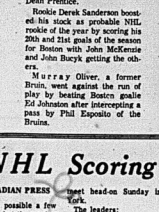
The Bruins won a crucial game of their own Thursday, beating Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 to bolster their fourth-place lead over Toronto to 11 points.

A playoff berth for Boston would be its first in nine seasons while for Toronto it would be the first time in 10 seasons—all under manager-coach Punch Imlach—that they have missed.

Los Angeles Kings whirled back into second place in the Western Division, passing Minnesota North Stars, by beating leading Philadelphia Flyers 3-1.

It's a quiet league today with no games scheduled. Montreal Canadiens play Minnesota Saturday, Los Angeles is in Toronto, Philadelphia is at New York, Chicago plays the Blues in St. Louis and Oakland Seals are in Pittsburgh against the Penguins.

Sunday's shorter schedule has Montreal at Detroit, Chicago and the Rangers in New York where the Rangers have a string of 15 Sunday home victories going for them. St. Louis at Boston and Oakland at Philadelphia.



Don Marshall and Bob Nevin scored the other New York goals Thursday while Detroit goals went to Norm Ullman and Dean Prentice.

Rookie Derek Sanderson boosted-his stock as probable NHL rookie of the year by scoring his 20th and 21st goals of the season for Boston with John McKenzie and John Bucyk getting the others.

Murray Oliver, a former Bruin, went against the run of play by beating Boston goalie Ed Johnston after intercepting a pass by Phil Esposito of the Bruins.

Johnston handled only 31 Toronto drives while Bruce Gamble was brilliant in defeat, handling 54 Boston shots as the Toronto defence collapsed in front of him.

Howie Hughes, Ed Joyal and Bill Flett handled Los Angeles scoring with Leon Rochefort the Gilly Flyer able to beat Kings goalie Wayne Rutledge.

NHL Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It didn't seem possible a few short weeks ago, but the scoring lead in the National Hockey League is in danger of slipping out of Chicago Black Hawks hands.

With an astounding turn of scoring power, Rod Gilbert and Jean Ratelle of New York Rangers have hauled down Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita of Chicago.

Mikita still has the points lead with 71 on 35 goals and 36 assists, but Gilbert now is tied with Hull at 70 points with Ratelle just two points further back.

Hull has a league-leading 41 goals to go with 29 assists and Gilbert 28 goals to go with a league-leading 42 assists. Ratelle boosted his goal production to 27 for the season with two goals Thursday as the Rangers dumped Detroit Red Wings 4-2 and has 41 assists for his 68 points.

Aces Move Out of AL Cellar

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces downed Buffalo Bisons 3-1 Thursday night to move out of the cellar of the American Hockey League's Western Division.

Going into the game, Aces and Bisons had been tied for third place with 58 points each.

Dick Sarrazin, Jean-Guy Gendron and Simon Nolet put Quebec three goals ahead in the first two periods before Ron Attwell put Buffalo on the scoreboard at 12:02 of the third.

BC, Alberta Rinks In Title Playoff

WINNIPEG (CP) — A sore back could cost British Columbia the Canadian women's curling championship today.

Skip Myrtle Fashoway of Cranbrook has been bothered by the sore back since Wednesday and says it is getting worse, although she's held it tight enough to force a playoff against Hazel Jamison of Edmonton.

Both rinks have 7-2 won-lost records after completion of regulation play in the 10-team round-robin competition and Mrs. Fashoway missed a chance to take it all by losing 9-8 in the final round.

B.C. held a 7-2 advantage after six ends of the 10-end match, but Alberta came back with five in the seventh before they traded singles through the eighth and ninth.

Then on the 10th, with B.C. holding last rock, Mrs. Jamison requested her last rock past a guard to bite the button.

Mrs. Fashoway was dead-to with an attempted raise, but was a shade light and, instead of moving the Alberta rock, froze to it to leave Mrs. Jamison with the all-important single.

The playoff was scheduled for 9:30 a.m.

Ranked behind the leaders were Mabel Mitchell of Brandon, Man., and Barbara MacNevin of Delisle, Sask., with 6-3 records followed by Barbara Likely of St. John's, N.B., and Shirley Robertson of Halifax at 4-5.

Three rinks—skipped by Peggy Wharrest of Dryden, Ont., Gladys Carruthers of Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Jeanette Blair of Saint John, N.B.—are tied with 3-6 records with Peggie Bradshaw of Hudson Heights, Que., last at 2-7.

Generals May Be Sidelined

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's beginning to look like Oshawa Generals will be spectators when the playoffs begin in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series later this month.

The Generals, cloaked with mediocrity since Bobby Orr turned professional, were humiliated 7-2 by Peterborough Petes on Thursday night and dropped three points back of the Petes in the race for the eighth and final playoff spot.

Peterborough has five games left to play—three on the road and two at home. The Generals have only four games remaining, two of them at home.

In Thursday's other contest, Hamilton Red Wings defeated the last-place Ottawa 67's 5-1 to move into a third-place tie with the idle Niagara Falls Flyers.

Big Buster, Little Joe Swap Insults

RHINEBECK, N.Y. (AP) — If they fight as well as they talk in training camps, there should be plenty of fireworks when Joe Frazier and Buster Mathis meet in Madison Square Garden Monday night.

The fight is for the New York and Massachusetts version of the heavy-weight boxing championship.

Frazier, a fiery puncher in his workouts as well as in regular fights, has been popping off from Kiamesha Lake on how he expects to "take out Buster in six or seven rounds or maybe earlier."

The brawny, 5-foot-11½, 205-pound Philadelphian undoubtedly has been trying to get Buster mad.

He has needled his giant foe with remarks that "he runs like a thief"; "he's chicken-hearted," and "he can't punch."

When these words were passed on to the 6-3, 245-pounder from Grand Rapids, he replied quickly with a few caustic cracks of his own.

"He's a buffoon," said Mathis; "a nitwit for saying those things. He's talking about ending it in five, six or seven rounds because that's all he'll be able to go."

"I've never been knocked down or knocked out and it won't happen against him, you can be sure.

"He knows only one way to fight. He comes at you. He makes plenty of mistakes, and believe me I'm going to take advantage of them.

EMILE GRIFFITH

"His tongue may be hanging out after the seventh round, if he's around by then, although I'm prepared to go 15."

Mathis was scheduled to wind up his unusually strenuous boxing campaign today. He has boxed nearly 250 rounds, including two 15-round sessions, in eight weeks at his camp here.

Jose Torres, the former light heavyweight champion who has been training nearby, has seen many of Buster's workouts. He's also boxed with him several times. He likes Mathis' chances.

"Frazier is a real good puncher and has a lot of determination," said Torres. "But Buster is a better all-around fighter and has a better defence.

"He's hard to hit and he can take a punch. I know, I hit him some good shots to the head and body and nothing happened."

Despite the optimistic talk from the Mathis camp, Frazier is 2-1 favorite to win the 15 rounder.

With all the big talk from the big boys, the middleweight title fight between champion Emile Griffith and Italy's Nino Benvenuti has been almost over looked.

Griffith is the 7-5 favorite in the third fight between the two, but the odds might go up by fight time.

The bull-shouldered champion has been impressive in his workouts, far more so than the rangy Italian who finished his sparring Tuesday.

Black Power

Will Picket Fight!

NEW YORK (AP) — Spokesmen for Black Power groups announced Thursday plans to picket Monday night's heavyweight title fight between Buster Mathis and Joe Frazier because they said the title belongs to Cassius Clay, also known as Muhammad Ali.

The Mathis-Frazier winner will be recognized as the world heavyweight champion in New York, Massachusetts and Illinois.

Floyd McKissick, national director of the CORE, said that, "Black people feel that two Negroes are being misled so they can exist in a capitalist society."

Millions of black people throughout the world recognize Muhammad Ali as the champion," said Lincoln Lynch, chairman of the United Black Front.

"The white vultures of the boxing world are preparing to suck the black blood for dollars," Lynch said.

John Wilson, director of anti-war activities for the Student Nonviolent Coordination Committee, said he would "pull a George Wallace" by standing in the doorway of Madison Square Garden until "someone has the power to move me."

Dave McComb Named Senior MVP

GALT (CP) — Dave McComb, scoring champion of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series for the last two seasons, today was named the league's most valuable player.

McComb, a centre with Collingwood Kings, edged out goaltender Norm Defelice of Galt Hornets for the Pinkney Trophy as the most valuable player.

McComb picked up six first-place ballots and one second. Defelice, winner of the Turofsky Trophy for the best-goals-against average and the most shutouts this season, had four first-place ballots and three seconds.

Over-all, McComb had 33 points and Defelice 29.

Title To Unbeaten Orillia

TORONTO (CP) — An undefeated Orillia rink skipped by Helen Varley overcame an early deficit Thursday to defeat Toronto Scarborough 11-6 and win the southern Ontario women's curling championship.

Down 4-0 in the third end of the final-round match, Orillia scored three in the fourth, one in the fifth and three in the sixth to take a 7-4 lead.

The Toronto rink came back with two in the seventh, but Orillia replied with three in the eighth and one in the ninth for the 11-6 margin.

Mrs. Varley's rink did not lose a round in the three-day, double knockout tournament.

Her rink, playing together for the first time, was composed of Irene Peacock, third, Harriett Hewitt, second, and Marg McFarland, lead.

The Toronto Scarborough rink made it to the finals by defeating Alice Bell's Windsor rink 9-5 Wednesday.

"Come Back," Blair To Bauman

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Wren Blair, coach and general manager with his unhappy goalie, Gary Bauman, Thursday night and told him to take a few days off and join the National Hockey League team next week.

Bauman, who was sent to Rochester of the American League two weeks ago, left the minor league team without permission earlier this week. Bauman, 28, indicated he may retire.

But Blair is returning substitute goaltender Chuck Goddard to Minnesota's Memphis farm team in the Central Pro League to make room for Bauman, who started several games early in the season for Minnesota.

The North Stars also announced that No. 1 goaltender Cesare Maniago would return to action here Saturday against Montreal Canadiens. He had been suffering from bruised ribs.

Ron Stewart Fractures Three Ribs

OTTAWA (CP) — Ron Stewart, Ottawa Rough Riders' hard-driving halfback, suffered three broken ribs Tuesday night during the Nancy Greene ski show.

Stewart was injured when he tumbled from his skis. He is being treated by football trainer Art Sargeant.

Ont. Mixed Curling

Napanee Rink Beaten

BRANTFORD (CP) — A sensational comeback in a second-round match left Jim Schwandt's Woodstock rink undefeated and tied for top spot with two other rinks after two rounds of the southern Ontario mixed curling championships Thursday.

The three-day championships end Saturday.

Schwandt trailed Syd Smithers of Galt 6-1 after four ends, but rallied for a tie with two in the 10th. Woodstock won 11-9 when Smithers missed a difficult wick in the 11th.

Earlier in the day, Schwandt easily defeated Arnprior's Peter Connell 10-3.

Tied with Schwandt and also undefeated were Vince Lebano's Orillia rink and Gord Hawkshaw's Oshawa entry.

Hawkshaw coasted to a 9-6 win over Glenn Wager of Napanee in the first round and squeezed past Walter Scoffiffe of Hamilton 10-9 in the second.

With The Trotters

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Driver Gerry Bookmyer of Syracuse, Ohio, Thursday brought home both ends of the daily double combination at Windsor Raceway.

Bookmyer won with Royal Sable in the first race and with Jolly Kid in the second. The daily double payoff was worth $13.50.

Adios Gale captured the featured one-mile pace by a half-length over Bobby Axford. Adios Gale paid $6.90, $3.90 and $3.20.

In the seventh, Ronny C. Gratian beat out Danny Moore. They combined for a quinella return of $36.90.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Batavia Downs opened its spring meeting Thursday night in good weather with 7,625 rushing to the mutuel windows.

Doctor Knight won the inaugural feature, a $1,500 pace, by a head over Midwesterner with Joyous Lad third in 2:11.4 on a fast track.

TORONTO (CP) — A couple of steeds from the Ottawa Valley teamed up Thursday night to win both ends of a $19.50 daily double at Greenwood Raceway.

Greenmantle, owned by Dr. John Findley of Arnprior, won the first race, and Mighty Babe Lee, owned by Thomas Smith, also of Renfrew, took the second.

Findley's victory with Greenmantle pushed the season's earnings for his stable past the $15,000 mark.

Davey's Girl, an Orono, Ont., entry, beat Direct Dave by a nose to set up a $66.50 exactor in the sixth.

Olympics Test

Gals are Gals, Forever

LONDON (AP) — Eva Klobukowska, the Polish sprint star, was in tears.

The 21-year-old blonde had just been told that her world record had been taken away because she failed a sex test in Kiev, Russia, in the European championships.

Eva was bitter at having to give up her world 100-metre record of 11.1 seconds established in July, 1965.

Many other girls could have been bitter at the end of the 1968 Winter Olympics, where sex tests on girls were mandatory for the first time in Olympic history.

As it turned out, 50 out of 240 girls were tested. All passed. Everything was conducted carefully and even secretly.

Nobody left Grenoble, France, upset—not like Eva after her name was blasted over the front pages of the world.

At Grenoble, the sex tests were discreet. There was no embarrassment.

All the girls had to do was submit themselves to a saliva test. That was taken from various girls and the samples were sent to a laboratory. Within 36 hours, the result was told to the head of a girl's team.

And all the girls who passed the test now will be given clearance for future Olympics —without taking another test. Now the International Olympic Committee hopes every girl involved in the Mexico Games will be tested.

Toronto; "Greene" Light For Nancy

TORONTO (CP) — The Bay Street parade given in the Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leaf hockey team last May was downright sedate compared to the one for skiing queen Nancy Greene Thursday.

In fact, the parade for Miss Greene was regarded as the noisiest and biggest reception on Bay Street since Marilyn Bell became the first person to swim Lake Ontario in 1954.

The 24-year-old Miss Greene was Canada's only gold medal winner at the Winter Olympics in Grenoble earlier this month. She also tossed in a silver medal for good measure.

Miss Greene, a native of Rossland, B.C., began the hectic day when she was greeted by about 40 Air Canada employees on her arrival at Toronto International Airport shortly before noon.

The excitement did not end until after an evening reception given in her honor by the Ontario government.

After arriving at the airport, Miss Greene was taken downtown by helicopter. Unable to conceal her excitement, she snapped photos of waiting reporters as the craft settled down.

When the parade started up Bay Street, Miss Greene was perched at the highest point of a float that carried the entire national ski team. She started to twist as one of the bands began to play.

The auburn-haired skier waved to the crowd and smiled enthusiastically as the parade moved towards city hall, a half-mile away.

At city hall, Miss Greene was presented with a charm bracelet by Mayor William Dennison. Mewo Chairman William Allen gave her a brooch and East York Mayor Tree Davidson handed her a corsage.

Mr. Allen adopted her as "our sweetheart" and gave her the honorary title of Miss Metro Toronto.

"Thank you," Miss Greene told the huge crowd at city hall. "Thank you for being here and making this such a memorable day. Thank you. I don't know what to say except that I'm very proud to be a Canadian."

Later at the reception, Premier Robarts exhibited as much excitement as had anyone along the parade route.

"Call me premier, call me John," he said to Miss Greene. "Call me anything as long as I've got the job."

"What Nancy has done for Canada is perhaps more than the last two conferences I've attended," he said.

He paid tribute to the team coaches, officials and members and then said to Nancy:

"I have a piece of green paper here. I hope it won't injure your amateur standing. Touch it and turn it over to the national team fund."

It was a cheque for $1,000 to be turned over to the national team.

At a press conference, Miss Greene said she has no intention of retiring from competitive skiing.

"It's a nice life," she said. "It's hard to quit."

Nancy said her only slight disappointment during the day came during her helicopter trip from the airport. She had wanted to see an area of the city where her sister, Mrs. Gerry Bilodeau, lives, but the helicopter did not pass over that section.

Nancy and the rest of the national ski team also have a busy weekend ahead. They are competing in th Canadian championships Saturday and Sunday at Collingwood, Ont.

"There Are Smiles..."

Canada's skiing darling, Nancy Greene was nothing but smiles Thursday as she and the Canadian ski team were treated to a civic welcome by the city of Toronto. (CP Photo)

Kinsmen Win Opener From Lindsay

Two overtime goals gave the Belleville Kinsmen a 3-1 victory over Lindsay in the first game of the OMHA best-of-three Eastern OMHA Bantam finals in Lindsay yesterday.

The second game of the series is slated for Memorial Arena here on Sunday at 8:15 p.m.

The game was a rugged hard-fought contest with Lindsay scoring early in the first period and holding the 1-0 lead until three minutes to go in the third frame.

The Kinsmen fought hard for the equalizer through two periods of fast hockey and were rewarded at 16:35 of the final period when Rick Meagher fired home the big one to send the game into overtime.

John Mulvihill scored the winner at 7:14 of the extra period with Danny Lupinette assisting.

Stalwart Belleville defence held off the fast-skating homers in their efforts to tie the score.

With 53 seconds to go Lupinette fired home the clincher with Meagher and David Smith assisting.

Tweed Midgets Enter Finals

TWEED — Tweed edged Frankford 4-3 to win the "D" group midget semi-finals series three games to two. The winners meet Marmora for the group title and the right to enter the Eastern Ontario playoffs.

The score was tied 1-1 after the end of the period and 2-2 at the end of the second frame.

The teams tied it again in the third period at 3-3 and with seven minutes to go Paul Farrell scored the winner for the homesters.

Mike McCormick and Murray Spencer each had a goal and an assist for Tweed, Brian Genereaux getting one and one and Peter Cassidy two assists.

Scoring for Frankford were Bikl, Niemks and Hoyle.

Bobby Hull's World Of Hockey

By BOBBY HULL

Not long ago our Chicago coach, Billy Reay, really got upset over one of the commonest infractions in hockey. He sounded hot and hooked on the subject of hooking.

"Hooking today is the worst offence in the NHL in five years," Billy insisted. "It has brought the stars down to the level of the ordinary player. A few years ago, when King Clancy, Bill Chadwick and George Gravelle were refereeing, hooking was called very closely. Now it goes on all the time."

As Billy Reay has already been quoted in the press, "Take Wayne Hillman with Rangers. He should get a penalty every time somebody goes down the boards because he just puts his stick in front of them. There are some guys who do it on our team, too, and it's spoiling the game."

As a player I understand and agree in general with coach Reay. There's no point in reefing other players in print when most of us may be sometimes guilty of chippy play on the ice.

But there's no question that the NHL is full of guys who hook. And that it is the most flagrant foul today which the referees aren't calling nearly as often as they should.

Hooking occurs in several ways. If you're breaking away from a player, or sweeping around him, he can slow you down by hooking the blade of his stick around your stomach, or by shoving his stick between your legs.

There is also a lot of holding and interference, especially when you're trying to get loose in front of your opponents' goal. You're often impeded by being grabbed by the sweater.

I don't score a lot of my goals from in close because of the heavy traffic that can block me near the net. I try to beat the hooks and interference by shooting from 30 or 30 feet out . . . and occasionally by slapping the puck from further out than that.

Coach Reay also complains of pitchforking. That's when a rival player lifts his stick and rakes you your opponents' goal. You're often impeded by being pulls you off balance and towards him.

Reay has said "In the pitchfork department, Eddie Shack has come up with something new in Boston. He pitchforks a guy, then pulls him down and tries to fall on his head. I don't have anything personal against Eddie, but what good does it do to knock a guy's head on the ice?

The only place for a pitchfork. I figure, is when you're heaving hay to the Herefords.

In Toronto Tonight

Stars Clash In Indoor Track Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Finlay of Toronto, Canada's rising star in distance running, faces a crucial test in the mile run at the Telegram-Maple Leaf indoor games tonight.

Finlay, an off-again, on-again star against international competition, must show well against meet record holder Dave Bailey of Toronto and Bob Day of the U.S. Army if he is to become Canada's hope in middle-distance running.

"I want the race at Maple Leaf Gardens to be my ticket to the Olympic Games in Mexico," the 20-year-old Finlay in an interview Thursday.

Bailey, who holds the meet record of four minutes, 14 seconds, and Day, a four-minute miler, are favored to beat the young Canadian.

An undetermined quantity that Bailey, Day and Finlay must contend with in the mile is Bruce Kidd of Toronto, former international great who is making his first indoors appearance since retirement in 1964.

"I've been running 4:11 in practice," said Kidd "And I want to be in the race all the way Friday night."

Kidd retired from international competition after the 1964 Olympics because of injured feet.

Abby Hoffman of Toronto, just back from the Soviet Union and a series of races against strong Russian competition, is favored in the 880 yards against Dorris Brown and Francie Kracker of the United States.

Miss Hoffman ran 800 metres in Moscow last week in 2:09.2 seconds to become one of the world's top woman distance runner, Miss Brown and Miss Kracker are rated one-two in the United States.

The men's 60 yards sprint includes Harry Jerome of Vancouver and Willie Turner and Charlie Greene of the United States. They are rated the three best in the world.

South African Boycott

Mexicans, Brundage Talk!

CHICAGO (AP) — Mexican Olympic official Pan continued talks with Avery Brundage today, hopeful they may lead to reconsideration by the International Olympic Committee of the South African question.

Concern mounted as most of the Summer Olympic Games in Mexico City Oct. 12-27 brought a three-man delegation to Brundage, IOC president, Thursday night.

They were Ramirez Vazquez, president of the Mexican Olympic Organizing Committee; and two IOC delegates, Jose de Jesus Clark Flores and Marte R. Gomez.

Brundage and the Mexicans would not comment when preliminary discussions opened Thursday night.

Prior to leaving Mexico City, Gomez said that "we are joining the movement that now exists throughout the world in favor of the IOC meeting again to reconsider the decision that is causing so much damage to the Olympics."

The IOC voted in February to expel South Africa in the 1968 Games under agreement of certain conditions, including an end to racial segregation during the Games.

Ottawa May Honor Champions

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Don Reid proposed Thursday that Ottawa name city parks after Olympic champions Nancy Greene, Ann Heggtveit and Barbara Ann Scott. The proposal is to be city parks department for study.

Miss Greene, this year's Olympic champion in the giant slalom event at Alpine skiing, lives in Rossland, B.C., but was born in Ottawa.

Miss Heggtveit, also an Alpine skier, won the slalom in 1960. Miss Scott was the Olympic figure skating queen in 1948. Both girls were born and raised in Ottawa.

The South Africans would operate as one team, sleep, eat and travel together rather than separately, as they have done in the past.

Re-admittance of South Africa fused a boycott threat. So far 32 African nations and Cuba have said they will pass the Games to protest against South Africa's policy of racial segregation.

Carol Channing Singlehandedly Kept Her Special Moving

NEW YORK (AP)—From the opening number, Diamonds are a Girl's Best Friend, to the windup when the cast sang "Hello, Dolly! Carol Channing almost singlehandedly managed to keep her special moving along Thursday night.

There were plenty of other people around. The 80-voice West Point choir sang a medley of service songs. There was The Association in Dickensian clothes doing a number; George Burns turned up for what amounted to a long walk on; Eddy Arnold had a song or two to sing. Walter Matthau, a fine actor, was a guest star but since he is no song and dance man and is not a standup comic, neither he nor anyone else seemed to know what to have him do.

If Miss Channing had any real co-stars, it was her costume and hair designer and the cameramen. Her clothes were stunning, the sets handsome, and the color photography excellent. One could only wish that the substance of the show had been as attractive.

Carol is not at her best in front of the television cameras. But she has the elusive quality called star power and seems to be able to invest amusement into pretty dreary material. She can sell a song effectively and dance a bit, too. But even her considerable resources were under strain in the special.

Most amusing number was an illustrated song kidding the superstars of the silent movies—Mary Pickford, the innocent maiden; Pearl White, the adventuresome type, and Theda Bara, the vamp. Miss Channing in some pretty wild get-ups, played all the parts.

Humane Society Reports Good Year

NAPANEE — Rev. Canon W. L. Simmons again heads the Lennox and Addington branch of the Miss Bastio Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Mr. Simmons was re - elected at the annual meeting held last week in the Memorial Building.

Past - president is Judge G. F. Smith. Mrs. Chester Wemp was returned as vice - president. Mrs. Dorothy Smith is secretary and treasurer is Mrs. Harold W. Webster. Mrs. William Fraser and Mrs. Whitfield made up the membership team.

The directors are Miss Marion Orser, Mrs. Thomas Warner, Robert Baxter, and Chester Wemp.

Judge Smith conducted the election of officers.

The society members are much heartened by the upsurge of interest that has taken place in the past year. This was evident by the large attendance at the meeting, the largest so far.

Mrs. Wemp, who, with her husband, volunteered her services in caring for the animals, reported that 284 had been brought to the family farm in the past year. A total of $307 and "Chris Sky" (4)
MOVIE: "A Double Life" (12)
MOVIE: "How I Spent My Summer Vacation" (13)
12.15—MOVIE: "The Sheepman" (8)

For some time the Wemp family had sheltered the animals in their own home and farm buildings but this summer a shelter became a necessity. A portable shelter is now in use, and, although it is not yet completed, all the materials are on hand and paid for. All labor was on a voluntary basis.

In her financial report, Mrs. Webster noted that the total income for the year had been $2,424, and expenses $2,548. The deficit has been made up and the Society is now debt free. These figures are exclusive of those presented for the shelter operation, and include donations.

As shelter operations for the year are estimated to cost $2,000, donations will still be welcomed.

Alan Jones, superintendent of the Ontario Society, came from head office in Toronto to address the meeting. He described conditions he had found during his inspection of stables, shelters, and slaughter houses. He also gave his views on vivarium. He does not approve of them, he said, but he felt they were necessary and should be accepted. He was deeply concerned, however, at the conditions of some of the animals that reached the vivariums, those which had been kept in unsanitary surroundings and not properly fed and cared for.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lazier and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stratton were delegates to the Ontario Fairs' convention in Toronto last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kimmett and children, Toronto, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMeechan.

Franklin Snider spent several weeks with relatives in Louisiana and was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Embury on his return. He has accepted work in northern Ontario and left early in the week for Dryden.

The Scouts and Cubs, with their leaders, Roque and Jody Sager, conducted the church service in the Melrose United Church Sunday morning. S.S. No. 4 is the new name assigned for Scout and Cub gatherings and future meetings will be held there.

J. Quarry Fighter Of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Quarry of Los Angeles and Thursday was named Fighter of the Month for February by Ring Magazine. The 6-1 in the ring Spencer in the 12th round of their elimination bout for the World Boxing Association's version of the heavyweight title.

The magazine, releasing its monthly ratings, listed Jimmy Ellis, Louisville, Ky., as the No. 1 heavyweight challenger.

Ring still-champion Cassius Clay as the titleholder.

The ratings include:

Heavyweight Champion, Cassius Clay, Houston; 1. Joe Frazier, Philadelphia; 2. Jerry Quarry, Los Angeles; 3. Jimmy Ellis, Louisville, Ky.; 4. Manuel Ramos, Mexico; 5. Thad Spencer, San Francisco.

Light-heavyweight: Champion, Dick Tiger, Nigeria; 1. Bob Foster, Washington, D.C.; 2. Gregorio Peralta, Argentina; 3. Bob Dunlap, Australia; 4. Lothar Stengel, Germany; 5. Roger Rouse, Anaconda, Mont.

Middleweights: Champion, Emile Griffith, New York; 1. Luis Rodriguez, Miami Beach, Fla.; 2. Nino Benvenuti, Italy; 3. Sandro Mazzinghi, Italy; 4. Don Fullmer, West Jordan, Utah; 5. Fred Hernandez, Las Vegas, Nev.

Queensboro

QUEENSBORO — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holmes visited Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holmes for the weekend.

Miss Rita Feeney, Gnawa, and Miss Joanne Feeney, Peterborough, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Declair, Kingston, were weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Declair and other relatives in the village.

Unit 2 of Queensboro United Church Women held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. Leslie Holmes, with Mrs. Kenneth Cassidy in charge in the absence of the unit leader, Mrs. W. Sedgwick conducted a study on Japan and gave a reading on the man who developed Pablum.

Firemen Meet Mustangs In "Gas" Finals

The Firemen and the Mustangs will cross rapiers in the best-of-seven finals for the Gas House Hockey League championship.

The issue was decided last night when the Mustangs eliminated Mulroneys 5-3 to win the semi-finals series.

The Firemen ousted the Marysville BA last week.

The first game of the final series is slated for Thursday, March 7th starting at 10 p.m.

Norwood led the Mustangs to their win last night with two goals, Woodley, Holland and Raycroft also scoring.

Woodley, Hughes, Sneddon, Garner and Holloway drew assists.

Gebsithorpe, Murphy and Bicuiy scored for Mulroneys, Casselman, Hill, Wells and Lambert getting assists.

BEGAN DANCING

Linda Kaye had her showbusiness beginnings as a dancer, with the San Fernando Civic Ballet and the Bart Prival Youth Ballet.

Quinte Hockey Playoffs

Belvedere Hotel defeated the Stinson Construction 3-1 and Aluminum Stars tied Grant Realty 4-4 in the fourth game of the Bay of Quinte Hockey League semi - finals last night.

The team standings were not reported.

D. Rowbotham, D. Hallam and Day scored for the Hotelmen with assists going to Hallam, B. Nolan, Potts and Lucas.

D. Forsythe scored for the Construction team.

Stinson drew four of the set penalties.

Rothwell, Lentini, Bolte and Ajlen were the marksmen for the Realty team, assists going to Lattimer, Bolte, Allen and Brailey.

F. Chaffitt had two goals for the Stars, according to the scoresheet, others being scored by D. Moore and R. Urch.

Bunnett, Polaskey, Donovan and Post had assists.

The teams split a pair of penalties.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

MARMORA SCOUT WEEK

MARMORA — Scout week in Marmora began with the decorating of a window with a Scout and Cub display.

The father-son banquet was held in St. Andrew's Church Hall Wednesday night with 100 present.

Cub Dale Neal gave the toast to the fathers and Bob Borland replied. Scout Garry Walker proposed the toast in memory of the founder, Lord Baden-Powell. Eldon Killian was master of ceremonies.

District Commissioner Joseph Irish spoke on the new Scout program to begin in September and on the necessity for a group committee.

Commissioner Irish presented Mrs. Jacie Donaldson and Mrs. Audrey Nickle with warrants of appointment for their three years' service as scouters. Mrs. Nickle received the 4 year service star. Those who had attended camp were presented with 1967 camp logs.

Following a sing-song a film was shown on Scout and Cub activities. The Cubs' good deed for the month was the sending of 12 scrap books and used cards to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Guides, Brownies, Scouts and Cubs and their leaders attended services in St. Andrew's United Church Sunday.

NO RIVERS

Bermuda has no rivers or streams and thus no natural source of drinking water other than rainwater which is drained from the rooftops of the homes collected in underground tanks.

Hoarseness Requires Examination

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like information about the throat. The doctor told me I have very small tonsils. Is there any such thing?

Every time it rains or snows I have trouble trying to talk. My throat is not sore but I stay hoarse all the time. — M.A.M.

Yes, there's such a thing as very small tonsils (and adults have tonsils which are smaller than children's, anyway; they tend to shrink with age.)

But even though small, tonsils still may harbor infection and cause throat troubles. Other common possibilities are the irritation from either smoking or chronic discharge from the back of the nose — drip." In the latter, smoking may be a factor, or there may be trouble of one kind or another in the nose and sinuses from some other cause.

However, to me the matter of greater importance in your letter is the tendency to remain hoarse. This demands an examination of the larynx or "voice box."

The larynx is not usually seen in the average throat examination because it is lower in the throat and requires special facilities, either a laryngoscope or a special mirror so it can be viewed clearly.

There are various conditions which can affect the larynx and cause hoarseness. Chronic swelling of the vocal chords is one — the result of some form of irritation. Or there may be tiny nodes, called "singer's nodes," which sometimes form on the cords of a person who sings or speaks a lot. And, of course, it is always wise to make sure that no tumorous growth is starting. If so, it can be removed if it is done early enough, but must positively should not be allowed to wait.

Therefore I would suggest that you have a further examination, particularly if your hoarseness continues.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Please send me all you have on stomach and duodenal ulcers. Just been overhauled ($1,700) because of ulcers. Am still at a loss as to whether I should be on a special diet or not. — T. M.

If I sent "all I have" on that subject, the freight bill would probably give you some new ulcers and reading it all would give you a headache.

Did you have both stomach (gastric) and duodenal ulcers? Or just one? What did your doctor tell you about diet? Did you ask him?

Why don't you get my booklet, How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed? Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, un-stamped envelope and six cents for postage to Dr. Molner, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill. for a copy.

"Peptic" includes ulcers of both types, and the booklet will give you an understanding how both types are treated.

When ulcers require surgery, the usual implication is that the patient is of the highly tense type who ought to take all reasonable precautions to avoid getting a new ulcer. Therefore, at least moderate watchfulness of diet would, in my opinion, be almost automatic. Maybe you're one of the fellows who should have started taking the ulcer seriously sooner. But right now is a good time to start preventing any recurrence.

Dear Dr. Molner: Re-Late teething baby.

My daughter cut her first tooth at 16 months. The other teeth followed right away, and she has passed the other babies (in the number of teeth) who started teething before she did. There was no deficiency. Tell the grandmother not to worry. It's probably nothing at all. — Mrs. J. C.

I hope grandmother is reading the paper today.

Scouts and Cubs Hold Church Parade

NAPANEE — Third Napanee Scouts and Cubs held their church parade at Trinity United Church with Rev. Irvine Johnston in charge of the service.

Cubs Karl Johnston and Brian Wayte read the Scripture and color bearers were Peter Anderson, Stuart Annas and Bill Dibb.

The flag of the Third Napanee Scouts was dedicated during the service.

United Church Men Serve Pancakes

DESERONTO — The men of Deseronto are feeling a big proud of themselves these days, and their wives are feeling a bit surprised.

The Shrove Tuesday pancake supper held in the United Church was a complete success, and the project was conceived and carried out by the men of the church, plus some of their friends of other denominations.

Close to 200 people ate the pancakes and the sausages and fried pork, all prepared by the men on the spot.

Although it was not a money-making scheme, the men are happy that they will have a substantial sum to use for church work. The event was planned and the men working together and to create good fellowship.

Marchand Is Bitterly Assailed By Head of Quebec Labor Body

OTTAWA (CP) — Manpower Minister Marchand's old labor rival tied off on him before a Commons committee Thursday and got into a sizzling exchange with MPs who tried to defend the absent minister.

Louis Laberge, president of the Quebec Federation of Labor, called Mr. Marchand the "illegitimate father" of a "bastard" labor bill that he said threatens to destroy stable labor relations on the pretext of protecting French-Canadian rights.

He said Mr. Marchand designed the controversial bill in order to steer Quebec workers out of national bargaining units and into the hands of his old union, the Confederation of National Trade Unions.

Mr. Marchand was president of the CNTU for years before resigning to enter federal politics prior to the 1965 election. The CNTU and QFL compete vigorously in Quebec.

John Munro, the minister's parliamentary secretary, said Mr. Laberge's 6,000-word brief was "a diatribe of personal abuse and insult" offensive to all MPs. It was "totally and completely irresponsible."

Mr. Laberge appeared before the labor committee in its fourth week of hearings on the government's bill, sponsored by Labor Minister Nicholson, that proposes to revise the structure of the Canada Labor Relations Board.

The bill would insert a definition of regional bargaining into federal labor law, allow the labor board to sit in small panels and create a separate appeal board to make the final decision on regional bargaining applications.

Mr. Laberge's brief described the legislation as—a "political scandal," "electoral blackmail," "palmsage," "moral fraud" and "one of the most brazen pieces of political trickery of our time."

He accused Mr. Marchand and Mr. Nicholson of deceiving the Commons in their statements defending the bill.

Twice he referred to remarks of Mr. Marchand as "lies."

Pierre Boulanger (L—Montreal Mercier) suggested the brief was politically inspired because of the QFL's link with the New Democratic Party.

The committee hopes to complete its public hearings late next week. There have been suggestions from Liberal MPs that some major amendments will be proposed.

Unemployment Insurance Won't Cover New Jobs

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Nicholson repeated Thursday that the present government will not extend unemployment insurance coverage to teachers, hospital workers, policemen and similar wage-earners.

While a government-appointed committee which studied the Unemployment Insurance Act recommended their inclusion, "this is one of the recommendations to which there is a serious difference of opinion," said Mr. Nicholson.

The minister spoke as the Commons approved amendments to the act which will extend coverage to about 400,000 workers.

Today the Commons will debate supplementary spending estimates.

Under the changes, the eligibility ceiling for insurance is increased to those earning $150 weekly from the present $105. Weekly charges will go up to $1.40 from 94 cents.

Maximum benefits will be increased to $62 weekly from $27 to workers without dependents and to $53 from $36 for persons with dependents.

Mr. Nicholson said the changes are only a stopgap and a comprehensive revision is in the works. But the new bill would not come up for a number of months as it is still under study.

To complaints from MPs that the closing of 100 Unemployment Insurance Commission offices have caused hardships to workers applying for benefits, Mr. Nicholson said weekly reports to date indicate the idea of regional offices "is working more efficiently than before."

Melvin McQuaid (PC—Kings) complained there is only one unemployment insurance office in Prince Edward Island. Some workers had to travel 150 miles if they wanted to see it.

Bud Orange (L—Northwest Territories) topped that when he said territorial residents have to apply to Edmonton for benefits. Thus workers in Inuvik in the Arctic Circle were 1,300 miles away from their nearest offices.

The government was embarrassed during the Thursday sitting when a Conservative brought to the attention of the committee chairman that the Commons lacked a quorum, but enough Liberal MPs hurried back to make up the required number.

New Democrats forced a vote to kill a private member's bill to change the name of the British Northwestern Insurance Co. to the Eagle Star Insurance Co. of Canada and to give it a federal charter.

The motion was voted down 177 to 26.

Johnson Says Race Not Factor in Tiff

QUEBEC (CP) Premier Daniel Johnson said Thursday night his argument with Justice Minister Trudeau "is not a question of race. It's a question of theory."

The premier was replying to Manpower Minister Jean Marchand who Wednesday night accused Mr. Johnson of appealing to racial prejudices in an attempt to destroy Mr. Trudeau as a Liberal leadership candidate.

Mr. Johnson told reporters that Mr. Trudeau started the verbal duel in Ottawa early in February at the federal-provincial constitutional conference "by publicly advocating a theory I can't agree with."

Strictly Personal

Beware of Opinion Polls

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It's refreshing when a man publicly issues a cautionary note about his own profession — and about as rare as a home-run ball in Cairo. This is doubly true when the profession happens to be the highly charged one of measuring public opinion.

So I think attention should be paid to the astringent remarks made by Leo Bogart, in his presidential address to the American Association for Public Opinion Research, as reported in a recent issue of "Scientific American" magazine.

We should be wary of attaching too much weight to polls of public opinion, Bogart said, especially where political issues are involved. Many of the people approached by pollsters," he is reported as saying, "really have no opinion on the issue in question, and indeed often do not want to have one."

When a person says "don't know" in response to a question, it often means "don't want to get involved" — reflecting the respondent's opinion that the issue is no responsibility of his.

And even positive 'opinions,' he goes on, are often formed on the spot, or based on severely limited and erroneous knowledge of the facts. Uninformed opinion is merely prejudice, sentimentality, or cynicism.

In such cases, he points out, it remains doubtful how sensitive a public official should be to such polls; since they don't measure knowledge or depth of feeling on a subject, how can they be properly evaluated as a basis for political action?

Moreover, as he puts it, "If, as is often the case, a substantial percentage of the public is uninformed about and uninterested in a subject, then actions contrary to the apparent will of the polled majority may nonetheless fall within the latitude that that compliant body politic permits its leaders."

For example, recent polls indicate that most citizens aren't very concerned about air pollution and aren't willing for the government to spend any money in combatting this menace. But even if 51 per cent are concerned and think we should attack the problem this informed minority might be a better cue for action than the majority.

One splendid suggestion made by Bogart is that surveys begin to ascertain the extent of public ignorance on "matters of fact." Instead of measuring "for" and "against" with a residue of "undecided," he suggests, we should be measuring the degree of apathy, indecision, ignorance, or conflict on the part of the silent majority, with the "opinionated" as the residual leftover. This would be the first brave step toward making polls more significant than they are today.

Sydney Omarr's Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For March 2nd.

ARIES (March 21 — April 19): Stress on personality, personal appearance. Circumstances favor your efforts. Sense of timing is sharp at present. Know this. Take initiative. Highlight versatility.

TAURUS (April 20 — May 20): Work with the senses. Prepare, get ready to emerge with new ideas, products, pleas. Key today is to gain acceptance of key people. This is best done in discrete manner.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Emphasis today on how to best fulfill desires. Key is to communicate to express yourself. Friends are willing to aid. Don't permit pride to stand in way of progress.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Need for greater harmony on domestic front is evident. This is best accomplished by sharing plans, ambitions. Obtain hint from Gemini message. Talk about problems — this clears the air.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Be perceptive. Separate wishful thinking from reality. Long-range success depends upon practical planning. Today you find out where you are headed and why.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 —Sept. 22): Check assets. Be aware of how much is going out, how much is coming in. Emphasis today on money at trade. Matters that are called upon to make financial decisions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): You may lose something close to you. But, in turn, you gain a realistic outlook. Finish with the old; prepare for the vital and new. Not easy day to analyze — but a very significant one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): You want the new, the exciting and the adventurous. But there are basic requirements, duties and regulations which you cannot ignore. Today strike a balance. Get to the how, why.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22—Dec. 21): Young person could prove dynamic spur for enthusiasm. You are receptive. There is spark which others sense. You receive and send. Romantic interests are highlighted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): Long-range ideas, theories, studies are emphasized. Today you could come face - to - face with reality through special message, written word.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Be active in connection with discussion group, expression of ideas. Be aware of current rumors. Key today is self-discipline. Social activity tonight proves beneficial.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — March 20): Keep close watch on possessions. Some around you may be envious. You may find it necessary to travel. In this case watch baggage. Be aware of unrealistic outlooks.

If today is your birthday you are sensitive, able to perceive moods, trends. You have come through period of crisis and now the road is clear — move with confidence.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Aries, Taurus, Gemini. Special word to Scorpio: keep resolutions concerning health, diet, recreation.

Moscow Expels Canuck

MOSCOW (AP) — A Canadian student has been expelled from Moscow University for alleged "furiously anti-Soviet" attitudes and immoral conduct, it was reported today.

Vladimir Pavlov, 30, left Moscow for Helsinki—the first outgoing flight available—when he learned his presence at the university was "no longer desirable," a Canadian embassy spokesman said.

His plans beyond Helsinki were uncertain when he left Moscow, the spokesman said.

Pavlov was the subject of a savage attack in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia Saturday. He said later he had no warning that the article would appear.

After conferring with embassy officials Monday, he requested a meeting with Moscow University officials and was told he could no longer study there, an embassy spokesman said. But he was not formally expelled from the Soviet Union, the spokesman added.

Imports Of Fruit Assailed

TORONTO (CP) — An opposition members of the legislature suggested Thursday that an inquiry ordered into Ontario's fruit and vegetable industry include a study of the position of imports, particularly as they affect the canning industry.

The proposal by Donald Paterson (L—Essex South) was welcomed by Agriculture Minister William Stewart, who agreed that importation of fruits and vegetables into the province had become "a matter of very great concern."

Mr. Stewart said the terms of reference of the inquiry to be conducted by the Ontario Food Council are "fairly broad" and might encompass the question of imports.

On the other hand, it might be felt the subject was too broad for an inquiry of the sort.

However, he thanked the member for the suggestion and promised to "take a good look at it."

The inquiry was announced Feb. 22 by Mr. Stewart who said it follows allegations that some farmers are being forced to pay "kickbacks" to guarantee markets for their produce.

Attorney-General Wishart said his department is continuing investigations which have been concentrated in the Essex County area of southwestern Ontario.

Four Die In Blaze

HALIFAX (CP) — A family of four died early today when a fire swept through their home at Hatchet Lake, 15 miles from here.

Dead are Kenneth Edward Brown, 24, his wife, Dorothy, 23, and their two children, Anne-Marie, 2 and Kenneth Anthony, two months.

The fire was believed caused by an exploding space heater. The house was destroyed.

Milk Pool Purchases Commence

TORONTO (CP) — George McLaughlin, chairman of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, announced Thursday milk-price pooling for Grade A milk ship pers throughout the province will start today.

He told a news conference the board will buy agreed quotas of Grade A milk from 8,300 dairy farmers and sell it directly to the dairies. In this way, the board will act on behalf of the farmers and pay them through a centralized system.

Mr. McLaughlin said other milk producers will be admitted to the system on a graduated basis as they meet requirements. The balance of Ontario's 27,000 dairy farmers currently ship milk for industrial purposes, he explained.

In southern Ontario, he said, the board will pay $6.15 a hundred pounds of milk for 90 per cent of a farmer's quota, and $2.54 a hundred pounds for the remaining 10 per cent.

In Northern Ontario the rates are $6.72 and $3.54.

Lollipops for MPs Fail to Impress Some Members

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — A wrapped lollipop accompanied each letter to 282 members of Parliament, chiding MPs for their conduct during the defeat of the government tax bill on Feb. 19 and this week's vote of confidence in the Pearson administration.

Peter Wilhelmson, head of the history department at St. Catharines Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, said Friday night he edited the letter, composed by Grade 13 students and took out some strong words.

But he said he felt the students should have a chance to express themselves.

The mimeographed letter read:

"We are writing as concerned young Canadians. The events beginning Feb. 19, 1968, clearly show that the behavior of many MPs leaves much to be desired.

"In a country where politics are generally viewed with contempt by youth, the latest activities of many of our elected representatives offer very few alternatives.

"We are disappointed in the extent of unwarranted absenteeism; the placing of party loyalties ahead of loyalty to the people of Canada and a general lack of responsible conduct leading to a misinterpretation of the mood of the Canadian people.

"We are worried about the great number of personal attacks that have unfortunately been too much a part of the latest crisis.

"We hope in our way that our little gift will help to overcome this situation which we realize often occurs out of emotion or party loyalty."

Randy Olling, a student, said 30 pupils drafted the letter. The idea to send it to MPs occurred during a history class. Stuart Beckett started the letter and other students voiced their opinions.

It cost $2 for envelopes and $2.30 for paper. Letters mailed to MPs are postage free.

The dressing down ruffled the feathers of many MPs.

Some, resenting the implication that they are childish, said they would return their lollipops.

Others said they will write to the students, explaining the constitutional and parliamentary significance of the tax bill vote and the subsequent confidence motion.

A few, extremely annoyed, threatened to send the students copies of Hansard containing their speeches during the crisis.

Rocky: Ready, Willing To Run

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York says he is "ready and willing" to become Republican presidential candidate if there is a "genuine feeling on the part of the party that that's what they want."

But he said he would not enter primary election campaigns in various states in an attempt to win support.

Richard M. Nixon, former vice-president who is actively seeking the nomination through primary elections, said Rockefeller will not be drafted and if he does not enter the tough primary races he will not be nominated.

Rockefeller made it clear that he, and not Nixon, is the man who can get enough independent and Democratic votes next November in the presidential election.

"I thought he was ugly, then I found he was single!"

Hungary Adds Fuel To Fire

From AP-Reuters

BUDAPEST (CP) — Romanian sources warned today that if the Soviet Union and its followers continue criticizing Romania and China, Bucharest may refuse "full" co-operate with some Communist nations altogether.

The Romnian Communist party's central committee linked the walkout of the Romanian delegates from the world Communist meeting in the Hungarian capital Thursday to a threat that Romania might boycott a Soviet-bloc summit meeting in Sofia, Bulgaria, next week.

However, the sources suggested that if Romania attended the meeting it would again tell Communist leaders that it could brook no more internal criticism.

An editorial in the official Hungarian Communist party newspaper today said "the interests of unity . . . require that the Romanian party revise its attitude and return to the join work."

Romanian delegate Paul Niculescu-Mizil stalked out of the Budapest meeting charging that Soviet party ideologist Mikhail A. Suslov was trying to force the Kremlin's views on other delegates.

Niculescu-Mizil and other Romanians also were incensed by the meeting's refusal to disavow the Syrian Communist party's charge that Romania was pro-Israel, and by attacks on China.

Endorsing the walkout of its delegates, the Romanian party said that "continued participation in the constitutive meeting would have meant accepting the promotion of practices and methods of condemning other parties, or imposing the will of some parties on other parties."

Thursday the Romanians charged that Stalinist tactics had been used to impose on the meeting a decision already made about the time and place of a world Communist conference. Most of the 29 Communist delegates that have spoken so far have said the meeting should be in Moscow at the end of this year.

The Canadian Communist party accused the Romanians of a premeditated act.

Kenyans Still Entering Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — Kenyan Asians entered Britain without hindrance today while officials awaited orders to enforce new British immigration laws.

About 23 Asians were among passengers who stepped from two British Overseas Airways Corp. jets this morning. Both flights left Nairobi before the midnight Friday night deadline for the law which sets new quota on the number of British passport-holding Kenyan Asians allowed into Britain each year.

A spokesman for the home office, the ministry responsible for enforcing the new curbs, said no one has as yet been turned back from Britain under the provisions that passed Parliament — one of the bitterest battles in years.

From midnight Friday night, a British passport no longer equipped its holder with the right of automatic entry into Britain. The prospective entrant either has to have a residence qualification or a birth connection.

MDs Ask Transplant Moratorium

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) — Three prominent doctors attending the annual meeting of the American College of Cardiology called Friday for a three-month worldwide moratorium on heart transplant operations.

The doctors said that time is needed to acquire and analyse data from the six heart transplant operations that have been performed in the last three months in South Africa, the United States and India.

The three are Dr. Simon Dack, associate professor of cardiology at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York City; Dr. George E. Burch, professor of medicine at Tulane University Medical School, New Orleans, and Dr. Eliot Corday, associate professor of clinical medicine at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Students End Walkout

TORONTO (CP) — Local university students said Friday the student power movement will gain momentum in Ontario as a result of Education Minister William Davis's efforts in spearheading the reinstatement of two painting instructors at the Ontario College of Arts here.

Mr. Davis announced Friday a three-point agreement in the legislature to end a student walkout of classes at the art college.

He said that the two painting instructors, Abe Dyrefky and Eric Freifeld, would return to the college and hoped they would "carry out their duties in keeping with the present regulations and in full co-operation with the administration."

War in U.S. Cities Predicted

MONTREAL (CP) — Eugene Genovese, American historian and self-professed Marxist, said Friday Negro riots will make this summer the most violent in the history of the United States.

"In fact, we are only one step removed from all-out war in our cities," Prof. Genovese told a teach-in on racial problems at Montreal's Sir George Williams University.

Prof. Genovese resigned from his post at Rutgers University in New Jersey in 1966 after a remark in 1965 that he would welcome a Viet Cong military victory over the U.S. He now instructs at Sir George Williams.

He said Friday the war in Vietnam has tied up all finances which the U.S. government might devote to its poverty program at home. It had also reversed any tendency toward liberalism in the U.S.

He said a direct confrontation of major proportions is brewing in American cities. It would lead to a "bloodbath of military oppression," the first round of which would produce heavy Negro casualties.

Tunnelling Viet Cong Hit Hard

SAIGON (AP) — Southern allied forces fought heavy battles at both ends of South Vietnam's northern frontier Friday and reported killing 330 guerrilla soldiers, many of them with machine-gun fire from armored vehicles.

In the area of one of the battles, in which South Vietnamese rangers at Khe Sanh reported killing 70 North Vietnamese Friday, U.S. B-52 bombers and smaller fighter-bombers kept up what has become the biggest air campaign of the war.

The B-52s aimed 750 tons of bombs in 10 raids Friday and today at North Vietnamese troops tunnelling toward the Khe Sanh combat base.

U.S. fighter-bombers flew 187 sorties in the area Friday.

About 300 South Vietnamese rangers, guarding Khe Sanh along with 5,000 U.S. marines against an expected massive Communist assault, repulsed 300 North Vietnamese who made a probing attack Friday.

In a clash on the Cau Viet River, government forces reported killing 203 and said eight South Vietnamese were killed and 25 wounded.

Ontario government's HOME plan has been touted in Trenton all week — from a 50-foot trailer with public relations man John Neal. He's standing beside a blowup of crowds that thronged Bramalea when home-ownership plan opened. However, in Trenton 43 of 60 HOME lots are still vacant.

Eight Rinks Left in Main Event

The Tri - Quinte bonspiel entered its third day of competition with eight rinks of a starting 64 eligible for the Pepsi Cola trophy, primary event of the spiel still in the running. On Wednesday and Thursday there were only two draws a night but today the curlers start playing for keeps and all events will be in the final stages tonight or Sunday evening.

Murray Johnson and his rink of Al Shukster, Jim Petticrew and Dave Brown from the Quinte Curling Club is the only rink left in the primary event and this rink knocked out the Ron Beem rink at Trenton Club on the late draw on Friday night. Other rinks left in the primary are skipped by Mark Eisner of CFB, Lyle Carr of Trenton Country Club, R. Simpson, W. Anderson and "Curly" Lord from CFB, Bill Lewis, his two sons and Don Campbell from the Kingston Curling Club and Bill Koutsch, formerly of Kingston but now of Ottawa.

Tonight before the start of the evening draws the three clubs a full course meal will be served the curlers who played the last draw at these clubs. A social hour will follow and then the final games. The finale for the primary event will be played at the CFB on Sunday evening.

Young Conservatives Meet

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Ontario's Young Progressive Conservative Association launched its annual meeting here Friday with a "happening."

The convention, expected to attract 500 voting delegates, got under way at the Rock Haven Motor Hotel on the city's western outskirts with a way-out dance featuring go-go dancers and a psychedelic light show.

The delegates are to get down to more serious business today with organizational workshops in the morning, a luncheon speech by John Yaremko, Ontario's social and family services minister, a panel featuring six other provincial cabinet ministers and a dinner addressed by their national leader, Robert Stanfield.

The panel on regional development will feature Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton, Agricultural Minister Wilburn Stewart, Mines Minister Allan Lawrence, Highways Minister George Gomme, Tourism Minister James Auld and Fern Guindon, French-speaking minister without portfolio and chairman of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

Before the meeting winds up Sunday afternoon, delegates will have elected a new executive, deliberated on 14 resolutions and heard Premier Robarts deliver a luncheon speech.

CN Pensioners Hear Ex-Mayor

About 60 members attended the regular, meeting of the CN Pensioners' Association Feb. 28.

Jack Ellis, former mayor, spoke on the moving of Shannonville station to Zwick's Island. H. L. Scott, president, brought up the subject of obtaining an old caboose to be placed behind the engine on Zwick's island. Ald. Richard Ellis also addressed the gathering.

Mr. Hunter was presented with a centennial medal by N. Thompson in recognition of his activities with the pensioners and the safety project.

Indecent Assault Charged

A Belleville man has been arrested as the result of an incident on Wednesday night when a Sidney Street woman was assaulted.

Charged with indecent assault is Ronald Angelo Lupenette, 25, of 119 Lemoine Street.

A police spokesman stated today the woman had been vacuuming her home when a person came up behind her, "grabbed her and threw her to the couch."

Police say the woman was not raped as she fought the man off. He ran out of the house, got into his car and drove off.

The woman was not hurt, save for a few scratches during the scuffle.

Police believe the man who assaulted the Sidney Street woman has been responsible for a series of phone calls to Belleville women during the past few months. He is believed to have used an alias, Jimmy Hart.

Lupenette was arrested yesterday afternoon at the CNR station after he returned from a trip.

Baby Showered with Gifts

A boy weighing less than seven pounds has scooped all competitors to take more than his weight in prizes.

The 6 lb., 13 oz. son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bull, 25 Albion Street, first baby born in Belleville General Hospital on Leap Year.

He beat out three other competitors who arrived on schedule the same day.

Belleville merchants yesterday announced the boy as winner of a special Leap Year gift offering.

The prizes range from diapers to a motel dinner invitation to the proud parents.

IN MEMORIAM

FRIGEN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Sally Frigen, who passed away March 3rd, 1967.

Dear God take a message down
To our master in heaven above,
Tell him we miss him more than
And give him all our love.
To us he was worth many days,
We have many memories,
The family chain is broken now,
But memories linger on always.
He put his burden down,
For he has travelled far,
He has gone to God's eternal home,
And left the gate ajar.
We hope to meet in sleep her
Her dear sweet face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
That meant so much to me.
We miss her more than words can
Your gentle hand you must retain,
We never did, nor never will,
Forget you, Mother dear.
The years may wipe out many
But this they'll wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days,
That we have spent together.
God saw that you were getting tired,
And he did what was best,
He put His hand gently on you,
And whispered come to rest.
The Golden Gate stood unbarred,
Over your age today,
You passed through unspoken,
You gently and quietly fell asleep.
—Always remembered by husband Harry and daughter Ruth.

CARDS OF THANKS

Bellevue House Admired by 28,000

Sir John A. Macdonald's Study

KINGSTON — In appearance Robert Stanfield bears a marked resemblance to Sir John A. Macdonald.

Yesterday Major R. R. Dixon curator of Bellevue House, the first Prime Minister's home, made no reference to whether conservative party faithful commented on the likeness when they went through the place and appraised the stone bust and numerous portraits of Sir John A. on display.

Neither did he mention if those interested in making the comparison would raise attendance figures this year.

Major Dixon assumed the role of supervisor of the historic site when it was officially opened a year last May. Records kept by him since that time show some 28,000 people from all parts of the world including India, Japan and Australia have come to view this meticulously maintained government showcase.

The theme Major Dixon prefers to stress is the part played by Sir John A. Macdonald as the architect of Confederation. "The memories left behind by him and his family on display are priceless in historic value to young Canadians," he explained.

At present Major Dixon is busy arranging school tours. He expressed a desire to accommodate elementary and secondary schools from the Quinte area.

"I'm eager to talk on this subject to young people because reminders of the past pieced together as it can be here makes living history for them to grasp and understand more easily."

He said he was encouraged by the response from the public but the interest shown by blind persons since especial tours were implemented was an even more rewarding accomplishment.

Each blind visitor receives two hours of Major Dixon's personal attention. A model of the famed tri - level home is made available to them to get the feel of the exterior design, the buildings and grounds surrounding it.

A raised floor plan allows them to form a mental picture of the interior tracing it room by room with their fingers. They are permitted to touch specific articles while their guide paints a word picture for them.

Visits for the blind from the Quinte area should be arranged in advance since Major Dixon can handle only one person on a tour of this nature at a time.

At Bellevue House apparently the policy excludes any reference to the Stanfield facimile profile but a mile to the east where a bronze statue of Sir John A. Macdonald stands in a civic park the story is different.

Interim School Body Meets

PICTON — First steps towards organization of the proposed new county school board were taken here Thursday night.

R. W. Froats, district superintendent of schools, Kingston, representing the provincial government, and members of the newly - formed interim committee for Prince Edward County met to question and discuss the new system.

Major purpose of the interim committee, Mr. Froats said, is to discuss policies so recommendations may be made to the elected county school board when it comes into effect in January 1969.

Second purpose is to prepare operational data of individual school boards for publication under one cover for the new board. Information on debentures, staff and transportation will be collected and given to the county board next year.

Mr. Froats suggested the committee work with a secretarial made up of the three area superintendents of schools in Prince Edward County.

This would include Hector Knight, area superintendent of elementary schools, for inspectorate 1; J. C. McLeod, area superintendent for secondary schools; and Andrew Dunsmore, area superintendent of elementary schools for inspectorate 2, that is, Ameliasburg Township and portions of Hastings County.

Malcolm Dulmage of Cherry Valley was selected as official chairman for the committee. Mr. Dulmage earlier organized school board members to discuss the problems of the county school board.

Mr. Froats said he could see no reason why Prince Edward County, with 14 members on the new board, could not distribute representation to leave no municipally out.

Prince Edward County will have one of the most favourable positions as to representation of any board in Ontario, with one member for each 1,300 people. In counties with populations over 100,000 and only four additional trustees, the "rep-by-pop" ratio would be 5,000 to one.

Picton may supply three or four delegates, while towns of similar size in other counties, such as Gananoque and Napanee, may have only one or two representatives on the county boards.

The aim of the new county system, Mr. Froats said, is to offer equalization of educational opportunity, but new schools built without the complete approval of the department of education will have to live with their error. Since there are heavy debentures on the new schools, they will probably stay open.

He suggested an agreement may be reached to transport students to larger schools for special courses and courses that can't be offered by smaller 10-room schools.

Ready For a Test Run

Sgt. Keith Wright of the Belleville City Police prepares to take the newest addition to the police force, a side-car, for the motorcycle. The main purpose of the side-car is to provide more motorcycle service the year round. The third wheel will ensure stability for winter driving. A second side-car is being assembled for the other motorcycle.

Peterborough, Students Win

Students from opposite limits of East-Central Ontario won zone finals of the public-speaking contest at Albert College last night.

The event drew contestants from Haliburton to Brockville. Brian Lappin, Adam Scott Collegiate, Peterborough, won the impromptu section of the contest.

Winner of the prepared-speech challenge was Paul Green, St. Mary's College, Brockville.

Quiet Canadians?

"How come we 'quiet Canadians' are the world's talking-est telephone users?"

That is the question posed by Bell Telephone in a current advertisement. It alludes to the fact that by 14th year in succession Canadians have led the world in telephone calls per person.

One reason, according to the company, is that calling family or friends here is less expensive than in other countries. For instance there is the flat rate that covers all local calls, whereas in most other countries each call over a monthly maximum is charged separately.

Significant too is the fact that the number of "work hours" it takes to pay for a residence telephone for one month is lower in Canada than anywhere else in the world.

The company says that in its territory in Canada a man employed in the manufacturing industry works an average of 2.1 "work hours" to pay for monthly telephone service as against 2.5 in the United States, 4.5 in London and 15.8 in Paris.

If this is encouraging information, there is one other less admirable aspect of the national character the advertisement tends to confirm. That is, we are an unsmiling people, as witness the accompanying photograph of the "quiet Canadians." So cheer up Bell, in any event, quiet or unsmiling, we still talk more on the telephone than any other society in the world.

As Others See Us

Pursuing the "Quiet Canadian" theme a bit further, why is it that Canadians are viewed by others as a cold, rather unfriendly lot?

To immigrants or visitors from overseas we appear unfriendly and even insular. So you have just arrived from say Denmark and you speak good English as the Danes are wont to do. And you have a zest for life and a desire to get to know the natives.

But the natives give you the cold shoulder. You try to strike up a conversation with the person next to you on the train, you talk about the Tivoli Gardens and the night life of Copenhagen. But you quickly find your companion could not care less, and anyway old boy we have just had Expo you know . . . boom!

But why this reluctance to unwind, this reserve if you like. Well perhaps it is just we prefer our own company. And being cut off (for all today's easier communications) from contact with other countries and other people does tend to create a degree of insularity and provincialism among a population that stays close to home.

If you are not a Dane but a Swede Canada should be just the place. "Ah Swedes never talk to each other," a young friend from that country once exclaimed. He had travelled widely so knew what she was talking about.

But if you are an Australian — outgoing and also widely-travelled — Canada can seem forbidding and even hostile. Australians interviewed recently by a Toronto newspaper complained that Canadians were difficult to get to know, seldom if ever invited them into their homes and were even unresponsive to invitations, say to get together for a drink.

Another complaint is that Canadians will say, "you must come up to the house sometime" and that is the last you ever see or hear of them. Or alternatively, "drop in sometime," and if you do it can be an unwelcome visitation.

For their part the Canadians find Australians poor risks as job prospects. Not because of any lack of ability, but simply because of their insatiable wanderlust. Most just do not stay long enough to be more than of temporary value to an employer.

Nor can any meaningful friendships be established in such a period. Then there is the impersonality of any big city . . . the rat race and all that.

They Keep Coming

Manpower apparently is no problem to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong opposing the Americans and North Vietnamese.

Associated Press correspondents William L. Ryan and Peter Arnett, noting the Americans and their allies are on the defensive after the recent communist offensive, add: "The countryside is open to Viet Cong recruiters who, in their informal sources, quickly fill ranks depleted by U.S. firepower."

Not only do the communists keep filling up their ranks but the recruits evidently go into battle highly trained and capable of fighting like tigers.

The population of North Vietnam is about 16 million. Add to this the communist sympathizers in South Vietnam's population of another 16 million and it is not difficult to see how the recruits keep coming.

Ottawa Offbeat

Strong-minded Women Moulded P.M. Into Imperious Ruler

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — All rulers, benign or despotic, must have their courts.

And the courtiers must reflect the will and wisdom of the Master.

Queen Elizabeth The First's was a ambitious and lusty court. Henry the Eighth's wilful and wicked.

Louis the Fourteenth's elegant and luxury-loving.

In the twentieth century Stalin's was crude and cruel; Mackenzie King's cool and calculating; Winston Churchill's bizarre and heroic; Louis St. Laurent's kind and courtly; John Kenneby's brilliant and brave; John Diefenbaker's dictatorial and in the end, desperate.

What now of Lester Bowles Pearson's?

Definitely not kind and courtly, nor yet crude and cruel.

But wilful? Yes. Just watch the way mediocre is being stuffed down the throats of the unwilling provinces.

Daring? Indeed. Look at the new maple leaf flag flying everywhere, and bilingualism becoming a status symbol all across the increasingly powerful federal establishment.

Dictatorial? What else was the unprecedented refusal to admit defeat of a major tax measure meant defeat of the government. And then, by press on, quite dispositically, in single-minded determination to recoup tax revenue denied by Parliament!

Cool and calculating? Creditiste leader Real Caouette he could answer that, sucked in as he was by a brilliantly conceived stratagem to subscribe to the preposterous proposition that there can be confidence in nonconfidence.

These and others are the qualities of the court of Lester Bowles Pearson. Courtiers even that of luxury-loving — if West Indies and Florida vacation by government-owned executive jet and hob-nobbing with the international elite may be taken as any kind of evidence.

The Master, LBP in fact maintains two courts, the official and the personal.

One large. The other small, but wielding incalculable power in the petite person of Maryon Pearson.

For if now, in his final weeks of rule, Lester Bowles Pearson comes through as wilful, cool and calculating, daring, even dictatorial and perhaps above all, tough, Maryon Pearson did much to make him that way.

Who can forget that night, early in his rule, when Conservative leader Diefenbaker had him cowed and cowering in the parliamentary corner of former Finance Minister Walter Gordon's first disastrous budget, and he went on national television to defend his minority administration shaking under its first fruitful attack.

And there, standing in front of a TV set, in a reception room where the Liberals were holding a rally, was Maryon Pearson — shouting back at his anti-spoken image on the screen.

Uncaring of others clustered around her gripping in astonishment, she stood there, fists clenched, crying "Fight. Fight back, Mike. For God's sake fight back!"

And with the years since then, he has come to do just that.

Most important member of the official court is Miss Mary E. Macdonald, Parliamentary clerical secretary since the day, 20 years ago, he entered Parliament.

She has run his East Algoma constituency out of a stack of fat files in 1963. And when they travel his Manitoulin Island-Georgian Bay North Shore political fief, she can recite from the history of almost every voter out of those files she has all neatly arranged in the back seat of the car like books on their shelves.

She holds and never hesitates to use all the power those years of unswerving service have earned.

She guards his inner office door from her desk, just inside an adjoining room, with a gimlet-eyed vigilance.

She has turned the adjacent waiting room outside the inner sanctum into a rigidly-controlled clearing station, exercising supreme authority over who — apart from the most senior cabinet ministers and privy council officers (and sometimes even these) — may have access to the great man.

This power is resented by a gres' many Liberal MPs and especially by other lesser members of the court.

Last time she was challenged was by former prime ministerial press secretary Richard O'Hagan who lost in the power struggle and was banished to a well-paid exile in the Canadian embassy at Washington.

These two women, Maryon Pearson at home at 24 Sussex Drive, and Mary E. Macdonald in the East and Centre Block offices, have moulded a ruler of wilful, cool and calculating if dictatorial daring.

Auditor-General Says Parliament Is Not Observing Its Own Laws

Ottawa Journal

The Auditor General, Max Henderson, in his annual report draws attention to cases where the public money appears to have been spent inefficiently. He also, this year, finds evidence that Parliament is not being efficient in seeing its own laws are observed.

His references to the Public Printing and Stationery Act show a confusing situation in which the office of Queen's Printer has been stripped of much of its old authority over Government publications.

In the fiscal year 1963-64, the Governor-in-Council under authority of the Public Service and Transfer of Duties Act, transferred to the Department of Defence Production all functions of the Department of Public Printing and Stationery with the exception of the publication and distribution of books and publications.

But the Public Printing and Stationery Act remained in force and the Auditor General says many of its sections are "ignored entirely." He notes:

1. The title "Queen's Printer and Controller of Stationery" is now used only for legal purposes as the holder of the title is no longer responsible for the operations of the Printing Bureau or for Government stationery.

2. The act charges the Department of Public Printing exclusively with the execution of Government printing and allied operations. In practice a large share of the work is given to commercial firms.

3. The act provides for a printing establishment in Ottawa but for years the Printing Bureau has been located in Hull.

These and eight other instances in which the old act appears to be ignored are mentioned by the Auditor General.

Respect for Parliament is lessened when its laws are not observed. The Government has much on its mind, but it should bring legislation respecting printing up to date. It is silly to have a law saying the Queen's Printer is responsible for certain mas..ive printing operations for the Government when in fact he is not.

Letters to the Editor

Local TV Tax Proposal Meets More Opposition

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

As a taxpayer who has always carried my own weight I am more than somewhat alarmed by Alderman Boyle's proposal to additionally tax the Cable TV system in this city.

If as he says there is no ulterior motive on his part but only an honest effort to raise more revenue for Belleville then I want no part of it.

If our fair city is in such dire financial straits then I say let's all pitch in and help. I don't want charity from any company nor would any self-respecting taxpayer.

If Belleville needs bailing out then let Council surtax everyone that we might all enjoy the glorious feeling of giving. Why reserve this special privilege for one particular business?

ONE WHO PAYS HIS OWN WAY

Religious Observance and The Rising Generation

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

It was with keen interest and deep appreciation that I read your editorial on "School Rituals," Feb. 27, 1968. You quoted from the Archbishop of Canterbury and added, "where these lines originated we cannot say, but they have remained in the memory since that day some 15 years ago."

The words of the Archbishop, speaking of the Scriptures were: "Here is wisdom (Rev. 13:18) this is the royal law (James 2:8) these are the holy oracles (living words) of God." (Acts 2:39)

Our young people, not knowing the truth of God's holy word, stand and blindly assent, quote from the Intelligencer, Feb. 22, 1968: "The scripture reading and the Lord's Prayer do not belong at all," referring to the schools which consist of our young people, who in turn possess this precious gift of the human mind.

I have no argument with these young ones, or with anyone. What God has said in these holy scriptures has come to pass and is coming to pass, whether we agree or disagree.

The Lord God does not lie so much with our offspring but at the very door of those of us who have professed to teach this world and into this very set of circumstances in which they themselves live. We have failed! — failed God and our children.

God said to bring them up in the fear, nurture and admonition of the Lord.

Now, honestly, have we done this? Have we even taught them how decree of reverence for the scriptures — the Bible itself? Have we not failed to see the truth and the necessity for the truth in our own lives? And so, we have passed on this mood of indifference to this generation.

Organization—or Confusion?

Kingston Whig - Standard

The other day these columns contained an editorial on Canadian Indians. In that editorial we carelessly referred to the Indian Affairs Branch as being under the Minister of Manpower and Immigration.

That was until recently the position of the Government Organization Act of June 16, 1966 when this branch was transferred to the Minister of Indians Affairs and Northern Development. This Act made a number of other important changes. The Water Resources and Resource Development Branches with their powers under the Atlantic Provinces Power Development Act, the Dominion Water Power Act, the Canada Water Conservation Assistance Act, and the International River Improvements Act were placed in the department of Northern Affairs and National Resources, were transferred to the new Department of Energy, Mines and Resources. The Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development is also responsible for the development of national parks and the management of wildlife resources.

Considering the importance of Indian affairs and the unsatisfactory history of the way in which these affairs have been administered it is time that a minister be made responsible for that and nothing else.

Setback for U.S. "Pacification" Program in Vietnam

This is the second of three stories analysing the situation in Vietnam a month after the Tet offensive started.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
and
PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — It is hard to escape the conclusion that the military situation in South Vietnam has come to a critical yet indecisive stage.

The Communists still present the initiative they seized with the first shots of the winter-spring offensive, fired at the border town of Loc Ninh in late October.

The countryside is open to Viet Cong recruiters who, say informed sources, quickly fill ranks depleted by U.S. firepower in battle.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland conceded last weekend: "The Viet Cong - North Vietnamese attacks have indeed taxed the flexibility and mobility of our forces."

One answer of Westmoreland, U.S. commander, to the current situation is to ask for more U.S. troops. He made similar requests in similar crises in the past, including the dark days of early 1965 when the Vietnamese Army was in danger of being wiped out.

The first U.S. combat troops were committed to forestall a military defeat. Today, three years and 500,000 troops later, the enemy is again in a position to threaten the cities.

The most experienced observers see Westmoreland needing at least five more divisions immediately to win back the initiative.

Westmoreland says he bases hopes for a U.S. troop commitment on modernization and increased capability of the South Vietnamese Army. But information from a dozen battle areas indicates performance in recent weeks by these troops has been uneven at best.

There is no question the Communist offensive damaged the pacification program — latest in a series of plans to establish a lasting government presence in the countryside. If pacification was a major objective in the offensive, as some suggest, the Communists could claim a success almost by default.

The program in U.S. estimation has been set back at least 18 months — providing the Communists do not launch a new wave of offensives in that period.

Frontier Apostles Run Schools For Indians in BC Interior

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — They're called Frontier Apostles, and they're the Roman Catholic Church's answer to the Peace Corps in British Columbia.

Priests, nuns and, for the most part, lay teachers provide teaching services to B.C. Indians valued at $690,000 a year. The 150 apostles receive in return $25 a month each plus room and board.

The teachers run 13 mission schools and a college operated by the Oblate order in a 135,000-square-mile area of the province.

The apostles include people like Joan D'Lima, a 26-year-old Grade 5 teacher from Bombay, India, and Lawrence MacPherson of Nova Scotia, who could earn up to $10,000 a year teaching electronics.

Rev. Gerard Clenaghan, the man who interviews all volunteers, holds a key position in the apostles' operation, acting as supervisor from this central B.C. city.

"Only one out of six who offer their services is taken on," said the 48-year-old priest.

Those who are chosen must be dedicated because "the rest of us certainly no financial reward in working for us."

At Fort St. James, 100 miles northeast of Prince George, Miss D'Lima, who came to Canada with her family in 1962, says it surprised her to find some Indians living in primitive conditions while the rest of the population lives comparatively well.

"I like the Indians and I'm staying here to help them because I think something should be done for them," she said.

Mr. MacPherson, teaching electronics at Prince George College, says the loss of the potential $10,000 salary does not trouble him.

"It gives me a good feeling to think I'm helping people do something with their lives," he said. "The reward to me is a thousandfold whatever I've given."

The Nova Scotian doubles as a basketball coach.

"Three years ago, some of these Indian boys had never seen a basketball. Now they're as good players as I've ever seen."

Bishop Fergus O'Grady of the Roman Catholic diocese of Prince George said the apostles have helped him achieve a lifelong ambition.

"It's been my life's work to help and educate the people in this northern diocese, especially the Indians, and, thanks to these volunteers, it has been accomplished," he said.

He has a member of his staff on the road the year around talking with prospective volunteers.

Another volunteer trying to improve the lot of the Indians is Barbara Wolff, 24, of Dubuque, Iowa.

She has spent two years at Fort St. James as a cook for the school staff of 10 teachers.

She heard about the apostles from a friend who persuaded her to volunteer.

"If you can't afford to pay your way to the missions, the bishop will pay your fare for you," she says.

"I'm happy here, although, I admit, I don't like small towns. I came here because I wanted to be able to give a little."

APPROVE INSTALLATION

WINNIPEG (CP) — Installation of a brass plaque on the pew where Manitoba's late Lt.-Gov. Errick F. Willis sat in St. George's Anglican Church has been approved by Mrs. Willis. During his six-year term, Mr. Willis attended St. George's three times a month and visited 67 other churches.

MARMORA CPTA

MARMORA — Rev. John T. Pearson, Director of Religious Education for Peterborough Diocese, spoke to members of the Catholic Parent Teacher Association, Marmora, on Monday, on teaching morality to the 10-year-old.

He said one should exclude the compelling motive of fear and suggest instead the imitation motive of Christ and love.

"If this precaution is not observed," he said, "attitudes can be introduced by religious leaders that are not healthy. Our relation with God is communion of personal love and is not just the morality of obligation or duty. The value of the moral law as that it serves as a guide to that love."

Father Pearson described the new different approach, stressing the positive rather than the negative in religious teaching of young children. In his message to parents, he concluded that it is hoped to move into the field of parent meetings since the onus of religious education is with the parents.

"God has given you your children, and at the same time He has given you in the sacrament of matrimony the graces you need to instruct your children about God and the things of God, and it is your privilege to adapt the message of God's love to each of your children," he said.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Ray Black. The fund raising committee in charge of Mrs. Bill Meehan Jr., and assisted by Mrs. Joe Maloney, Mrs. Mike Callery and Mrs. Jack O'Connor, will convene a potluck luncheon March 15. Delegates to provincial convention in Toronto in March will be Mrs. Stafford Shannon and Mrs. Mickey Maloney.

The principal, Mrs. E. P. McNamara, thanked Father T. G. Scanlan, director, for his successful efforts in providing outdoor rinks on school playgrounds for pupils.

Mr. Black announced the next meeting will be March 25 with inspector F. B. Allore as guest speaker.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

MARMORA — Mrs. David Saunders, Captain of 1st Marmora Guides, welcomed 87 mothers, grandmothers, Guides, Brownies and Rangers to the mother and daughter banquet at the Anglican Parish Hall Tuesday. Head table guests were introduced by Mrs. Saunders and Judy Neal thanked St. Paul's Anglican Guild for the turkey meal. A sing song preceded the Brownie program. Due to illness of commissioner Mrs. Roy Frost, unofficial enrolment was made by Brownie leaders, Mrs. Doug Vilneff and Mrs. Tom Neal of new Tweenies to Brownies — Merey Borland, Lori Maynes, Cathy Stalker, Margaret Lynn Maloney, Janet O'Connor, Susan VanHeukelom, Lori March and Ann Hegadoren.

One year service pins were awarded to Judy Killian, Cheryl Smith and Judy Derring. Receiving swimming badges were Judy Killian, Karen Paranuik and Patsy Vilneff, who had passed examination by Mrs. Murray Walker, Red Cross instructor.

Five girls earned their leathermaker badges: Colleen Neal, Sondra Gaunt, Patsy Vilneff, Lisa Maynes and Cassie Stalker.

Hobo badges were presented to Nancy Derry, Colleen Neal, Connie Stalker, Margetta Newseth, Brenda Saunders, Colleen O'Connor and Chris Kerr. Golden Hour awards were received by Sondra Gaunt, Chris Kerr, Judy Gray, Nancy Derry, Patsy Vilneff, Colleen Neal, Kim King and Linda Sweet.

Rangers presented a skit with Lillian O'Connor and Connie Bell taking part.

The following Guide badges were awarded by Mrs. Saunders: musician, Judy Neal; laundress, Kathy Smith, Betty Demorest; 2nd class, Patty O'Connor; cordwainess, Susan Napadeck.

UCW Meetings

BRIDGE ST. UCW

Lifeline, a new community service in Belleville, was explained at the meeting of all the units of Bridge St. United Church Women, Feb. 27.

Mrs. E. C. Milliken described the office room which is the centre for this emergency telephone service. Then she and Mrs. John MacKinnon conducted an imaginary telephone conversation to demonstrate how lifeline operates.

A counsellor who mans the phone must be able to listen creatively, to suggest a special adviser, allay temporary panic or call in a specialist for immediate need. Third party calls are not satisfactory. The person in need must make the call himself. An analysis was given of the first hundred calls received since the Belleville office was opened in October, 1967.

Mrs. Bruce Cronk told of the varied vocations and qualifications of the present group of 35 counsellors.

They attended a series of lectures, now held group discussions and follow appropriate Bible study courses. Fifty dedicated Christian lay persons are needed to carry on the service with ease. There is a probation service of six months, then further training since a month. A possible next step in service might be "shepherding" over a short period.

Although Lifeline has an international program, originating in Australia, Sudbury and Belleville are the only Canadian cities yet involved.

There is no financial assistance from outside. The service is voluntary with no fees of any kind. Expenses are met by donations from interested local persons or groups.

In the question period which followed it was explained that though lifeline is a Christian organization any appeal from Jews, agnostics or atheists would be dealt with appropriately. It was also emphasized that Lifeline is not an advice-giving group.

Preceding this program, which was in charge of Miss Grace Kenny, a vocal trio by Mrs. Cathers, Mrs. Morley Davidson and Mrs. Rorabeck was enjoyed, and following the program an appropriate service of praise and meditation was conducted by Mrs. Doris Howie.

The business meeting under the chairmanship of the president, Mrs. J. S. Laynes, was followed by a social half-hour.

Flapper Girl Leads

Rudolph Valentino would have never stood for having his partner lead on the dance floor but five-year-old Peter Kisiela, in sheik's costume, doesn't seem to mind. He and flapper Juta Hattenhauer, 9, were among 230 children at a costume Mardi Gras ball in Hamilton.

WIDE-CHECKED TWEEDS — Pleats return in the skirt of the wide checked tweed suit in brilliant green shades, left. The jacket is single-breasted and the suit has its matching sleeveless shell. The cigarillo-smoking gal likes men's fashions. Her navy blazer is edged with white braid. Her white wool hopsack slacks have a front closing and she has borrowed a jockey cap and a cahmere polo sweater. A kilt to wear with the blazer is also available. The lady-like classic suit in knop tweed on the right is in brilliant orange and white tones. The co-ordinating three-quarter length coat in plain tweed has revers of the same check tweed as the suit. All outfits are from the Munropsun of Edinburgh collection.

Children Deprived of Mother-Love Suffer Permanent Emotional Damage

TORONTO CP — Children who lack a mother's love and attention can withdraw into themselves in a way that can damage them for life, a University of Toronto psychologist says.

Prof. Betty Flint said in an interview she reached these conclusions after an 11-year, study of children's reactions to life in institutions.

A team from the University of Toronto's Institute of Child Study has been working with 31 children who started out in a Toronto orphanage and finished up in foster home.

Mrs. Flint said the study indicated that even temporary removal from their mother can lead to "irreparable emotional damage."

She said the study held implications for hospitals, where children often are separated from their parents at an early age. Hospitals should encourage visits from parents, she said.

Mrs. Flint said a child whose need for his mother is not met protects himself from the emotional pain of his need by withdrawing into himself.

When the university researchers began the study at the orphanage in 1957, she said, they found the children were much like, "little animals" because although institutions were immaculate the children's "human needs" were more than the over-worked staff could provide for.

One little boy sat on the floor in a corner facing the wall and screamed all day. If a child tripped and fell, another coming along behind would walk right over him with no awareness of inflicting pain.

The children slept in beds separated by screens so they could not see each other. They were discouraged from trying to learn to feed themselves because there was not time to teach them.

Some still could not talk at four years of age because no one had time to talk to them.

"They didn't know how dishes were washed or where a breeze came from or how clothes got into the drawers and came out clean or that flowers grow," Mrs. Flint said.

"If you talked to them, they either looked at you blankly or at a spot somewhere over your shoulder. If you put a doll or a toy in front of a child he would just sit and stare at it."

The researchers doubted the size of the orphanage staff and introduced a child - centred daily program. Toddlers were picked up when they cried and held until they stopped.

They were taught to play, were talked to and taught things. Gradually they began to emerge from their state of withdrawal.

"When someone cares about you," Mrs. Flint said, "you begin to develop a self-worth and that then becomes self-confidence.

"We cared and we showed it. We tried to make each one of them feel unique."

CLUB ACTIVITIES

MARMORA IODE

MARMORA — The ways and means committee of Marmora Chapter, IODE, plans to hold an evening sale March 21-22, and a tea and bake sale May 23.

Proceeds from these activities will go towards prizes and other expenses incurred by IODE for the final commencement of Marmora High School. Since Marmora High School will close its doors in June, every effort will be made to make the IODE contribution to the ceremonies as significant as possible.

Members attending the February 27 meeting at the home of Mrs. M. H. Borland also decided to contribute $20 towards the resuscitation which has been purchased, through the efforts of Mrs. Manley Corder, for the use of the community.

A letter from the provincial executive, urging serious consideration of the gravity of present trends of political thought, was read and discussed. Mrs. Alice Stark read an interesting resume of 68 years of IODE activity in Canada.

Mrs. G. J. Meiklejohn received the congratulations of the chapter, on being awarded a centennial medal in recognition of her service as chairman of the women's centennial committee.

Mrs. Jack Jones asked that all wool be brought in on March in order that an estimate can be made of future requirements. A touch and take table will operate at the next meeting.

LADIES' AUXILIARY

The monthly meeting of the ANAF Ladies' Auxiliary was held with A. Storms, president, in charge.

Mrs. Storms gave a report on the Provincial Command meeting held in London, Ont., in January.

New members initiated recently were Freda Noyes and Barbara Shepherd.

WEDDING

TRUDEAU—GILLIS

TWEED — St. Edmund's Church, Stoco, was the scene of the recent wedding of Olive Lorraine Gillis, daughter of Mrs. Alec Gillis, Toronto, and the late Mr. Gillis, to Joseph Oakley Trudeau, Stoco. Rev. J. Groenewegen officiated. Mrs. Lawrence LeSage provided the wedding music and Miss Sharon Rush was soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, Vince Gillis, the bride wore a floor - length Empire styled gown of white crepe with elbow length sleeves and bodice and train of bonded lace. Her bouffant four - tier illusion veil fell from a headpiece of chiffon roses. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Doreen Trudeau, was maid of honor and chose an Empire styled red velvet floor - length gown with elbow - length sleeves. Her matching veil was caught to a red velvet rose and she carried a bouquet of white orchids.

Raymond Trudeau was groomsman, and Kevin Trudeau and James McDermot ushered the guests.

At the reception in St. Carthagh's Hall, Tweed, the bride's mother wore a turquoise crepe sheath with a side drape, complimented by a turquoise, gold and black hat and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a royal blue silk knit portrait shift accented by a lace yoke. She wore a pink flowered hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

For traveling, the bride chose a navy winter walking suit with navy and white accessories, and a corsage of white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Trudeau are now residing at 173 High Park Avenue, Toronto.

Study Guild Hears Outline of Aid Plans

The Women's Study Guild met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Buchanan with vice-president, Mrs. Jerry Cochrane in charge. Mrs. N. Meldrum prepared a worship service conducted by Mrs. George Maybee.

The program on Canada's international development program, started in Centennial year, was presented by Mrs. Arnold Orr and Mrs. Ralph Ellis. They quoted statistics that showed two-thirds of all human beings have an annual income of $250; 8,000 persons die daily from starvation; 250 million persons between age five and 14 have no schooling; two-thirds of all people over 15 neither read nor write.

Canada is working in six areas through the Colombo Plan, Commonwealth Caribbean Assistance Program, Commonwealth Scholarship and Fellowship Plan, African Program, Latin American Program and Emergency Relief (Food for India).

Personal stories of two students on Canadian University Overseas Service emphasized that all youth today has not withdrawn from the world to hippy land.

Members of the Guild were surprised to learn how much Canada is going to aid developing and undeveloped countries.

You are cordially invited to attend the

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING of

THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE AND THE COUNTY OF HASTINGS AND TOWN OF TRENTON

Thursday, the 7th of March 1968

at the

Club Canara, Hambly Street, Belleville, Ontario

8 o'clock in the evening

GUEST SPEAKER:

A. E. BROWN, M.A., Senior Psychologist,

Child Adjustment Services,

Toronto Board of Education

It is said that the large County-wide units of school administration to be introduced at the beginning of the year 1969, will make it possible for all children to enjoy the specialized aids and services now available in the Metropolitan area only. The remarks of Mr. Brown, who is engaged in the field of special education, should be of interest to all.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Corine Musgrove, Secretary — Thomas R. Colden, President.

Successful Living

Acceptance of House Rules Calls for Maturity

Dear Doris: There is a boy who lives 15 miles away. I have a girl cousin who lives in the same town. From what she says he likes me a great deal.

The problem is, whenever I ask Mom whether I can go to my cousin's place, she says no. Then I get real mad and don't know what to do.

Oh, it might help you to know he's about two or three years older than I. I know everything there is to know about the "birds and the bees". — Help Needed

Dear Help: Since you know all about the birds and the bees, you know the risks involved when a girl starts chasing around the country after a particular boy. If I were your mother, that "two or three" years would give me food for thought.

Better show Mom you are grown up enough to accept some rules and regulations gracefully.

For a minute try to imagine there are no rules: You'd neglect homework, music practice, bed-making, without a word being said. Bring home a good report and your Dad merely yawns. A messy room? Leave it that way. Spend two nights away from home. Nobody cares!

Do you really want a no-rules rule?

Dear Doris: My skin has taken on a pale, almost yellowish appearance. It certainly isn't because of lack of exercise and fresh air because I get more than enough of that. I never have had what you would call a rosy complexion, but even so I never have been this pale.

Even when coming in out of the cold, nothing is ever red except my nose. Could it be lacking some vitamin in my diet or what? — Paleface

Dear Paleface: Skin tone reflects physical condition, and that's for sure. A doctor takes a good look at skin, hair, eyes, for a first general impression about health or otherwise.

Many of us do miss out on vitamins and minerals and overdo on the carbohydrates. But check maps of pallid complexions are pale-faces. I'd suggest a medical checkup.

Dear Doris: My youngest teener is very interested in dieting. She eats well, but not overly so. She snacks on fruits and raw carrots and celery. But every once in a while that "ol' debbil sweet-tooth" rears his head and she just has to have a pop or a chocolate bar.

She especially likes sunflower seeds. What is your opinion of these? — A Loyal Reader.

Dear Loyal: Your teen has the right idea — most of the time. The raw foods supply minerals and vitamins. I'd say she is a perfect candidate for the low-cal soft drinks, the diet jams and marmalades, the chocolate bars made with non-calorie sweetener.

The inner edible kernel in a sunflower seed has no more than eight calories. They take a good deal of getting at; might not be too hard for her to ration herself to, say, 12 at one session; and just two sessions a week.

Doris has studied human behavior and can shed light on your dilemma. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Chip Dips For Gourmets

By MARY MOORE

S.O.S. to Readers: for recipe for a cookie calling for Potato Chips. Mrs. Bill M., Mrs. Jean R. and an unnamed reader over-requested this and I "haven't the vaguest." If you have this please write it out carefully and mail it to me in care of this newspaper.

QUESTION: Chip dips seem to be the "in" thing but I find them very expensive and also spicy. Over the Christmas season, I discovered that several friends made their own dips. But I don't know where to start . . . Hilda J.

ANSWER: I am in complete sympathy. What follows are not common types. They are dainty gourmet dips that you can make easily and serve with pride.

AVOCADO APPETIZER

One and one half cups mashed ripe avocado, 2 tablespoons each minced onion, 1 to 2 tsp. juice and chili sauce, dash of pepper, dash of cayenne. Blend well and serve on crackers.

DEVILLED HAM DIP

One 4-oz. pkge. cream cheese, one 3-oz. can deviled ham, 1 tbsp. each grated onion, chopped chives, chopped parsley, 1 clove garlic chopped (optional), ½ tsp. salt, few grains cayenne pepper, ¼ cup whipping cream, paprika. Whip all together except cream. Fold in whipped cream. Sprinkle with paprika. Chill.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Perfect Macaroni and Cheese (see Mon.); Spinach and Julienne Beets; Brussels Sprouts; Celery Hearts; Deep Apple Pie; Whipped Cream; Coffee.

DIPPEDY-DOODLE

One 4-oz. pkge white cream cheese, ½ cup commercial mayonnaise (not salad dressing), ½ pint dairy sour cream, one 4-oz. jar (1/3 pint) onions including their vinegar, 1 pkge. dry onion soup mix, 4 small green onions chopped over so finely. Whip sour cream until fluffy and holding its shape. Cream the cheese well and cream the mayonnaise into it. Fold in whipped sour cream and remaining ingredients. Turn into serving bowl, cover with foil and chill until party time. Lovely served with Italian Bread Sticks.

A SEAWARD ROUTE

"I must go down to the seas again . . . and all I ask is a windy day . . . and the sea-gulls crying." — John Masefield.

* * *

After we tied up" (at Atlantic City) "we set out at once to try to find the Xanadu (from Hamilton) "and James B" (from Belleville). "It was now 10 p.m. . . . and we walked three miles to the State Marina. We found the Xanadu which had been in since 2:30. But there was no sign of the James B. . . . The next morning Clay called the Coast Guard. Before he was finished asking, the C.G. told him that James B had gone back to New York and the people on board were safe and sound. I don't think we've ever been so relieved!" continues Betty Ann Waghorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Page, 37 Dunbar Street, in her account of the voyage to the West Indies with her husband Clay, in their 30-foot sail-boat Yonder II, from Toronto.

The owners of James B paid the Waghornes a surprise visit, driving down in a rented car, to say their boat needed repairs, which meant a delay in their plans. The Xanadu decided to take the open sea route south after all. They sailed on and then continued alone down the International Waterway. "We'd rather go the extra miles than be out on the ocean for 36 hours, 15 miles off the coast!" and the Yonder II continued on to Cape May, New Jersey.

"We left Cape May, went through Cape May Canal, which is about five miles long. This is where we start up Delaware Bay cross the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal and down the Chesapeake Bay, This was a 140 miles.

"The Delaware Bay was rough and caused some delay; The Delaware Canal is like the Queen Elizabeth Way in Toronto! Straight as an arrow and flood lit every 50 feet on each side with street lights. The first half of the Canal is in Delaware and the last half is in Maryland. The whole thing is only 15 miles long.

"Coming along the canal just as the sun was setting we saw hundreds and hundreds of ducks flying over the canal. For as far as you could see in either direction, nothing but ducks, and the noise was just so loud and sounded so nice.

"Today we made a short run down the Chesapeake to the Woron Creek on the east bank about 25 miles from Chesapeake City. We bucked the wind all day todayand went a whole 27 miles.

"The next day we got into Annapolis, Maryland, the home of the American Naval Academy. This afternoon we took a look around Annapolis and were surprised at the size of it, expecting a city of a hundred thousand people. I doubt that there's ten thousand! It certainly is beat - minded though. The town is very nice with a lot of quaint, old buildings."

Upon reaching the Solomons, Maryland, enroute from Annapolis, Betty Ann suddenly became extremely ill from a sea-sickness, and was taken to the hospital. She was put on a stretcher in the ambulance with an oxygen mask over my face. I was wondering why we were going so slow, it felt like about 30 mph. Clay told me later we did 80 all the way to the hospital which was about 24-30 miles away."

Fortunately, after a night for observation in the hospital, Betty Ann was released, and the Waghornes loafed around the village of Solomons for several days. "The people there are so friendly."

"We're in Virginia now," and they mentioned to Fleeton, Va., in a strong wind and we tied up using seven lines and settled down to a night of pitching and rolling.

"Southern hospitality is really great! The owner of the marina came down this morning and took me and Clay to a small store. Then instead of just taking us back to the boat, he insisted that he would show us around Fleeton; a small village with some big, beautiful, old homes. There was no stopping him now. He took us to his home; we met his wife and two children and the boat just had to stay for lunch! After a wonderful meal he showed us around the boat."

The Yonder II met with a little difficulty in the York River when it ran aground. After some delay it arrived in Norfolk, Virginia. "we had a big day," and Betty Ann notes that she is writing on Thursday, November 25, 1967 which is Thanksgiving Day here."

The name of Dismal Swamp offers passing interest to many who may recall it is immortalized in a poem by Thomas Moore (1779-1852) entitled, "The Lake of The Dismal Swamp". While in Norfolk, Moore heard the legend of a crazed lover whose sweetheart had disappeared in the Dismal swamp and was never heard of again. The poem is built on this legend.

The Dismal Swamp was the scene, in the early nineties of the nineteenth century, where another young lover wandered upon receiving a severe setback from his sweetheart. This romantic gesture was nearly disastrous. Fortunately for all mankind a hunting boat was encountered in this then snake infested jungle and so saved his life. He was one of the finest of modern American poets — Robert Lee Frost — who, it may be added, later married the girl — Elinor, the love of his life. This is interestingly revealed in Lawrence Thompson's recent biography of "Robert Frost: The Early Years, 1874-1915." and may be obtained at the Corby Library.

Victorian Horsehair Was Practical Fabric

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Horsehair is considered a Victorian fabric, but it was known in the seventeenth century. Hair from horses was woven with cotton or linen to form a plain, striped, or checkered fabric that was durable and rough. It was made '; the 1660's but became popular in England about 1775 and was often chosen for dining room chairs. The fabric kept its color until the mid-nineteenth century when black horse hair was used to cover English and American Victorian furniture.

The drab Victorian horsehair was used by the practical housewife. It rarely wore out, was dark, and easily kept clean. Horsehair has been considered the most popular Victorian fabric. Antique satins and other fragile and more beautiful materials were used on many fine upholstered pieces.

Q. "Radiant Crystal, Richcut glass, Wheelock" is on a paper label on my cut glass bowl. The label turned over & lock inside a circle. Is the bowl English?

A. No. The C. E. Wheelock and Company of Peoria, Illinois was a distributor of cut glass, and not a manufacturer. It represented several American manufacturers.

The first record of the company is in 1893. Paper labels have been used since 1898. The firm is still in business.

• • •

Q. I have a color print called "Cries of London." I hear there are 13 prints in the series. When were they made?

A. The original "Cries of London" pictures were designed by Francis Wheatley of England. He painted 13 pictures of the city markets of London. The paintings were published as stipple engraved prints by Colnaghi and Company of London from 1793 to 1797. They were either brown or colored prints. Many copies of the original 13 "Cries of London" have been made.

Q. My large pewtled Victorian pin was said to be a "pave" setting on the bill of sale. Can you tell me what that means?

A. Some of the jewelry of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries was made in a unique way. The stones were placed touching one another. They were held in place by beads of metal. This setting is called "pave." Other jewelled brooches had the stones set in prongs or with a collar of metal called a bevel.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Johnny seems to be fascinated by comic books. I never let him have them at home, but he buries himself in them when he finds them at Timmy's house."

The child who is exposed to good children's literature and whose parents enjoy reading will outgrow his liking for comic books as soon as he learns to read with ease.

Don't worry too much about the simple comic books designed for children. Your child enjoys them because it's easy for him to understand the story they tell.

All Kinds of People To Make A World

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: One of the best things about your column is that it presents positive proof — every day — that it takes all kinds of people to make a world.

I refer to the letter from the woman who called her husband a jerk because he was always hocking himself out doing favors for people. It seems she was mad at him because he loaned money, let neighbors borrow his garden tools, fixed things that broke — the list was a long one.

I wish I could trade husbands with her. She would love Harold. He refuses to lend a neighbor a screwdriver. He won't let me drive my cousin to the hospital to see her father because "I am not running a taxi service." I can't befriend a young girl who had a baby out of wedlock because "she made her bed, now let her lie in it."

Harold is a good provider. We have all the necessities and many of the comforts, but he is unable to open his heart and do an act of kindness. How can I raise our children to be generous and considerate with a father who is so selfish and cold? — ICY WINDS.

* * *

DEAR ICY: By being twice as generous and considerate to make up for Harold's unfortunate limitations. Make certain your husband doesn't deny you the right to do the things you want to do. If he doesn't wish to lend a screwdriver to a neighbor that's up to him. But if you want to befriend a young girl who had a baby out of wedlock, (or anyone else, for that matter) that's up to you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to address a few remarks to the college student whose roommate stood on his head a lot and made terrible crashing noises when he fell to the floor. Perhaps he was trying to relieve his thinking process by allowing the blood to circulate through his brain, but he may wreck his spine.

I am a serious student of the Hindu philosophy of Yoga knows that holding a position is only part of the exercise. Getting into and out of a position is of the utmost importance.

Yoga students move with dignity and grace. No exercise is done properly if there is jerking, or falling. All moves must be graceful, as if in slow motion. These slow-motion moves protect the body against injury. So I would suggest that the roommate surround himself with pillows to fall on. Tell him to learn the correct procedure for disengaging from a headstand. — MISSOURI YOGA.

* * *

DEAR MISS: You told him and I hope the kid reads this before he breaks his neck.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my wife answers the telephone and I am at home, she always asks, "Who is this?" I've told her a dozen times it doesn't matter who it is, I will talk to anybody. Some people don't like to be asked "Who is this?" Furthermore, when she asks, it creates the impression that she doesn't trust me.

How can I get it in no more than good manners to identify one's self on the phone and if people are so ignorant that they don't know enough to do this, she sees nothing wrong in asking them.

Thanks for refereeing this one. — HALF GAYNOR.

DEAR HALF: Your wife is right. It is good manners to identify one's self on the phone, but not all people know this, unfortunately.

There's more than one way to skin a cat, however. A caller will respond much more kindly to "May I tell him who is calling, please?" than to "Who is this?"

PCs Plan Strong Debate on Liberals' Agriculture Policies

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal agriculture policies came under sharp attack from the opposition and received a few jabs from a Liberal when the Commons debated agriculture department supplementary spending estimates Friday.

Harold Danforth (PC—Kent), a farmer, said his party will question every aspect of government farm policy before approving the $33,000,000 in additional expenses for the fiscal year ending March 31.

Opposition Leader Stanfield will enter the debate to outline the Conservative farm program, he said.

Ontario and Quebec MPs criticized dairy and vegetable policies. B.C. members complained of poor protection for the fruit industry.

Mr. Danforth said the farming industry was going steadily downhill under the Pearson administration. Canadian farmers had sunk $800,000,000 deeper in debt in the last 10 years.

Last year's protest march on Parliament Hill, tractor demonstrations in Ontario and Quebec, protest meetings, and the closing of creameries, sugar refineries and food-processing plants "on a scale never dreamed possible in Canada" were symptoms of farm troubles.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said the new dairy policy, which cuts off subsidies for small farmers, will create large farms and eventually lead to higher consumer prices because of scarcities.

Mr. Peters called for a revision of succession duties laws to encourage farms to remain as family units. The high price of land often forced a family to sell its farm to meet estate taxes.

Agriculture Minister Greene said quietly as the debate continued. He declined to make an opening statement saying he would answer questions later.

Charles-Arthur Gauthier (Crediliste-Roberval) said a national farm policy is unworkable. Agricultural problems required regional study.

Mr. Gauthier said he could not imagine a dairy policy that "would satisfy one province, let alone the whole country."

David Pugh (PC—Okanagan-Boundary) and Howard Johnston (SC—Okanagan - Revelstoke) both criticized the government for allowing canned peaches, pears and fruit cocktail from Australia to undersell Canadian produce.

Mr. Pugh said the Australian government levies an excise tax on home consumption to subsidize exports. Australian canned peaches sold for less in Toronto than in Australia.

James Byrne (L—Kootenay East) countered that Canada was too big an exporter to criticize imports. But, he added, imports sold with the assistance of subsidies or rebates "should be frowned upon."

Russell Honey (L—Durham) sympathized with the fruit growers' concern, but also stressed Canada must "keep in mind all the ramifications of world trade."

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said farmers would gladly stay on the land if they could be assured incomes similar to what they could earn in the cities.

Warner Jorgenson (PC—Provencher), a Manitoba grain farmer, said he hoped the government would not cry "filibuster" when the opposition took time to point out the farmer's plight.

The debate continues Monday.

Extension of OMSIP Talked Out in House

TORONTO (CP) — A Liberal, front-bencher found support on all sides in the Ontario legislature Friday when he urged the government to include chiropractic and other paramedical services in the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan.

Murray Gaunt (L—Huron — Bruce) said 25 per cent of Ontario's population has made use of chiropractic services at one time or another. He said nine royal commission reports had recommended inclusion of such services in government medical insurance plans. Chiropractic services under the British Columbia medical plan had come to only 3.3 per cent of total costs. He said the figure probably represented only a transfer of costs.

"If a patient is going to a chiropractor it's highly unlikely that he's going to a doctor at the same time."

Mr. Gaunt's resolution, which did not come to a vote and will disappear from the order paper, received support from John Brown (NDP—Toronto Beach es-Woodbine), J. R. Smith (PC—Hamilton-Mountain), Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough), Alex Carruthers (PC—Durham) and Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce).

Health Minister Matthew Dymond said it would not be fair to assume that extension of benefits under OMSIP would include coverage for chiropractors.

In other legislature business:

1. Mines Minister Allan Lawrence said the government is concerned about the impending closure of the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Ltd. at Timmins which employs about 490. He said many of the workers will be relocated in similar work in the area.

2. Education Minister William Davis announced settlement of a dispute at the Ontario College of Art where students and teachers have boycotted classes for two weeks in protest over the dismissal of two art instructors.

3. Attorney-General Wishart said he has no intention of intervening in a move to have mining promoter Viola MacMillan paroled. He said any step on his part would involve interference with the Ontario parole board. Mrs. MacMillan went to jail Jan. 11 to serve a nine-month sentence for manipulating the market in shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow Mines Ltd.

Tweed District News

TWEED — Members of the Mary Schneider Art Club, Toronto, are planning to visit the art school at Actinolite on the weekend of March 8. The members will sketch outdoors and in the studio building of the Schneider School of Fine Arts.

Mrs. Jennie Rogers, Tweed, is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

The second annual winter carnival will be held at Denbigh March 8 and 9 with the proceeds going to aid the Denbigh, Abinger and Ashby townships community centre. The weekend program will begin with a record hop in Denbigh community hall March 8, followed by snowmobile races and a square dance on Saturday.

Howard Hasler, municipal clerk of Kaladar township since 1925, was the recipient of a centennial medal in recognition of his long service to the municipality. During his years in office he missed only one council meeting.

Final figures show a net income of about $1,200 from the Tweed Winter Carnival. Proceeds go to pay the salaries of the staff of the Chamber of Commerce information booth at Tweed jail house and to pay the C. of C.'s share of additional lighting for the main street at Christmas. The C. of C. has also paid any loss in connection with the annual Santa Claus parade.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Emily, have you been using my electric toothbrush to clean the tile again?"

Stanfield Raps Procedure

TORONTO (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Friday procedural changes in Parliament should be planned and not forced into sudden reform "by a parliamentary emergency an a temporary majority."

He told a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club of Toronto that circumstances surrounding the events of the recent parliamentary crisis are unlikely to occur again.

He was referring to the federal government's defeat on a tax measure and the confidence vote last Wednesday that resolved the crisis.

Mr. Stanfield said Wednesday's confidence vote established a precedent which could weaken Parliament's control over future governments.

"How will Parliament control a government now? What can it do if a government consistently denies that the defeat of a measure involves the defeat of the ministry?"

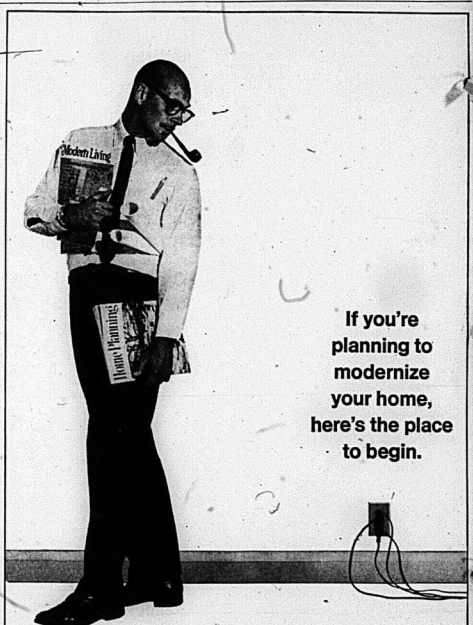
...MULTIPLY YOUR MONEY!

AND LET ROLLINS SHOW YOU HOW . . .

We would like to stress a point for just one more week . . . a point particularly directed to young couples. In today's society it behooves young married people to consider their financial future and security as soon as possible. Unless you number among a fortunate minority you probably haven't much money to invest in various "blue chip" stocks. However, there is one very healthy "blue chip" investment open to you that you can afford — a new home.

When you consider the fact that homes people are buying today for $20,000 and $22,000 were sold a mere 10 years ago for just $14,000 a home certainly is a "blue chip" investment. This rapid return on your money is assured in the future, actually the pace will probably accelerate, and 10 years from now the home you purchase today could easily be worth close to double its initial value.



Here are two more things to keep in mind. New home prices will never be lower than they are now. N.H.A. mortgage rates will never be lower than they are now. Add all these facts up and the answer is simply that you should definitely buy a home now! This applies to other homes as well as Rollins Homes. But, for several reasons, we'd prefer you bought a Rollins Home. One reason is that we can guarantee you a better home for less money than our competition can . . . every time!

If you're planning to modernize your home, here's the place to begin.

Modernizing your home can be a delightful experience. You can turn that dreary dungeon of a basement into a snug den or a bright new family room. Your kitchen can become a pleasant place in which to linger over Sunday morning coffee: Even the family laundry can be less of a chore in a sparkling new laundry room. These, and other home improvements, can do a lot to help make your way of living better than ever. But before you start to modernize, you should take care of one thing first: your household wiring.

If you begin your modernization programme by re-wiring, you'll do much more than improve your home's appearance. Almost everything about your home will suddenly seem better. You'll have all the electrical outlets you need. Your appliances will perform better, and you can add all the new ones you're ever likely to need without the annoyance of overloaded circuits or blown fuses. Re-wiring will let you take advantage of the new ideas in household lighting. With decorative exterior lighting you'll be able to enjoy patio living on pleasant summer evenings. When you have adequate wiring you can add the cool summertime comfort of air conditioning or enjoy the quiet comfort of electric heating in colder weather. Start modernizing your home by re-wiring.

THE HYDRO FINANCE PLAN makes complete Electrical Modernization of your home easy to manage. Call a qualified electrical contractor for details, or ask your Hydro.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Give him a piece of wood, a few sharp knives, a paintbrush and palette and a duck live or color photo'd — and he's in business.

A hobby started some twenty-five years ago has mushroomed into international fame for Charles Duesberry, 133 Albert Street.

And expertise developed over the years has made his name a household one wherever duck hunters gather and international bodies convene.

The 72-year-old carver of wildfowl whose collection is known from coast-to-coast, south of the border and even overseas has been signally honored.

He has been named to a panel of judges which will sit in judgment on wildfowl decoy entries at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show scheduled for Toronto March 8th to March 17th.

On the panel with Mr. Duesberry will be the famous decoy authority collector and author, Mr. William Mackey of New Jersey; Mr. Terry Shortt, wildfowl artist, Royal Ontario Museum and Mr. William Carrick, superintendent of the Kortwright Waterfowl Research Foundation of Guelph.

The magnificent collection of Duesberry wildfowl, a result of years of painstaking research and study and crafted by himself alone, has earned for him the seat with outstanding experts in the field from North America.

His fame as Canada's outstanding carver of wildfowl is known from the Yukon to the Mexican border; from Maine to California and from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

International acclaim stemmed from a television segment show a few years ago, immediately efforts to purchase the Duesberry collection came in from all parts of the continent and as faraway as London, Kingsmith seekers wrote him from the four corners of the country, the north and the United States.

The Duesberry collection is no stranger to Canadian Sportsmen's Shows. It has taken top awards for years — and been the cynosure of the eyes of thousands of sportsmen.

Offers to purchase individual fowl items have poured into the Duesberry home.

"The collection will remain intact," says Duesberry. "It can be bought as a collection but will not be "broken up," so to speak. If it cannot be sold in its entity I will gift it to a museum."

Incidentally the collection will be on exhibit at the Belleville Rotary Club's Hobby Show scheduled for the Armouries March 29 — 30th.

Mr. Duesberry was born with a natural flaly for craftsmanship and color. He has never taken an art lesson yet his "birds" are perfect replicas of his colorful live models. The wizardry of his knives is seen in the also-perfect physical specimens that slowly shape into being in skilful hands.

Some of his "models" were shot by the craftsman. Others came from England, Scotland, the west coast, the central United States, Japan, Florida, New Mexico, Louisiana and Texas.

The collection is the only one extant that includes a complete series of all pond and river non-diving ducks and other wild fowl.

He has made thousands of decoys of all kinds. In earlier days he discovered the "magic touch" that slowly but surely converted a piece of wood into a thing of wildfowl perfection.

Then a beautiful painting of a wild duck released a hitherto undiscovered talent. He experimented with brush and color. "I guess I am a natural-born artist," he says modestly.

"It seemed easy to transfer the colors, shades and artistic highlights to the drab, lamiinate models. As I perfected my artistic ability the birds seemed to glow with a sort of life."

"An admirer once told me that the finished decoy could fool an amorous "live" member of the opposite sex."

Mr. Duesberry will not enter his collection at the Sportsmen's Show in Toronto but will put them on display.

Local and district enthusiasts should not miss seeing the collection at the Rotary Club's Hobby Show.

Orr Ready For Playoffs

"Won't Be Miracle Now" Says Smythe

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There's no panic in Toronto, simply resignation, now it appears the Maple Leafs are almost certain to miss the National Hockey League playoffs for the first time in 10 seasons.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach is an expert at getting the Leafs up for the big ones, but most experts agree even his magic won't be enough this time.

Last year the Leafs went into a 10-game slump late in the season, caught fire under assistant coach King Clancy, and carried that momentum to a fourth Stanley Cup championship under Imlach's reign. Imlach was in hospital during the late season surge.

Now, even club president Stafford Smythe is thinking about next year.

"The only way we're going to get in is for someone else to collapse," Smythe said in a recent interview. "I'm not counting on that.

"When it's all over, we sit down and decide what has to be done. There's no point in talking trades now.

"The only people who would want to deal with us would be Detroit (Red Wings). They're last and we're second-last.

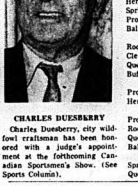
"It would be crazy to think we could trade each other into the playoffs. So we just wait in the meantime.

"There won't be any miracle now."

PUNCH IMLACH

The Leafs trail Boston Bruins by 12 points going into weekend games with any combination of 16 points for Boston or lost to Toronto, eliminating the Leafs and putting the Bruins in the playoffs for the first time in nine years.

Boston management got a shot in the arm Friday with a medical report saying defenceman Bobby Orr should be ready for action by the playoffs. He had the medial cartilage removed from his right knee Feb. 12 and was feared lost for the remainder of the year.



BOBBY ORR

But Philadelphia Flyers got a shock of bad news Friday when the rook of their new home—the $12,000,000 Spectrum—had holes ripped in it for the second time in two weeks by high winds and Mayor James H. J. Tate closed the building until further notice.

They have a game scheduled there Sunday against Oakland Seals and, although nothing had been decided Friday night, it was expected the game would be played in the old Philadelphia Arena.

The Maple Leafs are home to Los Angeles Kings tonight while Montreal Canadiens, Eastern Division leaders, travel to play Minnesota North Stars, Chicago Black Hawks are in St. Louis against the Blues, Oakland is in Pittsburgh against the Penguins and Philadelphia, leaders in the West, are in New York against the Rangers.

Chicago is in New York to try and break a 15-game Sunday home victory streak built by the Rangers while Montreal is in Detroit and St. Louis is in Boston in other Sunday games.

Handgun, Rifle Club Is New Organization

The Belleville Handgun and Rifle Club is a brand new organization formed by marksmen of the city.

It is not, as was reported, a re-organization of the former Handgun body.

It elected its own slate of officers and will operate under its own constitution.

It is at present conducting its activities on the Belleville Police Range. Plans are under way for summer activities.

Aces Blank Woodstock 8-0

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros and Collingwood Kings did it the hard way while Kingston Aces used an easier method Friday night when they recorded victories in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A playoff games.

A goal by Carl Hymers at 6:29 of the second, sudden-death overtime period gave the Marlboros a 5-4 win over Barrie Flyers. Collingwood edged Guelph Regals 4-3 in a contest featuring a spirited brawl and Kingston coasted to an 8-0 win over Woodstock Aicans.

The quarter-final victory enabled the Marlboros to oust Barrie 4-0 in their best-of-seven series. Kingston leads Woodstock 2-1 and Collingwood tops Guelph 3-0.

Hymers scored the winning goal for the Marlboros on a 30-foot shot after stealing the puck from Barrie defenceman John Weeks.

Marlboros forced the overtime when centre Gary Milroy scored his third goal of the game with less than four minutes to play in the third period. The other Toronto goal went to Bob Ferhan.

Scoring for Barrie were Don Gibson, Corky Adams, Dave Nicholson and Ron Rochon.

Kingston scored two goals in the first period, two in the second and four in the third in humiliating Woodstock.

Rod Graham led Kingston with two goals. Other marksmen were Bob Collins, Garfield Bell, Jim Gebhardt, Bob Brown, Syl Apps Jr., and Eddie Long.

Dave McCourt paced Collingwood with two goals. Single tallies came from Clare Alexander and Fern St. Onge.

Pat Bester, Bob Erlel and John McMillan scored for Guelph.

Referee Gord Favero handed out 13 majors penalties, two misconducts, one match misconduct and a minor for a total of 100 minutes in penalties following the second-period brawl that started when Guelph goalie Brad Hurley and Jim Kings' Don Keith exchanged high sticks.

Derby Hopefuls

"Vitriolic" Heads List!

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A near-record 191 three-year-olds are eligible for the 94th Kentucky Derby on May 4, with 1967 juvenile champion Vitriolic headlining the cast.

Owner Ogden Phipps hopes that Vitriolic, now ailing, could prove a third-time charm in bringing his stable its first Derby victory.

Vitriolic was rated the best sophomore prospect in the Experimental Free Handicap, but so were his stablemates, Buckpasser and Successor, in 1966 and 1967.

Buckpasser never made it to the Derby starting gate, and Successor finished a dismal sixth last year. Phipps' best effort in the 1¼-mile Derby came in 1964 when Dapper Dan finished second.

Vitriolic was rested during the winter and made an inflammatory debut in an allowance race in Florida early this month.

But the son of Bold Ruler developed leg trouble that forced him out of today's Flamingo, and there isn't another clear cut favorite in sight for the $125,000 added Derby.

The 191 nominees become the largest number eligible since 196 of 1928 when a record 22 actually started in America's foremost horse race.

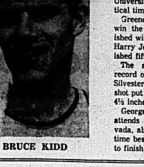
From Russian With Shove; Yank Sets Three-Mil e World Record

TORONTO (CP) — Tracy Smith, a U.S. Army private, credited a Russian runner with pushing him to a world record in the three-mile event of the Telegram-Maple Leaf Indoor Games Friday night.

"He was great and I owe him a lot of credit," Smith said in referring to Nikilay Sviridov, who forced him to the unofficial world indoor record of 13 minutes and 15.2 seconds.



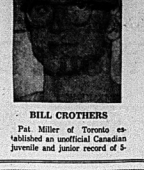
The race was the highlight of the four-hour meet that also saw Willie Davenport of the U.S. equal the unofficial world indoor record of 5.9 seconds in the men's 50-yard hurdles.

Two Canadian open records were also equalled, a pair of Canadian women's juvenile and junior records established and a Canadian men's junior record set in the high jump.

But the three-mile race, near the end of the program, brought the entire crowd of 12,901 to its feet as it cheered the U.S. track star to better his own record of 13:16.2 established last year in Oakland, Calif.

Smith held an early lead, but Kerry Pearce of Australia took over after the first mile only to give it up to Sviridov after a few laps on the 160-yard board track.

Smith charged to the lead with 10 laps remaining and, while Pearce faded dismally and finished third, the Russian continued the chase and finished in 13:21.2.



BRUCE KIDD

Charles Greene of Nebraska equalled the Canadian open record of 5.2 seconds in the first heat of the 50-yard dash, while Willie Turner of Oregon State University was clocked in identical time in the second heat.

Greene duplicated the time to win the final, but Turner finished with a dismal 5.4 seconds. Harry Jerome of Vancouver finished fifth.

The second Canadian open record of the night went to Jay Silvester of Utah, who won the shot put with a heave of 64 feet, 4½ inches—the best of his life.

George Puce of Toronto, who attends the University of Nevada, also wound up with a lifetime best of 64 feet, four inches to finish second.

BILL CROTHERS

Pat Miller of Toronto established an unofficial Canadian juvenile and junior record of 5-feet-4 in the women's high jump, while Cheryl Somers of Winnipeg established a Canadian juvenile and junior mark in the women's 880-yard race with a time of 2:16.2.

Will Wedmann of Vancouver jumped 6-feet-6 to establish a Canadian junior record in the men's high jump, and the other record-equalling performance of the night went to Wyonia Tyus of Tennessee, who matched the Canadian open record of 25.9 seconds in the women's 300-yard race.

Miss Tyus was the only double winner of the night, winning the women's 50-yard dash in 5.8 seconds.

Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., won the 1,000-yard race in 2:10.9 and was called the "best runner in the world over the distance," by Jerry Thompson of Oregon State, who finished third.

The biggest disappointment of the night came during the Canadian one-mile event, won by Jim Irons of Toronto in 4:18.6.

Bruce Kidd of Toronto, making his first appearance in organized competition since retiring to correct injured ankles in 1965, finished dead last after showing a brief glimpse of his old self.

Kidd had sprinted into the lead about the halfway mark, but faded and walked over the finish line.

Dave Bailey of Toronto, the only Canadian to run a sub four-minute mile, won the open mile race in 4:05.2.

Series All Even

Oil Kings Whip Kingston 9-3

The Bellevile Oil Kings squared their OHA Intermediate "A" playoffs series with Kingston Merchants here last night defeating them 9-3 in a penalty - riddled push-and-shove battle.

The third game of the best-of-seven series is slated for Kingston next Friday night with the fourth scheduled for Memorial Arena Sunday, March 10 at 1:30.

"They boys were really up for this one," said Coach Bill Trendell "and easily avenged that 9-3 defeat they gave us in the first game." The series stands at one game each.

Twenty-four penalties were handed out by Referee Al Brewer two of them misconducts to Driscoll and Landon of the Merchants. The Oil Kings drew 14 sentences all minors.

The Oil Kings grabbed a 2-1 lead in the first period and never looked backward. They rammed home six unanswered goals in the second period to tuck away the win and scored the other in the third period against two scored by the Merchants.

The teams mixed it up throughout the game especially in the third period when ten minors and a misconduct saw a parade to the penalty box.

Bill Moxon in the Oil Kings nets kicked out 31 Kingston drives, Niels at the other end stopping 22. The Merchants outshot the Kings 34-31.

The Kings Pug Kellar packed the victory with three goals and an assist. Hyrle Bryant scoring twice with two assists.

Harold Townsend of the Junior "B's" was another standout for the Kings scoring twice and getting an assist.

Chuck Rowbotham had a goal and two helpers with Mike Sherrard also scoring. Gary Reid had three assists, Carl Boomhower and Jerry Jones one each.

Leo Lavallee, L. Colligan and Will Travis scored for the Merchants with Gerry Lavallee drawing two assists and Colligan one.

The Oil Kings caught fire in the second period firing home their six goals in less than 17 minutes.

Kingston's third goal came with 30 seconds to play.

An estimated crowd of between 250 and 300 fans were in attendance.

The teams:

Oil Kings — Moxon, goal; Malone, Semark, Kellar, Bryant, Jones, Boomsbower, Reid, Rowbotham, Townsend, Woodcock, Trendell, Sherrard, Dove, Moore.

Kingston — Nichols, goal; Stewart, Sullivan, Driscoll, Landon, Travis, L. Lavallee, Stinson, Colligan, Bruce, Row, Clarcy, Murphy, G. Lavallee, O'Donnell.

KITCHENER Rangers and Montreal Junior Canadiens seem determined that the battle for first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series this season should be a memorable one.

Both the Rangers and the Canadiens picked up victories Friday night, leaving Kitchener with a one-point margin over Montreal. Both teams have four games left.

Kitchener walloped Peterborough Peter 6-2 while the Canadiens trounced Niagara Falls Flyers 7-2.

In the only other game, the last-place Ottawa 67s upset London Nationals 3-0 record their first shutout of the season.

University of Windsor won its Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association basketball tournament semi-final Friday night, defeating Queen's University 76-51.

The defending champion Lancers will meet the University of Western Ontario Mustangs in tonight's championship game.

The Mustangs defeated the University of Waterloo Warriors 75-57 in the other semi-final Friday night.

Windsor led Queen's 39-25 at halftime. Forward Chris Wydrzynski paced Windsor with 15 points. Top scorer for the game was Queen's guard Ron Walsh with 17.

In the Western-Waterloo game, Western was ahead 33-26 at halftime. Marnie Heersink of Western paced the scorers with 18 points, three more than Waterloo's Bryan Brown.

Frazier, Griffith Rated Favorites!

NEW YORK (AP) — With most of the fans buzzing over the Joe Frazier-Buster Mathis heavyweight fight, the middleweight title fight between champion Emile Griffith and Nino Benvenuti on the same card Monday night has almost been relegated to the preliminary class.

"Some preliminary," Howie Albert, co-manager of Griffith said today. "For the kind of money Emile is getting it could be the most expensive preliminary in history."

Griffith is getting $175,000 and Benvenuti $80,000 for their third middleweight title fight in Madison Square Garden. It will on at 9:30 p.m. EST, and will be followed by the battle of the unbeatens for New York, Massachusetts, Maine and Illinois recognition as world heavyweight champion. Both fights are scheduled for 15 rounds.

Frazier's purse is $175,000 and Mathis' $75,000 for a total of $505,000 for the four featured fighters in the first fight show in the new Madison Square Garden.

Garden officials wanted to open with a spectacular show and they've got one in the title doubleheader.

They charged from $10 to $100 in an attempt to cover the financial nut. The lower-priced seats went fast, but there has been resistance to the $75 and $100 tickets. Plenty of them are available, said Harry Markson, the Garden's director of boxing. Markson said he expected a crowd of 17,500 to pay upwards of $500,000.

The receipts to the promotion will be boosted considerably by closed circuit telecast to theatres and arenas in more than 70 cities. There also will be telecasts to Canada, Mexico, Italy and Puerto Rico.

Frazier and Griffith, sharing the same quarters at Klamesha Lake, N.Y., have been impressive in workouts while Mathis and Benvenuti have been only fair at best.

Workouts are not always the best way of evaluating a fight's outcome, but Frazier and Griffith have held firmly as the betting favorites. Frazier is a 2-to-1 choice while Griffith is 2 to 5 over Benvenuti.

Frank Robinson "Insulted"

"What's That, Only $100,000?"

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The temperature is in the 40s, Frank Robinson says his own contract demands are ridiculous and Ted Savage lost a fight with the pitching machine.

Other than that, spring training is just routine.

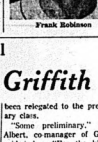
Just about all the baseball camps in Florida had to curtail outdoor workouts Friday because of the cold wave that Chicago White Sox manager Eddie Stanky calls the worst in 25 years.

The most important action so far this spring has been taking place indoors anyhow—on the long distance telephone.

Baltimore Orioles, for instance, have been on the phone to Los Angeles, home of Frank Robinson, who is insulted with the club's offer of only $100,000.

Robinson, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1966 when the Orioles won the pennant, was surprised at being offered the same salary he was paid last year when he hit .311 and had 30 homers and 94 runs batted in. He countered with a figure of $150,000.

"If they can be ridiculous," he said, "so can I."



At last report, the parties still were officially $20,000 apart, although Robinson intimates he'd sign for $115,000, $10,000 more than the Orioles are offering.

In Arizona, where the temperature is a little closer to what it should be, strange happenings are taking place on the diamond.

Ted Savage of Chicago Cubs didn't like the speed of the pitches the machine was serving up and he went out to the mound to adjust it. The thing fell on him and it took four stitches to close up the gash between his right thumb and index finger.

The Orioles have other important holdouts besides Robinson. Infielder Dave Johnson and outfielder Curt Blefary still are not satisfied with the contracts offered them.

Ski Meet Delayed

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP) — Nancy Greene and Canada's national ski team got an unexpected chance to relax Friday when their arrival here for the Canadian senior ski championships was delayed by a luggage mixup at Toronto International Airport.

After a hectic four days of receptions following their arrival in Canada from the Winter Olympics in Grenoble, the team had planned to spend Friday afternoon on the slopes of Blue Mountain, site of the competition today and Sunday.

However, they arrived here in mid-afternoon after a delay in locating their equipment at the airport.

Stampeders Sign Evanshen

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders announced Friday that split end Terry Evanshen has signed with the Western Football Conference club for the next season.

Evanshen, who enters his third year of play with Stampeders, was voted the most outstanding Canadian player in the Canadian Football League last season.

Evanshen is the CFL record holder for pass receptions. Last season he grabbed 96 tosses for 1,662 yards.

Mixed Curling

Three Rinks Eye Title

BRANTFORD (CP) — Three rinks were in contention for the championship when the eight-rink, round-robin southern Ontario mixed curling championship entered its final two rounds today.

Tied for top spot with records of 4-1 were Vince Lebano's Orillia rink, Gordon Hawkshaw's Oshawa foursome and Peter Conzell's Arnprior entry.

Hawkshaw had his work cut out for him Saturday meeting Lebano and then Connell. Connell was scheduled to face Galt, in a first-round match and Lebano was to meet Galt in a second round contest.

Lebano and Hawkshaw shared the lead with four wins each before dropping fifth-round matches Friday. Syd Smithers' Galt foursome nipped Hakshaw 7-6 and Connell trounced Lebano 11-3.

In fourth-round activity, Lebano topped Toronto Leaside 8-7 while Hawkshaw topped Woodstock 8-7. Connell beat Napanee 7-3.

Shatter SA Records

BLOEMFONTEIN, (CP) — Canadians won three events, and two of them broke national records, in the South African national swimming championships Friday.

The records were broken by Jeanne Warren of Vancouver, who won the 400-metre individual medley, and Marion Lay, a Canadian living in Los Angeles, who won the 100-metre free style.

Elaine Tanner of Winnipeg and Vancouver easily won the 200-metre backstroke to increase her number of individual victories to four and the Canadian team's total to 11.

Miss Tanner's time Friday was one minute 2.9 seconds.

World champion Karen Muir of South Africa did not compete in the backstroke because of an arm muscle injury.

Blake, Provost Charged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and one of his players, Claude Provost, face a complaint charging assault with a deadly weapon when they arrive here next week.

The action arises from an altercation with a spectator when the Canadiens lost to Los Angeles Kings 4-2 Nov. 19 last.

Bernie Weisman of Los Angeles filed the complaint Nov. 24, charging that the Canadiens "assaulted him with hockey sticks and he suffered head lacerations. Warrants have been issued.

Next Tuesday will be the first time the Canadiens will have faced the Kings here since the incident.

Rotary Club Donates Equipment

There are as many aspects to community service as there are individuals able and willing to play the role.

Belleville Rotarians found another outlet for able willingness only this week.

They presented a $6,500 cheque to Belleville General Hospital board chairman Harleigh Hamilton.

The subscription is for a new physiotherapy bath specifically designed for easy handling of patients.

Known as the Hubbard tank, it is a full immersion unit featuring a hydraulic device which enables treatment of bedridden patients.

One person cano handle the patient stretcher or wheelchair and into the pool for exercises.

The versatile engineering of the equipment allows treatment in a horizontal position. It can also be tilted, allowing only parts of the body to be treated where necessary.

The tank imparts the benefits of heat and massage, permitting pain relief and relaxation of muscles.

It is useful in the treatment of chronic traumatic conditions and such physical disabilities as joint stiffness, painful scars, arthritis and neuritis.

The Hubbard design also allows a patient to stand in water to a maximum depth with the simple removal of a grating.

The benefits of such treatment, of course, are not confined to adults.

Children also "will gain immense benefit" from the new facility, a hospital spokesman emphasizes.

This particularly applies to youngsters suffering from various conditions involving muscle-wasting and lack of co-ordination.

Underwater movement often is the only way to relate the concept of movement with relaxation, an official says.

This is an idea normally foreign to these children. However, it is an ostential prelude to any treatment.

The Rotary gift was presented the hospital by club president James Marker.

Unique feature of this new immersion unit at Belleville General Hospital, is hydraulic lift. The device means a bed-ridden patient can be handled by one person. Tank is prime therapy equipment and is important for children as well as adult patients.

Canadian Gold Stocks Boom

By FRITS ROOS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Golds boomed on Canada's stock exchanges this week as buying came into the issues from the United States.

The surge started Thursday, on reports of a rush on gold bullion in Europe, renewing fears for devaluation of the British pound and the U.S. dollar.

The advance continued through Friday but slowed a little in profit taking.

The buying boosted the Toronto gold index close to the record level set in 1937.

Dome Mines was the favorite, as it surged 9¼ to 84¼ on sales of 23,000 shares. At one point it sold as high as 87¾, a record for the issue.

Campbell Red Lake was up 5 to 38¾ and Giant Yellowknife, which traded 172,000 shares, ½ to 12⅞.

Much of the attention went to the smaller gold issues. They now are catching up with the four-month-long boom in the senior producers.

Camflo jumped 95 cents to 6.15, Aunor 60 cents to 4.05 and Upper Canada 35 cents to 2.10.

Wright-Hargreaves, which closed its Timmins gold mine in 1966 to concentrate on exploration, jumped 97 cents to 3.05 as 65,000 shares changed hands.

Brokers said that, except for the speculative prospect of a devaluation of the dollar, all gold stocks are overpriced.

Oils, particularly susceptible to price fluctiom on Wall Street, and pulp and paper issues paced the decline in other sections of the market.

Husky Oil and Central-Del Rio dropped 1¾ each to 19¾ and 10¾, United Canso 60 cents to 4.20 and Scurry-Rainbow 2 points to 36.

At Montreal, British-American fell 2⅛ to 38¾, Imperial 1⅛ to 63¼ and Texaco 1 point to 27½.

Among the sluggish pulp and paper issues, Consolidated Bathurst declined 2 to 16⅝ following the announcement that the regular 30-cent quarterly dividend was cut to 25 cents.

Fraser Companies closed at 19¼, also down 2 points, as it omitted its third consecutive quarterly dividend.

Among base metals, Campbell Chibougamau, a copper producer, advanced 1.15 to 9.35 and Northgate 1¾ to 12¼. Denison was off 2 to 47. Hudson Bay was up 2 to 58 at Montreal.

Most active issue at Toronto was New Senator, which rose 8½ to 54 cents as 1,618,000 to 114 shares traded.

On index, Toronto's industrial index fell 2.70 to 149.69 and oils 9.07 to 180.61. Golds zoomed 20.75 to 247.00 after touching a 31-year high of 248.24. Base metals picked up .93 to 100.64.

Volume was 17,505,000 shares compared with 11,881,000 the previous week. Declines outnumbered advances 382 to 311.

Montreal's composite index declined 2.61 to 145.10. Volume was 6,320,000 shares compared with 4,783,000 the previous week. Declines led advances 184 to 114.

Now more people than ever follow the SUN for LIFE

James A. Barnett, C.L.U.

Again in 1967, Sun Life's ideas for insurance protection, savings and investment funds have been enthusiastically received by individuals, families, groups and businesses, as figures below show.

In 1968, new dividend scales will result in increased dividends to individual policyholders, and these dividends will reduce the outlay for a participating policy or increase the savings and protection.

THANKS TO BELLEVILLE'S ROTARY CLUB...

... the Belleville General Hospital will now have a "Hubbard Tank". Seen in this picture is Mr. Jim Marker, President of the Belleville Rotary Club, presenting a cheque for $6,500.00 to Mr. Harleigh Hamilton, Chairman of the Hospital Board, and Mr. Philip Rickard, Administrator of the Hospital. This presentation represents the largest donation of its kind to the Hospital.

The "Hubbard Tank" represents a considerable advance in the Hospital's capacity for therapeutic treatment. The tank's scientifically controlled swirling warm water is used for heat treatments prior to stretching exercises; underwater exercises for the child who has had a cast removed; the cleansing of open areas and a multitude of other therapeutic purposes.

The Hospital is extremely grateful to the Rotary Club for their generosity and joins with the rest of the citizens of Belleville in their hopes that donations of this nature – to the Hospital Building Expansion Fund – will continue to be a regular part of the Community's charitable project. The Hospital's new wing is scheduled to open in September 1968.

Employment News

By J. R. STAVELEY,
Manpower Counsellor

The highlight of the past week was the official announcement that the Allied Chemical Company Ltd. had selected Belleville as its location for the construction of a $2 million plant to be completed during this year, with an initial plant labor force of 40 workers.

It is a recognized fact that a decreased activity in construction, together with its related fields, seriously affects the economy and in the winter months adds to the condition accounts for a large proportion of the seasonally unemployed workers.

The prospects of a marked increase in construction in the community in the immediate months ahead look bright. There is a good back-log of planned or contracted work in the following construction fields: highway improvement and new bridges, educational and recreational centres, residential and retail buildings, municipal projects and the above new industry.

This construction activity will provide much needed local employment opportunities for persons seeking work in the construction field.

There was only a limited number of additional workers required by local employers during the past week with the opportunities much less for the female worker. It was noted that although there were some vacancies for administrative, professional and skilled tradesmen personnel, the present demand for the unskilled and semi-skilled workers was especially weak.

In recent years, the Quinte area has been engaged in a very active up-grading and retraining program, now known as occupational training f o r adults, which is operated under the direction of E. J. Buckley, area co-ordinator of the Ontario Manpower Retraining Program. It is interesting to note that on Thursday, this year's welding and drafting course students travelled to Toronto, to the Frankel Structural Steel Co. plant, to see for themselves what modern industry demands of the skilled workers, with special emphasis on the occupations for which they are now undergoing training. All concerned cannot help but gain from this type of co-operation.

In the female division local by an industrial plant has open an attractive secretarial position calling for a university undergraduate who has taken sociology and who possesses some personnel experience in industry or in other work areas. Further, a limited number of qualified typists are required at the United Nations typing pool in New York City. Men who are qualified typists can also apply for these positions. Other vacant positions call for an experienced salesperson, a practical nurse, waitresses, experienced kitchen help and a capable housekeeper to live-in for a family there in a dearth of registered nurses.

In the male division, local retail firms are now seeking the services of chemical engineers, an electrical engineer, a tool and die maker, a qualified 4-pc. bathrom; large kitchen and living room with hot and cold water in kitchen. Terms arranged.

To Your Good Health

Pill-aided Study Unlikely to Help

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss the "stay-awake" pills taken by college students. Do they really help, or are they harmful and habit-forming? — T. C.

Well, they'll keep people from getting to sleep, but there is a question whether this pill-induced wakefulness leaves people in the best condition to learn and understand.

Some of the pills can be dangerous.

My advice is to depend on nothing stronger than coffee to stay awake.

Just about all the accomplished teachers I know say that those late-at-night cramming sessions for exams really don't do much good anyway. If a student hasn't learned his subject during the regular term, he can't do much to help himself by staying up all night before the finals. Efficiency can be greatly reduced by such forced wakefulness. Sometimes he's so groggy at exam time that he'll have done better by getting a decent night's sleep instead.

Dear Dr. Molner: I understand that some "health" diets advocate taking a spoonful or two of oil every day, perhaps vegetable or mineral oil, as a health aid. I thought our American diet was too rich in oil as it is. However, my informant (not an MD) was pretty definite about taking it along with other foods. Are there cases in which it is helpful? — M. H.

Nothing's sure except that we will always have death, taxes, and health food nuts. The latter group tends to be much higher than necessary in fats and oils, and unless a person is like Ina (an unusual circumstance) there would be no point in vegetable oils. As to mineral oil, that isn't absorbed, hence adds nothing to nutrition and it has the undesired and carrying away Vitamin A, deplete our supply of that.

For your second ride that diet hobby; just stick to a well-balanced general and forget "health food" fads.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a friend who has heart attacks and has difficulty reading without a magnifying glass. A friend of hers recently told her she should not use the magnifier because she has diabetes, so she is now afraid to use it.

She also says she has good days and bad days as to her ability to see. Do you think the glass could harm her? — M. H.

She should use the magnifier all she pleases, because it will not harm her.

The diabetes is possibly a contributing factor to development of the cataracts but that has nothing to do with eye glasses.

It is well known, by the way, that virtually all of persons with diabetes can fluctuate, depending on whether at the moment the patient's blood sugar is high or low.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was troubled with varicose veins for years until they became extremely painful. Then I was removed. My doctor told me most folks do not follow his rules for long.

So I started, first around the block, then another block. It has been 12 years since the operation and now I walk about 3 miles a day, rain or shine. I have friends and others who have had the same operation and they are complaining of the aches and pains in their legs. One lives at the end of the block but he always drives to my house.

So tell them to walk. I am 73 now. — I. C. H.

It's wonderful people to walk. So has your doctor. Maybe it will do more good now that you've told 'em.

Broadway Show Comes To City

Nothing eludes easy explanation more than success in theatre.

Bellevillians may well ponder the reasons between acts of Stop The World I Want To Get Off — playing Centennial Secondary School next Thursday.

The first Broadway road show to hit the Quinte area in years, it's been playing crowds ever since its stunning first - night success seven years ago.

The one night made the musical a must for modern audiences — and assured the fortunes of its star - creator Anthony Newley.

And the whole success story stems from a flippant remark!

It all goes back to 1961 when London Bernard Delfont, producer was dickering with Newley over some summer stock productions.

The negotiations broke and Delfont asked Newley what he would accept.

"A one - man revue with ten girls," said the actor.

He was kidding, but Delfont wasn't.

"Bring me a show like that and I'll put it on," he retorted.

Newley was fired with the idea — but there was one drawback: He had no previous writing experience.

He zoomed in on stage writer Leslie Bricusse, then en-route to New York on assignment.

Newley went with him and, working in the afternoons, the two men created a show tailored to the original inspiration.

Newley went back to London — and Delfont — with the book and songs.

With Newley as the one man, the entertainment opened in London in July 1961.

That year Stop The World I Want To Get Off took the critics, scored for best production, its hit song "Whos Kind of Foot Am I", also was a top award winner.

It opened on Broadway the following year, playing 356 performances before going on tour.

It's still on the road, unique as ever — as Belleville theatregoers may judge next Thursday.

The role Newley co-created for himself will be taken by show business veteran Jackie Warner.

The Hi-C group enjoyed a skating party at the farm of Mac Lister, Tuesday evening.

Scouts and Cubs will conduct the church service Feb. 25.

EARLY BEGINNING

Phosphate mining began in 1906 in the Pacific island of Nauru.

Now the Mini-hovercraft

A British company has introduced what it claims is the world's first toy hovercraft. Called the Midget, it can hover three inches above the ground and has a maximum speed of seven miles per hour. Powered by a gasoline engine the amount of lift and speed required is controlled by a hand-throttle set in the glass-fibre body.

Top Teams Win In Western

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The two top teams in the Western Hockey League made things difficult for the lower clubs Friday night.

League-leading Portland Buckaroos defeated last-place Vancouver Canucks 6-4 before 8,356 Vancouver fans. Second-place Seattle edged fourth-place Phoenix 3-1 before 5,939 fans in Seattle.

The Canucks saw a 4-1 second period lead fade into defeat as Buckaroos scored five unanswered goals in the final period.

Wicks Nixed By Ref.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dave Creighton took the butt end of two decisions with referee Ron Wicks in an American Hockey League game Friday night.

The 19-year pro, now player-coach of Providence Reds, alleged an offside play gave Rochester Americans their first goal of the game.

He told Wicks so and was rewarded with a 10-minute misconduct. When the game was over and the Reds were blanked 6-0, Creighton was still worked up and charged Wicks again on his way to the dressing room.

This earned him a game misconduct.

Argentine Grabs Golf Lead

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) — Argentine Florentino Molina surged past faltering American Art Wall with a two-under-par 70 Friday and took the second-round lead in the Maracaibo open golf tourney with a 137.

Wall, who had a sparkling first-round 65, blew to a 74 for 139 and a three-way tie for second with Americans Rocky Thompson and Bob McAllister.

Thompson had the day's best round, a 69, and McAllister came in with a 71. Stan Homenuik of Winnipeg has a 72-70—142.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Blue Way, driven by Brad Farrington, won the $5,000 feature mile trot Friday night before more than 6,000 fans at Windsor Raceway.

Owned by Farrington Stables, Richwood, Ohio, and the Arnold Cattle Co. of Geneseo, Ill., the six-year-old mare was a 14-to-1 longshot to win the race.

Stygger Johnson and Eclipse C finished one-two in the second race for a $92.40 daily double. The fifth race quinella paid $83.10.

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Desbryn Adios, owned by Richard A. Kurtzworth of East Aurora, N.Y., led all the way in winning the featured claiming handicap race for $1,500 at Batavia Downs Friday night. The win price was $4.80 for the 2:10 2-5 effort.

Kawartha Star, owned by the Mehlenbacher Stables of Hagersville, finished second with Hollys Harry in the show position.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): What you thought was the past rises like the symbolic Phoenix. Persons you thought were out of your life could reappear. Utilize intuitive intellect. Follow through on hunch.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Take special care during any short journey. Avoid excessive speed. Finish one thing at a time. Don't try to be everywhere at once. Ideas are plentiful; choose quality.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Vigorous action occurs in connection with what you own, offer. Some feel they must put you to test. If you are prepared, you succeed. Family co-operation is essential.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): You are drawn between desire to change and move and need to stay and complete. Take latter course. Don't give up something for nothing. Permit common sense to prevail.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Receive visitors with enthusiasm. Especially relatives. Achieve balance. Express appreciation for past favors. Accent peace rather than strife. You win through diplomacy.

If today is your birthday . . . social life due to intensify—you make valuable contacts, some of which lead to travel and exciting vacation.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Taurus. Special word to Sagittarius: some who are close to you appear confused. Be patient.

For March 4

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Member of opposite sex could provide you with money-making ideas. Key is to be selective, choosy. Highlight quality. Spotlight on possessions, income potential.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Use high energy, lunar position signifies favorable cycle. Take initiative. Make contacts. Be a self-starter. Shake off tendency to be stubborn. Some changes spell profit.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Court, legal matters command attention. Check subtle indications. Read between the lines. Be wary of those who spread rumors. Someone may try to deceive. Don't be a victim.

CANCER (June 21 —July 22): Responsibility toward friends is indicated. Means plainly that some past promises catch up. Be mature. If you can't fulfill commitments, don't bluff, cajole or deceive.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Opposition could boomerang in your favor. Your appeal spreads to wider area. You finish and begin, end and renew. Day features contradictions which affect career and prestige.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Spt. 22): High light today on travel, change, chance to make interesting contacts. The more fascinating you are, the more others show their best sides. Progress today is two-way street.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Money handled by mate, partner dominates much attention. Hunch proves accurate. Share and teach. The more you give, the more you receive. Help the weak — and you become strong.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Accent on partnership, marriage, legal procedures and agreements. Check various angles, methods. Key is versatility. One at a distance gives valuable hint through call, letter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Whether you like it or not, today there are details, basic chores which dominate. Accept, be persistent. Then what appeared unpleasant actually creates glow of satisfaction.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Give attention to children, accent creative efforts. Changes are necessary. Don't resist progress. Personal magnetism rating up. Your sales ability results in honor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Your will power could be put to test. Find what you want — then stand tall. Include family members in any decision. If one close to you is happy, you will be, too.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Journey today may result in something entirely different from expectations. Realize this. Take time to be analytical. Much is occurring behind the scenes.

If today is your birthday . . . you are sensitive, possess much intuitive intellect, are capable of discerning true feelings of others. Expect some financial pressure — but realize reward for efforts is also due.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Taurus, Gemini, Cancer. Special word to Capricorn: You can manipulate changes to your own benefit.

Exiles Tried To Hijack 26 de Julio

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Exiles sailing from Florida in two boats tried to hijack the Cuban cattle ship 26 de Julio but the attempt apparenly was prevented by U.S. government agents, a militant exile leader said Friday.

Dr. Orlando Bosch said one of two boatrides was intercepted by American authorities and her four passengers jailed at Miami.

Bosch said he didn't know if the other boat made contact with the Cuban ship, but had received word that the 26 de Julio arrived at Havana Thursday night. It had sailed from Quebec.

The same ship rammed one of its own lifeboats off the Virginia coast Tuesday when three men tried to escape to political asylum in the United States.

Havana radio has made no mention of any attack on the 26 de Julio but Miami complained that U.S. Coast Guard vessels made "a war like manoeuvres" as the ship rammed its lifeboat. The coast guard did not intervene.

Allied Air Bases Shelled by Viet Cong

SAIGON (CP) — Communist forces sent hundreds of rockets and mortar shells slamming into six Southern allied air bases, two U.S. command posts and at least four other installations today as the heaviest series of shellings in more than two weeks.

U.S. troops reported killing nearly 200 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in a series of battles in the northern sector of South Vietnam Sunday but other American forces suffered heavy losses in an ambush near Saigon.

The U.S. command said a force of 200 Viet Cong killed 48 Americans, most of them in the first eight minutes of a machine-gun attack, only five miles from the Saigon headquarters of the U.S. commander, Gen. William Westmoreland.

The Viet Cong shelled the town of Duc Duc, 345 miles northeast of Saigon, before dawn today, killing 20 civilians, wounding 80 and burning 100 homes. Fourteen more civilians were killed when a small bus hit a mine about 40 miles east of Saigon.

Five patients and two orderlies were wounded when Viet Cong rockets struck a hospital at a U.S. Air Base near Da Nang.

A Shell Oil Co. depot also was set ablaze and two South Vietnamese provincial towns struck in a series of attacks.

First reports of the raids throughout South Vietnam described casualties as "light." But one tank of the oil depot at Nha Be, five miles southeast of Saigon, was reported still burning at dawn today, several hours after the attack.

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Two Peterborough nurses, Mrs. Muriel Jean Innes, 49, and Mrs. Joan Sanders, 31, a mother of five, were killed Saturday in a two-car collision near Bowmanville.

Sterling Is Weak

"That's him! That's the man that took my 5% tax in January!"

LONDON (Reuters) — The British pound today fell below its official par of $2.40 U.S. for the first time since its devaluation in November.

Its price on the London Foreign Exchange market plunged at one stage to $2.39 82-100ths against a Friday night close of $2.40 6-100ths.

In Canadian funds, the pound is worth about $2.60.

Dealers described the currency's undertone as extremely weak. The Bank of England was buying pounds to brake the decline.

Although $2.40 is official parity, the pound is allowed to move between an upper limit of $2.42 and a bottom limit of $2.38.

Dealers said the pound appeared to be taking the brunt of current uncertainty about American willingness or ability to maintain a fixed gold price.

Gold fever gripped the stock exchange again today, with outside speculators moving in for the first time to buy gold shares.

Gold mining issues showed early rises ranging up to 10 shillings ($1.20).

In Zurich, the pound dropped below its dollar parity on the Swiss Foreign Exchange market today for the first time since devaluation.

"There is a lack of confidence in the pound," one dealer said, adding "the fact that it has actually dropped below its new parity is having psychological effect."

Meanwhile, the rush of gold buying, one of the reasons behind the weakness of the pound appeared to be heading into its second week. Dealers said demand for gold was heavy on the London market.

Dealers said shortly after the gold market reopened that while demand was big, it probably was not as high as it was last Friday, when some 40 tons were reported to have changed hands. A normal day's turnover in London is about five tons.

New Gold Rush Feared

LONDON (AP) — Rumors that South Africa will switch its gold sales to Paris from London threatened to put new strains on Europe's already jittery money markets, increasing prospects of a continued gold-buying rush this week.

Behind the nervousness was the fear that an extended gold rush could imperil the value of paper money, including the U.S. dollar and the British pound.

Demand for gold last week was the heaviest since the buying wave that followed devaluation of the pound last November.

Attention was focused on Johannesburg, where a newspaper report said the South African government is considering switching gold sales to Paris.

South Africa produces nearly 75 per cent of the Western world's gold.

A shift of South African gold sales to Paris would put a severe strain on world gold markets.

First reaction here and in other capitals was to discount the South African report. Spokesmen for the Bank of England the British treasury said they had no information to justify it.

The gold rush in Europe now is based on the belief that sooner or later Washington will be forced to slow the outflow of gold.

It could declare an embargo, a move likely to increase unofficial sales of gold at prices above what the United States is committed to pay—$35 a fine ounce.

Or the United States could raise the official price of gold. Either way, experts believe, the result would be a drop in the value of the dollar in terms of gold.

Besides the South African rumor, there were a number of other factors increasing the demand for gold, among them weakness of the Canadian dollar and rumors of expected devaluation of the Japanese yen.

New Tax May Be Linked To Financial Restraint

OTTAWA (CP) — The big issue expected to be settled this week is how Finance Minister Sharp plans to replace the revenue he lost when the Commons voted against his tax bill Feb. 19. It would have legalized the five-per-cent surcharge on personal income tax that began Jan. 1.

The tax question may be answered as early as Tuesday.

The Toronto Globe and Mail says the federal government is planning to unveil a program for financial restraint in the hope of gaining opposition support for new tax measures.

The newspaper says in a story from Ottawa that the restraint program will initially involve consultation between federal authorities and industry, labor, provincial governments and some large municipalities.

The program could ultimately be developed to include the establishment of a permanent, independent economic body to coordinate short-term economic planning, the story says. The body would supplement the forecasting program done by the Economic Council of Canada.

The newspaper says that government officials were encouraged when Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said in Peterborough Saturday his party will look at new federal tax legislation "with an open mind" only if it is intended to be anti-inflationary.

The newspaper says the proposed federal body would work out yardsticks for wage settlements and price increases and advise government, management and labor whether increases are inflationary.

Tourists Ignore Pleas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many Americans apparently are ignoring President Johnson's appeal that they help ease the dollar drain by postponing travel outside the Western Hemisphere.

Officials handling a record volume of passport applications said they lack absolute proof but secondary evidence indicates many citizens decided to hurry visits to Europe ahead of a government tax on most overseas travel.

Passport office figures show applications for U.S. passports rose to 131,802 in January, a 26-per-cent increase compared with January a year ago.

Immigration officials have forecast 95,000 departures in Europe in March—about 3,000 a day. An estimated 65,000 travelled to Europe in February.

January's 26-per-cent passport rise ran more than double the increase rate of recent months.

Deficit Budgetting Must End: Winters

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Winters, who Friday announced his candidacy for leadership of the Liberal party, says Canada must put an end to budget deficits.

Mr. Winters, speaking in a panel discussion on radio station CFRB Toronto Sunday night, said "you can't always balance your budget in the public sector."

"But you've got to make some repayment on it. You've got to be able to balance it in good times."

Mr. Winters said that "recently we haven't been generating enough revenues."

"It's costing us $1,000,000,000 a year to carry our debt."

Nasser Promises To Win Lost Lands

CAIRO Reuters — President Nasser Sunday pledged to "liberate all Arab areas occupied by Israel during the Middle East war last June.

"Before God we swear we shall free every inch of this land," he told thousands of cheering workers at a rally in the factory town of Helwan, near Cairo.

The speech followed a statement by United Nations Secretary-General U Thant Friday that reports of Arab willingness to hold direct talks with Israel were "completely groundless."

In Jerusalem Sunday, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the cabinet he had no information that any Arab country had agreed to talks under UN auspices to settle the crisis.

He denied a Lebanese report that two Israeli officials arrived in Cyprus for talks with Jordanian and Egyptian representatives.

Israelis Kill Arab Raiders

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli troops have killed 35 of an estimated 50 Arab raiders attempting to infiltrate across the Jordan River into the occupied west bank in the last 10 days, a defence ministry source said Sunday.

He did not say where or when the clashes took place but it is believed the Arabs were shot from ambushes along the river frontier.

The informant disclosed security forces were tipped on the raiders' movements by west bank Arab collaborators.

Revolt of U.S. Business Community Against Vietnam War Costs Possible

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (CP) — The U.S. may add at least 10,000 more troops to Vietnam forces this year, running the annual cost of the war to around $40,000,000,000, Washington columnist Rowland Evans forecast Saturday.

That could bring on a "revolt" in the U.S. business community, he told the Canadian-U.S. section of the International Press Institute.

He said President Johnson's determination to expand military pressure on North Vietnam seems "very, very hard—very firm."

"I think today we are entering one of the most dangerous phases of the last 100 years of our history," Evans said.

In a discussion underlining the deep divisions created in the U.S. by the war and the latest North Vietnam-Viet Cong offensive, Evans debated the issue with Eugene Patterson, editor of the Atlanta Constitution and Philip Geyelin, editorial-page editor of the Washington Post. Typically, no new solutions emerged.

Patterson, a southern liberal with a record of strong support for such programs as civil rights, backs the U.S. position in Vietnam.

"The principal point of Vietnam is the stability of Southeast Asia, not Vietnam itself" he said. It was a question of buying time for the non-Communist nation of the area to rally against domination by China.

It was possible the southern portion of Vietnam could not ever stand alone and possible the West would find it had no answer to Communist-fomented wars of national liberation to protect the right of self-determination in developing nations.

"But I fear the outcome for the world if it is proved that power really does flow from the muzzle of a gun."

Geyelin, dealing with China's attitude, said the U.S. is convinced China is a threat to world peace but can't ascertain to what degree. The U.S. by design had built up a presence of more men in Southeast Asia "on little cat feet" to avoid a direct showdown with either the Soviet Union of China and the question is how long it can continue to work.

The Chinese of a decade hence would, with its nuclear capability, look much different than the dissension-ridden country of today. Perhaps the growth of industry would make it more determined to avoid nuclear war than Chairman Mao Tse-tung now indicates.

Evans, who suggested everybody in the U.S., from President Johnson on down is "in a fog", about what to do in Vietnam, said he thinks North Vietnam really feels it can win and even the Soviet Union now sees the war as a source of great embarrassment and frustration to the U.S.

Sharp Visits Washington

OTTAWA (CP) — An unannounced visit to Washington last Friday by Finance Minister Sharp was revealed today in a brief statement by his office.

The statement, "in response to press inquiries," said Mr. Sharp held discussions with Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler "in order to give him the views of the Government of Canada on certain trade measures under consideration by the United States Government."

Mr. Sharp was in the Commons Friday morning for the daily question period.

Super Fast Turbo Train Buzzes Through City

Turbo Train on Test Run

Canadian National's new Turbo train, scheduled to go into operation between Toronto and Montreal later this year, is seen at north station this morning as it stopped during first trial run. The train capable of speeds up to 130 miles per hour, clocked 112 mph on the straight-away east of Belleville.

A CNR breakthrough in train travel will be buzzing through Belleville for the next 18 days. A "turbo-train", super fast, and luxurious was clocked at 112 miles per hour as it came to Belleville today.

The seven - coach, ultra streamlined vehicle arrived in Belleville at 10.20 this morning, 57 minutes after it pulled out of Brockville before the eyes of about 100 curious CNR employees.

On the train were two Belleville CN workers, conductor George Elliot, and engineer Elmer Findlay.

Today's trip was the first of the 15 days of trial runs.

According to a CNR spokesman, the engines for the train were built by United Aircraft and the original data for delivery was spring of 1967. Due to Vietnam war priority the engines were held up.

After the test runs the train is expected to handle passengers by June.

The maximum speed of this train tested so far in the United States is about 120 miles per hour, although another one much like it reached a record-breaking speed of 170.8 miles per hour.

The spokesman stated that the CNR does not intend to run at speeds higher than 95 miles per hour when the train is servicing passengers. The average speed will be 85 miles per hour.

At such speeds the train will cut the time between Toronto and Montreal by approximately one hour. There will be no stops between the two cities. Now it takes three hours and 59 minutes.

The train has two engines at each end so that it will not have to turn around after arriving in one of the cities.

The engine will be staffed by two engineers who will relieve each other. The rest of the train crew will be made up of one conductor and one brakeman.

The trains are built in sets of seven, sets that can be joined by moving the noses of the engines and hooking them together, thus enabling passengers to travel from one end of the first set to the front of the second adjoining set.

After the train comes into service it is proposed that it run between Montreal and Toronto twice daily, once in the morning and once in the afternoon.

The engines have a total horsepower of 1,000 per set. They are comparable to aircraft engines, but have a lower horsepower and are muffled by sound attenuation devices. Any noise will be above the train and inside will be completely noiseless and without vibration for passengers.

Each train will probably include 14 cars.

The seven car sets will include two with domes, one a club car, the other a bar car. Each dome club car will have eight dome seats and 22 lower level seats. The other club car will have 40 seats.

Four coaches will be included in the set, two with 56 seats apiece and another with 54 seats and one cafe coach with 28 seats.

The bar dome car will have 24 bar seats and 28 lower level seats. Altogether the set will seat 302 passengers.

On the inside, the cars will feature more comfortable seating, better heating and air conditioning and an elegant decor.

New innovations are indirect lighting, individual controlled reading lights, tinted glass windows and carpeting.

Fold-away trays are included on the backs of the seats for food and beverages.

In the club cars a galley will be in existence to serve passengers.

In the tradition of aircraft travel, the new train will feature hostesses to see to the wishes of passengers.

The train as a whole has more efficient methods of travel, including an electrically controlled braking system with secondary pneumatic brakes.

A new suspension system causes the cars to bank inward on curves rather than the outward bank of conventional cars.

The whole ride has been described as "smooth and elegant.

ANAF News

President George Christopher strongly advises all members to attend the next general meeting, Thursday, Mar. 14. There will be several subjects up for discussion that will affect all members and also the future welfare of the club itself. Everyone had enjoyed the privileges and it should not be asking too much to spare a couple of hours a month to keep abreast of what is happening both financially and recreational.

The number of members hospitalized and indisposed has been higher than usual the past few weeks but the trend seems to be reversing at last. Last week the convalescing comrades were visits from the Dominion President and his charming wife, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher, and members of the Unit and the Ladies Auxiliary. The sick chairman, Ray Fisher, and his committee are to be highly commended for their continued efforts in looking after and also visiting the sick and convalescing comrades. The following comrades are in the Belleville Hospital, A. E. Cornish, H Boyle, H. Bateman, H. Herrington, J. Semark sr. Comrades D. Dewey and D. Lea are progressing very favourably at home and it is hoped that the others will follow suit.

Mother Killed in Highway Mishap

TRENTON — Traffic statistics can't capture the tragedy of highway mishaps.

Mrs. Ann Postma, 29, of R.R. 4, Trenton, was one of 10 killed on Ontario highways over the weekend.

Provincial police said driving conditions were fairly good when her husband's car crashed head-on into another car Saturday on the 1st Dugbui Road, two miles west of here.

In that instant, four Postma children were left homeless, and a post mortem revealed Mrs. Postma was expecting a fifth child in two months.

Recovering in hospital are the children: Linda, 3, who suffered facial lacerations; John, 4, with a concussion; Danny, 3, with a fractured leg. Two-year-old David Postma was transferred from Trenton Memorial Hospital to Kingston for treatment of a skull fracture.

Henry Postma, 30, who was driving at the time of the two-car crash, was admitted to hospital suffering severe facial lacerations.

Brighton O.P.P. said the westbound Postma car collided head-on at a corner with one driven by 21-year-old James Edgar Rutley, a CFB Trenton airman. Police said the road was partially snow-covered.

Rutley, who suffered a broken right leg and a dislocated hip, and his passenger, Margaret Rose Carver, 20, were rushed to the Tri-Services Military Hospital in Kingston. Miss Carver, a CFB Trenton airwoman, received leg abrasions and forehead lacerations in the impact.

Police said an estimated $800 damage was caused to the 1959 Postma vehicle, and some $1,900 to Mr. Rutley's 1965 car. In effect, they were both "write - offs" police said.

The accident occurred around noon Saturday on the Dugbui Road, at a point 1.7 miles west from the New Development Road.

Funeral services for Mrs. Postma will be held Wednesday afternoon from the Weaver Funeral Home to Carrying Place Cemetery.

Conservation Is Topic

TRENTON — The importance of a Conservation Authority to young people will be stressed at a Wednesday night meeting in Hart's Corners School, north of here on the Wooler Road.

Speaker at the 7 p.m. meeting will be Hal Hooke, of the Conservation Branch, Ontario Department of Energy and Resources Management.

The meeting is sponsored by the committee to establish a conservation authority for the Lower Trent River watershed region.

Three information meetings have already been held in the area, and organizers hope to see the body established some time this year.

Cars Miss Same Curve Hours Apart

An ironic twist of fate caused $1,600 damage to two cars Saturday near Tweed.

At about 4.30 p.m. an automobile driven by David Slidacost, 23, of Oilawa, travelling north on highway 37, hit a patch of ice and crashed into a tree on a curve two and a half miles south of Tweed.

Slidacost was travelling alone at the time. Madoc OPP stated that charges are pending in the $800. accident.

About two and a half hours later, another vehicle missed the same curve, receiving $800. damage as well.

Like its original counterpart the car was headed north. The driver, Garfield Williams, 23, of R. R. 2, Thomasburg, driving alone, was uninjured.

Possible Case Of Rabies in Fox Probed

A possible case of rabies is being probed after a fox turned on a Belleville - area farmer before the animal was gunned down.

Howard Weese said he spotted the fox attacking his dog on the verandah of his Carrying Place Road home Friday.

He lashed at the animal with a hockey stick. When it appeared to round on him Mr. Weese went for a shotgun.

The fox had disappeared when he returned.

A short time later a fox was shot on a neighboring property and handed over to police for transfer to a federal veterinarian in Belleville.

Tests will be made to determine if the animal was rabid.

It was the latest in a number of incidents in recent months in Hastings and Prince Edward counties, where the disease has been reported on the upswing.

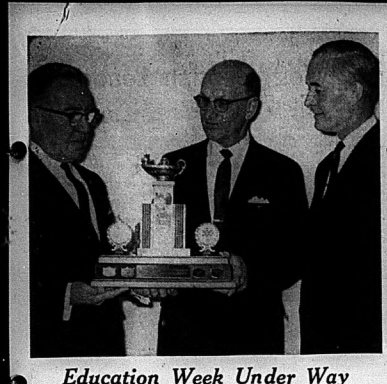
IN MEMORIAM

WOOD — In loving memory of Mrs. Ethel Wood, who passed away March 4, 1966.
The world may change from year to year,
And from day to day,
But you remember her still the same,
Always remembered by his wife Nancy.

ETHIER — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Edward Ethier, who passed away March 4, 1966.
Though his smile has gone forever,
And his face we cannot see,
Still I have a memory treasure,
Of the one I loved so much,
His memory is my keepsake,
With which I'll never part.
God has him in His keeping,
We have him in our hearts.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Theresa, son-in-law Jack and grandsons Jack and Harry.



DEWEY, Percy — In loving memory of ... daddy, who passed away March 4, 1966.
Time, fading leaves the years slip by,
But loving memories never die.
He lives with us in memory still,
Just today, but always will.
—Lovingly remembered by his daughter Irene, Harold and family.

WOOD — In loving memory of Ethel Wood, who passed away March 4, 1966.
His memory is as dear today,
As the hour he passed away.
—Never forgotten by daughter Clare and son-in-law Isaac.

CAVANAGH — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Thomas L. Cavanagh, who passed away March 4, 1966.
The rolling changes of time on,
But still the vacant chair,
Recalls the love, smile and smile,
Of one who once sat there.
—Ever remembered by his wife and daughter.

Education Week Under Way

The Sir Mackenzie Bowell trophy was presented to L. A. Kells at an educationists' breakfast this morning. Here E. A. Orr presents the award to Mr. Kells while Frank Murray, manager of radio station CJBQ and one of the judges looks on.

Service in Education Field

Kells Wins 'MacKenzie Bowell' Award

Lawrence Kells, superintendent of the Belleville Public School Board, was awarded the "Sir Mackenzie Bowell" trophy for meritorious service in the field of education this morning.

The ward is presented annually to the teacher, school trustee, official or school board employee from the Quinte district whose services in education most deserves recognition.

Mr. Kells received the trophy from last years winners, Councellor E. Arnold Orr, at an educator's breakfast at the Sun Valley Motel. The meeting was attended by 100 teachers and officials from throughout the Quinte area.

Mr. Orr said in his remarks: "In spite of the many offices Mr. Kells has held, I think it would still be fair to say his greatest service has been through his own chosen profession where, in the broadest sense, he has been identified with the growth and development of Belleville's fine educational system".

Mr. Orr also received from a nomination submitted by the Belleville Branch of the Ontario Men's Teachers' Association. Here is part of the tribute they paid to their boss.

"The men of this branch have all personally experienced the assistance, understanding and inspiration of Mr. Kells in their day to day contacts with him. They are aware of his significant influence on their professional development and they wish to pay tribute to this outstanding administrator and educator by nominating him for this award."

Mr. Kells, a native of London, Ontario, holds an Arts degree from the University of Western Ontario and a degree in Pedagogy from the University of Toronto.

He came to Belleville in 1929 to assume the principalship of King George Public School. In 1942 he was appointed business administrator for the Belleville board of education and in 1943 was given the added responsibilities of supervising principal. A year later he became Inspector of Belleville schools.

When the Bay of Quinte High School Board was formed in 1953 the newly-formed Belleville Public School Board named Mr. Kells superintendent and chief inspector. He has held this position for the past 16 years.

Professionally Mr. Kells served as a director of the Ontario School Inspector's Association, the Ontario Municipal School Inspector's Association, the Ontario and Canadian Associations' of School Superintendents and Directors, the Ontario Federation on Home and Associations and the Eastern Ontario Federation of Film Councils.

He is a past chairman of the Belleville and district film council, the mental health association, and the public library board.

He has been a church warden and member of the vestry council and is a past president of the Belleville Kiwanis Club. He has also held the Lieutenant-Governorship of Kiwanis International.

Mr. Kells was selected by three judges from a list of seven nominees. The judges included H. Myles Morton, general manager of The Intelligencer, Frank Murray, manager of radio station CJBQ and Ian Darling, president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

In making the announcement Mr. Murray said the judges found it was an interesting project and congratulated Mr. Kells on his award.

Also speaking during the hour long breakfast, was acting mayor Douglas Boyle. He said education was an important industry. "The city alone has a budget of about $3,000,000 for public and secondary education," he said.

In his remarks Mr. Kells said he was pleased to accept the award from the first winner — E. A. Orr.

He said the award was part of a rather long experience in his chosen field of endeavor. "I'm deeply honored that I was selected to receive the Sir Mackenzie Bowell award," he said.

Education Week Starts

Canadian Education Week got under way this morning with an educators' breakfast at the Sun Valley Motel. The theme of the week is "Education — Measure of A Nation."

In the Quinte area various events are planned for the week.

This afternoon assistant deputy minister of education, L. M. Johnston, will speak at a Rotary meeting. This evening the public school teachers federation will meet at the Club Camaro to hear Peter Torrance, assistant regional superintendent of the department of education.

In Trenton pupils' work is on display at Queen Elizabeth and Dufferin Schools and at Trenton Public Library.

During the week education officials will appear on CJBQ's program "Why Not Call."

On Wednesday public speaking finals start at St. Michael's academy in Belleville and demonstrations and open houses are planned throughout the week at many schools in both Belleville and Trenton.

Large Crowd at Races

AMELIASBURG — While the weatherman predicted a moderation in temperature snowmobile enthusiasts of the Quinte district indulged in what could be their last swinging time this season here at the community park yesterday.

An estimated 300 people passed through the park's centennial gates headed for Robin Lake where a series of competitions were run-off for motorized sleds in various classifications. The racing attracted nearly 50 entries.

A spokesman for the committee in charge of sponsoring the snowmobile meet said the board was giving consideration to a request to hold outboard races on Robin Lake this summer in conjunction with the Picton Outboard Motor Association. The board is of the opinion a tri-angular course could be set up without interfering with summer cottage dwellers and the Salvation Army camp water program. Race meets have been suggested for the first week in July and the first week in August.

Winners of the snowmobile races were: class 0 — 280cc, John Cresswell, first, E. Harry, second; class 281 — 320cc, Bob Ellis, first; F. Donaldson, second; class 321 — 410cc, Bob Breakell, first; F. Donaldson, second; open class, W. Ostonpowder puff class, Mrs. K. Ellis, first; Mrs. Charles Weese; boy's race under 15, Peter Harder.

Council to Debate Motion

Belleville city council this afternoon will vote on whether it favors imposition of a special tax on the local operations of Cable Television.

The recommendation before Council this afternoon will be a motion by Alderman Gerald Joyce asking that the city's petition to the Ontario Government will vote on whether allowing the special tax be withdrawn from the legislation.

Alderman Joyce attempted to introduce the recommendation two weeks ago but the necessary two-thirds majority to waive rules for its introduction was not given. Accordingly Ald. Joyce proceeded by way of notice of motion to bring in the recommendation at today's meeting.

The proposal to levy the special tax on Cable TV operations was discussed in council last year after the matter was introduced by Alderman Douglas Boyle. Council later decided to petition the Ontario Legislature for a private bill to allow the tax.

Since the Council meeting Quinte riding member Dr. R. T. Potter and also Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott (now convalescing in a Toronto hospital) have spoken against the Cable TV tax.

At the Council meeting two weeks ago Cablevue manager Frank Murray said that any special tax assessed against his company would have to be passed on to the customer.

Man Dies Of Injuries After Mishap

PICTON (Staff) — Funeral service is being held today for Ralph Gibson who passed away in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Gibson was admitted to hospital last Monday as a result of an automobile accident in which he suffered a broken hip and shock. The collision, which involved two cars occurred about 3:45 in the afternoon, and Gerald Fincham of R.R. 8, Picton was a passenger in the small car driven by Gibson. Mr. Fincham was shaken up as a result of the accident but was released from hospital following treatment.

Driver of the second car was Roger Dale Boucher, 18, of Camp Picton, who escaped without injury.

Boucher was proceeding east on Main street near the CNR station when he lost control of car, which collided with the side of the Gibson car. The small car was a write off, total damage exceeding $1,000.

TO VISIT BRITAIN

LONDON (AP) — President Giuseppe Saragat of Italy will pay a 10-day state visit to Britain starting July 10 and will stay at Windsor Castle as the guest of the queen. It will be first country whose chief of state has been invited by the Queen for two state visits.

More Charges Coming Accused Informs Court

It's an unusual occurence in court when an accused who has pleaded guilty asks for a delay of sentence so that he can be charged on other counts.

But that's exactly what happened in magistrate's court this morning.

James Roy Darrah, 67, pleaded guilty to six counts of uttering documents with intent to defraud before Magistrate Crawford Guest.

"There are more of them (referring to the charges) that aren't here yet," Darrah told the magistrate when asked if he had anything to say on his behalf, "and I would like to delay sentencing until then."

Darrah pleaded guilty to charges of uttering cheques with intent to defraud at furniture stores throughout Ontario — two of them in the Belleville area.

The system was the same in each of the cases, Darrah would enter the furniture store and purchase furniture valued in amounts ranging from $1,000 to $3,000.

In all cases he issued one cheque for $354 and another cheque for the balance of the cost. A portion of the first cheque was put towards the furnishings and the remainder taken in cash.

All of the cheques proved to be worthless.

Tweed Council Opposes County School Boards

TWEED — Tweed Council has endored a "strongly worded protest" from the trustees and school boards of Oxford, Perth, Waterloo and Elgin counties against the powers of the Ontario Legislature to table or amend the proposed legislation to establish countywide school boards.

The resolution was received from William Dunklow, reeve of Tavistock. It suggested further consideration be given that proposal to municipal councils, school boards, teachers and other interested persons.

Council decided to gravel part of the old rink property on Metcalf St. to make it into a public parking lot. This, council felt, would give persons working in local stores and places of business somewhere to park their cars and would leave parking places on main street free for visitors and shoppers.

The roof covering on the municipal building will be replaced early in the summer. The public washrooms will be re-decorated and locked. Persons wishing to use the rooms will obtain the key from the municipal office.

Attention of council was called to condensation forming on the underside of the roof of the Tweed-Hungerford Community Centre. Water from the melting snow is dripping at the ice surface. Council felt the dampness could damage the roof and timbers and decided to take the matter up with the newly appointed rink board.

Carman Deshane was appointed council representative on the Tweed County Development Commission organization Board.

Council will consider passing a by-law authorizing two year term for council members.

Showing the Flag

Will the day ever come when tourist pamphlets extolling the delights of Florida or the Caribbean or a multitude of other interesting places are supplanted by other media.

Ontario, at least, seems to be pointing in such a direction. Included in this year's provincial travel publicity will be color film clips of one-minute duration each, affording quick cameo shots of what life is like in the province that is "Friendly, Familiar, Foreign and Near."

The films, discussed by a department official in Trenton the other day, will be aimed at the swiftly-growing color television market in the United States.

Printed information and brochures are far from being cast aside, however. Each year Ontario has been issuing an illustrated book of the province's tourist attractions. This year is no exception. Once again, too, Ontario and Quebec will promote jointly their "Heritage Highway" route. So who says Quebec and the rest of Canada cannot co-operate in other ways as well?

When it comes to promotion, though, we may well envy the imaginative British who in the course of their latest "Back Britain" have evolved new uses for the Union Jack.

Recently the British Motor Corporation released some publicity in a brochure showing a swinging young woman wearing an outfit in the familiar red, white and blue patterns of the national emblem. Now it is found on almost everything from ashtrays to bikinis.

"As one observer has put it, "The 167-year-old emblem has become one of the biggest marketing gimmicks to hit the world's shopping counters."

Budapest Meeting

The 60-nation meeting of the communist world in Budapest is showing signs of the weakening of Moscow's influence over its satellites.

Yugoslavia was the first to pursue its own brand of independence while adhering to Marxist principles. Then it was China. Then, a few years ago, growing differences between Russia and China (communist but not one of the satellites) led to an open split. The Hungarians earlier had waged their abortive revolt of 1956.

Now it is the turn of Romania, a country which for some years has been increasing trade and cultural contacts with the western world and displaying increasing contempt for the dictates of the Kremlin.

At the Budapest parley it reached the point that the Romanian delegation walked out following differences over the Arab-Israeli question, and failure to obtain a promise there would be no more attacks on China or any other communist party during the meeting.

Such differences must be expected in any large grouping, but in the case of the communist world it makes a mockery of the solidarity the Soviets for long have claimed in relation to the nations of Eastern Europe and the Baltic overrun during the last war.

Meanwhile, it is of interest to note advertisements in western publications advertising Romania as a tourist attraction — its beaches, health spas, countries-old monastery towns and mountain scenery.

Color Talks

Color is a vital element in our lives. A world without color would be as intolerable as one in which there was no access to air, light or water. And yet how little appreciation is shown of it.

Film lecturer Romain Wilhelmsen had this in mind, at least by inference, when he alluded to the African woman's love of bright colors, in the course of his film talk on the Timbuktu and other strange places of the former French Sudan. And how well they carry themselves, with graceful, flowing strides, a characteristic stemming no doubt in part from their facility for balancing water pitchers and the like on their heads as they walk.

But contrast the color and eloquence of their clothes with the bombazine tones of the fashion scene. Maybe spring has not quite arrived, but isn't this all the more reason why the ladies should enhance their appearance and the winter scene with something of the same feel for color as African, Indian and Oriental women possess.

Or must it be said that such color and style exist only between the pages of the spring catalogues and magazines?

Student Agitation

Spectre Of Neo-Nazism Haunts West German Leaders

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

West Germany, scene of genocide, fiery catastrophe and "economic miracles" in the last 25 years, seems afflicted with what may be new symptoms of deep disturbance.

But the controversy currently swirling around the country's president and the recent bubbling of student and right-wing bitterness have not been a matter for exclusively pessimistic interpretation.

Traditionally, the Bonn republic is indicted in East Germany as a reactionary neo-Nazi perversion.

From the Communist East came the first of current allegations, later taken up in the West, that President Heinrich Luebke of the federal republic was involved in pass for barracks used by concentration camp prisoners during the Second World War.

More alarmist observers of the German scene would take this as heightening their fears that remnants of the Nazi regime cling to positions of power in West Germany.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger long since has confronted the skeleton in his personal cupboard—employment in the propaganda section of Germany's wartime foreign ministry.

Optimists take such developments to be a refreshing indication that Bonn officials, no matter how lofty their station, must bare their pasts in a mass audience, something unthinkable in an authoritarian Germany.

Yet the very bitterness of the charges hurled at Luebke makes some observers recall the paralyzing bitterness of politics in the Weimar Republic, which finally fell to the Hitler forces.

Taken as ominous, too, in some quarters is the student agitation, generally left-wing in orientation but often voicing profound disenchantment with parliamentary government in its present form.

It flaunts opposition to the Vietnamese policies of the United States from a near-anarchist scorn for the current crop of Bonn politicians.

Adolf von Thadden's National Democratic party also helps, with its right-wing fervor, to keep West German politics at an uneasy sizzle.

It is credited with an increasing but still-limited hold on public favor and seemingly benefits from a widespread belief that the much larger Social Democratic party is suffering from its coalition with the long-supreme Christian Democrats.

Warnings are voiced in West Germany against official panic in the face of student and right-wing agitation. Otherwise, politics may become "polarized" into irreconcilable camps and democracy collapse, say advocates of caution.

In Western countries outside Germany, the tendency may be to make deliberately rasp judgments of a pessimistic order about that nation's politics.

Students have been sounding off in other states and, in Holland, combining sophomoric anger with out-and-out anarchism.

And renewed nationalism is by no means a development unique to West Germany, whatever the critical character of that community's present condition.

A Future for Jersey Milk?

Letter to The Brockville Recorder and Times

I am writing as regards the future of Jersey milk in particular and of the Jersey breed in general. Like milk pooling goes into effect, as of March 1, 1968. In 1966 when scientists and doctors prescribed non-fat diets for the people, the Ontario Jersey Club took it upon itself to do something about it. Members decided to skim this five per-cent product down to two per-cent and got a trademark registered for the finished product that is called All Jersey two per-cent milk.

To do this they collected ten cents a hundredweight from all farmers shipping Jersey milk to dairies. To show now this demand from consumers for this product has grown: in 1957, 528,-234 in royalties were colle ted. In 1967 the royalties amounted to $134,903. During this ten year period upwards of $60,000 per year was spent on advertising this product I might add no financial assistance was asked from government, or any one else and none was received

Almost 100 percent of this milk has been sold in bottles to the consumer, and 3/4 of now the demand exceeds the supply. Now the Ontario Milk Marketing Board says that "milk is milk", and will be put into a pool with standard milk. This means that all this milk for which 900-odd Jersey shippers have spent thousands of dollars out of their own pockets during the last ten years to create a market, will be sold under their (the Board's) jurisdiction.

The Jersey shipper now will be paid on a quota basis, which means instead of selling all his product, I top price he will receive approximately $3.50 per hundred-weight for surplus milk which goes into secondary use or production o which he had none before. This could mean that he would be selling about 30 percent at this lower price.

I might add also that this milk is outside the consumer exactly the same as standard milk at the dairies.

Does it not seem hardly fair that the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, which is supposed to be of benefit to farmers, can deprive Ontario consumers of a product which they have demanded, and 900 Ontario farmers a market which they have built by themselves with hard, cold cash, just because they are a minority in Ontario?

Roy H. Fuley,
Mallorytown.

U. S. Taxes

Victoria Daily Times

An increase in taxes in the United States would be of considerable help to Canada in holding down inflation, but the cost of restrictive trade practices would be higher than we could easily pay. In terms of growth it would even be preferable for Canadians to fight the battle against inflation alone and benefit from expanded world trade. The decision on which way it will go will be taken in Washington, however, and it will not be long delayed.

Sales Tax on Clothes For Young People Hits Family Budgets

Hamilton Spectator

Ontario's slapdash sales tax rules on clothing inflict needless expense on parents of larger-than-average children. The system needs reform.

Boys' clothing—shirts, sweaters, jackets, coats, suits — up to size 18 is exempt from the five per cent sales tax. Girls' dresses up to size 14X are exempt.

Those sizes accommodate the clothing manufacturers' estimate of the size of the average boy or girl 16 years old.

Shoes are a looser fit. They are taxed or exempted largely at the discretion of merchants. A store that classifies shoes as "adult" must collect taxes on those shoes; items bought from suppliers as "children's" shoes are not taxed.

The apparent intent is to levy no sales tax on children's clothes. Because children come in varying sizes, the system doesn't work. Anyone bigger than government-defined average pays a tax, regardless of age.

A tall 14 year-old, who fits only adult clothing, must buy a taxable wardrobe. Children under 12 are wearing taxable men's and women's shoes.

Small adults are wearing non-taxable children's clothes. A man five feet, six inches tall, and with a slight build, can get into a size 18 suit or shirt.

Women with tiny feet can wear non-taxable girls' shoes.

Ontario should drop the size system and follow British Columbia's example. That province which used to follow our practice makes a sales tax exception of children on an age basis. Clothes and shoes for children 14 and under, regardless of size, are not taxed.

Merchants are equipped with certificate forms, upon which buyers enter their names and addresses, declaring non-taxable clothes are for children 14 or under.

The British Columbia government, which studied the system after several months operation, says some abuses may occur but no serious breaches of the law have been discovered. Buyers who cheat can be prosecuted.

Ontario should switch to a British Columbia-style plan before any more families are penalized for clothing children who happen to be larger than arbitrary averages.

County Boundaries Create Problems in School Merger Plan

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

The Wingham high school district board, we note in recent news reports, has changed its official title. It now calls itself the Huron-Bruce district high school board. Instead of identifying itself as connected to one town, it is identifying itself formally with two counties.

The change in name grows out of a sensible adjustment to the changing facts of the board's responsibilities. Twenty-five years ago it was operating a school for pupils of the Town of Wingham, together with a few who came in under their own transportation arrangements from rural areas near the town.

Twenty years ago the school's role changed. School bus services began and the area from which it drew pupils was enlarged to bring in rural pupils from a wider area. The name was changed to match — from Wingham high school to Wingham district high school.

In the light of further experience and to meet more modern needs in education, the school's task has recently been enlarged again. The local people in the area declared that the small high school in Lucknow, 11 miles west of Wingham, might better be merged with the Wingham secondary school district.

Wingham is in Huron county; Lucknow is in Bruce. The change of style in the board's title, replacing Wingham with Huron-Bruce, reflects the practical plan made by local trustees in the north end of Huron and the south end of Bruce to keep up with the times in education.

This is just one of many examples that might be cited to show that the creation of the Ontario government in make school districts match county boundaries is out of step with reality. If county boundaries were the proper and tidy boundaries for the school area centred on Wingham, it would still be the Wingham high school district.

Another obvious example is the high school at Baden, which is in Waterloo county and identifies itself as serving a district astride county boundaries, with its official title of Waterloo-Oxford high school district.

Robert Nixon, Liberal leader of the Ontario legislature, has said that he will criticize in the legislature the government's failure to force school districts into the county-boundary mold. The sooner he does it the better.

'White Racism' A Major Cause Of Racial Turmoil In U.S.

By AUSTIN SCOTT

NEW YORK (AP) — To many whites who do not think of themselves as unjust, one of the hardest parts of the riot commission report to accept will be the stress on "white racism" as a major cause of American racial turmoil.

"White racism" is an ugly term, calling up visions of club-wielding lynch mobs and "white only" signs in restaurants. But as Negroes from all social classes often see it, it is closer to social customs that appear to hide it from many white eyes.

The simple act of moving to what a family may consider a better home is enough to kindle resentment.

"One of the very obvious signs of the split is that the whites are leaving town," said Detroit councilman Nicholas Hood, the only Negro on that city's governing body.

"The groups working to end segregation are trying to solve the problem, but their own membership . . . you'll find them in the suburbs. Where they have moved in getting out of the city. . . .

"They can give any kind of excuse they want, but it's still separate, and they've separated themselves from us, not we from them."

The more obvious aspects of racism—the rigidly segregated schools 14 years after the U.S. Supreme Court's school desegregation decision, reluctance to hire and promote Negroes, police harassment—and other, more brutal forms common until a decade ago—have combined to make race a subject many whites seldom think of, but most Negroes are almost always conscious of.

A Negro professional man, reasonably successful in his field, outwardly respected by his white colleagues, recently slammed his flat on a table in anger while in the company of a dozen Negro friends.

"I don't know white people," he said. "I just don't trust 'em. We all work for racists, and we know it."

His employer would have been astonished at the outburst, but his friends also profession als, nodded in sympathy and agreement. Just below his remark, the group had been discussing how they felt whites attack Negroes without realizing how their actions are viewed.

Britain's Political Parties Unite to Protect the Pound

LONDON (AP) — Britain's main parties seem to be approaching a bipartisan defence of the nation's economy.

Nor formal alliance or coalition is likely between Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government and Edward Heath's opposition Conservatives.

But qualified authorities detect signs that Heath's men are preparing to back or at least not oppose some of the critical measures which the Wilson government is fashioning to protect and strengthen the pound sterling.

This Conservative support, or lack of opposition, will be of crucial importance this month to Treasury Chief Roy Jenkins in forcing through a harsh 1968-69 budget and a parallel wage freeze. Both budget and freeze represent the final instalment of a crash program to make last November's pound devaluation work.

Wilson's over-all margin in the 630-member House of Commons now is down to 78. Up to 30 hard-line left-wing Laborites have declared virtual war in his program of retrenching the social services of the once-proud welfare state.

From 40 to 50 other Labor members, normally loyal backers of the government, would be bound to oppose any new law to enforce a wage freeze because they are trade union nonlisters. Just about the entire trade union movement in Britain, representing 1,000,000 workers, has come out against a new compulsory freeze on wages. Nearly half of them oppose even a voluntary freeze.

If 70 to 80 Labor rebels voted against the government on the wage-freeze issue, Wilson's margin would be gone. If Heath's men also opposed it, the Labor government would fall.

In fact, a lot of Conservatives see eye to eye with Wilson and Jenkins on the need for the wage freeze. They know there is a pile-up of claims for 5,000,000 workers and that by summer another 6,000,000 might be reaching for more money. If all were met, British goods would become dearer and the British would lose the chance provided by devaluation to win more exports and so balance the national books.

Delegates Pledge Support To Trudeau for Leader

By MAURICE SWITZER
(Staff Reporter)

PORT HOPE — The six Northumberland - Durham Liberal association delegates had pledged their support to Pierre Elliott Trudeau's campaign to replace the retiring Lester B. Pearson. And for the "swinging" Justice Minister, it's a good thing they had.

Because if they had counted on his Saturday evening address to convince them, they might have switched allegiance.

Upwards of 600 persons, some who had travelled from as far as Oshawa, paid five dollars a plate for a cold-turkey supper and heard a low-key, vague speech by Mr. Trudeau, the odds-on-favorite to be the next Liberal Party leader.

The Port Hope High School gymasium assembly heard the 46-year-old Justice Minister's ramblings about why Liberalism — both small and large "" could best cope with the challenges that face Canada.

"One mustn't have too many principles, in the sense of hard and fast doctrines to follow. We must adapt to changes . . . use invention to find new approaches to our problems. As a politician, I'm interested in approaching new problems by constitutional, economic and social changes."

Mr. Trudeau cited Senator Arthur Roebuck, seated at the head table, as exemplifying these ideals.

He said the 80-year-old Liberal senator, largely responsible for guiding divorce reform through the Upper Chamber, had shown he was "not bound by ideas of the past."

The Justice Minister had these observations about specific areas of concern to Canadians:

"In our welfare program, it's not enough to hand out monthly cheques — we must being marginal people back into the main stream of society".

"If we can reach agreement on linguistic rights, we can go on to deal with secondary questions — like separation of government powers."

"Canada should funnel her energies into those areas where we can be successful. Our universities for example, are very capable of excellent instruction in foreign affairs."

The 30-minute address was not interrupted by applause, and came to an abrupt halt when a note was passed to the head table, seeking volunteer firemen to assist at a blaze that was engulfing a local pet-food factory.

"That came at the right moment," Mr. Trudeau said, taking his seat. He had no prepared address, and had prefaced his remarks by telling his listeners "the day is over when a mudience enjoyed sitting through long-winded orations."

It probably wouldn't have mattered if Mr. Trudeau hadn't said anything. It was obvious, from the minute he entered the high school, that he was the political man of the hour.

He strode in, nattily-dressed in his familiar black leather topcoat and matching fedora.

Shutters clicked, and a small boy asked for an autograph.

It was apparent a number of adults wished they had the courage to do the same.

Losses in Port Hope Fire Total $500,000

Fire Destroys Three Port Hope Plants

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — Three factory buildings in the downtown area were destroyed in a seven-hour blaze in below-zero weather here Saturday night.

The fire was brought under control by firemen from the Port Hope, Cobourg and Hope Township fire departments. Buildings destroyed were the Confederated Foods of Canada Ltd., Stein Packers division dog food plant, the Economy Machine Tool Co. Ltd. and the Canadian-Sagitta Co. Ltd. apple butter plant.

W. H. Russell, president of Confederated Foods, estimated losses to his plant at between $500,000 and $750,000. He said 50 men and 10 women would be thrown out of work.

Economy Machine Tool Co. Ltd. lost precision machines, a spokesman said. He gave no estimate of damages.

J. David Ford, owner-manager of Canadian Sagitta, estimated his losses at $35,000.

Cause of the fire has not been determined. Fire department officials said trash fires have been dealt with on previous occasions in the area.

Port Hope is 30 miles west of Belleville.

Trudeau Sharply Questioned By National, Area Newsmen

By MAURICE SWITZER
Staff Reporter

PORT HOPE — If Justice Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's scheduled address here didn't live up to expectations, a pre - dinner press conference compensated.

The 46-year-old Liberal leadership contender told about 30 national and area newsmen Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson's "personal vendetta" against him could only be beneficial.

"I think he is being extremely helpful to my political career. I was not very widely known across Quebec before, and Liberals across the province seem to think if Johnson doesn't like me, I must be all right.

"I hope he keeps it up," Mr. Trudeau chuckled "I want to thank the press for keeping it alive."

Would his "swinger" image affect his leadership campaign?

"It caused some interest in me before I entered the race. I hope it has no relevancy in my campaign now. I hope the delegates will want the kind of Canada I see, and that their decision won't have much to do with whether I 'swing' or don't swing"

Mr. Trudeau wore a neatly-tailored tweed checked suit, but a "conservative" necktie replaced the famous ascot which drew the scorn of John Diefenbaker in the House of Commons.

A black leather topcoat and matching fedora completed the minister's "mod" Port Hope ensemble.

One of the many problems facing the new Liberal leader, and therefore next Prime Minister was an insecure dollar — "But don't quote me on that."

It was a "natural reaction" perhaps a "herd instinct" for Canadians to lean towards small "c" conservatism in the face of such problems.

"We must take more small 'l' Liberal approaches — recognizing today's problems cannot be met with yesterday's solutions".

This outdated approach was a characteristic of former Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, whom Mr. Trudeau was asked to compare to Lester B. Pearson.

"Mr. Diefenbaker displays a great form of radicalism . . . but it's of the past, not the future. He's a fascinating politician, but certainly not another era. One of Canada's great government achievements was passage of Mr. Diefenbaker's human rights legislation".

Mr. Pearson, on the other hand, took a more "human" approach to matters.

"His greatness lies in his deep respect for the individual, and a great sense of tolerance."

For Mr. Trudeau, the monarchy "still holds significant relevance to enough people to not want it to disappear.

"I don't think you should attack symbols or destroy them. I respect the attachment to these symbols as I want others to respect things I hold dear."

What about his competition in the race to fill Mr. Pearson's shoes?

"Spring is here . . . and Winters isn't far behind."

Dis his bachelorhood affect his political career?

"I travel a great deal, and there's nobody to give me hell when I get back to home base. But then again, there's no one at home to criticize or approve of my political activity, which could be an advantage."

The Justice Minister later told his audience of 600 that good press questions to politicians outside the House of Commons had great value.

"They can be more helpful than often is possible in the long debates in the Commons. Some people who deliver these addresses in Parliament are taking a long time to retire."

Member: Overhaul Needed

OTTAWA — Douglas Aikenbrack, MP Prince Edward-Lennox has warned against centralization of unemployment insurance offices

A complete overhaul of legislation is needed to make the Unemployment Insurance Act work more equitably, Mr. Aikenbrack told the Commons Thursday.

Centralization results in concentrating powers in the hands of officials unacquainted with local conditions, he said.

"What does an official in Ottawa, Toronto, Kingston, or Belleville know about the cases of local applicants in smaller centres like Napanee or Picton?" he queried.

The unemployment insurance fund is not a charity for distribution "in a niggardly" manner that belongs to those who paid into it.

Mr. Aikenbrack read a letter from a constituent, Milton Vansaltine of Napanee, as an example of what he charged were "heartless practices and narrow confined thinking of bureaucracy."

Mr. Vansaltine complained he had been unable to draw unemployment insurance after being laid off through illness.

Mr. Vansaltine said he had paid unemployment insurance since it began in Canada. However, when he applied at Kingston for payments he was told he did not have enough stamps in one year.

"I am not entirely blaming this government," said Mr. Aikenbrack. "One must know and recognize the workings of bureaucracy. When these evils are pointed out to whatever government happens to be in power . . . that government should see to it, that these wrongs are righted."

However, unemployment generally has now risen to almost 7 per cent, contradicting "the boasts of the various cabinet ministers about this country's great rate of economic progress."

Production and exports have been falling under the Liberal government, he charged.

Particularly hard-hit were canning and food-processing industries, resulting in increased unemployment in prime agricultural areas like Prince Edward County.

HERRING SPAWN LOW

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — Herring spawn production in British Columbia increased slightly during 1967 but remained far below the average spawn level since 1940, the Nanaimo biological station of the fisheries research board says in a report on herring fishing. The 1967 spawn totalled 94.7 miles compared with 84.7 in 1966 and the C Imp Bnk 4055, 13, down ¼ Imp Bnk average of 199 miles since 1940. Spawn quantity is calculated on the basis of length, width and intensity measurements of depositions on individual spawning grounds.

CPR Request to Close Area Stations Gets OK

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian transport commission has approved a CPR application to close 24 railway station offices in south-central Ontario and provide customer service by telephone from a central point.

A ruling by the commission's railway committee, made public today, authorizes the removal of station agents from these points:

Belleville, Orillia, Midland, Port Hope, Whitby, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Bala, Midhurst, Brighton, Lindsay, Camp Borden, Wo dbridge, Uhthoff, Perth, Sharbot Lake, Kaladar, Bonarlaw, Norwood, Tweed, Myrtle, Claremont, Tichborne and Stabbleside.

The CPR also will be allowed to remove caretakers from stations at Coldwater, Vernon, Pontypool, Cavan and Locust Hill.

All are on the railway's Trenton division. Only rider to the ruling is that stations providing passenger shelter must be kept clean, heated and lighted.

A public hearing on the application was held at Toronto Feb. 13 when representations were made by a group of municipalities.

Job Prospects Dim For Mature Women

You're a married women over 35, your youngest child is in school full-time and your days are suddenly empty.

The women's magazines have been telling you it's unpatriotic to hide your talents behind the dust mop. The Canadian economy needs the contribution of members of the vast pool of skilled, but unproductive older women, they say.

So you're thinking of looking for work, even of "taking a course" to brush up on your skills and give you an edge in the labor market.

Forget it.

As long as you live in Belleville, that is.

With ten per cent of the district's labor force unemployed, compared to an Ontario average of 3.5 per cent, the chances of an older married woman finding work are dim.

Nor will extra training help.

Mrs. X, forty-ish, with four children in school and several years' experience on ad-advanced business machines before her marriage 17 years ago, discovered this the hard way.

Before looking for a job three years ago, she prudently decided to up-date her skills. At considerable inconvenience and expense she took a course in IBM key punch operation in Toronto, leaving behind her kids in the care of her vacationing husband.

On her return she found that the few local firms with key punch machines has filled their positions with experienced operators.

Mrs. X eventually found a low-paid, routine office job in which a bit of filing is the hardest strain put on her clerical skills.

Miss Y's story has a happy ending. Newly graduated from a high school commercial course, she too decided a key punch course would increase her chances of employment. She took the same course as Mrs. X, and on her return to Belleville ran into the same problem — no jobs.

But Miss Y was 18, unmarried and mobile. She went back to Toronto, and immediately found employment as a key punch operator at a starting salary at $85 a week.

"Most of the women seeking work in Belleville are adequately trained and have the type of personality, appearance and work attitudes employers want," a Canada Manpower counsellor says. "They don't need training. They need jobs."

"This is an exodus area," says a man long acquainted with the local employment situation. "We spend vast amounts on educating our children, only to ship them out to the labor market in other areas.

"None of the money we have spent on them is returned to the community. They spend their wages outside Belleville, marry, buy a house and furniture and groceries and pay hospital bills for their babies, all in another community."

"We are in the process of training the most skilled unemployed labor force in the world," Laurier LaPierre told a Belleville Canadian Club audience a month ago.

Edward J. Buckley, co-ordinator of the Ontario Manpower Retraining Program in Belleville, agrees, at least, as far as women are concerned. This year he cancelled the retraining course in commercial skills offered at the Quinte Secondary School adult education centre.

"We have trained so many women in clerical skills since the program began that we've glutted the market and driven wages down," he claims.

For women planning a new career Mr. Buckley has some practical advice.

"The area of human service has the greatest need for workers, because it never can be automated," he says. At the moment, there's a crying need for registered nursing assistants in the city."

J. R. Staveley, of the Canada Manpower office here concurs.

"Best bets as occupational choices for young women are the service occupations waitresses, cooks, teachers, nurses, social and welfare workers."

An up-beat note is sounded by Belleville's industrial commissioner, Ray Brown.

"The pendulum of economic development is swinging from western to eastern Ontario," he says.

"High density of people and industry in western Ontario has created problems, especially in the matter of water supply. Provincial planners are plotting a move toward decentralization, which, if carried through, will be too Belleville's advantage.

"Already, a new prospective is shaping up as a result of the coming of new industries and expansion of existing ones during 1967. About 1.4 service jobs are opened up by each new job created in manufacturing.

"The 227 industrial jobs created by 1967 industrial development will in turn create 319 jobs in the service group—openings for store clerks, waitresses, nurses, teachers and the like."

The rush towards gainful employment on the part of older married women has hardly reached stampede proportions.

Of all Canadian women, only one - third are working at full - time, paid occupations,

And only a half of this total or one - sixth, are married women.

The moral is clear. If you are married, mature, and intent on a job — make a career of service.

In the Quinte district, it seems woman's traditional role is also her most economically advantageous.

Nixon's Daughter Helps His Campaign

EXETER, N.H. (AP) — For nearly three hours, Julie Nixon has been shaking hands with hundreds of strangers.

Her cheek muscles strain from smiling. Her lips are dry. Her calves ache from standing, yet she remains poised and alert. Outwardly she seems to bubble.

Hundreds of potential voters pass in front of her: a retired mill worker, a middle-aged man on crutches, a short, a barber, an old lady with smeared eye make-up who shakes her hand, then puts her cheek.

"Hello, it's nice to see you," Julie Nixon says for the 300th time that day, the 1,000th time that week.

Here in New Hampshire 19-year-old Julie is representing her father, Richard Milhouse Nixon, who wants to be president of the United States.

And because she wants her father's dream to come true, Julie Nixon is willing to go against her own nature and expose herself to the hazards and the limelight of a political campaign.

"I don't like the publicity and hate answering personal questions," she says, "but I'll do anything to help my father."

Tomorrow she'll be Julie Nixon, a shy sophomore at Smith College in Northampton, Mass. She'll be sitting in history classes, studying in the library, and taking her turn at waiting on dining room tables, a custom of all Smith girls. Some evenings she will spend seven miles away at Amherst College, with her fiance, David Eisenhower, grandson of former president Eisenhower.

Julie has grown up faster than most young women. And she's been more restricted. She can't even consider wearing a mini-skirt. She doesn't voice publicly her opinions on sex, drugs, money and men — subjects all college girls discuss.

Yet, how does a girl react when she hears her father criticized?

Of course it bothers her, she says, and she's been hearing this since she was 12 years old when her father ran against John F. Kennedy for the 1960 presidency.

"It's shattering to be told your father stinks," Julie said.

Pattern Sizes Change

From now on you will come across some patterns that are changed in sizing measurements.

This new sizing, developed and approved by the Measurement Standard Committee of the pattern industry, will correspond more closely to standard ready-to-wear sizes.

The bust measurement is the key to your correct pattern size for all garments, except skirts and pants. If you wear a size 12 dress, you probably took a size 12 pattern (bust measurement 34 inches). With the new sizing you will take one size smaller than before.

The bust measurement for all patterns will be stated in the description of the patterns so that you can be sure of your pattern size. Waist measurement will guide you for skirts and pants.

The change in measurements affects only the size ranges for Junior Miss, Teens, Misses, Half Sizes and Women's patterns. Size measurements for children and girls will be about the same.

Nuns Need Adaptability

MONTREAL (CP)—Today's nun needs to be both a more complete and a more profoundly sensitive person than the religious woman of early Christian periods, a Roman Catholic leader said Friday.

Rev. Rene Voillaume, founder of La Fraternite des petits freres de Jesus, a social - working religious brotherhood, spoke to 5,000 Montreal - area nuns holding a study week on the role of consecrated women in the Church.

Father Voillaume said today's nun must be both spiritually contemplative and able to adapt to and work in the terrestrial world around her.

He was given a letter to carry to the Pope in Rome, where he is travelling to attend the Pope's retreat. The letter says the nuns have chosen a quiet week at their core of responding to the Pope's call to make 1968 a year of faith.

The nuns also sent a telegram to Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger asking for remembrance in the prayers of the former archbishop of Montreal who is working in Yaoude, a community in Cameroun.

ZI BETA ZETA

The 15th meeting of Zi Beta Zeta was held at the home of Elizabeth Block, with the vice - president, Jean Desmond, in charge.

Mrs. Dentlond presented a silver coffee spoon to Mrs. Roy Jeffrey a former member of the chapter and guest for the evening.

Zi Alpha Mu Chapter requested one person from each chapter to model at its spring project, a fashion show and bridge, March 16, at St. Thomas' Parish Hall.

April 2 was suggested as the date for a model meeting of the chapter.

Instead of a program, a work meeting was held under the direction of Mrs. Jeffrey. The members made artificial flowers to be sold as a spring project

NEIGHBORS' ALD

2nd THURLOW — The Neighbors' Aid members of 2nd Thurlow along with husbands and friends enjoyed a potluck dinner at the hall on Wednesday evening with Mrs. Joe Langevin and Mrs. Harry Thomson as hostesses.

Later the president, Mrs. Jim Doodle, conducted a short business period with Mrs. M. Dent and Mrs. A. Mitchell in charge of correspondence and financial report respectively.

During the afternoon members worked on a quilt and the meeting closed in the usual manner.

Next meeting will be held the fourth Wednesday in March.

A euchre party was held at the Aid Hall on Friday evening with Mrs. E. Vivian and Mrs. Harry Grills as hostesses. Thirteen tables were in play with winners of prires as follows: Mrs. Jim Hilton, Mrs. Douglas Atkins, Betty Clarke, V. R. Watts, Mrs. J. Chumbley and Tim LaBrash. The lucky draw prize was won by Mrs. O. Beer.

Lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

Carpet Softens Life For Hockey Players

Once upon a time, some people removed their shoes when they walked on carpeted floors. In 1968, some people don't even remove their skates! The Toronto Maple Leaf hockey team, for example. Their dressing room has been carpeted wall-to-wall.

Attitudes have changed. And soft floorcovering has changed. It is no longer the fragile "just for the front parlor" item it once was. This is due to tough man-made fibres, new textures and patterns and modern soil-hiding colors.

The Maple Leaf Gardens' dressing room carpet is constructed of nylon in three pile heights. The color, an attractive three-tone blue tweed, was chosen to match the team's Maple Leaf blue color.

"The nylon carpet can be easily cleaned," said Thomas C. Harlocker, vice-president and managing director of Burlington Carpets "and we're not worried about skates cutting it.

Coach Punch Imlach says the players have expressed enthusiasm for the new carpet. "And it seems to be making the boys tidier in the dressing room," he said. "I've noticed they're more careful about putting things away since the carpet was installed".

Maybe that might give mothers of young fry some ideas.

ALBURY JUNIORETTES

The second meeting of the Albury Juniorettes was held at the home of Barb Peck when 14 girls were present.

Discussion included: preparing the fabric for cutting; choosing a pattern; measurements and altering the pattern. Evelyn Peck and Bernice Rogers showed the correct way to take measurements and the leader showed how to alter a pattern and the points to study in a dress pattern.

The next meeting is to be held in the basement of Albury Church on March 2, 9.30 a.m.

Home-based Meal Service Can Grow into Big Business

Dear Doris: I would like to start something in the line of take-home meals. What I have in mind is such things as baked chicken with chips and peas, or hamburger on a bun and chips, and salad with the orders.

You see, I have experience in cooking in cafes and hotels. Do you think this is a good idea?—It is pretty hard to get a job here and I do have to make money as my husband is not well and can't work steady. — Ever Grateful

Dear Grateful: If you are a good cook and have some business sense, it could work up to something really special.

Three cautions: Don't stint on the best of home-cooking ingredients; be sure your prices cover your costs and give you a profit; and start small.

One woman started by making up a batch of choice pickle for sale to neighbors; another created delectable sandwiches and canapes for afternoon teas. Both eventually became sought-after wedding caterers.

• • •

Dear Doris: A person asked a wife ago about an old readier by mother read in her called "Golden Windows".

When she started retool it had been replaced. I used this book in our country school. I have a ragged old copy I wouldn't part with; but would had lady like some of the poems and stories typed up from it? I would be pleased to copy them for her. — B. R.

Dear B. R.: Aren't you a sport! Maybe "A Reader" will see your kind offer and write in to take you so on it. Unfortunately she gave me no name nor any way of reaching her when she wrote in before.

• • •

Confidential to Sleepy and Useless: The age difference between you and your wife is nothing to lie down and die about. The doctor says you are in A1 condition; why on believe him? You have deliberately put yourself on the shelf, at 28.

The bout with tuberculosis made you lose confidence in yourself but there is no need to sit around now and wait for old age to catch up with you. Part time regular work would be a good start; even if this had to be right around your own house and garden.

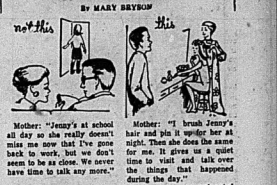
• • •

Confidential to Modern Parent: One thing is sure: You won't get in first have until you make an effort to see things from where Junior is sitting. Show interest; listen when he talks.



Get across the idea that he does have some ideas that are worth considering. Then and only then is it fair to try to deliver some gems of your own. You want to rear an individual, not a clammed-up yes-man.

• • •

Anonymous letters are bad manners and may be ignored. When writing in, give Doris your right name and address. It will be kept confidential.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Jenny's at school all day so she really doesn't miss me now that I've gone back to work, but we don't seem to be as close. We never have time to talk any more."

Mother: "I brush Jenny's hair and pin it up for her at night. Then she does the same for me. It gives us a quiet time to visit and talk over the things that happened during the day."

Working mothers must manage to have some unhurried time with each child every day if they wish to keep the lines of communication open.

Teenagers Should Pause In Kitchen For Once-a-Week Cooking Lesson

By MARY MOORE

High school students who rush into the house to eat, study and dress for dates should pause in the kitchen at least once per week to learn to cook one thing.

After your first practice session making these broiled beef cakes you can improvise and follow your own imagination's dictates in varying the flavorings. But start with mine to learn the basic ingredients.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Turkey Hash; Egg Sauce; Spinach; Celery Hearts; Glazed Blueberry Tarts; White Cream Cheese; Coffee.

BROILED BEEF CAKES MIGNON (6)

NOTE: Mignon means that the meat is bacon-wrapped and usually applies to fillet of beef — that is tenderloin.

Preheat broiler burner.

1¼ lbs. ground chuck beef (or other ground stewing beef)

½ cup boiling water

1 Oxo cube

1 slice whole wheat (or white) bread OR ½ cup packed soft breadcrumbs

½ tsp. salt

1 tbsp. finely chopped or grated onion

1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

1 egg

6 slices side bacon

Into large mixing bowl measure boiling water and add Oxo cube and bread (or breadcrumbs) and leave to soften. Mix well to dissolve Oxo cube and break up bread. Add all remaining ingredients except bacon. With clean hands mix until thoroughly blended.

On counter or board shape into 6 even neat cakes about 1¼" thick by 2½" in diameter. Wrap each around sides with one slice of side bacon and secure overlapped ends with two toothpicks, plunging them into the meat cakes. Transfer to lightly oiled or greased rack on broiler pan. Broil, 4" from burner, turning over when top is medium brown, and brown ing other side. For pink inside broil 10 to 12 min., for well done broil 15 to 18 min.

Delicious served with delicate fried whole mushrooms or creamed mushrooms.

Or an easy accompaniment for beginners is Canadian can of new potatoes, 19-oz., can costs about 22 cents. Open and drain and pat potatoes dry. Melt 2 tbsp. butter in 10-in. frying pan, add potatoes, and sprinkle with salt and fry until gold, shaking pan to turn them over. If desired just before serving, add 2 tbsp. finely chopped parsley and shake and turn to coat them with it.

Mary Moore is in Victoria, BC, visiting her daughter. Please hold up your letters to her until March 30th when she returns home.

Understanding Volunteer Can Change Her Community

TORONTO (CP) — The kindly volunteer who teaches an underprivileged child on an outing may have no idea of the ripples she is starting in society.

The person who says with a shrug, "What can I do?" might find out if she understood how her community works.

This is the general idea behind schools for citizenship being planned by the National Council of Jewish Women of Canada. They are intended to attract the woman who is apathetic because she doesn't know where to start.

They want to teach the working volunteer how to look beyond her immediate action.

Mrs. N. I. Zemens and Mrs. David Kovits of Calgary have been organizers of a blueprint for the proposed schools. It was presented as a curriculum blueprint at a seminar for representatives of the council's local branches which, it was hoped, will organize schools in their sections.

One premise on which the curriculum is based is that an individual can work most effectively through an organization, even when working for the cause of individual rights and liberties.

Mrs. Zemens says the two major difficulties are built right into a volunteer group's efforts to attract and hold membership.

"One is women's apathy toward participating in the problems of society. Women just don't want to be bothered.

"The other is that people are not knowledgeable enough about how a community functions to relate to it and help it function."

The curriculum background suggests a group must define its role and make sure its members understand what it is.

Mrs. Zemens says most people look for immediate satisfaction when they do volunteer work, without always being aware they are tampering with important things in society. She cites the council's work with underprivileged pre-schoolers as an example. A volunteer doing such work is affecting the child's values, the education system and personal and public economies.

"When people render a direct service they don't realize they are acting as change agents. In order for an organization to be valuable, members need this kind of understanding."

The suggested program for a council school involves a series of sessions dealing with social rights, the way a community serves the individual, the group, the volunteer. Each council section is to set up the program with such speakers as social scientists, city planners, members of the Company of Young Canadians.

The curriculum framework recommends the talks be combined with member discussion, field trips, films and reports from members who have attended, for instance, city council meetings.

Mrs. Zemens says she hopes the schools will start next fall and would like to see them built into council activities, not offered for one year only.

WHITE CANE CLUB

The White Cane Club of Belleville and district held a business meeting at the Recreation Centre Wednesday evening with the president, Clarence Morris, in charge.

The deaths of two well-known blind Canadians, both of Toronto, were reported. W. Gomm, who died Jan. 15, was a member of the former Comrades of the War and the Book of Fame originated and was also a member of the CCB Book of Fame committee. Sandford Leppard, the 1967 recipient of the CCB award of merit gold medal, died Jan. 17. He had marked his 106th birthday Nov. 18, 1967.

It was announced that Mrs. Mary G. Patterson, national president of the Canadian Council of the Blind, would be the guest speaker at the 18th birthday party of the local club March 30.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Mac Graham, Allan Weese and William Pearson, who presented country music with guitar accompaniment.

Children's Library Has Continental Flavor

MONTREAL (CP) — The Darlington children's library in central Montreal has a distinct Continental flavor.

There, tucked away between hundreds of books, children from many parts of the world congregate for a "meeting of the minds" through shelf - lined catalysts of friendship.

It's not unusual to watch language barriers crumble as a little Hungarian girl settles herself beside a small Greek boy, a colorful picture bookbetween their only bridge of communication.

Sponsored and operated by the National Council of Jewish Women, the library's function, says Mrs. Joseph Oupcher, is to provide "a link between home and school."

"A lot of mothers in the area have to work. They send their children here during or after school hours, with house keys strung around their necks, and have them stay till early evening."

Some of the small Canadian immigrants speak no English or French during their first few weeks in Canada, but several weeks later they begin to exchange pleasantries in either or both languages.

Equipped for her job as chief librarian with five languages at her disposal — French, English, Italian, Romanian and Russian — Mrs. Oupcher plans a busy program for her pint-sized United Nations class.

The immigrant youngsters come from countries as far away as Morocco, Algeria, Egypt, France, Israel, Hungary, Greece and Germany, but once inside the library they are exposed to a healthy smattering of French and English.

"We have to have material on hand on all subjects of interest to youth," says the chief librarian.

Mrs. Oupcher, originally from Romania, has extended the library's services to include learning jaunts for older children to radio and television stations.

She keeps the younger children busy practising writing and art work.

The early afternoon is devoted to the young-sters but later an onslaught of older children from elementary and high schools in the neighborhood breaks the calm atmosphere.

"The after-school rush is really something to see. What's surprising is that organization exists amidst the confusion," says Mrs. Cyril Reitman, one of the volunteers who helps the two permanent librarians.

Ann Landers

Mob Seems to Thrive On Stranger's Tragedy

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was driving home last night and passed a horrible automobile accident. There were several police cars with flashing lights, sirens, ambulances, and of course a huge mob of bystanders.

Please tell me, Ann Landers, what is there about a stranger's tragedy that draws throngs of people who do nothing but stand there and stare? Not a soul offers to help all they want to do is crowd in as close to the injured and dying as possible and get their eyeful. I had an impulse to scream at the spectators, "What if it were your mother or husband or child who was mangled body was being lifted out of the wreckage? Would you want a pack of strangers standing around as if they were watching a movie?"

ANN LANDERS

What is there about bloodshed and tragedy that draws strangers? Need to feed the mind that it actually enjoys viewing horrible sights? I have been searching for an answer to this question and I hope you can provide it. — HARTFORD CONNECTICUT.

DEAR HEART: It is a human characteristic to crave excitement, stimulation, something different from the ordinary (and often dull) pattern of daily existence. People are attracted to situations which involve destruction, disaster, conflict and agony (particularly somebody else's) — simply because it's exciting. Fascination for the morbid exists in all of us. It may be somewhere beneath the civilized man, but it is there nonetheless. This explains the huge success of bullfights, auto races, prize fights — and the crowds who gather at accidents. I guess the answer to your question is that man is not quite as civilized as we would like to believe.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a supermarket checker and one day I am going to write a book about the public. You wouldn't believe the things people do when they think nobody is looking.

I will confine myself to one complaint which bothers me most — the customer who gets seasick when she don't know how much money she has to spend. When it dawns on her that she has more items in her cart than she can pay for, she starts abandoning any old thing. It's not so bad when the items are canned goods or cereal, but frozen foods and steaks and dairy products do spoil. It's maddening to find four double-rib lamb chops hidden behind the detergents.

Please print this letter for the benfit of people who don't know any better. — OTHER SIDE OF THE COUNTER.

DEAR OTHER SIDE: I disagree that these people don't know any better. Bad manners and a lack of consideration for someone else's property are at the bottom of this crude behavior. So here's your letter and a word from me: If you can't pay for it right, take it back where you got it.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 17 but very mature for my age and I look older. I am in love with a wonderful man who is 33 but he is very boyish looking and acts young, too. By the way, he is my uncle. I should make it clear that he is not a blood relative, he is an uncle by marriage.

We have had many long talks and I have a feeling he is going to ask me to marry him. My friends don't think it will work. I'd like your opinion. — REAL EYELASHES.

REAR REAL: Uncles are nice, but not as husbands. When you say he is an uncle by marriage, I hope you don't mean he is a married man. In any event, the whole thing is like forget it on the grounds that he is too old for you. By the way, where are your parents?

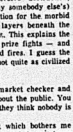
HASTINGS COUNTY SUMMARY DAY

The Summary Day for the course, Baking With Yeast, was held Wednesday in Stirling Community Hall.

This day concludes a course given by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food. Ten Institutes in Hastings County presented the course for their members.

Over 100 members were present, and each group gave a two-minute report in the form of a skit, poem, or reading on what it thought of the course.

Miss Louise MacInnis, foods and nutrition specialist from Toronto, gave a report and showed a film on wheat.



A display of yeast products made by all those who had completed the course was a feature of the event and at the end of the day names were drawn for a bread exchange.

Field Naturalists Hear Former City Taxidermist

A former Belleville area taxidermist, Mrs. Alma Wallis of Rolphton, Ont., was the speaker at the annual banquet of the Quinte Field Naturalists' Club held recently at the Eastminster United Church.

Taxidermist, nature lover and out of doors photographer, Mrs. Wallis related many of her experiences on trap lines, moose hunts, and picture - taking safaris, illustrating her stories with a selection of colored slides.

With many people, fishing expeditions and hunting trips end with a frying pan, but Mrs. Wallis has made a lasting record of many of her exploits, to her own satisfaction and to the delight of those privileged to see them.

Club president Terry Sprague conducted a minimal amount of business, following which Miss Daisy Young held a draw for favors and for everwelcome bird houses, made and donated by Mac Wallbridge. The speaker of the evening was introduced by Past President Mrs. W. A. Watson. Miss Lillian Hart's specially - composed songs were a feature of the meeting.

March of Dimes Best In History of Society

It's been that kind of year for the March of Dimes in Belleville: simply great.

City campaign chairman Fred Deacon today confirmed it's been the best year the March has known since 1962.

With all donations finally tallied, the fund which aids paraplegic rehabilitation collected $3,800 in Belleville and the immediate city area.

Reacted Mr. Deacon: "We're absolutely delighted— and very grateful."

The response of Bellevillians will be added to campaign funds from all Eastern Ontario and contributed to area activities. Most important of these is a newlyopened rehabilitation workshop in Kingston.

Mr. Deacon pointed out that this year's campaign produced the largest sum of the past six years. The organization was a member of the Belleville United Appeal for the past two years. Receipts during the previous five years were as follows: 1962 — $5510; 1964 — $5010; 1965 — $4150; 1966 — $3795 (U.A.), and 1967 — $4500 (U.A.).

The Foundation was dropped from the United Appeal last year when the latter decided that it wanted only those organizations which spent its entire local budget at the local level. Mr. Deacon explained that the Foundation has found it more practical to operate on an area basis.

He said that this year's results were particularly gratifying because an entirely new organization had to be developed. This began last fall with the appointment of a new seven-man board, consisting of the following: Mr. Deacon, chairman; Roland Belanger, treasurer; Paul Russell, secretary; Dave Sovereign, publicity; Ross Burtt, coin collectors; Mrs. Steven Morphy and Mrs. Phillip Bennett, recruiting.

Mr. Deacon pointed out that the prime contribution to the disabled by the Foundation (and its fund-raising campaign, the March of Dimes) was its effort to return them to useful roles in the community by facilitating their employment to the limit of their capacities. To do this, it has a staff of psychologists, social workers, counsellors, occupational therapists and placement officers, and three centres (Toronto, Hamilton and London) where the disabled are assessed for their capabilities. Clinics are held periodically in several other parts of the province.

"If a person's ability to work is assessed at less than 50 per cent of normal," said Mr. Deacon, "we arrange for work to be done in the person's home. If more than 50 per cent, we place him or her in one of our ten sheltered workshops where, ideally, we can gradually raise his efficiency and place him in a fully competitive job in industry."

The Foundation also provides wheelchairs, braces and other appliances for patients who do not qualify for assistance through government services. This would include older persons or severely disabled ones who are not likely to be able to return to "gainful employment" as defined by the province.

Money and effort are also expended on research, professional education, and public education — the last being partly an attempt to convince the employers that a disabled adult who has been assessed and proven capable in a workshop is an efficient and reliable employee.

"There's a good monetary reason for hiring such people, apart from the more important humanitarian one and the fact that they are good workers", said Mr. Deacon. "If they are not hired, they have to go on full welfare, and this can be disastrous to the tax rate."

The Belleville campaign total contributes to a province - wide objective of $850,000. Because coin - collecting boxes are usually left in stores until they are full, complete Ontario results of the 1968 campaign are not expected for some time.

Poppy Fund Lists Officers

The first meeting of the year for the Poppy Fund was held at the Canadian Legion Hall Feb. 26.

The meeting opened with the observance of two minutes' silence for departed comrades. President E. E. Smith of the Canadian Legion conducted the election of officers. They are: chairman, Joe Marriott; secretary, Garry Wood; treasurer, G. Carberry; committee, Billy Kirby, Ruth Grose, Jim Stone, Gerry Grose, George Christopher.

Goodyear Names C. E. Clarke As Treasurer

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Ltd. has announced that a Belleville native, C. E. Clarke, has been appointed treasurer of the board of directors.

Mr. Clarke formerly held the position of assistant treasurer.

He graduated from Osgoode Hall in 1949, joined Goodyear in 1952 and served in the law department until 1959, when he was appointed general credit manager. He was named assistant treasurer in 1965.

PCs Find Age Gap Evident

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — The generation gap appeared to dominate proceedings during a weekend meeting of Ontario's Young Progressive Conservatives.

Four hundred delegates to the annual meeting, advertised as a blend of fun and politics, chose a Miss Young Progressive Conservative, rejected aid to Vietnam and heard national Leader Robert Stanfield outline the strategy he will take in fighting the general election he expects this year.

At a press conference given prior to a dinner speech Saturday night, Mr. Stanfield said he would welcome increased youth participation at the senior levels of the party.

"I don't think a young Conservative should have special respect just because he is young," Mr. Stanfield said, "but I hope the young will find it easy to move ahead in the Conservative party."

Mr. Stanfield said there is a gap between the attitudes of young and old Canadians toward Canada's stand on Vietnam.

Canadians who remembered the years between the wars recall being critical of U.S. isolationism at the time, he said, and are rather more sympathetic toward the Americans today now they are embroiled in world affairs.

In his speech, Mr. Stanfield said Canada faces economic difficulties and the Progressive Conservatives have the policies to cope with them.

"Canada is, today, a country in difficulty. Our rate of economic growth is only half of what it must be. Unemployment is rising. Prices are rising. Inflation continues. Investment is falling off.

"It seems as likely as not there will be a federal general election this year."

Leaving his text Mr. Stanfield said the party must put forth its position on other issues as well, but "we must put the emphasis on economic policies."

Eli Comay, former planning commissioner of Metropolitan Toronto, told a community development seminar at Trent University Saturday that older houses which should be available to the lower-income group are being bought by the higher-income groups who turn them into town houses after extensive renovation.

"Instead of becoming cheap old houses, they are being made desirable, expensive old houses," Mr. Comay said.

"In effect, old houses which could become available to lower income groups are being diverted from them."

There were 125 negative and 85 affirmative answers to the question: Should Canada send aid to the populations of both North and South Vietnam?

Of the 400 delegates to the meeting, 227 answered the s'spoint questionnaire and some only answered some of the questions.

There were 168 who answered No and 44 who answered Yes to the proposal: The Canadian government should condemn Canadian business complicity in the Vietnam conflict by their selling of arms and munitions to allied countries involved in the Vietnam war.

To the proposition Canada should send volunteer troops to Vietnam, 150 were opposed and 46 in favor.

Canada should encourage Washington to halt the bombing only if the Viet Cong indicate a willingness to negotiate, in the opinion of 153 of the 197 YPCs who answered the question.

The policy and resolutions session Saturday passed a resolution calling for Canadian participation in municipal politics with party backing.

Other resolutions passed by the 80 delegates at the session called for:

—Inclusion of students at universities and colleges in the decision-making bodies of their institutions;

—Studies at the university level into the role of mass media in the political process; and —Stronger youth representation in senior party circles.

Allan Lawrence, recentlynamed mines minister of Ontario and MLA for Toronto-St. George, told a session on urban development a commission is needed to plan and administer all transportation facilities in southern Ontario.

MUSHMOUTH REPORTS

Dear Boss: —

A clutch of the Unks were down for the weekend and the main topic of the gathering after a few bankers of spiked clam juice was the big farce of shamateurism that has infested international sports gatherings since a French baron named Baron Pierre de Coubertin resurrected the Olympic Games after a lapse of 15 centuries.

Uncle Slug, a great student of ancient mythology, opined the banning of gifts to world athletes — or any others as far as that is concerned — is the greatest farce since the ancient Romans barred "topless" gals from witnessing their heroes grab the olive wreaths.

"And a bigger farce," quoth the Unk "is the line of difference set down between the values of gifts. The chaser for this joke," he says, "is the code of ethics adopted by certain sports organizations."

Uncle Slunk who operates a pawnbrokers salon in a New York ghetto wants to know "whatinell is the difference, gift-wise — between a two-dollar neckie and $5,000 wrapped up in a new automobile?"

"The Olympics haven't changed much since the ancient Greeks and Romans declared a truce, parked their battle-axes and short swords in mountain-side resorts and decided to settle their differences on the field of athletics."

The Greeks had a mythical god they called Zeus, Zensy, said Unk Slug, occupied one of the tallest mountains in Olympus.

Present-day Olympics and other world "amateur" meets have a god of their own. They call him Brundage.

"You were there, boss, several years ago when Barbara Ann Scott visited Belleville with an ice show after she turned pro and she told you with tears in her eyes of man's inhumanity to women when Brundage the Almighty ordered her to return an automobile given her by the hometown city of Ottawa."

"Years ago," said Unk Slug, "they took away the gold medals of the Olympics from the famous Indian athlete Jim Thorpe. They claimed he had accepted a few bucks for playing baseball before his Olympic victory."

Now, boss ,these holier-than-thou wolves are eyeing Canada's Nancy Greene and threatening to take the amateur status she accepted some trinkets from a grateful nation.

"If they go by the Olympic standards," said Unk Slug, "there's not an amateur athlete in the world today. The signing of the four-strikeout by the Americans in the recent world hockey tournament added but a few hundred to the large list of liars in the world."

According to Frank Menzke's Sports Encyclopedia, the banning of gifts to Olympics winners did not originate with the ancient Greeks.

It says, "At the conclusion of the Olympics festival the winners were escorted to the statue of Zeus where there were impressive ceremonies."

"Returning to his home, each victor was showered with honors. He entered a hole in the city wall to point out that a city possessed of an athlete of such prowess need have no further harm from enemies."

"The winner was then wined and dined lavishly at public expense. Gifts were forced upon him. He was exempted from taxation. As a climax he was permitted to build a statue to himself. If he lacked funds, wealthy townsmen subscribed the necessary money."

While Zeus fiddled, the Roman Legions burned, they finally took over from the Greeks and burned poor old Zeus's statue.

And so died the Olympics, boss, until the French Baron brought them back in 1895.

And thus was born the first Olympic oath: — "We swear we will take part in the Olympic Games in loyal competition in the true spirit of sportsmanship for, the honor of our country and the glory of sport."

Since then a lot of Olympic athletes and other world competitors have felt the "change" will do them good."

Three Off Pace

Rangers Eye Lead; Habs Hit Skids

Lose Three In Row

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

No matter where you look in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division, the threat is coming from New York Rangers.

JOHN FERGUSON

The Rangers have been hanging tough in the divisional playoff race all season, but only in the last month have they shown themselves a determined threat to take it all.

With successive 4-0 shutouts at home during the weekend, against Philadelphia Flyers Saturday and Chicago Black Hawks Sunday, they've moved to within three points of leading Montreal Canadiens and two points ahead of second-place Chicago.

At the same time, goalie Ed Giacomin has taken the lead in shutouts with seven, Rod Gilbert has moved into a scoring tie with Stan Mikita of Chicago and Jean Ratelle is in third place tied with Chicago's Bobby Hull.

On the other end of the surprise spectrum is the sudden collapse of Montreal, which for 25 games was as hot as New York now has become.

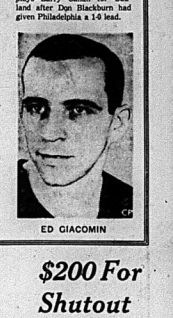
The Canadiens lost only one game in 25 following a Christmas night defeat to Chicago and moved from near the division cellar to a solid first place.

But in the last four games—all on the road—the Habs have managed just one tie and lost 3-2 Saturday to Minnesota North Stars before dropping a 2-0 decision Sunday to Detroit Red Wings.

In other Sunday games, Oakland Seals tied Philadelphia 1-1 in a game played at New York's Madison Square Garden when the roof of the Philadelphia Spectrum had holes blown in it for the second time in two weeks by high winds Friday and Boston Bruins demolished St. Louis 9-3.

Saturday Toronto Maple Leafs clipped Los Angeles Kings 5-2 while Chicago and St. Louis tied 3-3 and Oakland and Pittsburgh Penguins tied 6-6.

The league is idle today with Tuesday's only game involving Montreal at Los Angeles.



When the Rangers scored their 10th successive Sunday night home victory and their fifth league victory in a row, Gilbert and Ratelle each picked up an assist to give them 44 each as co-leaders in the league in that department. Hull still leads in goals with 42.

The single points also gave Gilbert 73, the same as Mikita, and Ratelle 71, the same as Hull.

All four earned points Saturday, Mikita getting his 30th and 7th goals, Hull his 42nd, Gilbert a goal and assist and Ratelle two assists.

Vic Hadfield scored twice Sunday for the Rangers with Reg Fleming and Don Marshall getting the other goals. Hadfield also scored for them Saturday with Bob Nevin netting a pair.

In the first game of the day in the Garden, the first time in NHL history that two league games have been played under the same roof the same day, both teams scored on power plays—Larry Cahan for Oakland after Don Blackburn had given Philadelphia a 1-0 lead.

ED GIACOMIN

Third World Title

GENEVA (CP) — Peggy Fleming, the United States' dazzling ice queen, added a third straight world championship to her Olympic figure skating gold medal Saturday, then announced a marriage is in the offing.

"Yes, there is a marriage in the making," the brunette said after completing her international sweep. "But I can't tell you anything more about it."

She said she has had offers to join professional ice shows. But she also said she has a chance for a four-year scholarship and didn't say which she would choose.

Miss Fleming's performance in the free-skating segment of the championships increased her lead over runner-up Gaby Seifert of East Germany to 89.9 points. Never before in a women's world championship has anyone finished so far in front.

$200 For Shutout Goalie

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a four-point weekend for New York Rangers and a $200 weekend for goaltender Eddie Giacomin.

Giacomin, who earns a $100 bonus from the club everytime he plays a shutout, completed a weekend sweep Sunday with a 4-0 victory over Chicago Black Hawks that swept the streaking Rangers into second place in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division.

Saturday, Giacomin and the Rangers blanked Philadelphia Flyers 4-0. The Flyers managed just 18 shots at the New York goalie and that was five more than Chicago got at him.

"The way the forwards and defencemen are checking in front of me," Eddie said Sunday, "it's been a cinch."

Five Goals In 2 Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rene Drolet and Quebec Aces had quite a weekend in the American Hockey League.

The Aces picked up a pair of weekend victories, 5-1 Saturday over Springfield Kings and 5-2 Sunday over Providence Reds.

The victories pulled the Aces to within three points of Rochester Americans and Cleveland Barons, tied for first in the Western Division and ran Quebec's win streak to five games.

Drolet, a Quebec City native, paced the Aces with three goals Saturday and two Sunday.

In other Sunday games, Springfield and Buffalo Bisons tied 3-3 while Rochester bombed Hershey Bears 7-1 before Seattle Totems of the Western League dropped Baltimore Clippers 5-2.

Senior 'A'

Hornets, Kings Advance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Hornets and Collingwood Kings have advanced into the semi-final playoffs of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series.

Collingwood defeated Guelph Regals 6-3 Sunday to win their best-of-seven, quarter-final series in four consecutive games. Galt topped Oakville Oaks 2-0 Saturday and 6-4 Sunday to take that series in four straight.

In other action, Woodstock Alcans downed Kingston Aces 5-2 Sunday to tie their best-of-seven, quarter-final set at two games each.

Collingwood now meets Toronto Marlboros in a best-of-seven, semi-final series. Galt will play a similar set against either Woodstock or Kingston.

Rangers Move Ahead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Rangers took a giant step Sunday toward clinching first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

The Rangers trounced London Nationals 9-3 to move three points ahead of the second place Montreal Canadiens, who lost 6-4 to Tor-nto Marlboros.

The Canadiens and Rangers have three games remaining as the 10-team league finishes its season this week.

In other games Sunday, St. Catharines Black Hawks thrashed Ottawa 67s 9-2 and Hamilton Red Wings belted Oshawa Generals 11-3.

The Marlboros edged Oshawa 8-4 in the only game played Saturday.

Knudson In Masters

TORONTO (CP) — George Knudson got his coveted invitation to the Masters golf tournament Saturday—the third Canadian to be declared eligible.

It took a lot of work and back-to-back wins on the Professional Golfers Association tour for the Winnipeg-born pro to earn the invitation.

Knudson, now playing out of Toronto's Oakdale golf and country club, has won more than $50,000 on the tour this year, $40,000 of it by taking the Phoenix and Tucson open events just prior to having the last week off. The leading money winner on the tour this season arrived home with his wife and two sons Friday. The letter arrived Saturday.

Boxing Twin Bill

Four Will Pick Up Half-Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, Emile Griffith and the Madison Square Garden box office remained favorites today in a championship boxing doubleheader that could set financial records.

A crowd of 16,000 was expected to see Frazier, an Olympic champion four years ago, battle Buster Mathis for a share of the heavyweight championship after Griffith puts his middleweight crown on the line against Italy's Nino Benvenuti.

Frazier was a 2-to-1 favorite over Mathis and Griffith ruled as an 8-to-5 choice over Benvenuti.

The Garden has guaranteed the four fighters $505,000 and with tickets scaled from $10 to $100, a sellout would gross about $750,000.

The gross receipts record for an indoor fight is $511,000 for the third Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight bout in Miami Beach's Convention Hall, March 13, 1961.

Frazier and Mathis, oldtime foes, battle for the New York and Massachusetts versions of the heavyweight crown. They've fought twice before, both times in amateur bouts, with Mathis winning both.

Both Mathis and Frazier are undefeated as pros, Frazier has 17 knockouts and 18 straight victories while Mathis, the big boy from Grand Rapids, Mich., is 23-0 with 17 knockouts.

The Griffith-Benvenuti scrap is the third meeting between these two, Benvenuti took the middleweight crown from Emile the first time and then Griffith reclaimed it at Shea Stadium last September.

Saskatchewan, Alberta Favored For National Curling Title

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Ron Northcott of Calgary has every thing going for him today in the first round of the Canadian curling championships, but the slim little westerner is not making any predictions.

"You could say we are happy with the draw," said Northcott Sunday after he drew a bye Thursday morning—the only three-game day of the competition. "This is the bye everyone is after, including us."

"But there's 11 other rinks here and they've all got a licence to win. We'll just have to wait and see. Anything can happen this week. It's a wild game."

Northcott, 32, and his rink of Jim Shields third, Bernie Sparkes second and Fred Storey lead, are rated co-favorites with Bob Pickering's Saskatchewan rink from Avonlea. World and Canadian champion in 1965, Northcott is making his fifth trip to the national finals.

"Pickering's rink is loaded with talent," said Northcott when asked the team to beat.

"His second Garnet (Campbell) is making his seventh trip to the Brier and Bob has been here twice before. They'll be tough."

Eleven rinks are entered in the five-day, double-knockout competition—nine provincial champions and one each from Ontario and Northern Ontario. The winner will receive the Macdonald's Brier tankard and earn the right to represent Canada at the world curling championships March 20-23 at Pointe Claire, Que.

Northcott meets Bill Piercey of St. John's, Nfld., in today's first round at 3 p.m. PST while Pickering goes against Bill Tracey's team from Bagotville, Que.

The hard-hitting Alberta rink is heavily favored to dispose of Piercey, but Northcott refused to make any predictions. "They're not easy," he said.

Pickering, meanwhile, could have a long, hard fight with Tracy who is making his fourth trip to the finals. The Quebec rink, curling from the Canadian Forces Base in Bagotville, is expected to turn to a draw game in an attempt to make trouble for the favored Avonlea foursome.

In other first-round games, Robert McCubin of Richmond, B.C., meets Herb Pile's Northern Ontario rink from Gerald ton, Burke Parker of Gilbert Plains, Man., takes on Dr. Don Gilbert of St. Thomas, Ont., and Don Fleming's Nova Scotia rink from Halifax plays Allan Smith of Charlottetown, P.E.I. Gerry Ayer of Fredericton, N.B., has the bye.

The two teams with the worst draw in the competition are Ayer, with the first round, and Gilbert, with the last round Friday. But Ayer has a slight edge, he can see his other 10 competitors before he goes into action while Gilbert must play them all before he can take a rest.

Gilbert and his rink of third Al Zikman, second Jim Waite and lead Dick Ronald were co-favored with Tracy to present the strongest Eastern challenge. But Gilbert had his hopes pinned on the draw.

The 1967 Canadian champion, Alf Phillips Jr. of Toronto, did not qualify to defend his title this year, but in an interview before the competition started he picked Pickering, Northcott and Gilbert as the teams to beat and Tracy and Smith as outsiders.

Prince Edward Island and Quebec are both good enough to knock off some of the stronger teams. But they don't have the horses to go all the way."

Minor Hockey

Six Peewee and five Bantam games were played Saturday in BMHA action, with a number of close games resulting.

In Peewee, the Leafs edged the Canadiens, 3-2. Webster, Coler, and Marta scored for the Leafs. J. Loder and J. Ashley scored for the Canadiens.

An identical 3-2 score found the Indians on top, defeating the Aces. M. Lynch scored two goals for the winners. G. Kerik got the other. M. Boyd and B. Keith scored for the Aces.

The Bisons and Pirates wound up in a 4-4 tie. K. Parry scored three goals for the Pirates. P. Shoy got the singleton. S. Hedge scored twice for the Bisons. J. Harper and K. Hamill each scored once for the Bisons.

The Amerks topped the Barons, 4-2. H. Meena scored three for the winners. R. Neal scored the singleton. G. Hiltz and B. Sweet scored for the Barons.

The Bruins turned back the Wings, 4-1. M. Watt paced the winners with a pair of goals. S. Tracey and J. Farrell scored the other Bruin goals. B. Calnarr scored the lone Wing goal.

The Rangers trounced the Hawks, 8-4. Barbeau paced the Rangers with three goals. Hayward scored a pair, and Gray, Muldoon and Rollins one apiece. Homan, Jianoppoulos, Larimer, and Murray scored for the Hawks.

In Bantam, the Rangers edged the Bruins, 4-3. B. Cousins, Flieger, Richardson and Lark scored for the Bruins. B. Harrington scored twice for the Rangers. J. Roblin scored the singleton goal.

The ANAF Dukes nipped the Wings by an identical 4-3 score. D. Duffy paced the Dukes with three goals, D. Horwood scored the other Duke goal. M. Dales paced the Wings with two goals. R. Burnett scored the other.

The Leafs outscored the Canadiens, 4-3. S. Farrell led the Leaf attack with three goals. W. Anders, S. Carlys, and S. Dever scored the other Leaf goals. Ford scored a pair of goals for the Canadiens. Lawson, Fralick and Williams got the others.

The Aces blanked the Amerks, 3-0. Gary Wallace was in the Ace nets for the shutout. K. Taylor, J. Masterson and S. Burke scored the Ace goals.

The Bears defeated the Hornets, 3-1. Hanna led the Bears with a pair of goals. Tipper scored the other. Graham scored the lone Hornet goal.

Picton Defeats Napanee

Exploding for five unanswered goals in the third period, Picton defeated Napanee 7-2 in the second game of the OHA Intermediate "B" playoffs on Sunday.

The third game is slated for tonight in Napanee.

Picton grabbed a one-goal lead in the first period but Napanee raced back in the second to knot the count at two-all.

The roof fell in on the homesters in the third frame as the Prince Edward crew fired home their first quintet of goals in less than fifteen minutes.

At that Napanee outshot Picton 30-28 on the round.

Picton was assessed eleven of the 17 penalties both teams drew in the scrapbook. The rest were minors.

Faulkner led the Picton assault with two goals. Storey, Jones, James Mulholland and Guernsey also scoring.

James and Pero each had two assists. Storey, Asselline and Scott drawing singles.

Rick Gerow had one and one for Napanee, Vandelac getting the other goal. Aylesworth had two assists.

NE Comets Tie Legs 3-3

Comets and Crazy Legs battled to a 3-3 tie in the first game of the Northern Electric Hockey League finals.

R. Hutchinson, T. Casselman and A. Jones scored for the Comets with B. Smith drawing two assists and M. Pukelnak one.

G. Morrison, P. Ford, and B. Allen counted for the Crazy Legs with D. Boite getting two assists and M. Angus-Ireda and S. Muldoon drawing singles.

Cloyne Ties Foxboro 3-3

The third game of the Central Hastings Hockey League playoffs last Thursday in Madoc wound up in a 3-3 tie between Cloyne and Foxboro.

D. Brady, N. Barrons and H. Brooks scored for Cloyne. R. Gray and E. Meeks picked up assists. L. Marshall, B. Dafoe and J. Stewart scored the Foxboro goals. A. Dafoe and B. Skinner each had two assists.

Cloyne continued to hold a two-games-to-none lead over Foxboro, going into Saturday night's game in Madoc, the results of which are not yet available.

Leeds Captures League Cup

LONDON (CP)-Leeds United won the English League Cup on Saturday by belting Arsenal 1-0 in the final before a capacity crowd of 100,000 soccer fans at Wembley Stadium.

The winning goal came in the 18th minute.

Terry Cooper, the left-back that Leeds wanted to transfer earlier in the season, volleyed in a tremendous drive from 12 yards which gave goalkeeper Jim Furnell no chance.

Leeds has been on the brink of achieving top soccer honors for several years, but this was its first triumph in a major competition. It was assured of another p ze in the Inter-Cities Fairs Cup competition.

Leeds was runnerup in last season's Fairs Cup event, and is a quarter-finalist in the current competition.

In regular games, unpredicta-ble Chelsea defeated Tottenham United 3 in an English League First Division match at Manchester.

But Manchester United kept its three-point lead at the top of the standings because second place Leeds was playing in the Cup final.

A crowd of 62,471 saw Bobby Tambling give Chelsea a 1-0 half-time lead. Tommy Baldwin got the second goal and Peter Osgood the third. Brian Kidd replied for United.

It was the first defeat for Manchester United at Old Trafford in 36 games—a streak that dated back to April, 1966.

Team Heads Home

Nancy Wins Slalom

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP) — A tired and weary Canadian national ski team, including Olympic gold medalist Nancy Greene, headed home Sunday after sweeping all top positions in the Canadian alpine championships during the weekend.

Nancy, the pert 24-year-old champion from Rossland, B.C., and another graduate from the slopes of the Rockies, Rod Heggtveit from Vernon, B.C., were the over-all winners of giant slalom and slalom events.

Team members have been honored at several receptions since they returned from Europe and the Olympics earlier this week.

"It'll sure be nice to get home for a few days," said Nancy. Her slalom and fourth-place standing after the first run of Saturday's giant slalom gave her the highlight of the championships.

In the second run Nancy changed hard and proved her world supremacy by recording the best women's time of the day.

Trent Valley Softball

Expect 5-6 Team Loop

It may be over two months before the first softball is thrown in a serious manner but two district clubs paid their entry fee into the Trent Valley League at that organization meeting here yesterday.

Trenton Carm's and Madoc Juniors were quick to respond to the call for entries despite a small turnout at the Recreation Centre.

A slate of officers for the 1968 season was elected.

Bruce Nickle, Belleville, is the new president with Clifford Belch Jr. past president and Jim Whyte, Trenton, honorary president.

Another Trenton man, Bud Swanson, accepted a second term as treasurer. The office of secretary is still to be filled. Frank Insley agreed to continue in the position until a new secretary is named, likely at the next meeting.

A spokesman from yesterday's meeting said that "prospects are good for a five or six team league".

Campbellford, while unable to attend the Sunday meeting, announced strong intentions of entering while Pat Maracle, last year with Point Anne, was present and said he expected to enter a team from Tyendinaga.

Picton Kinsmen sent word that they would enter the TVL if the Quinte League of last season (Kingston, Belleville and Picton) did not operate.

The CFB Flyers and Point Anne, both league members in 1967, are other possible entries, along with an "AA" entry from Trenton and possibly a Belleville club.

"We look for more definite communicats from several centres at our next meeting to be held in Trenton on March 24," said the spokesman.

City Archers Win At Napanee Shoot

Forty district archers took part in the shoot sponsored by the Napanee Valley Archery Club held on the Belleville Archery Club Range on Sunday.

Competition was keen with trophies and awards going to members of various clubs.

Don Jackson of Lindsay took the men's freestyle trophy with a score of 265 out of a 300 possible.

Carol Armstrong, Belleville, won the women's freestyle award with a score of 275.

The men's bare bow award went to Angus Bruce, Kingston with 233. The ladies' award being won by Marg Yorke, Picton with 204.

Dave Sagar, Belleville, took the archer class with 255, Frank Gray winning the bowman class with 234 and Eva Widdicks won the freestyle archer class for ladies with 153.

OMHA Peewee

Fuels Oust Whitby

Smith Fuels made a clean sweep of their OMHA Peewee "AA" division quarter-finals with Whitby over the weekend, winning the first game 3-1 and taking the Sunday game by a 6-2 score.

The Fuels meet either Barrie or Bramalea in the next round.

The Fuels led 1-0 going into the third period in Sunday's game with goals from Ricketts, Goegan and Smyke. Coates had two goals, Goegan, Whelan and Crawford one each.

Lavalee scored the Whitby goal in the third period from a penalty shot.

Fuels drew seven penalties of the 13 issued.

Wally Dainard sparked the 6-2 victory with two goals and two assists. Ricketts, Kirby, Sutherland and Barrett each scored.

Flesch and Barrett each had two assists. Goegan, Coates, Kirby, Whelan and Edwards getting singles.

Tweed Nips Wellington In Playoffs

Tweed opened their second round PeeWee playoff series with an 8-6 victory over Wellington.

Barry Rivers paced the Tweed attack with three goals and four assists. Lynn Dillabough also posted a three-goal effort and added one assist. Scott McTaggart had a goal and an assist. Jim Gaylord scored for Tweed, and Ray Murphy picked up an assist.

B. McQuaid paced Wellington with two goals and an assist. S. Doxtator scored two goals and G. Adams and B. Ellis a goal apiece. H. McDonald picked up two assists and D. Jones one.

The second game of the series will be played in Wellington on Friday, March 8 at 7.30 p.m.

Food City Novices Defeat Trenton

Food City novices defeated Trenton 7-0 in an exhibition tilt over the weekend.

Mike Meeker paced the shutout with three goals and one assist. Randy Hutchinson, Ross McLeod, Tony Maeghan and Eric Powell also scored.

Maeghan had two assists as did Mike Crawford, Roger Chapman, Bobby Crawford, Peter Coates, and Ross McLeod had singles.

Goalies Bruce Hamilton and Brian Hamilton shared the shutout.

PETER STEMKOWSKI FRANK MAHOVLICH NORM ULMAN FLOYD SMITH

Mahovlich Goes To Red Wings
Leafs Get Ullman In Big Deal

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League today announced that they have traded Frank Mahovlich, Gary Unger and Peter Stemkowski to Detroit Red Wings for Norman Ullman, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith.

Detroit also obtained the Toronto rights to veteran defenceman Carl Brewer, who was reinstated as an amateur after walking out of the Leafs' training camp in 1965.

Punch Imlach, manager-coach of the Toronto club, said that Ullman and Smith, both 32-year-old veterans, and Henderson, 25, would be in the Leafs' lineup for Wednesday night's game here against Philadelphia Flyers.

The 30-year-old Mahovlich, playing in his 11th season with Leafs, has been one of the great left wingers in the NHL. Six years ago, Chicago Black Hawks offered Leafs $1,000,000 for the hard-shooting native of Timmins, Ont.

That caused a terrific uproar amongst Toronto fans. The offer was made at a late-night cocktail party in a downtown Toronto hotel room and Toronto fans protested vehemently until Leafs' officials turned it down.

The late Jim Norris, then co-owner of the Hawks, followed up his offer by dispatching Manager Tommy Ivan to Maple Leaf Gardens hours later with a certified cheque for $1,000,000. Leafs turned it down, saying in a statement that "we decided from the point of view of hockey in Toronto and also from the point of view of the Maple Leafs' fans to resist this temptation, although it was hard to do."

Rumors have been flying around for years that Mahovlich, a 205-pound six-footer could not get along with Manager-Coach Imlach.

Mahovlich missed nearly five weeks' play this season when he suffered a nervous breakdown. In 50 games so far he has scored 19 goals and assisted on another 17.

He broke into the NHL with Toronto in the 1956-57 season, playing three games and scoring one goal. He became a superstar in the 1960-61 season with 48 goals in 70 games, but he hasn't been able to score more than 40 a season since.

Ullman, a smooth centre on a line with Gordie Howe, has been a consistent player since he joined the Wings from the junior Edmonton Oil Kings in 1954-55. A great playmaker, he has been up with the leading NHL scorers since his rookie season when he scored 25 goals.

This season, he has played 58 games to date and has piled up 35 points on 30 goals and 25 assists.

Stemkowski, 25-year-old centre, is in his third season with the Toronto club. He was one of the key men in Toronto's Stanley Cup victory last spring.

Unger, 20-year-old rookie forward, is a native of Calgary and played with London Nationals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series before joining the Leafs this season.

Kinsmen Bantams Sweep Playoffs Series From Lindsay

Belleville Kinsmen AA bantams won the Eastern OMHA championship here Sunday blanking the Lindsay Rotary Club youngsters 2-0 in the second game of the series.

The opposition in the next round was not known at press time.

The teams battled to a scoreless first period with Lindsay failing to take advantage of two Kinsmen penalties.

Darcy Lupinetzke broke the scoring ice at 12.40 of the second frame taking Rollins pass to score from close in.

The Kinsmen maintained the pressure in the third period with Meagher tucking away the win at 10.45 on a combined play with James and Jamitsch.

They outshot Lindsay 21-10 in the final period and 44-20 in the game.

Bruce Clark handled the shutout for the winners.

The Kinsmen drew five of the eight minor penalties handed out by the referee.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — The AOTS Men's Club held their supper meeting at Hamilton United Church Sunday School rooms on Tuesday evening.

Women of Bloomfield United Church catered to a teachers' banquet Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Huff, Mrs. Arnold Greaves, Teresa and Darren visited their daughter, Mrs. Joanne Marlieb and Garth in Toronto and attended the Ice Follies.

Mrs. David Leavil entertained at a demonstration party Tuesday evening.

World Day Of Prayer Service Held

NAPANEE — The World Day of Prayer service in Napanee was well attended when about 100 women gathered in the Free Methodist Church to follow the order of service written by a woman in Ceylon this year. The offering of $60 will be sent to the Women's International Council for need throughout the world.

The thought-provoking address was given by Mrs. Lester Mullen, wife of the minister of St. Luke's Anglican church in Camden East. To the suggested topic, "Bear ye one another's burdens" she added "Am I my brother's keeper?" She stressed the fact that "my brother" is any human being, regardless of race, color or creed, who needs her.

Taking an active part in the service were: Mrs. Robert Hicks of Grace United Church; Mrs. Jesse MacLean, of Trinity United Church; Mrs. Milford Mowers of St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church; Mrs. Orval Reynolds of the Sandhill Church; Mrs. Vernon Wagar of Evangel Temple; and Mrs. Sam Meeks of the Free Methodist Church.

Four women of the host church received the offering: Mrs. Wayne Longmuir, Mrs. William Harachka, Mrs. William Hagerman and Mrs. Lance Hagaby.

Mrs. Charles McConnell, church organist was responsible for arrangements for the service.

Reserve School Same as Any Others

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — A group of Sydenham pupils, teachers and parents who visited schools on the Tyendinaga Reserve last Thursday to study Indians and customs must have been a bit bewildered, and probably wondered just where the Indians were. The Quinte Mohawk School is one of the most modern in this area, and the three one-roomed schools have only one grade each. The Mohawk School has both a kindergarten, begun last. September, and a special education class, established several years ago. All grade seven and grade eight pupils are going by bus to Bellesville.

Grade one of the Sydenham Public School is studying Indians this year, and their teachers, Mrs. George Eaton and Mrs. Norman Jackson, wanted them to study the children at first hand. In addition to the Quinte-Mohawk School, they visited also, the Central School, where Mrs. Borden (Lena) Elliott teaches grade six, and the Eastern School, where Mrs. Gordon (Ethel) Hazard teaches grade one. Time did not permit a visit to the Western School, which is more distant. Mrs. Earl (Lorraine) Hill has the grade three pupils there.

The adults were impressed by the modern schools and their facilities and the modern teaching methods. The boys and girls were surprised to find boys and girls just like themselves, dressed the same way, and talking and acting just the same.

Cold Can Block Tube to Inner Ear

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes people to lose their hearing when they get a cold? Our grandchild had his tonsils and adenoids removed, thinking that was the reason for his trouble, but he still gets an ear ache and sore throat and can't hear. — Mrs. E. G.

Removal of adenoids and tonsils in such a case usually is helpful but — as you now know — there can be other considerations.

The interference with hearing can be caused by inflammation and congestion of the opening of the eustachian tube. This is a very small tube which extends from the inner ear to the throat.

Its purpose is to equalize the pressure inside and outside the ear drum. The tube is so small that pressure does not adjust instantly — descending rapidly in an elevator or in an airplane which is not pressurized can build up pressure outside the ear drum faster than the flow of air through the eustachian tube can compensate. Hence you cannot hear well temporarily.

The reason you cannot hear well is that the ear drum, with too much pressure on it, cannot vibrate easily, and it is the vibration of the ear drum which transmits sound.

In your grandson's case, it is quite possible that a cold or other infection causes so much congestion to prevent air from passing through the eustachian tube. Instead of being able to clear it by swallowing a couple of times, as you might do after a long descent in an elevator, he still finds the tube blocked by the infection and swelling. One would guess that perhaps he is more than usually vulnerable to this type of trouble.

Removal of adenoids and tonsils in such a case usually is helpful but — as you now know — there can be other considerations.

Another possibility is that the cold virus may attack the inner ear proper, a condition known as "serious otitis." In this there is accumulation of fluid, and pain and bulging of the ear drum. And again, since the ear drum cannot move or vibrate freely, hearing is impaired.

When this condition occurs it is possible to lance a tiny hole in the ear drum to let the fluid escape, relieve the pain, and take the pressure off the ear drum. The tiny cut in the ear drum heals promptly.

If the youngster in this case has the trouble frequently, I would make sure that he has regular medical attention, preferably by an ear specialist.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for human beings pregnant while I am still nursing my child? — Mrs. J. F.

Contrary to popular superstition, it is possible to become pregnant while nursing.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: We need help desperately. With six children, I am afraid that another would mean a ruined marriage. For good reasons the pill and other contraceptives are not for me, but these weeks of abstinence are causing great pressure.

I read a magazine article about a plastic spiral that could be inserted to prevent pregnancy but could be removed when pregnancy was desired. I understand it is in use in India and is called a loop. Is it available here? — Mrs. F. R.

Yes, it is in use in this country, and also called an I.U.D., or "Intra-uterine device." It may cause irritation in some women also it must be checked periodically to make sure it has not slipped out of place. Hence it is not considered as reliable as some other methods.

If you could use this device, I don't quite understand why your doctor would prefer some other one, a diaphragm, for example. You'd best discuss the whole matter with your gynecologist to select the method that best suits you and your situation.

Regional Health Unit Formed

NAPANEE — Kingston, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington Health Unit moved closer to reality following a Friday meeting here.

The session, attended by 16 representatives of the three counties, wrapped up two major portions of an agreement approved at previous meetings.

The agreement reached Friday Mayor Robert Fray of Kingston will be presented to each council for approval within the next two weeks, then representatives will be chosen for a governing board. The board members will be able to sign a firm agreement which will be forwarded to provincial authorities for approval, Dr. William Allen said.

Size of the new health unit division felt the regional unit could be in operation by July 1, depending on the appointment of three provincial delegates on the governing board.

Kingston will have three members and each county would have two representatives on the board.

Residents of Kingston and Loyalist and Addington have health units of their own at present. Their main benefit under the new set-up will be reduced costs.

At present both units receive provincial grants of 25 per cent of operating costs, but under the district set-up they would be eligible for 75 per cent grants.

This is expected to reduce costs in L-A County from $1.50 a head to $1.25 a head. In Kingston the health unit costs $3 a head and this is expected to drop below $3.

Federation of Agriculture Favors One Organization

NAPANEE — Lennox and Addington Federation of Agriculture farm members are strongly in favor of the formation of a new single farm organization with a constitution geared to present-day agriculture. The constitutions of the two major farm organizations are out of date, they feel.

This feeling was plainly demonstrated at the monthly meeting of the County Federation, which passed a motion favoring one organization.

The motion was made by vice president Grant Hyuck who was speaking in the absence of president Roy Rogers who was attending a regional meeting of food boards, and was presented as follows:

"That the Lennox and Adding ton Federation of Agriculture communicate with the 16-man committee which is at present studying the proposal, urging them to sit down at the committee table and definitely and emphatically forget all personal gain or loss, and all organizational gain or loss, and form a late one general farm organization for the benefit of agriculture."

It is hoped that all county agricultural organizations will lend support to the above resolution by writing To Edward O'Mara, secretary of the Committee, Home Economics and Statistics Branch, Department of Agriculture and Food, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Collegiate Board Member Attends Seminar

NAPANEE — On invitation from the Institute of Public Relations of Canada, Arthur Mc-Laughlin of Napanee attended a seminar on regional government held in Toronto recently.

He was the only one from Lennox and Addington but Dorothy Timms represented the Napanee and District Collegiate Institute Board at a conference to consider the Smith report on taxation which was held in the Royal Hotel in January. Mr. McLaughlin is the chairman of the Napanee Board of Trade and Timms is secretary-treasurer of the board.

When interviewed, Mr. McLaughlin would make no statement on the conference, but pre sumed that one would be forthcoming after he had studied the full text of the proceedings of the meeting, which has not yet reached him.

The meeting was of historic importance due to the nature of its subject, but also because it was the first meeting to be held in the Grand Hall of the Province Hall since its restoration. The building was not open, to the public until the following day.

The restoration of the St. Lawrence Market, now called St. Lawrence Hall, was Toronto's Centennial project.

Renovations are far from complete, but those attending the meeting were much impressed by what has already been accomplished. The grandeur of the 19th century is being faithfully brought back into being once more by the renovation program. The main building has so far received the most attention, with some rooms, such as the Great Hall, now almost complete and others still under the hands of the carpenters and masons. Nothing has yet been done to the markets themselves.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mrs. John Chalmers is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Paul McGrath, and family at Gimli, Man.

Miss Phyllis Hickey and Mrs. Irene Hamilton have returned after visiting a holiday in the British West Indies.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Newell were Mrs. Newell's brother, Andre Montreill, and Mrs. Montreill, Ottawa.

Miss Pearl McCaw of Montreal visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McCaw recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Swanson and family, Grimsby and Mrs. Hilton Taylor, Toronto, spent the weekend with their mother, Mrs. Fred Johnston.

8th Tyendinaga

8TH TYENDINAGA — Rev. R. Masthorpe, a former minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Roslin, now in Coquitlam, B.C., made several calls in the district recently.

Mrs. J. Cross spent a few days with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Watson and family.

Demise of 'I Spy' Regretted by Cosby

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The apparent demise of I Spy should have made Bill Cosby a happy man. Freedom from the time consuming chore of co-starring in a weekly television series means he will be able to earn millions in other enterprises.

Yes, millions. Recently the Negro comedian and his partners, Roy Silver and Bruce Campbell, announced a $12,000,000, five-picture deal with Warners-Seven Arts. With his March 18 NBC special, best-selling record albums, five-minute radio spots, musing publishing and so on, the company expects to do $20,000,000 in business this year.

Cosby also plays concerts here and there. One recent night in nearby Long Beach, he earned $32,150 for telling stories about his boyhood.

Why, then, is he not overjoyed with the dropping of I Spy from NBC's schedule for next season? As judged by the third-season ratings, the adventure series with Robert Culp appears to have burned out.

"Well, "I'll tell you," said the onetime basketball star as he put his feet atop the desk of his Beverly Hills office. "Although the continuation of I Spy would stop me from making films and doing other things I want to do, I would like to finish it out. Another season would make it a more worthwhile venture for our producer, Sheldon Leonard. I feel a sense of duty to Sheldon. After all, he was the first man to hire a black American as star of a television adventure series. He did so in full knowledge of the power of bigotry and racism in this country. Why did Nat King Cole fail as a weekly television performer? Because he was a Negro.

"We were picked to fail. The collapse of I Spy would have been another affirmation for the question of whether this country is as bigoted as it has seemed to be. Yet Sheldon was willing to take the chance.

"He did so knowing that on the show this black American would shoot and kill and would sometimes be fistfighting with white men. Since he was the hero, he had to beat somebody. Would such a character suck a portrayal? America did.

"It was Sheldon himself who pulled it off; we NAACP'ed him up and joined in the fight. He was the one producer who said, 'To hell with it—I don't care whether this guy is green, black or white; I want him for the part.' And after he accepted it came the roles for Negroes in Star Trek, Mission Impossible and other shows."

Besides allowing him to be the Jackie Robinson of television, Cosby observed that I Spy had prepared him for his next challenge: The movie world.

The Cosby empire now employs 42 persons in its Beverly Hills headquarters. The place is decorated in the most modern style except for one feature in Cosby's office: a battered old trash can. That helps maintain his common touch.

Murray Johnson's Rink Wins Primary Event

Out of eight rinks entered in the Tri-Quinte bonspiel concluded on Sunday at the CFB Curling club, the Quinte Curling Club of this city won two trophies, one being the primary event and two second places a most worthy record considering the class of curling that was established in the spiel which opened on Wednesday evening with 64 rinks entered.

A rink of Al Shukster, Jim Pettierew, Dave Brown and Murray Johnson as skip won the Pepsi Cola trophy, the gift of Chuck Sands, Murray Mowat, Don Cook with T. A. Carruthers as skip won the Belleville Trenton sport trophy, fifth event of the spiel. A rink of Al McCullam, Bill Tilley, Fr. Gillies, Howie Morrison and Ron Benn as skip was second in the Elliott Motors event, while a rink of Bill Clare, Dr. Jim Nelles, Bill Holway with Bob Lanning as skip was second in the Corby's event.

The presentations were made at the conclusion of the events last night. On Sunday afternoon the finals of two events were played at the Quinte Curling Club and the Trenton Curling Club, while the other three were played at the CFB Curling Club. On Saturday evening a full course meal was served at the three clubs and a social hour spent before curling was resumed. Although the number of rinks in the spiel were down slightly from last year, the quality of curling throughout the spiel was of high calibre. There were many extra ends played to declare a winner which showed the closeness of the matches. A large gallery followed the play throughout the week with an especially large crowd on hand at the CFB Club on Sunday night.

The winners were;

New Tube Upgrades Color TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Sylvania Electric Products Inc. said Wednesday it has developed color television picture tube 22 per cent brighter than the brightest tube already on the market.

It said it is using the tube in 1968 Sylvania color TV sets, and will make it available to other manufacturers.

Thomas H. Cashin, senior vice-president, said the new development includes improved phosphors, a new electron gun, a new temperature-compensated mask and an advanced method of dusting the phosphors onto the face plate of the tube. He said this permitted use of larger phosphor crystals, producing higher brightness and a more constant thickness, assuring more uniform light output.

Sylvania said it would offer the tubes at no increase over current prices. Sylvania said it provides color tubes for three out of four U.S. set manufacturers.

Royal Trust Profit Up 13 Cents

MONTREAL (CP) — Royal Trust Co. reports consolidated net operating profits after taxes in the fiscal year ended Dec. 31 amounted to $3,970,000 or $1.26 a share compared with $3,501,000 or $1.13 in 1966.

President Conrad Harrington told the company's annual meeting Thursday that Royal Trust's gross income rose to $63,980,000 last year from $55,291,000 in 1966. Guaranteed account assets totalled $756,000,000 at Dec. 31, an increase of $91,000,000 or 14 per cent over the year-end figure for 1966.

Estimated market value of Royal Trust assets under administration rose in 1967 to $1,271,000,000 from $7,585,000,000 at the end of the previous year.

"A Hatful of Rain" Packs Powerful Punch on Narcotics

NEW YORK (AP)—A Hatful of Rain, a play written more than 10 years ago, still packed a powerful punch in its Sunday night adaptation on ABC. The two-hour drama was primarily an exposure of the horrors of narcotic addiction, complete with graphic demonstrations of withdrawal symptoms.

The overriding theme diminished the impact and importance of the human relationship among all the disturbed, unhappy people concerned.

Michael Parks and Peter Falk, as brothers, had the two meaty parts. Parks, as Johnny, was the addict, originally hooked as a hospital patient, who needed $40 a day to support his habit. Falk, as his older brother Polo, protected him, gave him money and helped conceal his condition from his pregnant wife.

Sandy Dennis had the somewhat thankless part of the bewildered, young wife who rather incomprehensibly did not suspect anything was wrong with her husband. But because of her husband's inattention, she was powerfully attracted to the older brother. Then, if this were not complicated enough, there was Herschel Bernardi playing the boorish, selfish father of the two men.

There were many emotion-charged scenes, particularly between Falk and Bernardi, but the most chilling moments belong to Parks as he writhed, sweated and shook in the agony of withdrawal.

At times the story moved into soap opera territory—the wife on the verge of a miscarriage, a long reluctant scene between the older brother and the girl when he spoke of his love for her.

There was no real end of the play—the climax came when the man admitted to being a junkie. There was some vague suggestion that he would try with medical help, to shake the habit, but that was all.

ABC has announced plans to show Man In A Suitcase, a British-made action-adventure series, as a su mmer replacement Friday nights for its Operations Entertainmeut. The variety show, a mid-season replacement, is expected to return next fall.

Big-city Mayors Join Pleas Congress Act on Race Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the national commission on civil disorders are joining big-city mayors in pressuring a cost-wary Congress to take prompt, multi-billion-dollar steps toward solving the U.S. racial crisis.

Five commission members and a half-dozen mayors appeared on radio-television broadcasts Sunday and urged what one mayor termed "an infusion of billions of dollars to correct" conditions that spawned last summer's riots.

The commission's reports became involved as well in the campaign for the Democrat presidential nomination. Senator Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota cited it in a New Hampshire speech as he criticized the Johnson administration's priorities.

The commission made public during the weekend its 250,000-word analysis of last year's urban violence. Like the 12,000-word summary released two days earlier, the mammoth document was almost silent on how to meet the costs of the proposed programs, suggesting only that higher taxes may be necessary.

Key members of Congress, already caught in the fiscal crunch caused by the Vietnam war, are openly dubious about financing the commission's sweeping employment, education, housing and welfare programs.

Chairmen George H. Mahon (Dem. Tex.) of the House of Representatives appropriations committee, which must approve all money measures, said the commission's proposals could cost hundreds of billions of dollars. This, Mahon declared, makes them "wholly unrealistic."

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, vice-chairman of the commission, acknowledged the recommendations "will be costly" to implement but said "the country has got to make up its mind, and the Congress must make up its mind, that the cost figure is relatively unimportant in terms of what we have to do in order to save this country from the possibility of chaos."

In a move to generate this public push, commission members plan scores of appearances across the U.S. in the months ahead.

After the commission approved the report, Senator Edward W. Brooke (Rep. Mass.) told reporters he and other members have committed themselves to travelling around the country "to give wide dissemination of our views and to do all we can for the implementation of the recommendations."

The gist of the commission's recommendations were disclosed in the summary report released Thursday night. The full report also included proposals for:

—Another increase in the federal minimum wage, which is slated to $1.60 an hour last month.

—Broadening the seven-per-cent investment credit to give industry a tax incentive to locate new plants in poverty areas and train unemployed slum residents.

—Starting a system of government income supplements for any person—employed or jobless—who exists on substandard income. The commission said this "would involve substantially greater federal expenditures than anything now contemplated in this country."

The commission chairman, Governor Otto Kerner of Illinois, said one step the U.S. can take—"just treat people as people, forgetting the color of their skin"—will "not cost one cent" yet will "remove a lot of the anger and the frustration and the hate that exists."

Another commission member, Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, urged a shuffling of the country's priorities.

"I would rather be safe on the streets of New York than to make a trip to the moon," Wilkins said.

The six mayors contended they lack the resources to cope with the conditions that have triggered riots in their cities.

Police Too Quick to Fire Race Riot Inquiry Declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential commission on last summer's U.S. race riots reported in stark and bloody detail—and down almost to the last bullet—the turmoil that erupted in the cities it studied.

The 250,000-word report, issued Saturday, named the dead and told how they die.

One individual tragedy follows another in the account—the Detroit mother who was shot in the back as she moved to pull her two-year-old child from a window; the Detroit visitor who parried the curtains of a motel window to watch the commotion and was shot to death.

After laying the background of the 1967 riots, recounting those of the preceding four years, the commission looked closely into the explosions of Detroit, Newark, Tampa, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Newark, northern New Jersey, Plainfield, N.J., and Brunswick, N.J.

City by city, the commission chronicled the history of Negro grievances.

Tampa: "Although officials called the disturbances supposedly good race relations, Negroes, composing almost 29 per cent of the population, had no one of their own race to represent them in positions of policy of power, nor to appeal for redress of grievances."

Cincinnati: "Although the city's Negro population had been rising swiftly, there was only one Negro on the city council.

Atlanta: Despite the city's pride in progress and improvement in relations, "the economic and education gap between the black and white populations grew. In fact have been increased. . . ."

Newark: "Nowhere was the tension greater. . . . Approximately 12 per cent of Negroes were without jobs. As estimated 30 per cent of Negro children lived in broken homes. Although Newark maintained proportionally the largest police force of any major city, its crime rate was among the highest in the nation."

Twenty-three persons were killed and damaged exceeded $10,000,000 in the Newark riots.

Detroit: "In the inner city schools, more than half the pupils who entered high school become dropouts. . . . In July unemployment was at a five-year peak."

The commission reported the triggering incidents: a raid on an after-hours drinking place in Detroit, the arrest of a taxi driver in Newark, the shooting of a burglary suspect in Tampa.

Then, the stark details:

Newark: ". . . The police opened fire. A bullet smashed the kitchen window in Mrs. D. J.'s apartment, . . . her three-year-old daughter, Debra, came running into the room. Blood was streaming down the left side of her face: the bullet had entered one eye. She spent the next two months in hospital. . . .

". . . As the police arrived, three of the looters cut directly in front of the group of spectators. The police fired at the looters. Bullets plowed into the spectators."

Detroit: ". . . A young woman, brought into the station, was told to strip. After she had done so, and while an officer took pictures with a Polaroid camera, another officer . . . began fondling her. . . ."

"On a number of occasions officers fired at fleeing looters, then made little attempt to determine whether their shots had hit anyone. Later some of the persons were discovered dead or wounded in the street."

Forty-three persons, 33 Negro and 10 white, were killed in Detroit.

The commission found fault with the frequent use of deadly weapons in the 1967 civil disorders.

It recommended police departments adopt "a middle-range of physical force and, where possible, follow the army example of using civil rights agents before using deadly weapons."

In Detroit, 2,700 army troops fired only 201 shots, almost all in the first few hours. By contrast, New Jersey's national guardsmen and state police expended 13,326 rounds of ammunition in three days in Newark.

Press Has Basked Too Long In White World Says Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national advisory commission on civil disorders said Saturday that the U.S. press has basked too long in a white world.

It said the press must make a reality of integration, both in its product and its personnel.

American newspapers and television must report "the travail of our cities with compassion and in depth," it said.

It asked for "fair and coarse-grain journalism."

These were items the commission placed at the end of its appraisal of the press and the last year's summer riots in the U.S.

It stressed that failings of the press must be corrected and improvement come from within.

"Along with the community as a whole," it said, "the press has too long basked in a white world, looking out of it, if at all, with white men's eyes and a white perspective. That can no longer good enough."

On the whole, the commission said, newspapers, radio and television made a real effort to give a balanced, factual account of the 1967 disorders.

However, it said, the "portrayal of the violence that occurred last summer failed to reflect accurately its scale and character."

"The over-all effect was, we believe, an exaggeration of both mood and event."

Most important, it said, "we believe that the media have thus far failed to report adequately on the causes and consequences of civil disorders and the underlying problems of race relations."

Quartet Needs Eight Tickets

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Here's a riddle for you: How many airplane tickets must a string quartet buy in order to fly to a concert? The answer is—eight! — four for the members of the quartet, and four for the instruments.

This absurd state of affairs, which may put some of the finest chamber music groups in the U.S. out of business, has been forced on them by Federal Aviation Administration ruling that no passenger shall carry with him onto a commercial airliner any package that can not be placed completely under his seat.

Violins and violas, of course, much less cellos, cannot be put under plane seats in their commodious carrying cases. The only alternative is to send them through as baggage — and anybody who would trust a $30,000 Stradivarius to an airplane baggage handler would send his feeble grandmother into a cage of hungry lions.

Hardly anything in the world is more delicate than a string instrument, which can crack not only through jarring, but through freezing or overheating, as well. Most musicians take far better care of their instruments than they do of themselves, and with good reason. Amati just isn't making violins any more.

This is a classic example of the bureaucratic mind at work, if it can be called work. "Packages" are "packages," no matter what the consequences. Uncle Bill's soiled laundry or Mamma's unique violin — and they receive the same impartially malevolent treatment from the baggage hook. "Rules are rules" and "I only work here" constitute the philosophy governing philosophy of the bureaucratic mentality.

Obviously, some provision has to be made by the FAA to distinguish between cabbages and strings; special provision can be made in some compartment of the plane to hold precious objects of irreplaceable value, even at some slight cost to the passenger, without forcing him to buy an extra ticket for another seat.

Actually, the market for string quartets is so limited, and the groups themselves on such a narrow margin of profit, that one of the finest in the country, the Juilliard, is seriously talking about disbanding if the plane regulation is not rescinded or modified. Even business executives could scarcely afford to travel extensively if their airplane fares were doubled.

No doubt the FAA had strife when it instituted the new regulation; but packages are a different sort of passengers, and a rare old violin ought to be accorded the same special treatment as an infirm old lady in a wheelchair.

Sydney Omarr's Astrological Forecasts

Personal Tendencies: Cycle high for Gemini. Special word to Aquarius: Member of opposite sex sends mixed warning with significant compliment.

Easy to Find Causes of Pollution, Hard to Correct Them

OTTAWA (CP) — It is easy to pinpoint the causes of pollution but more difficult to stop it, Northern Development Minister Laing said Saturday.

Canada has reached the stage where action must be taken soon to end the practice of "filling our rivers with refuse and even with smoke," he said in a speech to the annual meeting of the Canadian Wildlife Federation.

Most action so far on the water pollution front had been limited to studies determining where pollutants come from and how much damage they cause, Mr. Laing said.

"I know what's causing the pollution and so do you. . . .

"The way to stop polluting the lakes is to tell the guy who is dumping stuff into the lake to stop doing it tomorrow.

"Unfortunately, you can't.

This kind of precipitate action would mean that many industries would close down within months, Mr. Laing said. It was obvious that effective anti-pollution measures would have to include "some measure of tax relief" to enable industry to continue functioning.

The impact of human progress in Canada had made many wildlife species extinct or put them on the verge of extinction.

Recent increased uses of chemical pesticides are endangering the whole category of flesh-eating birds, Mr. Laing said.

Hawks, eagles and owls live on smaller animals which take in the pesticides in their feeding. Accumulating pesticide residues in the birds of prey have built up to the point where they "are killing the bird itself or making the eggs sterile."

Three full-time federal biologists and several others working on a contract basis were studying the effect of pesticide residues on Canada's bird population.

Jim MacNeil of the water management planning section of the federal government's energy, mines and resources department, told a wind-up session of the federation that overlapping jurisdictions tend to slow down action against water pollution.

For example, the federal government, those of Ontario and Quebec, the United States and eight American states were all involved in any attack on pollution in the Great Lakes.

Any water pollution or water development project within Canada usually involves the federal government and a provincial government, he added.

Thus there was a need for close federal-provincial co-operation and new legislation on water management should help this.

During the two-day meeting, the CWF adopted a resolution seeking changes in Criminal Code regulations on firearms.

The federation opposes changes now before the Commons that would make 17 the minimum age at which a person could own a firearm. The resolution also opposes more stringent registration restrictions on pistols and revolvers set out in the bill.

Delegates agreed to send in recommendations from their respective provinces on a federal proposal to free Indians and Eskimos from observation of hunting laws on their reserves and unoccupied Crown lands.

THE PICK OF Punch

Kenyatta Rules Kenya Like Grouchy Old Lion

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — "One of the great affronts to human dignity which I have always opposed is that of racialism."

Kenya's President Jomo Kenyatta, in his book Suffering Without Bitterness, was referring to the racial policies of South Africa. But the irony was lost on Kenya's Asians as many of them packed to leave because their livelihood was threatened.

Kenyatta rules Kenya like a grouchy old lion. He is a father figure of African nationalism.

The bearded, magnetic Gikuyu tribal leader, with his silver-handled flywhisk and ebony walking stick, is the living symbol of Uhuru—freedom—for millions of Africans.

In Kenya his leadership is virtually undisputed.

His portrait adorns every shop and office. Days are set aside for prayers for his long life, and no speech is complete without a tribute to him.

Even Kenyatta's political enemies avoid personal attacks on him.

An inner clique of Kikuyu ministers surrounds the president and there are indications that the able economic planning and development minister, Tom Mboya, a Luo, is being increasingly isolated.

First as prime minister and then as president, Kenyatta has adroitly steered his country through its first four years of independence. He wears no ideological straitjacket, meeting situations as they come and applying practical remedies.

His government became increasingly alarmed at the likelihood of an educated unemployed, always potentially dangerous in a developing country. This was one factor motivating Kenya's stepped-up "Africanization" program that has led to the exodus of thousands of Asians.

The magnitude of the Asian exodus probably was not foreseen.

Government publications described Kenyatta as 75 years old, but no one knows for sure. Giving evidence at his trial in 1952 on charges of managing Mau Mau, Kenyatta testified: "I do not know when I was born, what date, what month, or what year. I think I am over 50."

After a four-month trial, Kenyatta was sentenced to seven years in jail. It was nine before he finally was freed and welcomed back to political life as a national hero. In 1963, he led Kenya to independence and has been at the helm ever since.

Four Die in Hespeler Fire

HESPELER, Ont. (CP) — Four children of one family died of asphyxiation Sunday after a neighbor failed in his attempt to rescue them from their burning ground-floor apartment here, two miles south of Galt.

Dead are Cynthia, 11, Brian, 8, Sandra, 5, and Tammy, 2, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finley.

Raymond Fleischman, a resident of a trailer park across the street from the eight-suite, two-storey brick building, tried to crawl through a bedroom window to rescue the children. He was driven back by dense smoke and a 12-inch cut on his arm.

Cause of the fire, which occurred about 4:30 a.m., has not been determined. A neighbor in the building called firemen when smoke spread through other apartments.

Six other families were evacuated from the building, but none was injured.

Fire department officials said the fire apparently broke out in the kitchen of the Finley apartment and was contained to that apartment.

Embassies Bombed in London

LONDON (AP) — Explosions in two separate incidents in London damaged a U.S. military officers club, the West German Embassy and the Spanish Embassy Sunday.

Police said there was no immediate connection between the blasts.

No injuries were reported.

In the first, an explosive device shattered a garden door of the Spanish Embassy in London's Belgravia district just before dawn. The blast shattered a number of windows and also blew in windows at the West German Embassy next door.

The blast outside the U.S. officers club across town occurred almost an hour later.

Annie to Tuck Up Skirts Last Time

LONDON (CP) — Annie was the first to tuck up her skirts in full flight. Even so, she was a little slow, but she was sure. After 24 years of safe and faithful service, she is being retired.

Annie is the name they gave the Avro Anson, a plane that really did as much to win the Second World War—though she as rarely in battle—as more honored heavies such as the Lancaster bomber or the Liberator.

The twin-engined Anson filled behind-the-front skies in Britain and Canada with her familiar but uncomplaining drone throughout the war, training innumerable thousands of Allied bomber pilots and other air crew.

More than 8,000 Ansons were built in Britain and almost 3,000 in Canada. The last of the Ansies with the Royal Air Force goes into retirement Wednesday 22 years to the day since the Anson entered service with the RAF.

In 1936 when Annie joined the RAF, she cut quite a figure in those days as the RAF's first monoplane and the first "to tuck up her skirts"—retract the landing wheels in flight.

Her top speed when pushed, was 188 miles an hour and she had so many windows some fivers called her the glasshouse.

In the early days of the war, she was pressed into active service. Although her bomb bay could manage only the puny maximum of 360 pounds of bombs, an Anson made the RAF's first attack of the war on a German submarine.

For the most part though, Annie just spent her time teaching young men to fly.

In 1943, thousands of Ansies went on the scrap heap without ceremony. Within weeks of the war's end, the yellow planes could be seen piled up waiting for scrap merchants on the edge of Commonwealth air training bases such as No. 5 service flying training school outside Brantford, Ont.

In Britain, some Ansons found jobs as flying testbeds for instruments and armaments. The latest role has been as a flying taxi for RAF brass.

The last RAF Annie is to fly from the RAF base at Bascombe Down in Wiltshire just 100 miles or so to a resting place in the Shuttleworth Museum at Old Warden in Bedfordshire.

Trudeau Draws Big Audiences

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Large crowds turned out to hear Justice Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau speak during a weekend swing through southern Ontario in his campaign for the national Liberal party leadership.

Mr. Trudeau spoke to more than 1,300 persons at Port Hope, Toronto, Brantford and Vineland while on the hustings for support of Ontario delegates to the national Liberal leadership convention in Ottawa April 4-6.

Speaking at a news conference at Vineland, 30 miles east of Hamilton, Mr. Trudeau said that if he were Prime Minister he would extend diplomatic recognition to Communist China.

"They'd probably say no—unless we agreed to break relations with Taiwan," he said. "We wouldn't do that. . . . Taiwan has every right to be recognized since it has had stable government for more than 20 years, just as long as Israel.

Puerto Rico's Fine Beaches Threatened by Big Oil Slick

SAN JUAN (AP) — An oil slick four miles long and a mile wide threatened to blacken thousands—spending winter holidays in the sun—from Puerto Rico's luxury beaches today after a Liberian tanker broke up at the mouth of San Juan harbor.

Some of the Ocean Eagle's 6,600,000 gallons of oil washed up on the white sand in front of the Caribe Hilton Hotel Sunday night, and the slick drifted toward the other luxury hotels along the beach in the Condado area.

It was the second such mishap to a Liberian-flag tanker within a year. Last March 18, the 61,268-ton American-owned Torrey Canyon, five times as big as the Ocean Eagle, broke up on a reef off Britain's southwest coast and spilled millions of gallons of oil onto the beaches of southern England and France. The British government is suing the owners for $8,150,000 to pay for the cleaning operation.

The U.S. Coast Guard sprayed emulsifying chemicals on oil from the Ocean Eagle drifting into San Juan harbor and reported "encouraging results." U.S. Navy tugs brought more chemicals for the oil threatening the tourist beaches three miles away.

Oil still poured from the two halves of the 12,065-ton tanker and the front half was blocking the harbor entrance. Tugs attempted to pull it out to sea where it could be sunk without endangering traffic but had to give up because "apparently it is hard aground," a spokesman said.

First Mate Pangiotis Michaelopoulos said the ship dropped anchor at the harbor entrance about 7 a.m. Sunday to take aboard a harbor pilot. Suddenly it snapped in two just behind the main superstructure.

The 35-man Greek crew was taken off without injury in about 20 minutes.

The ship, owned by Transoceanic Tankers Corp. and Northern Transatlantic Carriers Corp., was carrying oil from Venezuela to the oil refinery in San Juan.

Sharp Acts to Block Higher Interest Rates

Deposit Swaps Discouraged

OTTAWA (CP) — An official move to insulate Canada from rising short-term interest rates in Europe was made Monday when chartered banks were asked to discourage so-called "swapped deposits."

Finance Minister Sharp announced the temporary action in the Commons.

Mr. Sharp said the "disturbed state" of international financial markets late last week has led to "greatly exaggerated" reports in the press.

Mr. Sharp said one result of the disturbance had been a marked increase in rates of interest paid on short-term investments of U.S. funds in Europe — the market known as the "euro-dollar market."

These rates are attractive for banks and other financial institutions holding U.S. dollars made available through the technique of the swapped deposit.

Monday's request, channelled to these institutions through the Bank of Canada, is intended to prevent an increase in already-high Canadian interest rates that might otherwise be necessary to prevent these dollars from flowing to Europe.

Mr. Sharp said the measure will remain in effect "for the time being."

It is certain to provide quick and direct support for the Canadian dollar in the exchange market as the existing $900,000,000 in swapped deposits mature and bring U.S. dollars back into Canada.

Pound at New Low

LONDON (CP) — The British pound dropped to a new low today as demand for gold continued high.

At the opening of the London money market, the pound was quoted at $2.3975, 23 points below Monday's high. The closing price Monday was $2.3997, nine points below Friday's level, after a high for the day of $2.4008 in the afternoon.

The Bank of England stepped in almost at the opening today to support the pound and the rate rose to $2.39855.

The dollar parity price for gold at the daily fixing remained just under the ceiling at $35.19.

The sterling price of gold reached a record high of 293 shillings 6¼ pence at the fixing and an estimated 25 to 35 tons changed hands at that time. Subsequent sales are expected to take the day's total up to 50 tons, equalling Friday's mark but still far below the crisis level of December.

Too Busy

Finance Minister Sharp said Monday he will not be able to actively campaign for the Liberal leadership because of pressing problems in the finance field.

Royal Pardon Defied

SALISBURY (CP) — The fate of two Africans condemned to be hanged for murder, plunged Britain and Rhodesia into a fresh constitutional conflict today which called in question the Rhodesian regime's professed loyalty to the Queen.

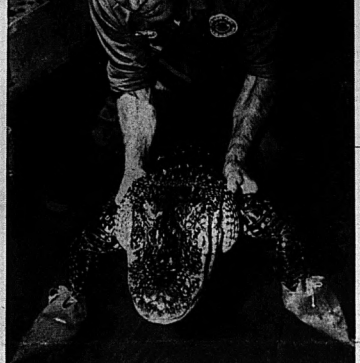
In defiance of a reprieve granted by the Queen, the Rhodesian Appeal Court rejected pleas by the two men against being executed for murdering a white farmer.

A third African, whose appeal for a reprieve also was rejected by the Appeal Court last week but granted by the Queen, lodged an appeal for clemency with Clifford Dupont, officer administering the government.

Salisbury buzzed with rumors that the first two, James Dhlamini and Victor Mlambo, would be hanged today, but no one could say when the executions would take place.

If they were hanged, the first word would be a formal notice pinned to the gate of Salisbury prison.

The High Court ruling Monday night climaxed a day of events that deepened the constitutional conflict.



The basic issue was whether the rebel Rhodesian government, which unilaterally declared independence from Britain in 1965, had a "legal right to put the men to death.

High Court Justice John Fieldsend, who previously expressed doubts about the regime's legal position, resigned following the High Court ruling.

The Rhodesia Herald appeared with half its front page blank Monday after the government censor had made his most drastic cuts to date.

All reference to the resignation of Fieldsend and the appeal for a stay in the execution of three condemned Africans by a second High Court judge, John Dendy Young, was cut from the front page, including two pictures.

Meanwhile, the total of Africans held in "death row" climbed to 107.

Homosexual Acts Forced On Chicago Prisoners

CHICAGO (Reuters) — A grand jury Monday said "incompetent, inefficient and haphazard administration" of Cook County jail here was responsible for beatings, torture, homosexuality, drug smuggling and bribery among prisoners and guards.

The prison—scene of disturbances and attempted jail breaks in the last two years—was condemned by the panel of 23 jurors for "deplorable" conditions.

The jury's report, following a three-month investigation of the prison, accused Warden John B. Johnson of being recklessly responsible for the abuses. But the jurors also laid blame for many of the conditions on County Sheriff Joseph I. Woods, bailiffs and judges of the circuit court and the Illinois state legislature.

The jury said brutality took two forms—rapes and forced acts of homosexuality.

It said the guards did little to prevent both either because they were frightened or absent from duty.

Much of the brutality was directed at the guards, although the jury reported that black supremacists in the jail were responsible for an increasing number of assaults on white prisoners in the last year.

"Let me through, I'm a policeman."

Gabon Stiffly Rebuked For Quebec Invitation

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government fired a diplomatic blast at the tiny African country of Gabon Monday, and the Quebec government and John Diefenbaker immediately took offence.

Canada's action was a written protest to Gabon, a former French colony on the Equator, for directly inviting the Quebec government to an international education conference last month in the Gabonese capital of Libreville.

Prime Minister Pearson said in a statement that Gabon "acted in a manner incompatible with international law and the maintenance of close and friendly relations between our two countries."

The note said that unless Gabon reconsiders its attitude towards Canada, the Canadian ambassador-designate to Gabon will not take up his post.

The Quebec government denounced the Canadian protest note as "premature and inopportune."

The statement, issued by Premier Daniel Johnson, said Ottawa should not have done such a thing when negotiations to determine a new sharing of powers in Canada are under way.

Former prime minister Diefenbaker, interviewed at home in Prince Albert, Sask., said Mr. Pearson's protest was like "trying to punish a mosquito with a 100-pound hammer."

He found it strange that when President de Gaulle of France made his city hall balcony speech in Montreal last summer, "all he received was a bit of a slap on the wrist."

De Gaulle Fears U.S. Will Use Atomic Bombs

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle has privately voiced fears that the United States will use tactical nuclear weapons in Vietnam, says Jean Raymond Tournoux, political editor of the French weekly Paris Match.

In an article in the magazine today, Tournoux, author of a recent best-selling book on de Gaulle's thinking, quotes him as saying: "I am worried because certain rumors in the United States tend to develop the eventual recourse to tactical nuclear weapons with semi-reassuring considerations.'

Tournoux did not specify when or to whom the president was talking. But he says the conversation took place "about the same time" as UN Secretary-General U Thant's Feb. 24 report on his Vietnam peace efforts.

Tournoux says de Gaulle repeated his known view that Vietnam could start a third world war.

Sino-Soviet rivalry, China's proximity, the increasingly untenable nature of the Soviet position in Asia—"All this threatens to open the way to an internationalization of the conflict," de Gaulle is quoted as saying.

Viet Cong Invades Southernmost City

SAIGON (CP) — Viet Cong invaded the provincial capital of Ca Mau on the tip of South Vietnam today and shelled about 40 other towns and military installations in the second day of widespread co-ordinated mortar and rocket attacks.

Southern allied forces reported killing at least 300 guerrillas in scattered fighting unrelated to the Viet Cong bombardment.

Among the Viet Cong targets was the big U.S. air base at Cam Ranh Bay, which was shelled for the first time in the war. Once considered the safest spot in South Vietnam, the base was visited by President Johnson in his only two trips to Vietnam since he became President—in November, 1966, and again last Dec. 23.

Viet Cong forces hurled harassing shellfire at a dozen provincial capitals, seven airfields, 14 artillery bases and camps and six district towns. Among they shelled seven air bases, two U.S. command posts and four other installations.

After a softening-up barrage from mortars and recoilless rifles, about 600 Viet Cong invaded Ca Mau, a provincial capital of about 40,000 people at the tip of the Mekong Delta 153 miles southwest of Saigon.

One company seized the provincial hospital and held it for 11 hours before government reinforcements retook it.

Sporadic mortar and recoilless rifle fire continued late in the day. Fighter-bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery joined the ground troops against the Viet Cong forces, who were reported to have split into small groups through the town.

Fragmentary reports said 110 guerrillas were killed while government troops suffered "light" casualties.

Viet Cong gunners fired 15 mortar rounds at the Cam Ran base, but military spokesmen said most of them landed northeast of the base. Several rounds holed the main runway and taxiway, but aircraft continued to fly.

Many of the jets which support U.S. and government troops fighting in the South fly from Cam Ranh Bay or serve as the launching pad for strikes against North Vietnam and the terminal for the U.S. Air Force's giant fleet of C-130 Hercules transports which keep American combat bases fed and armed.

Both South Vietnamese and U.S. headquarters said that except at Ca Mau, casualties and damage from the Viet Cong attacks today were light.

More than 140 Belleville public school teachers attended a Club Canara meeting last night to discuss educational trends with Peter Torrance, assistant regional superintendent for the Department of Education. Shown with Mr. Torrance (left) are Burle Somers and Mrs. Marion Wardell.

Teachers Urged To Improve Quality of Their Teaching

"Many teachers feel they've arrived when they complete that miraculous one year in teacher's College."

This was only one of the criticisms voiced by Peter Torrance, assistant regional superintendent for the department of education, when he spoke to 139 teachers in Belleville last night.

"The quality of the teacher can only be as good as the teaching schools and it seems fantastic that we can get quality teachers from a one-year course."

He urged members of the Ontario Public School Men's Teachers' Federation and the Federation of Women's Teachers Association of Ontario to improve the quality of their teaching.

"We must expand and improve our in service teaching programs to overcome this problem," he said.

"Ineffective teaching is another of the prime factors causing wastage of human potential in our school system. We won't face the fact that sometimes poor teaching comes from long time teachers considered above reproach."

"The effective teacher knows he must teach in the pupils' terms and that the youngster must be involved in order to be motivated."

Mr. Torrance claims re-organization is required in the school system to let students proceed at their own level. "The limited learners either sink or receive attention at the expense of others at the present time. Students are often accelerated without consideration for personal factors.

"Sometimes teachers fail to admit differences and treat all students alike. This is an extreme waste of human potential," he told the teachers.

The assistant superintendent said it is often the principal who provides educational leadership and determines the quality of teaching in the schools. "Many don't seem to realize success in education is far different from success in business."

"The principal must inspire and stimulate the teachers and to do this he must have an insight into human nature," Mr. Torrance said.

"Far too many principals consider themselves plant managers," he charged. The good leader must operate democratically but far too many of our principals are authoritarian.

"Schools must be organized by a co-operative process but in the end the principal must accept the ultimate responsibility.

"The educational program is never as good as it ought to be and too many teachers are willing to settle for the way things are. The child centred teacher seeks improvement and improvement starts with dissatisfaction," he said.

"There are also extreme differences in what the child learns in school and what the youngster sees outside the class. We teach christian principals yet the child sees neighbors treated with disrespect," he said.

One of the problems in the education system is that proposed changes in curriculum are often in conflict with present values and usually no action is taken on the changes.

The joint meeting of the two groups was held at Club Canara.

Deputy Minister of Education Envisages Schools of Future

In another decade of education Canada is likely to see such developments as large "group instruction" m a d e available by means of television programs and tapes produced by "master teachers."

It will be necessary in designing buildings to make the structure as flexible as possible to accommodate developments.

In time schools may be established that will have no walls but simply areas set up and divided by sound waves, light waves or the like, with the inside arrangement changed at will.

With the high cost of land in some of the metropolitan areas of Ontario, multi-storey schools with playgrounds on the roofs are envisaged.

The next ten years m o r e over will bring a "tremendous expansion" of adult education, training and retraining in such establishments as Loyalist College.

These were some of the exciting possibilities anticipated in education by Lorne M. Johnston, assistant deputy minister of Education in an address to Belleville Rotarians yesterday.

A native of Bandon township in Hastings County, Mr. Johnston said Canada and the other free nations of the Western world are involved in a struggle for survival, and its main strength will depend on its ability to develop its human resources — to educate and train people.

"Some of our competitors are confident we cannot keep pace and that, in due course, we will strangle ourselves for lack of competent leadership.

I state most emphatically that I do not accept this view for one moment. At the same time I do not underrate its possibility. We must 'run hard' not only to maintain our position but move ahead.

"Those of you who have studied the annual reviews of the Economic Council of Canada will realize already the extent to which our continued progress and prosperity depend today upon the quality a nd kind of education provided for the children we have.

"I should like to tell you what I think are the purposes of our schools — elementary and secondary. They exist to give the student a broadly-based general education, and in the secondary schools this should be broken into three general areas — academic, commercial and technical.

"In addition to the broad general education, the student will receive some saleable skills but in the main he will require additional education, training and retraining to enter and maintain his position in the world of work. I emphasize the fact that I consider vocational courses at the secondary school level to be a part of the pattern of general education.

"To be more specific, what do I expect our schools to do for my child. I could theorize on such purposes as:

(1) develop the whole child

(2) a child must learn to know himself

(3) development of character.

"For my purposes, I have settled on the following three objectives:

(1) Since I have to make a living which occupies virtually all of my working time, and since everyone I know must do the same, I submit it is an important part of education to enable children to earn a living.

"I do not mean that we must fit our secondary schools produce skilled craftsmen. I do mean that education m u s t give children some saleable skills — some 'trades' and able to work with others.

"I consider a command of the English language and oral and written communication) to be a saleable skill. A c o mmand of a second, or a third or fourth language is a very valuable skill as we l l — a working knowledge of mathematics and science, to cite a few.

(2) Since I live with others and I believe in freedom of thought and expression, freedom of association and freedom of worship and since we must prepare our children to live in this sort of society, to sustain it, and improve it, I would like to see it possible for my child to accept his responsibilities, his duties and when he leaves school, I want him to play his part, a growing part in the various free societies which form integral parts of our democratic way of life.

"I believe it was Plato who said: "Democracy without education is hypocrisy without limitation."

(3) Education must contribute something to the lives of individuals as persons.

"Distinct from his life as a workman, and distinct from his life as a citizen, he has needs as an individual which education should endeavor to meet. He may enjoy literature, music, drama or working with his hands. The satisfactions to be gained from these are immeasurable.

"Our schools then must:

(1) enable a person to make a satisfactory living;

(2) take his part in democracy;

(3) train individuals to entertain themselves.

Sir Alec Clegg of England had this to say recently:

"The intellect of each child should be as alert as we can m a k e it, his imagination should be as sensitive as we can make it, he should grow up with a high respect for himself and a tender consideration for others; he should enjoy as fully as we can enable him to do so those great human activities designed to give pleasure, such as games and art."

He went on to say:

"It is of utmost importance that these days when all developments are towards the mass and away from the individual, and when all manner of devices are being invented to improve what a man knows but have very little influence on the sort of person he is to become, that we should put the personal development of the child first."

"At the risk of repeating myself let me now elaborate on some of the points that I have mentioned. Students entering our secondary schools for the first time this year will be well on the way to majority in another decade. Their careers will have been built on the basis of study with curricula which we are now providing.

"On our shrewdness and foresight and soundness of judgment, therefore, a great deal will depend. At the very least, such considerations provide us with a challenging target to shoot at — and I might add a moving target. Curriculum must be changing and moving and we must aim well ahead if we are to find the target.

"This means that we should take steps to keep ourselves constantly informed of trends and innovations in curriculum matters at home and abroad, but not only in curriculum matters, because, for curriculum purposes, development in humanities, in science and technology, in social and economic affairs will have to be very much our concern.

"The total body of knowledge on which we shall have to draw for the subject matter of our courses will be enormous and constantly increasing. There are two clear inferences fr m this:

(1) because of sheer, overwhelming mass of knowledge to be handled the place of memorization in school work will tend to decline progressively; and we shall have to turn more and more to mastering fundamental principles and concepts and learning how to apply them. We must stop trying to force every bit of knowledge that comes available into our courses of study.

As Sir Alec Clegg stated in an address given last fall in Canada we must turn from teaching mud with knowledge to arousing curiosity — turn from pot-filling to fire-kindling.

"The student is naturally active and responds to situations. The teacher must avoid any chance of killing this natural activity, avoid having the student react with words and encourage his natural desire to inquire. The teacher's role is to provide the student with the tools to acquire knowledge and the methods of inquiry to understand it.

(2) "This, in turn, calls for a new approach on the part of our curriculum architects, our heads of departments and our teachers. We shall need to avoid any kind of rigidity of thought, to develop a readiness to investigate and learn new techniques, to keep an open door for new ideas and view points.

Salary Increases for Firemen, City Employees Set by Council

Salary and wage increases for city administrative staff, for city firemen, city hall and public works staffs, together with added fringe benefits will cost the city taxpayers approximately one-and-a-third mills in higher taxes this year.

And the above tax boost does not include any salary increases for the police department which is now being negotiated.

Neither does it include any increased salaries for teachers which will not be known until the school boards present their budgets.

Yesterday city council was told that salary and wage increases for city firemen and for city hall and public works employees would cost city tax payers an additional $100,000. This doesn't include salary increases to city hall department heads, which were decided earlier.

Increases approved earlier for city hall administrative staff will boost the above wage and salary hikes to approximately, $140,000, it is stated.

Acting Mayor, Douglas Boyle said the increases were simply the result of the rising cost of living and had been arrived at following some hard but amicable bargaining.

The three unions involved in the wage negotiations were Local 140 (Inside Workers) Canadian Union of Public Employees; Local 497 Professional Fire Fighters Association, and Local 1 (Public Works Yard Employees) C.U.P.E.

The acting mayor said that the minimum rate for public works employees was now $2.25 per hour which he considered a good wage.

Public works employees were granted an across the board increase of 25 cents per hour for 1968 a further 10 cents increase effective January 1, 1969 and a further 15 cent increase effective July 1, 1969.

Works department employees will receive four weeks holidays after 18 years service and five weeks vacation after 25 years.

Clerical grades at city hall are to receive a seven per cent increase this year with increments to be increased to $150 per year. A further seven per cent increase will be given in 1969.

At A.T.V. grades at city hall are to receive a nine per cent increase this year with increments increased to $200 per year. A further nine per cent increase will become effective in 1969.

Inside workers and city firemen will receive the same annual leave as works employees.

And all three groups will have two thirds of welfare benefit costs paid by the city.

Increased salary costs for city firemen will amount to $32,670 this year.

Earlier in the meeting council approved a 1968 budget of $44,000 as the city's share of the cost of the Family and Children's Services of Hastings County (CAS)

Alderman A. ORR said he was surprised at the amount of the increase over last year's budget pointing out he understood to have been $32,-700.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds however, said last year's figure had been $41,000.

Acting Mayor Boyle noted that the CAS had now incorporated the family councilling service and had also filled five staff vacancies.

Also yesterday council received the budget of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board for 1968 calling for an amount of $43,170. Of t h e above amount the citys share would be $34,590, with Sidney and Thurlow paying the balance.

Will Build Small Park Near River

City council yesterday formally designated No. 1 West Moira Street as park land and voted to turn the property over to the parks board of management for development and maintenance.

The old brick residence on the corner will be demolished and provision will be made in this year's current budget for construction of the necessary retaining wall at the river and for sidewalks.

Bishop Seeds, long time local business firm, has offered to contribute toward development of the small riverside park.

Sadly missed by daughter and son-in-law.

Your loving memory I'll always keep.

Ever remembered by son Eugene.

PARKS — In loving memory of a dear mother, Eva Parks, who passed away March 5, 1960.

Two willing hands are still.

For one who rested at the call.

She is resting in God's will.

Mom never said a goodbye to us,

But perhaps it's just as well.

We never could bear to say goodbye,

To a Mom we loved so well.

Sincerely missed by daughter Audrey, and son-in-law Verne.

We cherish memories.

PARKS — In loving memory of our dear grandmother, Mrs. Eva Parks, who passed away March 5, 1960.

Sleep on dear Mother and rest in peace,

God took her home to suffer no more.

—Always remembered by Nina and Elwood.

PARKS — In loving memory of our dear grandmother, Mrs. Eva Parks, who passed away March 5, 1960.

Those that love us must be suffering,

That the little one has gone before,

Leaving us to mourn her absence,

And whispered, "Peace be thine,"

Away in the Beautiful Land of God,

By the valley of rest so fair,

Where the angels live and know no care.

We will meet our loved one there.

Kaladar Requests Survey

TWEED — The Department of Lands and Forests will be asked to survey Kaladar, Anglesea and Effingham townships to discover what can be done to promote the area's natural resources.

Kaladar Township Council made the decision at its last council meeting.

It also decided to buy 14 benches from the Canadian Legion, Northbrook Branch for $30.

Arnold Boomhour will be paid $10 to care for stray dogs.

Wellington Rosenplot, grader operator, will be given an extra $50 for looking after the road superintendent's duties until the new man takes office.

Council approved the Library Board budget of $1,500 for 1968.

Marketing Conditions Outlined

NAPANEE — There was a good attendance of farmers on hand for the County Federation of Agriculture meeting last week in the County Memorial Building. The annual meeting of the wheat growers was held in conjunction with the Federation meeting.

Peter McKinnon of Bath, reported on marketing conditions. Mr. McKinnon is president of the Canada Wheat Marketing Board, and also president of the County board. Looking back over 100 years of wheat production, he noted that significant changes have occurred. The change is not so much in total acreage as in the yield per acre, which has doubled. This is due, no doubt, to the increased use of fertilizer, and to methods using modern farm machinery, he stated.

Mr. McKinnon was forced to paint a gloomy picture for the sale of the 4,000,000 bushels now held by the Board, Canada having priced herself out of the foreign markets with the exception of some small long - term commitments to Russia and China. European countries were favored with an exceptionally good wheat crop in 1967, and this has resulted in a world surplus. A year ago half the world was starving and welcomed Canadian wheat. In certain countries, such as India, where there are famine conditions, the staple food is rice and the people do not know how to use flour, the speaker explained.

OWRC Can't Reduce Water Supply Costs

The Ontario Water Resources Commission is not in a position to be able to reduce costs to the city for the proposed supply of Lake Ontario water for domestic use in the Belleville - Trenton area.

This has been indicated in a letter from the OWRC to the Belleville Industrial Commission in which it is stated that the proposed tentative rate of 40 cents per 1,000 gallons was considered reasonable for support of the $15,000,000 undertaking.

Accordingly, the letter said the OWRC was unable to make any further reduction in the cost of water pumped from Lake Ontario.

The letter from the OWRC was in response to a request from the city for the water resources commission to increase its contribution to the scheme of pumping water from the lake.

The proposal was that lake water be processed at a lakeside plant and then pumped to the Belleville-Trenton area.

Trenton however, turned down the proposal on the basis of to high cost (40 cents per 1,000 gallons) while Belleville also backed away for the same reason.

The 40 cent cost would double the cost of water for Belleville domestic users.

Yesterday, however, Acting Mayor Douglas Boyle said the reply from the OWRC put the city in the position of having to consider alternate proposals for the supply of the city's growing water needs.

One of the alternatives would be to consider an extension of the present water filtration plant in the west end of the city.

The $15,000,000 cost of the Lake Ontario water supply proposal is not within the scope of the city's finances at this time," he said.

Alderman Robin Jeffrey felt there was a possibility that the city might tap the upper reaches of the Moira watershed for increased water supply.

She said that contrary to her earlier understanding the OWRC apparently had not made a study of this possibility. If so the Moira River Conservation Authority was not aware of the study having been done, she said.

Acting Mayor Boyle, however, said that city council had received a report from the OWRC on the Moira river proposal. The report was to the effect that the Moira as a water supply source for the city was not feasible.

He suggested that Ald. Jeffrey be given a copy of the report for the Moira Authority.

Cablevue Issue

City Council Withdraws Petition

Belleville city council by a 7-1 vote yesterday agreed to withdraw its petition to the Ontario Legislature for a private bill to allow the municipality to levy a special tax on Cablevue Television.

On a recorded vote only Acting Mayor Douglas Boyle, who 18 months ago first proposed the levy, opposed the motion to withdraw the city's petition.

The recommendation was presented by way of notice of motion by Alderman Gerald Joyce who said the private bill would not be in the best interests of the city.

Alderman Arthur Keegan seconded the motion to withdraw the petition.

In speaking to his motion Alderman Joyce agreed that city coffers required dollars which could be made possible only by some assessment.

However, he urged that the city's industrial success must not be harmed through tax greediness on the part of city council.

"It would be, a dreadful thing if Belleville the friendly city should be dubbed Belleville the greedy city," he said.

"The bad public relations we would undoubtedly receive if this private bill was processed at the Legislature could be far reaching and through bad publicity we could lose industrial prospects and potential investors, thus losing many times the tax dollars (gained) to say nothing of the jobs new business creates."

Alderman Joyce said the private bill allowing the special tax would put the industrial commissioner and directors of the Industrial Commission and also the Chamber of Commerce in a very bad position.

He said these hard working groups endeavoring to sell Belleville would be faced with the question of the city seeking ways to put tax on top of tax.

"Also," he said, "it would be bad business for the city on one hand to ask one department of the Ontario Legislature to send Belleville industrial prospects and through interest free loans to encourage them to locate here and then on the other hand ask the legislature to pass a special unique bill enabling the corporation to tax new business coming to the city."

Insofar as the proposed special tax on Cablevue was concerned Ald. Joyce said the additional tax would be passed on to the customer.

Alderman Robin Jeffrey couldn't understand why the petition for a private bill was back in council this year after having been approved last year by city council.

She said she would have depended on the private bills commission of the Ontario Legislature to decide whether it was right or wrong.

Ald. Jeffrey said she wasn't alarmed over the possibility of double taxation as this was done continually by the senior governments.

However, she felt that a special tax on earnings would be stepping in on an area of federal jurisdiction.

Ald. Williams said he was concerned about the principle involved, claiming that the Cablevue tax on Cablevue was a form of double taxation.

At the same time he commended the acting mayor for his interest and regretted that criticism of Ald. Boyle had appeared in the press. He felt that Cablevue should have presented its case earlier to city council.

Ald. Paul Russell said he supported Ald. Joyce's motion to withdraw the petition for the private bill because to do otherwise would be "like changing the rules after industry had located." He said the bill could serve to keep industry away from the city.

Acting Mayor Boyle said there was much misunderstanding on what the city was attempting to do in its request for the private bill.

He said the city was simply asking that it be given the right to tax Cablevue for the use it made of city streets and other facilities.

He disagreed that the asked for private bill was a "unique" pointing out that Ottawa last year had been granted the right to tax cable television in that city.

He reviewed the background of events leading up to the city's decision to petition for a private bill. Before doing so it had asked the support of municipalities across Ontario in a request for amendment of the assessment act to allow the tax.

He said 75 per cent of the municipalities had favored the resolution, while the mayor's and reeves association had also endorsed it.

However the Legislature had not taken action to amend the assessment act.

The acting mayor claimed the matter should be referred to the private bills commission and said it would be ridiculous to withdraw the petition from the legislature at this late date.

Voting to withdraw the petition for the private bill were Ald. Richard Ellis, Robin Jeffrey, Gerald Joyce, Arthur Keegan, Arnold Gay, Paul Russell and Donald Williams. Acting Mayor Boyle cast the lone vote in opposition.

Aldermen Enos David and Kenneth Soden were absent from council.

District Dog Pound Shelter Would Double City's Cost

The proposal of the local branch of the Ontario Humane Society to construct and operate a district dog pound would double the city's present cost for animal control but city council will still take a "look see."

Yesterday a special committee of Aldermen Robin Jeffrey, Richard Ellis and Paul Russell was named to meet with the Humane Society and area municipalities to discuss the area dog pound proposal.

Alderman Jeffrey said there was need in the Quinte area for a shelter and also additional equipment for the humane treatment of animals.

She said the Humane Society would build a new area animal shelter on property which they would purchase, staff it and completely maintain it at a 50c per capita cost to the member municipalities.

She said that Trenton might be interested in the area animal shelter idea and could conceivably go in with Belleville even if the rural municipalities did not.

Acting Mayor Douglas Boyle pointed out that the 50c per capita charge would cost the city about $16,000 or , approximately double the cost of the city's present animal control program.

Mayor Scott Granted Leave Of Absence

Now recuperating in Toronto General Hospital following surgery for a bowel obstruction, Belleville mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott has been granted leave of absence from council meeting until April 30.

Dr. Scott has been away from council since prior to the New Year and accordingly the municipal act the seat of a member of council becomes vacated if he absents himself for three successive months without authorization by a resolution of council.

The resolution passed by council was "that due to the illness of Dr. J. Russell Scott he be granted leave of absence from attending meetings of council until April 30, 1968."

Council Honors Service Of J.D. O'Flynn on Board

Recognition of 30 years service to the city on the municipality's court of revision was given last night to John D. O'Flynn, local barrister and solicitor who retired as he recently resigned from his appointment to the board.

At the outset of yesterday's city council meeting, Acting Mayor Douglas Boyle presented Mr. O'Flynn with a plaque in recognition of his many years service.

Mr. O'Flynn served on the court of revision as county sheriff from 1930 until 1947 and from 1952 to the end of 1967 as the mayor's appointee.

The acting mayor said that Mr. O'Flynn had been held in high regard both by the assessment department and by city council for his capable recommendations on the court of revision.

Expressing appreciation for the honor, Mr. O'Flynn said that he had rather liked sitting on the court of revision.

Over the years he said he had found that most people were agreeable to decisions of the board as long as they were satisfied they were being treated the same as everyone else.

Objectors Stall Sewer Programs

TRENTON — Five letters from local residents have stalled a $400,000 sewer program, and have virtually cost the town $12,000, in government assistance, town council learned last night.

The letters objected to the proposal to install a trunk sanitary sewer to serve the lower Dufferin Ave. area.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission had approved letting a contract for the South-Westerly town sewer, and a long - awaited sanitary sewer for the Bay St. area in east Trenton.

Tatham Construction of Belleville had been awarded the contract for the projects, with a bid of some $320,000. Total cost of the sewer works, including engineering fees, was set in excess of $393,000.

But the Ontario Municipal Board asked the town to readvertise intention to go ahead with the project in view of a change that had been made in original specifications — earlier plans calling for a South Dufferin pumping station were deleted from the contract.

Town officials went through the government-requested motions, re-advertising the revised project locally on Feb. 23. There were no objection to original advertisement of the sewer projects, which will require an estimated 26 weeks to complete.

One of five letters of objection to the project received since came from Councillor Gerald Weaver, who said he abided by Mayor James MacDonald's decision last night not to disclose their contents.

Mr. Weaver said he had no objection to his letter being made public, but, since the mayor had decided it would serve no purpose to make the five objections public at this time, he would support that stand.

Mayor MacDonald said the next step is to petition for an Ontario Municipal Board hearing to air the complaints over the proposed sewers. He predicted this would be a time-consuming process, adding, "I hope we can get it over with by summer."

Unfortunately for the town, he told councillors, this delay will be costly.

Winter works assistance from the government on the $400,000 program would almost certainly be substantially cut.

Clerk - comptroller O. W. Larry today explained that municipalities cannot qualify for winter works assistance for any undertakings extended beyond April 30.

Assuming the "usual five or six weeks wait" for an OMB hearing, it was inconceivable that ground could be broken on the two sewer works much before the deadline.

Winter works grants are available for municipalities from the federal and provincial governments to assist in their jobs. Work must be such that in the absence of the grant program, it would not normally have been undertaken at that time by the municipality.

Work started prior to commencement of the designated winter period is ineligible for subsidy.

Mr. Larry said Trenton qualified for 75 per cent government assistance of the sewer program's $36,000 labor costs, or a $27,000 subsidy.

This would mean the town itself still qualify for about $12,000 of this if work carried on from now until the end of April.

GUEST SPEAKER:

A. E. BROWN, M.A., Senior Psychologist,
Child Adjustment Services,
Toronto Board of Education

It is said that the large County-wide units of school administration to be introduced at the beginning of the year 1969, will make it possible for all children to enjoy the specialized aids and services now available in the Metropolitan area only. The remarks of Mr. Brown, who is engaged in the field of special education, should be of interest to all.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Corine Musgrove, Secretary — Thomas R. Colden, President.

OBC Centennial

The Ontario Business College in Belleville this year is celebrating the 100th anniversary of its founding and is asking city co-operation to fittingly celebrate the event.

Yesterday, the college principal Mrs. C. Brown asked city council for permission to erect signs at the city's outskirts bringing attention to the OBC centennial.

She also asked for city literature to be included in College brochures for distribution in other countries.

Mrs. Brown said college officials were thinking in terms of a graduates' reunion to help celebrate the centennial and asked for any assistance that might be given in helping to plan the event.

Negro Riots Feared

Police department officials in the United States are reported to have stocked up on a wide variety of arms — from shotguns to armored cars — to combat any "long hot summer" of racial violence that may erupt during the mid-year period.

Naturally, police authorities are hoping the situation in the ghettos where the Negro population live will not materialize. However, with the ever-present threat of a flareup of antagonism among restless whites, this could prove too much to expect. Experience has shown it takes only a minor incident to spark rioting and bloodshed on a massive scale.

Eugene Genovese is an American historian who teaches at Sir George Williams University in Montreal. He is also a Marxist who has spoken in 1965 predicted as in 1965 said he would welcome a Viet Cong victory over the United States.

Be that as it may, Professor Genovese's views on the possibility of racial violence bear examination. In an address in Montreal recently he said Negro riots this summer will make the summer the most violent in the history of the United States.

He said a direct confrontation of major proportions is brewing in American cities . . . which would lead to a "bloodbath of military oppression" and heavy casualties.

Naturally, Genovese is biased, but he could be right. Clearly the authorities expect trouble, otherwise they would not be going to such extraordinary lengths to bolster civilian security. Moreover, the universality with which the U.S. has tied up in Vietnam all finances it might devote to its poverty program at home. This also must have an element of truth.

It is a melancholy prospect facing the United States on the domestic front this year. We can only hope these predictions will not come about, and that instead a new day will dawn both in the cities and in Viet Nam this year.

Swingers or Squares?

Amid the new spirit of liberalism that pervades modern society the majority of people grounded in traditional modes of conduct know there is really no substitute for the latter.

It is the familiar battle between good and evil, and while human nature is such that perfection is unattainable most people manage to conform to the age-old laws of society.

In the race to keep up, or to be "with it," on the other hand, some go too far perhaps. Like the 37-year-old Anglican minister in Vancouver who staged psychedilic services, attacked prosecutions regarding marijuana until its dangers had been investigated further, and spoke out against the war in Vietnam.

The Rev. James McKibbon says he was hounded by the bishop ever since he took part in what was called a psychedelic service which included go-go dancers, flashing lights and pop music.

Mr. McKibbon's charges against the established church — that it has lost touch with the world — has some validity, but by criticizing it for its tendency to stick to a creed of success, hard work and 'Victorian sex codes' he attacks standards that have value in any age. Such standards never failed anyone.

Today, as ever, qualities such as love, honor and integrity are greater prizes than any "psychedelic" fancies that have no particular significance in the cosmic scheme of things.

Brighter Pubs

Kingston hotelier Basil Keane used some picturesque analogies recently to describe the unfortunate appearance of the Ontario beer parlor.

Traditionally, he said, it has been little more than "an alcoholic filling station." Many potential patrons, he added, have avoided them because of their lifeless interiors.

The same might be said of restaurants around the province, in both town and country. The average Ontario restaurant is just that — average, without color, atmosphere and with food that somehow has escaped the touch of the real culinary artist.

To return to the beer parlors, Mr. Keane urged fellow proprietors of the St. Lawrence and Rideau Hotel Association to spruce up their establishments. He is giving a lead with plans for his own place.

The beer we trust will remain the same (although it will now come in glasses of different shapes and sizes), but the key words with regard to decor and the like are "color," "variety," and "imagination." And that applies to restaurants too.

Ottawa Offbeat
Liberal Government Proves to Be A Selfish Master

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA: - So the federal government boasts of "saving hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars," as Lester Pearson proudly proclaimed.

And this year is spending an initial $357,000,000 more than last year.

There will be some saving, otherwise that increase could have been doubled, even tripled.

But you know where the saving is being made?

On services the government is supposed to be providing the taxpayer.

On public works, transportation and defence.

On itself, the government is spending more.

Spending more, that is, to provide less public service.

You don't believe it?

Look into the government's very own accounts, the federal estimates, all set out dollar-for-dollar in the annual national balance sheet of the finance department.

And you will find greatly increased spending (on itself) and a little saving (on you).

Up goes the federal civil service wage bill by $150,000,000 — from last year's $1,318,000,000 to $1,468,000,000.

Just five years ago, the payroll stood at $899,000,000.

That makes for an increase since only 1963 of $569,000,000.

More than half a billion that, an increase fast approaching 100 percent.

Make it six years, and federal pay could have doubled.

Some restraint!

Civil service travelling expenses — where are they all going, to the moon? — are up on the year from $100,000,000 to $108,000,000.

What a saving.

The civil service phone and telegraph bill goes up in the year from $39,000,000 to $47,000,000. (Talk may be cheap, but not when it is being done in Ottawa.)

A mere $8,000,000 increase in the phone bill.

Quite an economy!

The rent bill for government office space climbs from $42,000,000 to $52,000,000.

(No, the federal government does not own all the buildings it occupies, like post offices, unemployment insurance bureaus. With 40,000 civil servants added to the payroll in four years, it has to find some place to put them.)

So up goes office rent $10,000,000 in the year.

Nice cutback, that!

More people on the payroll, more office space both rented and owned, means more rugs, desks, chairs and other equipment.

The tab for this climbs from $26,000,000 to $29,000,000 for the year.

Up only $3,000,000 — man, in a way that could be a saving, Ottawa style.

Also up $1,468,000,000 paid in salaries, the civil service draws a few extra millions in special allowances with external affairs getting $8,000,000 to further fatten its $23,000,000 payroll.

And these allowances, like everything else in the government's own establishment, are up, from $35,000,000 to $37,000,000.

Another example of government "austerity!"

How come Lester Pearson and Mitchell Sharp lecture the taxpayers — wage and salary earners, bosses, labour and anyone else outside the federal empire — on the virtues of belttightening, but lavish some of the "hundreds upon hundreds of millions" they are supposed to be saving on their own bureaucratic enterprise?

Could it be that both most of their lives have been bureaucrats themselves, and are unable to deny former civil service colleagues anything?

Lester Pearson leaped into politics from external affairs. Mitchell Sharp from trade and commerce, and when they came to power, built what was essentially a civil service-powered cabinet, with eight ex-civil servants in key seats.

The empathy between former external affairs deputy Lester Pearson and the other supposedly politically neutral departmental deputies was such that on his first day in power they all gathered at a private office on Parliament Hill for a round of self - congratulatory cheers. It was what turned out to be the first meeting of a mutual benefit society.

There are echoes of that conference as evidence that the deputies "club" did meet to hip-hooray its new "president" the prime minister. And there is ample evidence in the government estimates that he has done more than well for his "members," raising the average deputy's salary a few years from $18,000 to $28,000.

The idea seems to be for you to save through higher taxes so they can spend.

Letters to the Editor
Heart Disease and Its Prevention

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

A recent editorial on heart trouble and electrocardiograms does illustrate some important information. Many laymen are already aware of this information — that the electrocardiogram is only a diagnostic aid.

I wish to stress that this information should be directed, not to the layman, but to the medical profession, hospital administrators and government legislators.

You stated "The man collapsed at home after pushing his small car to get it started." The man collapsed—is that not sufficient reason to admit him to a hospital bed for these tests and subsequent observation? This is not to suggest his fatal attack would not have occurred. He at least would have been given a chance of survival.

Hospital beds have been at a premium too long in most Ontario centres. The Ontario government has been selling the public hospital insurance for many years but has not produced the facilities. This fact did not deter them from launching O.M.S.I.P. and its massive advertising schemes.

Fortunately, Bellevillians will soon be free of this dilemma. Or will they?

"INTERESTED."

New Jersey Man Seeks Paternal Grandfather

The following is a copy of a letter addressed to city officials by Richard J. Parry of Mountainside, New Jersey. Mr. Parry is seeking information about his grandfather, last known to be living in Belleville some 25 to 30 years ago.
Editor,
The Intelligencer,

I am writing you with the hope that you may be of some assistance in helping me trace a member of my family. I believe this person is dead, but we have no actual proof of this. His name of this person is Richard Parry and his last known address was Belleville, Ontario, Canada. He is my grandfather.

Many years back, my father, Cecil R. Parry, corresponded his father, Richard Parry, in Belleville, and that was the last any member of my family has heard from him. This was some 35 to 40 years ago, somewhere between 1938 and 1943. I believe my grandfather, Richard Parry, would be about 81 or 82 years of age now, if he is still living.

Since my father was an only child, and his mother is also deceased, we have no way of knowing what has become of his father. My father for some reason was under the impression that he died in Belleville, but as I said before we have no way or means of confirming this.

We are a small family with no relatives and it is of grave importance to me to find out what has become of my grandfather, Richard Parry. Although I never knew this man I would very much like to know what happened to him and if by chance he is still living I would like to try to make contact with him.

Anything you can do to assist me in this matter would be greatly appreciated. If, as presumed, Richard Parry did pass away in the town of Belleville, would you please advise me of this and also the date of death and the place of burial. As I said, this may have been some 25 or 30 years ago. If you have no record of death, and he is no longer a resident of Belleville, maybe his last known address or a forwarding address he may have left would be available. Please advise me of this.

I know this will take a great deal of checking over past records, but I have no one else to turn to but you. If you cannot help me in any way, please advise who I might contact in regard to this matter.

Youth is the big thing these days, and youth has problems. To listen to youth — and who can escape listening — is to get the clear impression that no one has ever had such problems as confront youth today.

One of the big problems of youth is age, an unhappy state which sets in, according to youth, somewhere between the 21st and 22nd years of life. Age does not understand youth, and in fact makes no attempt to understand youth. To make its point, youth, is compelled to protest. If that doesn't work, youth then considers revolt.

It is one of the problems of youth that age tries to blind its eyes to the fact that youth is protesting. Age also avoids the fact that youth is revolting. Age is quite unaware of the problems of youth.

There was a few of the aged who try to understand the problems of youth. But youth is not fooled by this. Youth, with its sure grasp of all facts, recognizes that age is not really interested. This is the problem of age.

Ah well. Before we know it, youth will be age, and will understand the problems of age. And age will still not understand the problems of youth. And so on.

Vulgarity Of Speech Hits Peak

Windsor Star

Vulgarity, in its various forms seems to have become more commonplace in open discussion than was previously acceptable.

Formerly these harsh forms of the English language were reserved for close company, but now lewdness, obscenity and vulgarity have come into such common usage that they can almost be interpreted as fit for the drawing room.

Many books to be found on public library shelves, paperbacks on news stands and many other publications presented for public consumption seem to lean heavily on the use of various vulgarities or obscenities. The authors and editors of these publications defend their position on grounds that these are the true and accurate representations of people and this kind of verbiage serves to present the real side of people and their thoughts.

Those who take offence at this kind of language may be equally strong in their view that such language is completely offensive and unacceptable, regardless of the situation.

Establishing a point does not necessarily require the explorative unless the capacity for understanding our language has reached such a level that something short of being struck on the head with a hammer has any effect.

Those who would use the vulgarities and obscenities could learn much in respecting the people they choose to influence rather than trying to gain their interest and attention through shock methods.

Loneliness A Form of Selfishness

Regina Leader-Post

No one would underestimate the despair and loneliness of many women who for one reason or another feel that the world has left them behind and that the four walls of their apartment are their prison.

The best advice to them can only be to break out of this prison of their own making by looking for others like every other city in the world, is full of opportunities for such service.

Lonely people can be found almost anywhere, even possibly next door to your house or apartment. One of the best therapies for a frustrated and lonely person is to discover personal problems long enough to share those of someone else.

Rev. J. R. Hord: A Realist

The Globe and Mail

Rev. J. Raymond Hord was a new evangelist. At least it was a term often applied to him, and he liked it. He also liked to speak and his deep, resonant voice would have been perfectly suited to a magnificent baroque cathedral — if he were interested in that type of thing.

But he preferred speaking to hippies, men's clubs, peace marchers and civil rights denaonstrators. He spoke on Canada's foreign affairs, Vietnam, apartheid, data insurance, the population explosion, abortion and hunger. "People do not look to the sky anymore to discover a supernatural God they do not know," he told a conference in Prince Edward Island last September. "They have to find God incarnate in the common things in life, even in the gutter."

GM Head Terms Auto Strike "Unjustifiable"

OSHAWA (CP) — E. H. Walker, president of General Motors of Canada Ltd., said in a statement Monday the strike against the company by the United Auto Workers is "unnecessary and unjustifiable."

He said parity with GM workers in the United States does not mean just wage parity. It was a matter of wages and the use of machine equipment.

Mr. Walker said GM's U.S. competitors are paying higher wages because they have higher use of manufacturing equipment.

"That's what we need; that's what the union refused to consider; that's why the strike continues."

He said Canada has an outdated system because assembly lines shut down for a half-hour break to allow employees rest and washup periods during each shift. The U.S. competitors don't do that.

"We ought to be able to do what they do; we ought to work eight hours instead of seven-and-one-half."

The walkout by about 25,000 UAW members at seven plants in Ontario and Quebec is in its fourth week.

Earlier Monday UAW and GM negotiators broke off bargaining and vacated their offices in a downtown Toronto hotel.

Commenting on Mr. Walker's statement, George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, said in Windsor, Ont., the strike should not continue and that his union is prepared to work "day and night" to reach a settlement.

He said the main area of breakdown is the failure of the company to have its negotiators continue to sit until the strike is settled.

Controversial Meeting

Marina Project Again Deferred

TRENTON — A local businessman's offer to launch a marina project for local use has again been temporarily scuttled by town council, this time after the plan had received the approval of the Chamber of Commerce and Trenton's Industrial Commission.

At the Feb. 19 council session, Eben James, president of Trenton Cold Storage Ltd., proposed to construct about 200 finger-docks of timber from a concrete sea wall at the south side of the firm's bayfront site.

Mr. James proposed a $3,000 annual rental fee to cover the cost of installation of the docks, which would sit at the west side of the entrance to Trent River.

In a controversial Thursday meeting, Mayor James D. Donald accepted a non-debatable deferment motion of discussion of the matter on the grounds council had agreed all members should be present to discuss the marina proposal.

In his submission to council, Mr. James had sought an early response to enable work to begin on the docks while ice in Bay of Quinte, at the mouth of the Trent would support workmen and equipment. This would considerably ease the cost burden of the project, he said.

Then last night, Mayor Macdonald ruled another motion to defer the matter in order, in time proposed by Councillor Duncan McDonald.

Once passed no debate is permitted on the motion of deferment.

Councillor McDonald moved to defer discussion on the marina proposal pending consultation with the consulting firm of Johnson, Sustronck, and Weinstein, who designed the proposed east-side marina planned adjacent to the Centennial Park site.

The Mayor said he would present Mr. James' proposal to the Toronto firm for their perusal today.

Councillor Gerald Weaver waged a heated debate against the proposal, basing his argument on three main points:

1) his refusal to approve of public contribution to the privately - owned docks;

2) his assertion that prevailing winds in the proposed marina area would be "ruinous" to mooring craft;

3) his claim that acceptance of the proposal would preclude future town construction in the area of any public docking facilities.

E. M. "Ted" Parker agreed with Mr. Weaver that not enough information had been given to council about the action of prevailing winds on the proposed docks. Another point proposed by Mr. James as the marina site. Councillor Parker also felt there was a possibility for the town to build its own facilities in the area by extending the existing government wharf.

"We're being asked to spend something like $15,000 of public money in five years for something we rent," said Councillor Parker. "What about expanding the government dock at the town's expense?"

Councillor Paul Tripp, chairman of the town's Industrial Commission, said "You're talking $75,000 or $80,000."

"I don't know how you can arrive at that figure until you haven't explored the possibility," snapped Councillor Parker.

Mr. Tripp, who submitted a committee report approving a conditional acceptance of the James' marina offer, told Councillor Parker the possibility of the town obtaining further government dock assistance was "out of the question."

At least that was the government's position two years ago and I haven't heard that they've changed since.

"Government officials have told me we're damn lucky we had the docks we did. They said some Seaway towns don't have as good docking facilities," Councillor Tripp said.

Mr. Tripp said the marina proposal provided an ideal opportunity to "capitalize on our natural resources" and favored realization of the long - range town project of establishing a marina on the Trenton waterfront Park.

Trenton's share of the proposed east-side marina would be in the $150,000 range, and the project would not be completed for at least five years, it was announced in 1967.

At present, the town dock just south of the old town bridge provides docking facilities for visiting mariners. But no more than 15 boats can tie up at the mouth of the much-travelled Trent Canal system.

Thousands of pleasure craft pass by or through Trenton each summer, and the Chamber of Commerce recommended acceptance of Mr. James' marina offer to capitalize on the town's position on Lake Ontario and at the mouth of the 240-mile long Trent - Severn waterway.

(Chamber of Commerce manager Jack Wilson estimated an average $100 of business comes from every transient boat that docks in Trenton).

"This is a temporary arrangement," said Councillor Tripp, referring to Mr. James' offer.

Councillor Parker disagreed. "I don't look at the proposal as temporary at all. It is particularly desirable to have permanent docking facilities in west Trenton. in the proximity of the town business section."

Until he had further information as to the possibility of town construction of publicowned facilities, Mr. Parker could not support Councilor Tripp's motion to accept the James' marina.

"I'm in the odd position of wanting the docks, but being unable to support the motion" he said.

In attendance at last night's council meeting. Eben James responded to some harsh criticism and presents past questions from Councillor Weaver, whose running feud with Mr. James, over the largest member of spectators to a council meeting in a year.

"It is not our intention to get involved in the marina business. My firm has been approached by a number of local merchants asking if our property couldn't be made into boat-docking facilities.

"And it's not my intention to get involved in any controversy," Mr. James said, glancing in Councillor Weaver's direction.

He said he "would just as soon forget the whole thing" if council did not wholeheartedly accept his offer.

Councillor Weaver told the meeting he definitely intended to oppose the project.

"I'm not made this proposal because of local requests," said Mr. James. "The Department of Transport approached us to ask if we were, in fact, interested in a marina project. If we were, they did not want to get involved in financing any other local marina."

Mr. James' reference to the government's statement for the east-side Centennial park marina school Councillor Paul Tripp's remark.

Mr. Tripp said he had indications from government sources that federal spending outbacks might affect the town's five-year marina project.

Mr. James said his firm would, in effect, be subsidizing the marina docks that sets, there would be no danger of wind damage to boats at the proposed site, and it would cost the town upwards of $50,000 to install fingerdocks on an extension of the government wharf, he estimated.

Councillor Weaver claimed Mr. James promised to erect a safety fence and mooring "breakwater" as conditions of being' deeded a piece of waterfront property in 1965.

Mr. James' original promises of a Public Works Committee meeting showing the had promised to erect a retaining wall on the property and a mooring extension, both of which he subsequently carried out.

"This has nothing to do with the past," interjected Councillor Ed Todd. "There is only one question before us — do we or don't we want these fingerdocks?"

As councillors were about to vote on Mr. Tripp's motion, Councillor Duncan McDonald introduced his deferral motion, and the apparently ill-fated issue was again left unresolved.

Town Property for Purchase To Be Advertised Annually

TRENTON — In future, all town-registered property available for purchase will be advertised, at least once annually, for the benefit of potential buyers.

Town council passed a resolution to that effect last night to establish an official town policy with regard to public-owned land sales.

Single parcels of property will be listed and appraised by the assessment commissioner, and a minimum acceptable price set. Councillor Duncan McDonald's amendment that single parcels be advertised at least once yearly was carried three to two. Councillors Paul Tripp and E. M. "Ted" Parker voted against necessity of advertising small properties ,rather than accepting a satisfactory offer.

A small property may be sold, so long as an offer exceeds the minimum price set by the assessor, on a first-come, first-served" basis.

Larger, undivided - size parcels will similarly be listed and appraised, but must be advertised and tendered before sale by the town. This will apply to any parcel bigger than two lots.

A "rider" suggested by Councillor Paul Tripp was included, indicating that time limit be determined as a condition of sale, during which development of property is purchased from the town must take place.

"Certain landlords in town have tied up too much land for too little use," Councillor Tripp said. "We need co - operation from de-

To Finance Alcan Home

MONTREAL (CP) — All National Housing Act mortgage financing for Alcan homes will be provided through Royal Bank of Canada branches, it was announced Monday.

A joint statement issued by Royal Bank and Alcan Aluminum Homes Ltd. said the move is expected to eliminate many of the delays brought on by shortages of mortgage money.

"The arrangement insures that money will be readily available to qualified individual buyers of these new plant-assembled homes," the statement said.

velopers and builders in this respect. There are too many blocks of property sold by the town that are now tied up tight."

"I don't like to see a lot of land tied up," Councilor Tripp added, land-use into the table a copy of a Chamber of Commerce study calling an urgent need for more homes in Trenton.

Councillor Gerald Weaver felt, "in all fairness to all the townspeople, property sales by the town should be handled ahead of time — it's a good general principle".

"If you have a listing of all town-registered properties available for purchase, you can look into any problems later on."

Councilor Tripp said the town was not getting enough revenue out of a lot of potentially-valuable property.

"There's a crying need for housing, yet there's a lot of land lying there not - being used."

Any municipal land sold should be developed within a reasonable time, or revert back to the town. This would discourage speculation with public-owned property, he said.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Gold mine issues ran into some profit taking in active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, interrupting a boom that began Friday.

The gold index, up almost 14 points Monday, slipped four points to 256.76 as Dome Mines dropped 3¼ to 84¼, Giant Yellowknife 1 to 13 and Kerr Addison ¼ to 16¾.

Campbell Red Lake continued its surge, gaining 1⅞ to 43⅛.

Among smaller issues that profited in the industrial list, Wright Hargreaves, which hasn't produced one ounce of gold since 1966, dropped 2 cents to 3.85, Lake Shore 20 cents to 5.30 and Discovery 18 cents to 1.41.

Prices in other sections of the market were sharply off.

In the industrials, Hat, Nuchips took it on the chin as Inco dropped ¼ to 112, Walkers ¼ to 30, Massey-Ferguson and Interprovincial Pipe Lines ⅛ each to 18 and 18¼ and MacMillan Bloedel ¼ to 18¾.

Noranda jumped 1¼ to 46¼, Dome Petr fell 1¼ to 49¼, Central-Del Rio 1 to 13 and Canadian Superior ½ to 28.

The Augon Mines was off ¼ to 29¾.

On index, industrials declined .79 to 147.96, oils 2.93 to 172.93 and base metals .77 to 101.12.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,211,000 shares compared with 1,301,000 at the same time Monday.

School Board Has Surplus Of $11,926

PICTON (Staff) — A sizeable decrease in the requisition by the Picton Public School Board of 1968 was announced at town council last night. It was learned that the school board report showed a surplus of $11,926.65. W. W. Evans, chairman of the Picton Public School Board, appeared in council with other members and supervising Principal Carl P. Reid to present the report. Congratulations to the board was expressed by members of the council for the job they were doing.

Mayor H. J. McFarland also expressed his thanks and added "with salaries and costs increasing all around us this will be a year when money we need so badly." It was councillor Bird's hope that "We'll be able to pass on to the taxpayer."

With operating expenses plus debenture charges the cost estimated for 1968 is $97,926.65. Evans, while presenting the report said "This is our last report from the board as we're reluctant to see the power go from our hands." Mr. Evans thanked council on behalf of the board for their considerations in the past and noted that although salaries and equipment costs were up — grants also were up, at the same time.

Council carried a motion at last night's meeting to recommend the report of the finance committee regarding salary structures for town employees. Recommendations as follows: $5,500 with a minimum of $4,000 with a maximum of $4,500 in five years. Fire Chief: $5,500 with a minimum of $7,000 in five years. Town foreman, basic $6,000 with a maximum of $7,000 in five years. Recreation director $5,500 with a maximum of $7,000 in five years. Clerk - treasurer $7,500 basic, a maximum of $10,000 in five years.

Council members of council agreed that the above salaries were in line and comparable with other communities the same size.

Only three building permits were applied for this month. Permits totalled only $5,900.

Plenty of Room for Toes

Canadian shoe fashions for spring '68 dramatically illustrate to what extent the leg has become the focal point of fashion, in many instances stealing the scene from dress or coat.

Whether skirts are mini or midi in length, clothes romantic or mannish in design, the shoe has become the essential ingredient, of fashion, often providing the major emphasis to the current looks in ready-to-wear.

For spring footwear is fashioned in the romantic vein, for ruffles and frills, or at the other extreme in bold, mantailored types for the masculine trends in women's wear.

Shape dictates the shoe fashion picture — shape of toe and heel, and striking design in silhouette.

Toe shapes have one thing in common. They are broad whether rounded, squared or U-shaped, all provide plenty of room for toes. This is achieved through walling or crowning in the toe area of the shoe.

Open and bare themes continue, as do straps — a little broader than last season—and low throatlines. High-rising fronts with cut-outs are a renewed interest in the d'Orsay pump are gaining impetus.

Heels are making a great deal of fashion news — in both shape and height. Low heels predominate in spring and summer shoe collections and are assured of a place in fashion because of the continuing prevalence of the short skirt. The higher, 2-inch heel is seen mostly on the more feminine, romantic shoes with flared and curvy heels providing just the right balance for flaring skirts and belted dresses. Lower heels are more chunky in design, often in squared, angled or faceted dimensions. Heel shapes, in some instances, are emphasized by covering heels in contrasting pieces of leather.

Ornamentation and detailing used extensively in spring shoe fashions, express the current looks in fashion. Fabric or leather bows, flower motifs, mother of pearl and jewels, accentuate the feminine. Nailheads, hardware trims, extension soles, perforations and antiquing, figure largely in the man-tailored types.

While calf and grained leather make up the major share of the shoe fashion picture, shine is in for spring and summer. Patent leather is headed for its biggest season yet — either plain, pearlized or metallic, and all the season's popular colors. Shiny reptile prints have come to the fore. The greatest interest being shown in baby alligator and bold, turtle prints.

Shine Is In

Patent leather is headed for its biggest season yet, according to shoes previewed in Toronto. This opened-up sling in camouflaged patent, is on broad square toe, chunky heel with strap treatment across vamp.

WEDDING

QUINN — GRATTON

TWEED — The wedding was solemnized recently in the Nativity Church in Cornwall, Ontario, when Algela Gratton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gratton of Cornwall, was united in marriage to Patrick Joseph Quinn of Smith's Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Quinn of Tweed. Father Major of Cornwall performed the ceremony. Mr. Radolphe Pitre was organist, and assisted the choir.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white peau-de-soie A - line dress with a train and bell sleeves, all trimmed with wide lace. Her short veil fell to the shoulders, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Bernice Payette was maid of honor, and wore a crepe, orange ice dress, designed in an A - line and with short sleeves and buttons on the front of the dress. Miss Michele Bonneville, as bridesmaid, was dressed the same as the maid of honor. The flowers of both girls were white 'mums with orange coloring.

Joseph Quinn of Toronto was groomsman and the ushers were ushered by Brian Lamothe of Ottawa.

At the reception in the Royal Hotel Hotel the bride's mother received in a pale blue crepe dress trimmed with silver braiding, and a corsage of roses. Mrs. Quinn, mother of the bridegroom, chose a green wool ensemble and a corsage of yellow roses.

For travelling, the bride chose a white wool double - breasted suit with brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Quinn are residing at Smith's Falls, where the bridegroom is on the teaching staff of one of the schools.

New Bridesmaid's Look

This vivid, multi-colored bridesmaid's dress started life as a member of the wedding but it will go on swinging after that particular party is over. It's one of a bright and beautiful new line which will be shown in Weekend Magazine's fashion feature this weekend.

A native of the Quinte district, Miss McGuire obtained her early education in Belleville schools.

Any girl or boy who hopes to become a Canadian figure skating champion must be full of self - discipline, possess a strong determination to succeed, and be willing to give up most of the playtime and fun things of life that young people generally take for granted.

A figure skating champion isn't made overnight. So if you ever hope to make the grade, you'll have to keep working at it during the summer as well as the winter months.

That's the advice of Osborne Colson, one of Canada's top professional figure skaters. And he should know because he's been a Canadian Gold Medalist, a seven season star of the Ice Follies, three times Canadian champion and the coach of several Canadian and United States champions.

During the winter, Osborne Colson is director and skating professional at the Leaside Memorial Gardens and the Varsity Arena in Toronto. In the hot summer months, he can be found in the Canadian Rockies acting as director of a special figure skating school which is now part of the Banff School of Fine Arts.

This summer, more than 50 young figure skating hopefuls from all parts of Canada and the United States, will pack their bags and head for Banff to receive special training and coaching. Aims has hopes of eventually becoming a champion and is prepared to make any sacrifice to achieve that ambition.

Daily classes begin at 8:30 a.m. and carry through until 9:30 p.m., with advanced training on weekends.

A daily half hour of ballet is compulsory. This instruction is given by Gordon Crossland, a native of Guelph, Ont., who's a Gold Dance Medalist and former soloist of the Ice Follies. Crossland is an ex member of England's Royal Ballet Company and at Banff he now conducts classes in both ballet and skating.

Predicts Osborne Colson: "Within seven years as director, I believe the Banff school has now reached the point where in the near future, we may easily produce a Canadian or maybe even a world figure skating champion."

Both Sexes to Play Role In Future Space Ventures

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — You often hear about the "human factors" of man in space. Can he survive a journey to Mars? How does he react to weightlessness, and the hostility that goes with it?

Yet, rarely do you hear about his most personal of "human factors" — the weaker sex, woman, and her role in future space ventures.

"Why not?" says Lawrence E. Jenkins, an aerospace engineer who has studied the question and posed it as a serious scientific consideration. "Why not send women along?"

Jenkins, manager of space systems technology for Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., Sunnyvale, Calif., discussed the point at a convention of some 250 experts meeting to discuss manned missions to the planets, flights that would take up to three years to complete. In a scientific paper, he proposed:

"A new crew composition approach that should be considered is that of a crew composed of men and women."

He said in an interview that to his surprise when he began researching the psychological factors to be considered in picking six to 10 or more crew members for extended space journeys, he discovered virtually a complete absence of study of possible mixed crews.

"Take a spaceflight lasting as long as it would take to get to Mars. The crew is going to be very dependent on each other," Jenkins explained. "I'm not talking so much about the sexual drive, and the sexual needs in man as I am the emotional stability the opposite sex can provide.

"Just like the fellow who seems more stable when he gets home from the office if he's with his wife, the woman he loves," he said. "There's a natural bond between man and wife that can lead to more understanding and stability during a period of ordeal. Thus, it could be a mental health safety factor.

"Now, she'd have to be a functioning crew member. . . . In fact women have proven on missions that there are some jobs they're more suited for than men."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has no announced rule against lady astronauts. It is known that women are applied, but none ever made it to the final selection board.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles". It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective degree of healing. In gem-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months! Among those sufferers were the wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions—even cases of long standing.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H.. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Adoptive Parent Advises Others to Use Imagination

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I always read your column and admire you for the sensible advice you hand out to your perplexed and puzzled public. Keep up the good work.

In your advice about adopted children, here are some hints which might help the parents:

Tell the child that you wanted him, that you longed for a child, just such a child as he is, how thrilled you were when you found him. How you knew when you found him that he was the right child, how you recognized him by his red hair, (or blue, or brown eyes, or the dimple in his cheeks).

If there were already children in the family, then he can be told that big brother and sister longed for a little brother to love and care for. An imaginative Mommy or Daddy can make the little fellow feel truly welcome and privileged.

No need to worry about another child telling him he is adopted; he will be proud of the fact. — No Name

Dear No Name: And so he will.

I am reminded of a friend who travelled with his wife and small son to a Canadian city 200 miles away to claim the tiny baby who was to be his second adopted child. When the excited little boy saw the small bundle he was surprised and downcast.

By the time the car was headed homeward he was in tears and declaring this was not what he wanted; that "thing" looked terrible. Such was the tension at that point that Mother began crying too.

So Father pulled the car over to the side of the road and stopped it. Said, "Look here, Robbie, if you don't want this little sister, we can take her back. I told you you would have some say in this, and so you have. We can change our minds right now."

Robbie was silent. Then he leaned over and took another look at the little redfaced bit of humanity, which also began to cry. He relented. Said, "Oh, well, gosh, I guess she'll grow. O.K., I'll take her."

And that was that. He now boasts that both he and his kid sister were "chosen children."

(For anyone who wants it, I can recommend some good books on adoption.)

Dear Doris: I write short stories for a hobby and I was wondering if perhaps some of them would be good enough for publication. How would I go about getting them published, or at least read by a man's magazine, for example, or any other paper?

Until my little girl is a little older, I prefer not to work outside my home but I desire to do something, and this may be the outlet I need. — Story Writer.

Dear Writer: Before me I have a $7-page Writers' Guide just hot off the press. This is a new and expanded version of the Canadian Market List for Writers. Sent for $2 and worth every penny of it to the aspiring writer of stories, poems, articles, scripts for radio and television.

Besides listing media (newspapers magazines in many fields of interest, radio and TV) there are words of wisdom on manuscript preparation and submission, literary agents, annual awards. And other helpful sections.

You need this Guide. Get a copy by writing Canadian Authors Association, 22 Yorkville Avenue, Toronto 5, Canada, enclosing $2.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Elusive Flavor Adds to Pot Roast

By MARY MOORE

You encouraged me to press on with my economical beef recipes.

You liked the oven pot roast, the top-of-stove beef stew, the oven beef stew, and braised short ribs.

Today I have a Spicy Pot Roast with Tomato Gravy. The spices are barely discernible but add an elusive flavor we liked.

TUESDAY
(See Thurs. Feb. 29th)

Dinner Menu

Roast Pork Shoulder with Sauerkraut; Potato Pancakes; Grapefruit and Avocado Salad; Ice Cream with Crushed Pineapple; Tea.

SPICY POT ROAST WITH TOMATO GRAVY

4 lb. pot roast (or short ribs)
1½ cups tomato juice or canned tomatoes
1 onion, chopped
3 tbsps. vinegar
2 tbsps. brown sugar
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. ginger
1½ tsps. salt
⅛ tsp. garlic powder
⅛ to ¼ tsp. pepper
¼ cup flour
1-3 cup water

In heavy large saucepan or Dutch oven sear and brown the meat on all sides in some of its own fat over high heat. Stir seasonings into sugar, vinegar and tomato juice or tomatoes and onion and add. Do not add flour and water yet. Cover and simmer 3½ hrs., turning over once. 1 it meat from saucepan. You will have about 2½ cups liquid in saucepan. Mix together in a smooth paste the flour and water and stir into liquid in saucepan until thick. Serve in saucebout at table.

NOTES: 1) This is at its best served with noodles for the tomato sauce is so good on them but mashed potatoes or rice could be the accompaniment.

2) This may be cooked in a pressure cooker. If you are using a pressure cooker, cook at 5 lbs. pressure for 2 hrs.

3) If you are lovers of spice you may add pinches of oregano, thyme, sage, basil and rosemary or ¼ to ½ tsp. of any one of them.

Model Revamps Image

NEW YORK (AP)—Gone are the harshly-lined eyes and the mixture minis. There's a new Penelope Tree.

Not that the old Penelope was in need of revamping. The 18-year-old model just decided the dark painted lines accenting the gaunt sad-eyed look which made her famous were too harsh. They've been replaced with soft brown eye shadow.

Just back from three weeks in Paris, where she worked with the English model, Twiggy, Penelope curled the long bare legs up under a calf-length dress and talked about her seven - month modelling career.

"I always thought modelling was a sort of stupid job—which it is," she said. "You're not doing anything for anybody; it's just standing there. I'm not particularly proud. The photographer models you. All you can hope to accomplish is some poetic movement.

"It's the secret is in acting out the clothes. For example, you act as though you are a housemaid in Louisiana. It brings intensity to your expression. Sometimes I pretend I'm a suburban housewife who has just gone to New York to the Opera or on holiday off a reservation who is going to Europe."

Actually, Penelope is a freshman off the campus of Sarah Lawrence College, which she left in January for a year to model.

Penelope comes from a family of successful people.

Her mother was an ambassador to the United Nations, her half sister was a Vietnam correspondent, her uncle was governor of Massachusetts.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

A small child can pull out the drawers of a chest and use each one as a step for climbing to the top. He could unbalance the chest so it would fall on top of him.

If your child plays in his room unsupervised, it might be wise to turn the front of any tall chest to the wall or move it out of the room.

Small children have no judgment about danger. You must be alert to possible hazards in the home.

Ann Landers

Boyfriend's Surname Causes Embarrassment

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Am I crazy? If you think so, please tell me. I am going with a wonderful fellow who has an odd last name. Most people, when they see the name in print, pronounce it incorrectly and it comes out like a dirty four letter word.

Would I be way out of line to ask my boyfriend to change the spelling of his name so people would not become so embarrassed? I've seen folks stammer and get red in the face — afraid to even try it. Advise me, please. — A BLUSHER.

DEAR BLUSHER: Has the boy asked you to marry him? Have you said yes? If so, I see nothing wrong in asking him to change the spelling of his name because it will be your name, too. If you don't plan to marry him, honey, keep quiet. The problem is a temporary one.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 22 years old who makes very good money doing housework for two families. One family has three children and I really work my head off over there on Mondays and Fridays. The second family is actually a widower who lives alone and needs his laundry done. The work in his place is very light. I have been going there on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

I will be honest, Ann, and tell you that I have spent some nights at the widower's place and he has been awfully good to me. Last week he suggested that I quit the other place and stay with him full time. He has offered to pay for my voice lessons and says I could make a real name for myself if I practised hard. I have always wanted to sing professionally and this might be my big chance. Please be practical, Ann. I need your advice. — SUGAR THROAT.

DEAR SUGAR: It sounds as if you have already made a name for yourself, but it wouldn't look good in a family newspaper.

What you have in mind is no short cut to fame or anything else, except trouble. If you would like a full-time housework job with a live-in arrangement, the want ads and the employment agencies can provide you with a long list to choose from. If you want voice lessons, pay for them yourself. It could be a whole lot cheaper in the long run.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week two friends (not close) mentioned rather casually that they had given my name as a credit reference. One of these acquaintances I encountered at a church auxiliary luncheon. The other I bumped into at the bus stop.

So far no one has called me nor have I received anything in the mail, but if I vouch for these people does it mean I must make good on their bills if they don't pay?

I'm a little annoyed to be put on the spot like this. It seems to me they should have first asked if I would be willing to be used as a reference. Yes or no? — ON MY EAR.

* * *

DEAR EAR: It is polite to ask, but most people don't. They just assume.

You are not responsible for making good the debts incurred by people for whom you have vouched — unless, that is, you sign something stating that you will do so.

Winning Contests Pure Luck

MOOSE JAW, Sask (CP)— Mrs. Lonsdale Clarke says winning contests is pure luck, and she should know. Last year she won a fully-equipped trailer, an aluminum boat, a set of camping equipment, a two week holiday in Bermuda and Barbados and a Jet ride over Regina. In 1965 and 1966 it was a stereo set and a color TV. "I do any contest I see," she explained.

Saskatchewan Government Attacked

Money, Bilingualism and Sewage Debated by Legislatures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Money, bilingualism and sewage were the issues in Canadian legislatures Monday.

An opposition member of the Saskatchewan legislature attacked the budget brought down Friday, while a member of the Nova Scotia legislature disagreed with other members' views on how to help farmers.

Premier Smallwood told the Newfoundland house the English-language version of Newfoundland's statutes, which are to be translated into French, will prevail in court.

In British Columbia, a member said that sewage effluent should be processed and used for agricultural purposes.

Allan Blakeney (NDP—Regina Centre), the Opposition's financial critic, attacked the new Saskatchewan budget, asking why the Liberal government failed to increase personal income, corporation taxes and resource royalties.

"Just why the people who are exploiting our resources, the corporations and people with large personal incomes, should get off scot free was not explained," Mr. Blakeney said.

"Every housewife, every student, every wage-earner, every farmer, every senior citizen can pay and pay and pay, but not those who exploit our resources, people with high personal incomes, the corporations."

The Saskatchewan legislature gave first reading to the Human Tissue Act, which says a person 21 years of age or more may direct in writing that his body or any part of it may be used after his death for therapeutic purposes, medical education or research.

George Lohnes (PC—Lunenburg) told the Nova Scotia legislature that farmers need provincial help, but he could not go along with exorbitant demands.

Mr. Lohnes said too often a farmer's income is cut by high profits made by middle men. He could not agree with views expressed in the legislature that farmers must get big or get out.

Opposition Leader Gerald Regan told the house a great number of Nova Scotians are housed under conditions which should be wholly unacceptable for any Canadian.

The Liberal leader introduced a motion asking the Nova Scotia legislature to co-operate with the federal and municipal governments to revise the system of determining rents in low-rental housing and to enact legislation making direct grants available to individuals wishing to build their own homes.

Justice Minister T. Alex Hickman of Newfoundland gave notice of motion to introduce a bill providing for payment of compensation to persons killed or injured by criminal acts or omissions of others.

Mr. Hickman said outside the house the legislation would be based on an act passed by the Saskatchewan house last year.

Sewage effluent from Okanagan municipalities should be processed and used for agricultural purposes, Pat McGeer (L—Vancouver Point Grey) told the B.C. legislature.

Mr. McGeer said sewage effluent discharged from Okanagan municipalities is acting as a nutrient, for blue-green algae, a toxic growth threatening the recreation industry of the Okanagan.

And in other legislature business:

Edmonton — Opposition Leader Peter Lougheed predicted a 1968-1969 deficit of $113,000,000 instead of the $70,000,000 forecast in the Alberta budget brought down Friday. Mr. Lougheed called the budget one of "complacency and of disappointment, in its failure to recognize the need for new directions."

Toronto—The Ontario legislature gave second reading to eight bills, including one to give Supreme Court of Ontario judges a $2,000 salary increase and one outlawing wage assignments, except those to credit unions. The other six bills were minor housekeeping bills.

The Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Quebec legislatures were not sitting. The Manitoba legislature opens Thursday.

Price Control Out: Rowntree

TORONTO (CP) — Leslie Rowntree, Ontario financial and commercial affairs minister, said Monday he does not think provinces should try to control prices.

He was replying in the legislature to Elie Martel (NDP—Sudbury East) who had asked the cost to transport gasoline to Sudbury from Britt, a community 50 miles south of Sudbury.

Mr. Rowntree said the cost by rail or tank truck was about 33 cents a barrel or slightly less than one cent a gallon.

But he went on to infer the question indicated concern as to gasoline pricing policies and asked theoretically whether provinces can "control prices in the market place."

"Is it proper for any province in a federal state to move unilaterally into areas having to do with price control, either generally or in the specific example indicated by the question?" he said. "I think not."

Hamilton PC Member Wants Building Code

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Snow (PC—Hamilton East) Monday asked the Ontario government to make it mandatory for municipalities to adopt the national building code.

Introducing a motion in the legislature, Mr. Snow said only 63 of Ontario's municipalities have accepted the latest edition of the code in its entirety.

"Of these 63, only 13 were cities out of a possible 31 cities in Ontario, and only three of the cities were over 45,000 population."

The result was regulations which vary from one municipality to another and increase the price of a house by as much as $500.

Municipalities were paying local officials to duplicate work already carried out by specialists at the national level, He said builders must spend extra time to determine the latest building regulations applicable in each area.

The multiplicity of regulations made it impossible to introduce on a wide scale prefabricated houses such as those produced by Alcan Aluminum Ltd. at Woodstock.

The motion was supported by Donald Deacon (L—York Centre) and John White (PC—London South).

Member Wants Elderly People Exempted From Fishing Licence Fees

TORONTO (CP) — Richard Ruston (L—Essex-Kent) asked Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle in the Ontario legislature Monday whether he had given consideration to exempting elderly persons from "the proposed new fishing licence charge."

Mr. Brunelle replied that the idea had, in fact, been considered but that the whole matter of fishing licence fees was still under review.

The minister said recently that his department had recommended to the cabinet imposition of a licence fee of about $5 a year for resident anglers. At present, the only resident fishing licence fees apply in provincial parks, where the charge is $3.25 a year.

NDP Oppose $2,000 Increase for Judges

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature Monday gave second reading to a bill which would give Ontario Supreme Court judges a $2,000 salary increase to $32,000 annually.

The New Democrats voted against the bill which passed easily on a combination of 71 votes by the Conservatives and Liberals. There are 69 Conservatives, 28 Liberals and 09 New Democrats in the 117-seat legislature.

Patrick Lawlor (NDP—Lakeshore) said $32,000 was too high a salary for judges when members of the legislature earn only $11,000 if they are from Metropolitan Toronto and $12,000 if they are not.

The federal government gave provincial Supreme Court judges a $5,000 raise last year to $28,000, but it stipulated that any judge who receives payment above that amount from a provincial government would not get $2,000 of the raise.

"I think that a matter is niggardly clause," Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said. Ontario gives its Supreme Court judges $1,000 annually.

The raise, which would cost the government about $64,000, would go into force June 1 if given final approval in third reading.

In other business Monday:

—John Snow (PC—Hamilton East) asked the government to make it mandatory for municipalities to adopt the national building code because varying regulations from one municipality to another increase the price of a house by as much as $500.

Mr. Snow said municipalities are paying local officials to duplicate work already done by specialists at the national level. He said builders are forced to spend time determining area building regulations. Only 63 Ontario municipalities have accepted the code.

—John Brown (NDP—Toronto beaches-Woodbine) said he plans to introduce a resolution proposing that all children who come before juvenile and family court be eligible for probation under supervision of community service bodies. He said that children who remain in training schools tend to become more delinquent and should have an opportunity to live a normal life.

* * *

Minister Confirms MacMillan Parole

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Grossman, Ontario reform institutions minister, Monday confirmed reports that the Ontario parole board has decided to parole mine promoter Viola MacMillan.

Mr. Grossman told the legislature the members of the board's decision are confidential.

He said the board has decided the 65-year-old Mrs. MacMillan should serve the balance of an indeterminate nine-month sentence "on parole in the community."

Mrs. MacMillan has been in Ingleside women's guidance centre at Brampton since mid-January. She was convicted March 17, 1967, on a charge of manipulating the stock market in shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow Mines Ltd. through wash trading.

Brown Proposes Changes

TORONTO (CP) — John Brown (NDP—Toronto Beaches-Woodbine) said Monday he plans to introduce a resolution in the Ontario legislature proposing that all children who come before juvenile and family courts be eligible for probation under supervision of community service bodies.

Mr. Brown said in a statement the purpose of the resolution is "to offer a concrete alternative to the imprisonment of children coming before the juvenile courts in Ontario for the first time."

"My concern is based on the fact that such children, if allowed to have a training school experience, tend to become more delinquent," the statement said.

The resolution proposes that the community service groups such as Big Brothers and the Ottawa Youth Bureau be subsidized by the reform institutions department "at the rate of the average per-diem cost of maintaining such a child at an institutional training school."

Mr. Brown, a social worker, is former director of the Warrendale centre for emotionally disturbed children in suburban Etobicoke.

Safety Board Proposed For Older Cargo Ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. National Transportation Safety Board recommended Monday that older cargo ships of the Great Lakes fleet be strengthened structurally or be barred from operating during severe autumn weather.

In a letter to Admiral Willard J. Smith, commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard, Safety Board Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell Jr. also asked the coast guard to start a "progressive structural renewal program on an individual ship basis," based on the results of special inspections of older Great Lakes ships.

The recommendations were linked with the safety board's finding that failure of the main hull girder amidships caused the 60-year-old bulk freighter Carl D. Lovell to split in two in Lake Huron at the height of a storm Nov. 29, 1966.

The ship sank and all but one of its 29 crew members died.

The safety board also made public an Oct. 4 report by Smith on the accident.

Smith, in pointing out the magnitude of the problem, said the average Great Lakes bulk carrier ship is about 45 years old. More vessels are in the 50- to 60-year age group than in any other 10-year period.

Smith said these older ships were made of a type of steel which was abandoned for large vessel construction in 1948.

The steel becomes brittle and subject to fractures at temperature near freezing, such as existed during the Lake Huron storm.

U.S. Court Turns Aside Appeal Against Auto Maker

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court turned aside Monday an appeal that claimed automobile manufacturers should be held responsible in accident suits for making high-speed cars.

The appeal was made by Philip Michael Schemel, 22, of Springfield, Ohio. Injured in an auto accident near Oakland City, Ind., in April, 1964, he charged General Motors with negligence in designing a car capable of "excessive and unlawful rates of speed."

The suit was dismissed by a U.S. District Court in Evansville, Ind., in November, 1966.

Schemel was a passenger in a car struck, his appeal said, by a GM Impala travelling at 115 miles an hour. He claimed GM had a legal duty not to "create an unreasonable risk of serious personal injury to innocent bystanders" by designing a car that can go so fast.

Schemel also charged GM with negligence for "emphasizing speed in its advertising."

The Supreme Court made no comment in refusing to consider these claims.

Committed to Hospital

Woman Charged in Slaying

BRANTFORD (CP) — Mary Louise Biron, 40, was committed Monday to the Ontario Hospital in St. Thomas for a period not to exceed 30 days, when she appeared in magistrates court charged with non-capital murder.

Mrs. Biron was charged Feb. 28 in the hammer-slaying of her six-year-old son, Pierre. Her four-year-old daughter, Christine, also had been beaten to death in the family home and Mrs. Biron was found semi-conscious from an overdose of pills.

Dr. G. H. Lugsdin, a Brantford psychiatrist, told the court that Mrs. Biron had been a patient of his in the past and since her admittance to Brantford General Hospital after her arrest.

He said she is "depressed to a psychotic degree; that she is unfit to stand trial and unable to advise counsel."

Price Control Out: Rowntree

TORONTO (CP) — Leslie Rowntree, Ontario financial and commercial affairs minister, said Monday he does not think provinces should try to control prices.

He was replying in the legislature to Elie Martel (NDP—Sudbury East) who had asked the cost to transport gasoline to Sudbury from Britt, a community 50 miles south of Sudbury.

Mr. Rowntree said the cost by rail or tank truck was about 33 cents a barrel or slightly less than one cent a gallon.

But he went on to infer the question indicated concern as to gasoline pricing policies and asked theoretically whether provinces can "control prices in the market place."

"Is it proper for any province in a federal state to move unilaterally into areas having to do with price control, either generally or in the specific example indicated by the question?" he said. "I think not."

Hamilton PC Member Wants Building Code

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Snow (PC—Hamilton East) Monday asked the Ontario government to make it mandatory for municipalities to adopt the national building code.

Introducing a motion in the legislature, Mr. Snow said only 63 of Ontario's municipalities have accepted the latest edition of the code in its entirety.

"Of these 63, only 13 were cities out of a possible 31 cities in Ontario, and only three of the cities were over 45,000 population."

The result was regulations which vary from one municipality to another and increase the price of a house by as much as $500.

Municipalities were paying local officials to duplicate work already carried out by specialists at the national level. He said builders must spend extra time to determine the latest building regulations applicable in each area.

The multiplicity of regulations made it impossible to introduce on a wide scale prefabricated houses such as those produced by Alcan Aluminum Ltd. at Woodstock.

The motion was supported by Donald Deacon (L—York Centre) and John White (PC—London South).

Member Wants Elderly People Exempted From Fishing Licence Fees

TORONTO (CP) — Richard Ruston (L—Essex-Kent) asked Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle in the Ontario legislature Monday whether he had given consideration to exempting elderly persons from "the proposed new fishing licence charge."

Mr. Brunelle replied that the idea had, in fact, been considered but that the whole matter of fishing licence fees was still under review.

The minister said recently that his department had recommended to the cabinet imposition of a licence fee of about $5 a year for resident anglers. At present, the only resident fishing licence fees apply in provincial parks, where the charge is $3.25 a year.

NDP Oppose $2,000 Increase for Judges

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature Monday gave second reading to a bill which would give Ontario Supreme Court judges a $2,000 salary increase to $32,000 annually.

The New Democrats voted against the bill which passed easily on a combination of 71 votes by the Conservatives and Liberals. There are 69 Conservatives, 28 Liberals and 09 New Democrats in the 117-seat legislature.

Patrick Lawlor (NDP—Lakeshore) said $32,000 was too high a salary for judges when members of the legislature earn only $11,000 if they are from Metropolitan Toronto and $12,000 if they are not.

The federal government gave provincial Supreme Court judges a $5,000 raise last year to $28,000, but it stipulated that any judge who receives payment above that amount from a provincial government would not get $2,000 of the raise.

"I think that a matter is niggardly clause," Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said. Ontario gives its Supreme Court judges $1,000 annually.

The raise, which would cost the government about $64,000, would go into force June 1 if given final approval in third reading.

In other business Monday:

—John Snow (PC—Hamilton East) asked the government to make it mandatory for municipalities to adopt the national building code because varying regulations from one municipality to another increase the price of a house by as much as $500.

Mr. Snow said municipalities are paying local officials to duplicate work already done by specialists at the national level. He said builders are forced to spend time determining area building regulations. Only 63 Ontario municipalities have accepted the code.

—John Brown (NDP—Toronto beaches-Woodbine) said he plans to introduce a resolution proposing that all children who come before juvenile and family court be eligible for probation under supervision of community service bodies. He said that children who remain in training schools tend to become more delinquent and should have an opportunity to live a normal life.

Minister Confirms MacMillan Parole

TORONTO (CP) — Allan Grossman, Ontario reform institutions minister, Monday confirmed reports that the Ontario parole board has decided to parole mine promoter Viola MacMillan.

Mr. Grossman told the legislature the members of the board's decision are confidential.

He said the board has decided the 65-year-old Mrs. MacMillan should serve the balance of an indeterminate nine-month sentence "on parole in the community."

Mrs. MacMillan has been in Ingleside women's guidance centre at Brampton since mid-January. She was convicted March 17, 1967, on a charge of manipulating the stock market in shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow Mines Ltd. through wash trading.

Brown Proposes Changes

TORONTO (CP) — John Brown (NDP—Toronto Beaches-Woodbine) said Monday he plans to introduce a resolution in the Ontario legislature proposing that all children who come before juvenile and family courts be eligible for probation under supervision of community service bodies.

Mr. Brown said in a statement the purpose of the resolution is "to offer a concrete alternative to the imprisonment of children coming before the juvenile courts in Ontario for the first time."

"My concern is based on the fact that such children, if allowed to have a training school experience, tend to become more delinquent," the statement said.

The resolution proposes that the community service groups such as Big Brothers and the Ottawa Youth Bureau be subsidized by the reform institutions department "at the rate of the average per-diem cost of maintaining such a child at an institutional training school."

Picnic Benches Stacked in Ship-shape Row

Rows of picnic benches are shown stacked near picnic areas for the winter. They will soon be brought back into use when the parks open again about mid-May.

Fences Perform Double Duty

Snow fences are erected in the fall following the closing of the parks. Sand drifting the same as snow, is prevented from shifting inland by the use of these fences. Park officials can thus control the amount of sand on beach.

Outlet Is Ready

Summer Is A-coming

PICTON (Staff) — Though the beaches are empty and there's nary a tourist in sight, work continues throughout the winter months at Outlet Park.

Roads have to be repaired, clearing is being done, old campsites are being improved and new one's built. Superintendent of Parks, Bob Davison, and his staff are also busy making additional changehouses and toilets as well as picnic benches for the various beaches.

To the camper, the coming season may still be a dream away, but between now and mid - May, when Mr. Davison expects the park to open, much work is yet to be done. This summer the outlet park will boast an additional 82 campsites in a beautiful wooded area located at the east end of the park. Most of the new campsites have been designated for trailer use.

According to Mr. Davison about 70 per cent of campers last year were on wheels and an even greater percentage is expected this year. "This," he said "holds true particularly for the increasing numbers of the popular tent - trailers." Also a new feature at the park this year will be its own chlorinated water supply system.

The Sandbanks Park will feature additional buildings and picnic tables this year and North Beach Park will have two new parking areas as well as new tables and buildings. The road leading to North Beach park from highway 33 may also be improved this year. Last year saw the greatest number of visitors in history for the county's four Provincial Parks. From May 11 to Sept. 17, North Beach Park had 46,746; Lake-on-the-Mountain 21,257; Sandbanks 75,251 and the Outlet Park 412,192. The total number of visitors to Prince Edward County Lands and Forests were 865,446.

As yet there are no establish- ed campsites at the Sandbanks, Sandbanks "The Sandbanks Park boasts over five miles of excellent beach which stretches all the way to the village of Wellington.

Guidance Counselling Important Aspect of Education Today

By ROGER WORTH
Staff Reporter

The face of education both in the Quinte area and throughout the province has changed drastically over the past decade.

Among the many improvements effected in the system is the introduction of the guidance counsellor in elementary and secondary schools.

What is the role of a guidance department? What benefits can the parent expect from the counsellor in the education of the child? How does the school board justify expenditures on guidance departments to the ratepayer?

These are questions asked by parents and ratepayers alike.

To answer the questions, four Belleville guidance counsellors were asked to submit reports on the role the counsellor takes in the education of the youngster.

From these reports it appears that the guidance department is taking over a specialized part of a job that previously belonged to the teacher — or was simply neglected.

For instance, all four counsellors indicated it was their job to act as a sounding board and provide information for the student.

On the surface this appears to be a simple task but the counsellors also handle a wide range of private and group counselling in the schools.

S. L. Allcorn, head of the guidance department at Centennial Secondary School, says guidance is a service to teachers, students, parents and the administration. "In counselling, a student has the opportunity to discuss in private his or her school program, progress and future".

"The guidance worker is one who is concerned, not only with the student's intellectual growth, but also with the feelings the youngster is developing in regard to his schoolwork, his classmates, his teachers and his worth as a person." Harold Mott, head of guidance at Belleville Collegiate states.

He says the aim of guidance is the complete development of the individual in all phases — intellectual, cultural, emotional and physical.

But what does the guidance counsellor do to achieve this end?

Robert Henderson, head of guidance at Moira Secondary School gives the hypothetical case of Ralph, one of a dozen students who pass through his office each day.

Ralph's question was a simple one, He wanted assurance that he was taking the corrected courses to lead him into a university.

"Five minutes after he entered the office, he left, relieved to know he was in the right program. We consulted a couple of university calendars and checked his subjects with their requirements."

Guidance counsellors deal with the student who wants to drop out of school, the youngster with a disciplinary problem, the resentful student who feels he is being pushed by his parents, the student who wants to know how to study and a myriad of other problems.

"In each of these cases it's a matter of talking with the youngster for a five minute period or a series of much longer sessions over a period of weeks.

The guidance counsellor is also involved in group work with students in the schools. "In group work the students meet as a class to discuss all phases of their school life usually broken down into their social-personal life, vocational life and educational life," Mr. Allcorn of Centennial says.

"As a service to the parent, guidance provides a unique opportunity to establish contact with the child's school. This may be done by a simple telephone call to the guidance office making an appointment to talk things over with the student's counsellor," he says.

"Unfortunately many visits are made only when the youngster encounters difficulty — this should be avoided."

Harold Mott says guidance, to be effective, must deal with the whole person. "The whole person is the result of all the forces which influence his development."

"Guidance has thus become threefold," Mr. Mott states, "Vocational, educational and personal."

"To assist the guidance counsellor in his work a wide variety of tools are used," Mr. Henderson at Moira states. "He helps administer, score and evaluate the tests which measure scholastic and other aptitudes, interests and personality. He uses the students' past record. He consults with other teachers and above all listens to the student."

The guidance department also gathers, organizes and keeps up to date educational and occupational information. It processes and checks hundreds of applications for universities, community colleges, nursing schools, trade schools, apprenticeships and many other institutions involving the future of the student.

The counsellor helps the students seek bursaries, scholarships and other financial assistance for their future education.

And that's why a guidance department is necessary in today's schools. With a society moving at a much faster pace the student must have the information necessary to make realistic decisions about his or her future.

System Operates in Public Schools

A guidance program is operating in the public school system in Belleville.

John Dixon, supervisor of guidance, says the aims of the program are: To facilitate a pupil's academic success in school, to help him better understand his strengths and limitations, to help him identify his interests and to aid the student in planning for and attaining realistic goals.

To be able to carry out these aims in public schools it becomes necessary to enlist the support of the teacher. Incidental lessons about fighting, manners, courtesy and studying are taught when the need arises.

In Grades 7 and 8 an approach is used much like the one in secondary schools. "Every student in these two grades receives a scheduled period of group guidance each week," Mr. Dixon says.

"Topics such as study habits, self discipline, high school courses, emotions and personality are discussed with the hope that the pupils will begin to understand themselves a little better."

SPORTSLICES

Remember that likable, lovable cuss Don "The Ole Turk" Barclay who in his junior hockey goal-keeping days quipped "Anything Bobby Green (fellow goalie) can do I can do better."

He did. A few days after Bobby had four front teeth shot out by a blood-hungry puck, "Turk" stuck out his goalie neck and tried to stop a similar rubber with his front-line molars.

He also did that, and went to the dressing room mumbling through blood-stained lips "Ah I want for Christmas is my five front teeth."

Turk later became the trainer for the McFarlands — and thereby hangs this tale. Previously he was pressed into service by the Montreal Canadiens, here for an Interclub game, and for one period held the famous Rocket Richard off the scoresheet.

The Turk stopped six sizzling Richard blasts in the scoreless period and the rest of the Habs (to needle the Rocket) presented Turk with a cash award of thirty bucks.

"I was scared stickless," commented the Turk after the game. "I merely froze when the Rocket shot, stuck out a leg or an arm, and he never missed the target."

The Turk will be here to help pay tribute to a former McFarlands buddy at the Minnie Menard night on Friday, March 22nd.

By the way, do you have your tickets yet? They're for sale all over the city.

Back to the Turk. Don as the McFarlands' trainer had a series of overseas adventures that would make a good movie script. It seems the Macs had forwarded a large quota of hockey sticks to Dortmund, Germany for pickup.

Turk was elected, and found no sticks at Dortmund. He went to Soest, Germany, picked up his consignment and ran into trouble. First, he knew no German, second, the consignment of sticks to Prague had to be prepaid.

Send 'em collect? Nein, mumbled the Heinie shipper. Pay, or else. The Turk paid, which left him flatter than a run-over pancake.

A kindly RCAF sergeant loaned him enough for train fare to Garmische where the Macs were holding out. He got on the wrong train and due to language difficulties had to change trains three times.

He arrived at Garmische only to discover the Macs had departed for Bolzano, Italy.

Broke, he hadn't a thin pfennig, not even a Canadian dime. He couldn't speak the lingo — nor make his digs along understood.

A kindly old German who could speak a little English loaned the Turk train-fare, second-class, to get to Bolzano.

On the train he was ushered into the first-class compartments — and nearly fainted.

The Macs were on the same train travelling in the deluxe compartments. They welcomed the Turk like a long-lost brother.

But don't go away. The Turk's troubles were not over yet.

When the party reached Bolzano, Barclay walked back to second-class to pick up his baggage.

He nearly threw a fit. His bags had disappeared. He queried passengers, was met with no-spik-English gestures.

Finally the conductor showed up and after much sign-making and guttural noises, Turk discovered his baggage was parked peacefully in a town three stops back.

The conductor, after Turk had strolled to the detour section, thought he had left the train three stations back and promptly put his baggage "ashore."

He borrowed enough money from the laughing Macs and returned by the next train to pick up the missing luggage.

His mind easy at last, the Turk who hadn't slept for 36 hours finally "hit the hay" and stayed there for the next sixteen hours.

MIAMI (AP) — Personnel director Harry Dalton raised Baltimore' salary offer to Frank Robinson Monday in a 1½-hour contract talk with the outfielder at the team's spring training camp. Afterward, Robinson said he was standing by the figure of $125,000. The American League club originally offered the 32-year-old star $100,000, the same amount he was paid for the 1967 season.

Big M, Ullman

Big Deal Shocked Team-Mates, Fans

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Mahovlich in a Detroit Red Wing uniform?

The ramifications of such a move flabbergasted not only Toronto fans, but team-mates expressed disbelief.

"I didn't think they'd ever do it," said Maple Leaf winger Ron Ellis who, at times, has played on the opposite wing to the Big M. "It just won't be the same without No. 27 out there."

Mahovlich, the all-time high scorer for Toronto during 11 National Hockey League seasons, was included in a three-for-three swap Monday between the Leafs and Detroit.

The 30-year-old superstar, who never quite lived up to expected scoring feats, went to the Wings with centre Pete Stemkowski and Gary Unger in exchange for centre Norm Ullman and wingers Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith.

At the same time, Toronto purchased defenceman Doug Barrie, 21, from the Wings for the professional rights of former Leaf defenceman Carl Brewer, now playing coach at Muskegon in the International Hockey League.

Mahovlich and Ullman appeared to be the key personnel in the trade. Although he has only 19 goals this season the Big M was feared by rival coaches whever he played. His 296 NHL goals is the most ever scored by a Toronto player in regular season play.

Ullman, a 32-year-old native of Edmonton, is considered one of the top centres in the league. After several seasons as a defensive specialist, he has developed in recent years into one of the NHL's top scorers. He has 30 goals so far this season for the last-place Red Wings.

Barrie was assigned to Tulsa of the Central Pro League.

When Brewer gained back his amateur status after leaving the Leafs two seasons ago, it was understood he could not turn professional again until Dec. 18, 1968.

At face value, it would appear Toronto emerged ahead of the deal with Ullman, Smith and Henderson accounting for 61 goals this season while Mahovlich, Stemkowski and Unger have scored only 27 between them.

Mahovlich, a Timmins, Ont., native, joined the Toronto organization 15 years ago and beat out Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks as NHL Rookie of-the-Year in 1957-58.

In 1960-61 he scored 48 goals, the only time he has lived up to the superstar tag pinned on him by the Leafs and their supporters.

Unger learned of the trade from team-mate Wayne Carleton while Mahovlich was walkered and asked his reaction by a reporter, who had to explain what was going on.

The three Detroit players arrived at their Toronto hotel accompanied by Alan Eagleson, Toronto lawyer and spearhead of the NHL Players Association, of which he is legal adviser and Ullman its president.

Ullman said in an interview Monday after his arrival that he didn't think being president of the association had anything to do with Detroit dealing him, and he didn't think it would affect his relations in Toronto.

The Red Wings, he continued, "have been on me the last two or three months."

"They apparently think I haven't been playing as well as I had in past years. I might be a little slower, but I didn't think I was doing that badly."

Most people might agree. The 32-year-old, 5-10, 185-pound centre has 30 goals this season for the Wings, last in the Eastern Division.

Only twice before in his NHL career has he scored more goals—42 in 1964-65 and 31 in 1965-66.

The Edmonton native, in the Detroit organization since he was 10 years old, is not unhappy with the move.

"If I had to go to any team in the league, Toronto would have been my first choice,' he said Monday night.

Ullman Not "Too Surprised"

TORONTO (CP) —Norm Ullman was only a little shocked Monday when informed he had been traded to Toronto Maple Leafs by Detroit Red Wings in a National Hockey League deal involving seven players.

Ullman, Floyd Smith and Paul Henderson were dealt to Toronto in exchange for Frank Mahovlich, Peter Stemkowski and rookie Gary Unger and the NHL rights to defenceman Carl Brewer.

Ullman said in an interview at his hotel adjacent to Maple Leaf Gardens:

"I wasn't really too surprised. They (Red Wings management) have been on me the last two or three months. They apparently think I haven't been playing as well as I had in past years.

"I might be a little slower, but I didn't think I was doing that badly."

Most people might agree. The 32-year-old, 5-10, 185-pound centre has 30 goals this season for the Wings, last in the Eastern Division.

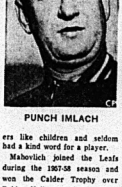
After 10 Years

Imlach - Big M Clash Over

TORONTO (CP) — The 10-year personality clash between left winger Frank Mahovlich and manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs ended Monday.

The Big M, considered one of the most colorful and maligned players in the National Hockey League, was traded by Imlach to Detroit Red Wings in a deal that included six other players —three from Detroit.

Mahovlich was uncommunicative after being told of the trade, while Imlach said he "hated to trade" the six-foot, 205-pound forward.



"Frank is a helluva guy," said Imlach. "I hated to trade him, but I made the deal to help the Maple Leaf hockey team."

That brought up the question as to whether the personality clash between the player and the coach had been one-sided.

Few ever heard Imlach denounce the Leafs' all-time goal-scoring champion. Mahovlich, on the other hand, made no bones about his dislike for Imlach.

"Why don't you ask the know-it-all?" was Mahovlich's usual reply when asked about one of his periodic slumps.

Mahovlich's chief complaint, however, was not with what Imlach said, but rather with what he did not say. He complained that the coach treated his players like children and seldom had a kind word for a player.

PUNCH IMLACH

Mahovlich joined the Leafs during the 1957-58 season and won the Calder Trophy over Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks as the NHL rookie of the year.

A player who created the same fervor among fans as only the retired Rocket Richard of Montreal Canadiens, Bobby Hull, Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins and Jean Beliveau of Montreal can do, Mahovlich never really lived up to his potential.

He scored a season high of 48 goals in 1960-61 and has a regular-season career total of 296, including 19 this season. But he was frequently booed by the fans, partly because of his failure to back check and partly because the spectators looked to him as the team's leader when he stepped on to the ice.

Ranger Hot Rod Eyes Scoring Title!

MONTREAL (CP) — The resurgence of New York Rangers to within striking distance of first place in the National Hockey League's East Division is reflected in the latest scoring statistics.

The Rangers, with 75 points, trail Montreal Canadiens by only three points.

And if right winger Rod Gilbert continues his torrid second-half pace he could be the first Ranger to win the NHL scoring title since the 1941-42 season.

Gilbert is currently tied with Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks as the leading scorer in statistics issued by the league today. Each has 73 points, but Mikita leads in goals with 37 to Gilbert's 29.

Bobby Hull of the Hawks, who leads the league in goals with 42, and Gilbert's linemate, Jean Ratelle, are tied for third spot with 71 points each. Ratelle and Gilbert share the lead in assists with 44 apiece.

Centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins remains in hot pursuit of the four leaders. He moved past Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings last week into fifth place with 69 points.

With 20 goals, Esposito is the first Boston player to attain that goal level since Bronco Horvath scored 20 in 1959-60.

The same Bruins set a club season record Sunday in their 9-3 win over St. Louis Blues by scoring their 324th goal. The old Boston record was 223, established over 50 games in 1943-44. So far this season the Bruins have played 63 games.

Howe, who picked up three assists last week, has 66 points, five more than left winger John Bucyk and centre Fred Stanfield, both of Boston.

Right-winger Ken Wharram of Chicago has 59 and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, with 58 points, is in 10th place.

Andy Bathgate remains the top scorer in the West Division. He has counted 50 points with Pittsburgh Penguins for 16th place in the over-all list.

Ed Giacomin, who has given up only four goals in New York's last five games, recorded two straight shutouts last week to take over the lead in that department with a total of seven.

However, Lorne Worsley and Rogatien Vachon of Montreal Canadiens continue to lead the goaltenders race for the Vezina Trophy with a combined goals-against average of 2.11.

Don Awrey of Boston is the leagues penalty leader with 146 minutes. Awrey is only 25 minutes short of breaking the all-time high mark set by Eddie Shore in 1927-28 while with the same club.

Habs, Kings Charged

Fans Sue For $655,000

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Two hockey fans Monday asked damages of $655,000 against Montreal Canadiens and Los Angeles Kings.

Also named in the Superior Court suit—filed by Bernard Weisman, 39, and Mrs. Margaret G. Ottens, 37—were coach The Blake of the Canadiens, Claude Provost, a Montreal player, the National Hockey League, and the City of Los Angeles.

The suit, arising from an altercation last Nov. 19 at a Canadiens-Kings game, charges assault and battery and negligence.

Weisman, of Northridge, Calif., obtained a criminal complaint against Blake and Provost on Nov. 24 charging assault with a deadly weapon—a hockey stick.

In the damage suit, Weisman and Mrs. Ottens of Granada Hills, Calif., contend Blake and Provost "wrongfully, wilfully and violently" beat them about the face and body during the game at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Weisman seeks $405,000 and Mrs. Ottens $250,000.

Buster Browned By 'Lil' Joe; Nino Bambino Outlasts Griffith

NEW YORK (AP) — Nino Benvenuti is once again middleweight champion of the world, and Joe Frazier rules as heavyweight king of at least part of it today after a record-setting boxing doubleheader at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 18,096 paid $683,-303, an indoor fight gate record, to watch the stylish Benvenuti outlast Emile Griffith for a unanimous decision and Frazier stalk and pound blubbery Buster Mathis into submission in the 11th round.

Frazier, fighting for recognition by New York, Massachusetts, Maine and Illinois as heavyweight champ, won Mathis is down with punishing body blows before finally dropping the big boy from Grand Rapids, Mich., with a short, stiff left hook in the 11th.

Mathis, his white trunks covered with blood, fell into the ropes heavily. He stumbled to his feet at the court of nine but referee Arthur Mercante stopped the fight. The time was 2:33.

"This ought to prove who owns who," a jubilant Frazier shouted in his dressing room. Joe, who won the Olympic heavyweight title in 1964, twice lost to Mathis as an amateur. The decisions were also only blemishes on his record.

Frazier, the one-time butcher boy from Philadelphia, bloodied Mathis' nose in the third round, and then concentrated on the big guy's body in the middle rounds.

The stiff body punches tore into Buster's ample mid-section and took the steam out of the 243½ pound Mathis' fast start.

Yancy Durham, Frazier's manager, had advised the 24-year-old, 209-pound slugger to work at Mathis' body. "Beat him around the belly," Durham had told Frazier, "and he'll eventually give up."

Mathis, badly shaken by the defeat, said he was stunned at losing the way he did.

"I thought I was ahead," he said, "then I pulled back from a left hook and got tagged."

Jimmy Iselin, wealthy young head of Peers, Inc., which has managed Mathis' career, said that if Buster continued fighting, it would be against tougher opponents.

Frazier went into the bout a 2-to-1 favorite, mostly because he had faced tougher opponents in his 19-fight career than Buster.

Frazier was undaunted by the limited recognition of only four states and the pre-fight picket lines thrown up by supporters of Cassius Clay. The pickets carried signs claiming Clay still was heavyweight champion. Cassius was stripped of his title by several boxing commissions for refusing to serve in the armed forces.

Benvenuti, who beat Griffith for the second time, decked Emile in the ninth round with a left hook that turned the middleweight fight around.

Both boxers lunged into each other in the opening minute of the round and Benvenuti's left crunched into Griffith's jaw. Emile sagged and Nino pumped a right that sent him to the canvas.

"The guy hit me," said Griffith, "there's no doubt about that." Emile spun across the ring and landed on the seat of his pants with a stunned look on his face.

Griffith rose at three and took the mandatory eight. He backtracked the rest of the round, weathering Benvenuti's attempt to end it.

Now Nino, who weighed 160 to Emile's 154½, took control for the next few rounds. Then, with Griffith unleashing a furious closing flurry, Nino counterpunched effectively and gained the decision.

As the decision was announced, bands of Benvenuti's countrymen rushed into the ring, waving the green, red and white Italian flag. Throughout the fight they had filled the Gardens with chants of, "Nenno, Neeno, Neeno."

Benvenuti, who first beat Griffith for the middleweight crown last April 17, then lost a rematch in the New Yorker Sept. 29, left the door open for a fourth meeting.

Nino got $80,000, Mathis $75,-000, and Griffith and Frazier $175,000 each. The gate broke the indoor record of $311,000 set by the third Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight at Miami Beach's Convention Hall March 13, 1961.

Four Share Top Spot

Sasky Curlers Pile Up Big Scores!

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Bob Pickering of Avonlea and his Saskatchewan rink scored two methodical victories Monday in the Canadian curling championship.

The 35-year-old skip, making his third appearance at the dominion final, downed Bill Tracy of Bagotville, Que., 11-5 in the first round and humbled Jim Ayer of Fredericton, N.B., 18-6 in the evening for a share of first place with unbeaten Prince Edward Island, Alberta and British Columbia.

Pickering's rink racked up one of the highest scores in recent championship history, but it was still well away from a record 30-3 score in a 1957 game between Saskatchewan and New Brunswick.

Garnet Campbell, now playing second for Pickering, skipped Saskatchewan to the big victory.

"The New Brunswick rink playing against us tonight had the first-round bye, so it was a little tough for them to come out cold and play," said Pickering.

Pickering drew the bye in this morning's 9 a.m. PST draw, but he meets Alan Smith of Charlottetown in the 2:30 p.m. afternoon round.

Smith scored two comeback victories Monday and brought a capacity crowd of 2,200 out of its seats on both occasions. He downed Don Fleming of Halifax, N.S., 7-6 in an extra end in the first round and nipped Tracy 10-9 in the evening.

The other two unbeaten rinks —Ron Northcott of Calgary and Bob McCubbin of Richmond, B.C.—had an easier time although both McCubbin's games were close.

Northcott, the most experienced skip in the 11-rink, round-robin competition, droubbed Bill Piercey of St. John's, Nfld., 13-5 in the afternoon and defeated Fleming 14-5 in the evening.

McCubbin, plagued by some key misses from his front end of Ted Trimble and Keith Isaac, downed Herb Taylor of Sault Ontario entry from Geraldton 11-10 in the first draw and defeated Piercey 10-8 in the second.

In other second-round games, Pile edged Dr. Don Gilbert of St. Thomas, Ont., 9-8 in an extra end. In the first draw, Gilbert nipped Burke Parker of Gilbert Plains, Man., 7-5.

The results left Northern Ontario and Ontario with 1-1 records while Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Quebec were winless in two starts. Manitoba and Newfoundland drew the day's byes and have 0-1 records.

Heavy Fight 'A Joke'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry Quarry says Joe Frazier looked good in his knockout of Buster Mathis Monday night in New York but to have designated the heavyweight scrap a title fight was "a big joke."

"Frazier looked good, but he wasn't fighting anybody," said Quarry, who will fight Jimmy Ellis in April for the World Boxing Association version of the heavyweight title.

"I know I can punch hard enough to keep Joe from boring in like he did against Mathis," said Quarry, after watching the bout on closed circuit television.

"Frazier didn't show me anything new. He fought his customary aggressive fight, although he did apply a little more pressure than usual."

S.A. Gal Defeats Elaine

CAPE TOWN (CP) — Karen Muir of South Africa equalled her own world record of one minute, 7.4 seconds in beating Canadian Elaine Tanner in the 110-yard backstroke at a South African invitational swimming meet Monday night.

Miss Muir won by only a foot from Miss Tanner, the Pan-American Games gold medalist from Vancouver and Winnipeg. The 17-year-old Canadian star was timed in 1:08.0.

Miss Muir has a time of 1:06.7 awaiting ratification.

Miss Tanner and Jeanne Warren, an English girl who lives in Vancouver, placed first, and second respectively in the 110-yard butterfly. Miss Tanner was timed in 1:11.2 and Miss Warren, 15, in 1:14.9.

Cuba Will Boycott Games

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — Cuba announced Monday it will boycott the Olympic Games here next October if South Africa competes.

A spokesman for the Mexican Olympic Committee said Cuba was the first country to officially notify the committee of its withdrawal.

Cuban Blames Brundage

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The president of the Cuban Olympic Committee blames Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, for the plight the Mexico City Olympics find itself in today.

Manuel Gonzalez Guerra said Monday Brundage "should have consulted the national Olympic committees" before readmitting South Africa's athletes for the 1968 games here.

South Africa was banned from the 1964 Games at Tokyo because of its racial policies.

The Cuban Olympic official said his country's decision to withdraw from the October Games was taken as gesture not against Mexico, but against the IOC's decision.

Fans Irked When Picture Blacks Out

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Many of the 2,200 fans threatened television equipment operators in War Memorial Auditorium here Monday night when a closed-circuit telecast was interrupted during the Frazier-Mathis heavyweight boxing bout.

The picture failed in the fifth round and stayed out through the 11th round.

The angry fans demanded a refund, and someone set fire to a cord liner of ticket stubs.

Promoter Norman Rothschild said he would check on conditions of his contract with Theatre Network Television which originated the broadcast.

Additional guards were called to disperse the crowds.

Melrose Wins, Tigers Tie

Rawdon

RAWDON — Women of Mount Pleasant and Bethel congregations gathered at Mount Pleasant church on March 1 for the annual World Day of Prayer service.

Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins presided for the service and Mrs. Gerald Clancy was pianist. Mrs. Gerald Bassett outlined the projects assisted through the offering of 1967.

Mrs. Tompkins was leader for the adoration and thanksgiving. Mrs. Garth Joslin read the Scripture and Mrs. Milford Wrightman was in charge of the section of the service on divine love. Mrs. Harold Hobden, Mrs. Murrey Johnston and Mrs. Harold Heath conducted the section on penitence.

Mrs. Omar Dracup gave the message and Mrs. Burton Sharpe conducted the intercession. Items assisting with the dedication were Mrs. Ronald Hadley and Mrs. Douglas Clancy.

Mrs. Fred Beckett and Mrs. Jim Pollock sang a duet and Mrs. W. J. Bassett sang a solo. Miss Eleanor Graham spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Murrey Johnston.

Mrs. Harry Hagerman is spending this week with her sister, Miss Alice Parker, Campbellford.

To Your Good Health

Walking Will Take Off Pound A Week

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Some time ago I reduced my weight considerably and now take fairly long walks to help keep it down. I am wondering how many calories are consumed by a brisk walk. Also, do I usually walk from four to six miles. — P. T.

The brisk walk is unquestionably are bringing you benefits quite aside from controlling your weight.

Walking (and exercise of any type) has been much underemphasized in weight control. Too many people are under the false impression that the way to reduce is to "go on a diet" of some sort. It is perfectly true that to overweight person must change his eating habits, but it is overlooking an important means of aiding himself if he doesn't also change his exercise habits in the way he does.

Getting down to figures, the ones have indicate that a 150 pound man will expend 150 to 400 calories per hour while walking, the spread depends, of course, on whether he just ambles along or walks briskly.

Four miles an hour is brisk walking. Je for comparison, if you know the rate at which army troops march, they move at about two miles an hour when on long marches and carrying rifles and heavy packs. (Obviously such troops with their heavy equipment, use up more calories per hour than would a man walking at the same speed but not carrying a rifle.)

Thus if you walk at a very brisk four miles an hour, and walk from four to six miles, you are using up 400 to 600 calories.

A pound of body fat contains roundly approximately to 3,500 calories. Therfore by depending on exercise alone, you can walk off something approaching a pound a week with six brisk miles a day.

I don't know whether that figure will please or disappoint you, but I know the former. Some people, I know, think they could get a lot I wrong about this, or do. men tke it for granted and don't modify their nervousness? I. W.

Estrogen helps— many women, rarely as evriv as 35, but when their hormone balance is upset it men- when the ovaries cease producing hormones. this is usually later than age 35.

Men rarely if ever are afflicted with such an abrupt change in hormone level, and therefore adjust gradually to whatever hormonal changes may occur.

I do not mean that hormones are never given to men when needed. If hormone. Bur the treatment is not needed nearly as often as it is with women.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had "ear noises" for a long time. Is it possible that they could be audible to anyone else? I am very disturbed about this. — E. R.

Dear E. R.: You're the only one who can hear them. They can be a nuisance, though, and sometimes can be correct- ed by surgery. For my advice on this, read my booklet, "Ear Noises, Their Cause and Cure." You see there are several possible causes. For a copy of the booklet, send 25 cents in coin and a self - addressed, un - stamped envelope plus 6 cents for postage, to Dr. Molner, in care of this newspaper.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: We read your column regularly and how it helps women past 35, but have never read about men taking a hormone. I feel there are no different from women and could use any help they could get as well. Can I wrong about this, or do. men tke it for granted and don t modify their nervousness? I. W.

Junior A Council

Asks Player Protection

TORONTO (CP) — The council of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series voted Monday to demand action by the league's 11 teams to protect players against possible injury and harassment.

The council voted at a meeting here to have all teams install glass around the end boards in an attempt to stop fans from throwing objects at players, and said each team should strengthen police protection for its home games.

The council said a team could be suspended for not providing adequate protection for a visiting club.

Council members gave examples of increased harassment by fans at several games.

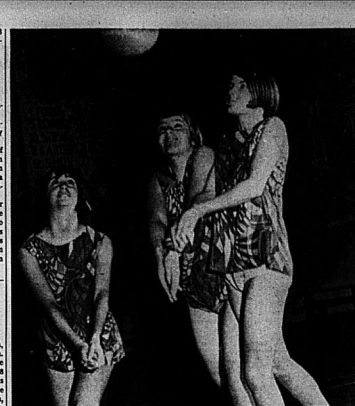
Orville Parkes, secretary of London Nationals, said his team was involved in a near-riot in the Montreal Forum during a game with Montreal Junior Canadiens.

Hap Emms, general manager of Niagara Falls Flyers, said he would pay $25 to any fan who turns in another fan who throws something on the ice. Players are sometimes injured when they skate over debris thrown on the ice.

Junior A Scoring

Flyers' Webster Tops

NIAGARA FALLS (CP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League may have another Derek Sanderson in the person of Tom Webster of Niagara Falls Flyers.



Webster, who should win the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A individual scoring race this weekend, is top-penned prospect for the Bruins.

Sanderson, who has scored 22 goals for the Bruins this season, won the Junior title last season.

Webster, team leader of the first-place Flyers, has scored 48 goals and picked up 60 assists for 108 points—a 10 point edge over team-mate Garry Swain, who has 39 goals and 59 assists.

The Niagara Falls duo is expected to finish one-two because there are only three games remaining in the regular-season schedule.

Tied for third spot are Richie Hayes of Toronto Marlboros with 38 goals and 52 assists, and Walt Tkaczuk of Kitchener Rangers, with 37 goals and 53 assists.

DR. XAVER MEYER

Vienna Chorus To Appear

The internationally famous Vienna Academy Chorus with Dr. Xaver Meyer conductor, returns to this continent for the sixth time, during the 1967-68 season. It comes to Belleville March 9 through discussion program featuring Mia Farrow.

Founded in 1946, the Vienna Academy Chorus is composed of a handpicked group of 24 men and women, all of whom are graduates of the Vienna Academy of Music. Vienna means music to the world, and this diversified ensemble symbolizes musicianship through its superlative performances.

The Vienna Academy Chorus was organized by Ferdinand Grossmann, choral director of the Academy. His purpose was to provide an ensemble that would display the exceptional abilities in choral singing of its most talented graduates in a repertory representative of Vienna's great musical heritage. Their fame spread and in January, 1960, the group began a world tour that included Canada, United States and many European countries. The Chorus' extensive repertoire ranges from the oldest to the most modern of international choral literature with special attention given to Austrian music.

Born in Vienna, Dr. Xaver Meyer, conductor of the Vienna Academy Chorus, combined his studies in composition, conducting and piano at the Vienna Academy of Music and received his Ph.D. in German and psychology from the University of Vienna. Soon after, he became conductor of the famed Vienna Boys Choir and traveled with them throughout Europe, the United States, Japan, Australia and New Zealand.

In 1961 he was appointed musical director of the Vienna Academy Chorus and through performances, recordings, and tours, he has led them to further outstanding success.

NEW ROLE

George Reinholt, currently appearing in the Broadway production Cabaret, has been cast for a part in a weekly television drama series.

Swedish Schoolgirl Becomes Star in Very First Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Something for aspiring young actresses to gnash their pretty teeth over: One of the most sought after new film performers is a Swedish schoolgirl whose principal ambition is to become a UN interpreter.

She was picked for a film from a newspaper photograph. She made the movie with apparent ease and won the Cannes Film Festival award as best actress of the year. She turned down a starring film with Richard Burton, Marlon Brando and Ringo Starr because the subject was too risque.

The prodigy is Pia Degermark, barely 18 and in the full bloom of youth. She is tall with golden hair and dark eyebrows. She is the star of a remarkably beautiful film called Elvira Madigan.

Pia was in Hollywood for the opening of Elvira Madigan here. She proved to be articulate and level-headed. She speaks excellent English, is adept in French, and less so in Spanish.

She told how she became an actress. Swedish director Bo Widerberg was searching for a young unknown to play Elvira, a tight-rope walker who ran off with a married army officer, then entered a suicide pact when their plight together seemed doomed. Widerberg saw a photograph of Pia dancing at a charity ball with Sweden's crown prince. He asked her to star in his film.

"At first I thought he was crazy, but he kept after me," she recalled. "My mother was very much against it, but my father thought it might be interesting experience for me. He won her over."

Two summers ago, when she was still 16, Pia starred in Elvira Madigan. Despite the heavy dramatics required, she found the work easy—"Because we improvised a great deal and most of it was filmed outdoors." She even did her own tight-rope walking and performed like an expert, except for several bruising falls.

Pia, who earned $1,250 for Elvira Madigan, now is being offered $200,000 a film.

Dick Cavett Slips Quietly Into Daytime Television

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Cavett, a pleasant young comedian, slipped unobtrusively onto the daytime television scene Monday with an ABC show called This Morning, but nearly all of a mould so popular that it is almost a cliche.

Cavett, like Johnny Carson, Joey Bishop, Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin and the others, is host of an informal talk-and-variety-music show. The only difference is that his 90 minutes starts in mid-morning and ends at noon.

It is really unfair to judge anything of this category on the basis of the opening program or even of the opening week. Cavett, a comedy writer turned performer, needs time to find and get accustomed to his new role of host, and his helpers must have some time to shake down, too.

The opening show, however, was notable for its lack of excitement and even of a point of view.

NBC's Danny Thomas Hour was a mixed up murder tale called My Friend Tony. It was principal characters off on a future series of their own.

They were James Whitmore, playing a brilliant, gruff criminologist, and Enzo Cerusico, as his assistant, Tony. Tony was supposed to be an Italian street urchin he had adopted during the war, and he exuded boyish charm and fractured English.

The whole thing came off like The Untouchables between the professor and his assistant didn't work out sympathetically, it is doubtful that My Friend Tony will make it.

Johnson Urges Labor Leaders Ease Copper Industry Demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is reported to have urged union leaders to put aside at least temporarily their demands for companywide bargaining, a major roadblock to settlement of the U.S. copper strikes.

A copper industry source reported Monday, following Johnson's initiation of around-the-clock Washington talks between representatives of 26 unions and four major producers,that the president pressed negotiators to concentrate first on economic issues.

Johnson said the strike, was begun 235 days ago, has cost copper workers $250,000,000 in wages and the companies $125,000,000 in after-tax profits.

The four major producers involved in the strike—Kennecott, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge and American Smelting and Refining—have declined even to discuss the companywide bargaining issue.

The unions representing 50,000 workers want to make each company deal simultaneously with all unions representing its workers at all its facilities, with a common expiration date not all union contracts.

Anaconda, meanwhile, has filed unfair labor practice charges against the United Steelworkers and a large group of other Montana unions over the companywide bargaining issues.

Anaconda contends only wages, hours and working conditions are mandatory bargaining points under federal law.

A Steelworkers' spokesman said, following the president's call for night-and-day talks, that his union would enter such discussions without pre-conditions.

Wages along with pensions and other fringe benefits are key issues in the strike.

The unions are asking a three-year increase of about $1 an hour over-all. Wages now run from $2.66 to $3.67 an hour for various jobs.

Johnson told union and company representatives the strike is weakening the U.S. dollar in foreign trade, threatening American prosperity and leading toward a pitch in vital supplies for Vietnam.

New U.S. Curved Radar To Be Built in Britain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to build a new over-the-horizon radar in Britain that sources said would give North America adequate warning against Russia's new orbital bombs.

The new radar is said to have the ability to peek around the earth's curvature and spot approaching missiles or orbital devices.

Existing line-of-sight radars, including the ballistic missile early warning system extending across Canada and in Britain, can detect hostile rockets only after they rise above the horizon.

The new over-the-horizon radar would be operated in Britain under a joint agreement similar to that covering an early-warning installation at Fylingdale Moor.

Officially, the Pentagon was mum on the matter Monday.

Former Defense secretary Robert McNamara said last November the new radar would be a counter-measure to Russia's so-called Fractional Orbital Bombardment System.

Retired air force Gen. Bernard A. Schriever told a National Space Club audience in Washington Monday night the orbital missile is the most significant development in Russia's new strategic force.

Schriever, who headed development of the U.S. ballistic missile and space system and who often clashed with McNamara on defense goals, added: "Every indication points toward the development by the Soviet Union of still more sophisticated space systems, including improved versions of orbital weapons."

He said the comparative strength of the U.S. missile force is steadily declining while Russia's are enlarging by some 200 missiles annually.

McNamara said the Soviet weapon, because of a low trajectory, could be detected by normal radar only about three minutes before blasting Strategic Air Command bases, giving the U.S. virtually no time to get its bombers aloft.

U.S. even more than 15 minutes warning.

Where in Britain the U.S. hopes to station the new radar was not disclosed, but a joint announcement was reported in the works.

Manitoba Liberal Repeats Victory

WINNIPEG (CP) — Liberal Ed Dow's narrow victory in a 1966 provincial election was questioned then nullified by a court decision.

Monday, the former Boissevain mayor made no mistake in a byelection, winning by more than 200 votes over his nearest opponent, Progressive Conservative Allan Rose.

Also contesting the Turtle Mountain seat was Peter Seseniuk, who picked up 610 votes for the Social Credit party.

Complete count from the 31 polls scattered across the largely-rural southwestern Manitoba riding showed Mr. Dow, 61, with 2,443 votes compared with 2,240 for Mr. Rose.

Standings in the 57-seat legislature after the vote: Progressive Conservatives 31, Liberals 14, New Democratic Party 11 and Social Credit, one.

Premier Walter Weir rejected the byelection as a vote of nonconfidence. He described it as a "preliminary bout," and said: "We fought a good fight and lost."

Gil Molgat, the jubilant Liberal leader, noted that Conservatives had held the seat for 42 of the 45 years the constituency has existed and said his party was "delighted" with the outcome.

Mr. Dow, who retired last fall as mayor of Boissevain, won the Turtle Mountain seat in a 1959 byelection but lost it in the 1962 general election to Conservative P. J. McDonald.

He defeated Mr. McDonald by five votes in 1966, after a recount, only to find a court action launched by some constituency residents to have him unseated under the Controverted Elections Act.

Court of Queen's Bench found registration irregularities with 62 voters and declared the seat vacant after Mr. Dow had sat through the 1967 legislature session.

Liberals promised not to appeal the court decision if a prompt byelection was called and Premier Weir called it in time for the winner to take his seat when the legislature opens Thursday.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

6TH BELLEVILLE (Tabernacle)

A "Pot Luck" Supper was held on Thursday evening in Tabernacle Church Hall, when Fathers of the Cubs and Scouts were guests.

A delicious meal was served by the Ladies Auxiliary to some 115 persons, including boys and guests, among whom were Rev. R. A. Crooks, Asst. District Commissioner Arnold Welch, Mrs. LaRue, president Ladies Auxiliary, Mr. McClelland, president Men's Group and Mr. William Smith, chairman of Group Committee. All eleven Scouters of the Cub Pack and Scout Troop were present.

After the meal a program of singing under the direction of Mrs. F. Akey, Asst. Cubmaster, helped to "let off steam" before the main item of the evening.

A toast to mothers and fathers was proposed by Scout Stephen Clare, which was replied to by Scoutmaster W. B. Clare, who expressed thanks for the compliments paid to the fathers.

A film on "Canoeing for Scouts" was shown followed by a Cartoon was very ably handled by Scout Grant Clare at the projector. The program was opened and closed in the usual Scouty manner with "Flag Break" by Queen's Scout David Lott and Prayer by Mr. Chaplin — Rev. R. A. Crooks.

During the evening Scout Larry Legge was presented with Asst. Cubmaster Alex Savage with his Bronze Gra'e Swimmers' Badge, while Asst. Cubmaster — W. Clare presented his son Stephen with a Bronze Swimmers' Badge. It was announced during the evening that A. C. M. Alex Savage would soon be leaving for a term of duty in Germany, while Scoutmaster George Rumball will also be leaving Belleville for employment elsewhere.

Strictly Personal
Course in Verbal Economics

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

No one, to my knowledge, has ever taught a short course in "verbal economics," but it would certainly be instructive — and wryly amusing — to study the economic value of words.

Every woman knows, for instance, that a "frock" costs more than a "dress," and a "gown" costs more than a "frock." In the cosmetic area, a "parfum" is at least twice as expensive as a "perfume," while a "crème" can be double the price of a simple "cream."

Men, likewise, have learned that "slacks" are cheaper than "odd trousers," and "outerwear" is more costly than a mere "overcoat." And, of course, going to a men's "hair salon" is twice as expensive as going to a "barber shop."

A "timepiece" costs more than a "watch" (although, in fact, the best timepiece I ever had was a watch that cost me only $18); and "footwear" is more costly than "shoes."

Any establishment that has a "clientele" charges more than a place that just has "customers." And when a company advertises a "motor car," you are being invited to spend a lot more than just for an "automobile."

Needless to say, a "tome" costs more than a "book," and a "journal" more than a "magazine."

Mark Twain once observed that a cauliflower is just a cabbage with a college education; in the same way, a "couturier" in the world of fashion is just a seamstress with a Berlitz certificate.

Haughty words for commonplace objects are often psychological need for superiority as well as an economic bludgeon.

At the turn of the century, when men still wore detachable collars and cuffs, Oliver Herford told of strolling into a self-consciously elegant men's shop and just browsing around.

A clerk approached him and said in mincing gentility: "Is the gentleman interested in some shirtings or suitings?" Herford smiled and shook his head. "No," he answered, "I just came in to get some paltry collarings and cuffings."

More than a half-century later, "shirtings" and "suitings" still cost a lot more than plain "shirts" and "suits." This is all part of a general trend toward "upward mobility" in words, both as a matter of caste and of economic aggrandize.

Prison guards become "security officers," rat-catchers become "rodentologists," undertakers," hairdressers are "tonsorial artists," "undertakers are "mortuicians," and garbagemen are "sanitation collectors."The higher the tone, the more value we place on both goods and services; the purveyor of "tomahtoes" makes more than the seller of tomatoes.

Prairie Provinces' Economic Health Is Found to Be Sound

REGINA (CP) — A royal commission on consumer problems and inflation says Prairie economic health is good despite some shortcomings and excesses.

The report, released Monday by the governments of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, was compiled as a joint effort by the three provinces and said:

The economy is flexible enough to stay healthy but the government-run affairs of the three provinces can best help development by adjusting to changes over which they and their citizens "have, for all practical purposes, absolutely no control."

The three commissioners said "undue excitement" had been created over the question of inflation. Except for those on low or fixed incomes, inflation was not a major problem to Prairie residents.

However, excess profits were made in the retail grocery business—as much as "200 to 300 per cent above American levels."

The commission, headed by Judge Mary Batten of Saskatoon, zeroed in on the grocery retailing industry and food prices. It recommended a federal inquiry into the industry under the Combines Investigations Act. Canada Safeway Ltd. and the Weston stores has sufficient power on the Prairies to "enable prices to rise above competitive levels."

The most common complaint heard in 14 days of public hearings since the commission got under way in January, 1967, concerned food prices.

But the commission concluded "no modification in the upward pressure of food prices can be expected in the near future."

Among the commission's findings was a recommendation urging early removal of all tariffs and termination of the federal food grain subsidy.

Reaction was mild as members of the Alberta and Saskatchewan legislatures began reading the report. The Manitoba house is not in session.

Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan told a news conference "there may be the odd thing" the current legislature can do with the report's recommendations.

Premier E. C. Manning said in the Alberta legislature that he was "not in a position to say" what action might be taken on the report's recommendation for an inquiry into the retail grocery industry.

Other commissioners were Dr. Shirley Weber of University of Manitoba and William Newbigging of Edmonton, a retired bank manager.

Stanfield Charges Farmers' Initiative Stifled

OTTAWA (CP) — Big guns from the Opposition and government exchanged salvoes in the Commons agriculture debate Monday night. Neither appeared to cause much damage.

Opposition Leader Stanfield, in his first major Commons speech on agriculture since becoming the Conservative chief last September, accused the government of inconsistency in its policies and of stifling farmers' initiative.

Agriculture Minister Greene, piloting some $33,000,000 in supplementary agriculture estimates through the House, then accused Mr. Stanfield of uttering a "series of platitudes."

The debate continues today.

During the agriculture debate, Mr. Stanfield said farm costs had soared 28 per cent between 1963 and 1966.

A major factor was the "abject failure of this government to control inflation." Credit had become increasingly difficult for farmers to obtain since the government lifted the ceiling on the chartered bank loan interest rates.

Mr. Greene said the Opposition leader had not taken time to check his facts. The real income of farmers had increased at the same rate of those in other sectors of the economy since the Liberals took office.

The minister said wheat exports in 1966 reached a record 584,900,000 bushels, bringing $1,126,000,000 to the farmers. This compared with the Conservatives record in 1962—when 358,000,000 bushels brought $690,000,000.

Mr. Stanfield said a government blunder left Canada without the guarantee of a world wheat agreement.

There had been three different national dairy policies in the last three years, thus destroying confidence.

He said threatened trouble at the port of Montreal could further hurt the movement of grain which was already lagging.

A basic premise of the government was that the number of farmers must be reduced and the size of farm units increased. However, said Mr. Stanfield, there is evidence that the best use of land "will require more farmers in the future than at present."

To the charge that the government is forcing farmers out of business, Mr. Greene said that between 1961 and 1966 about 50,000 farms went out of economic production. During the same period, the number of farms grossing more than $5,000 a year increased by 15,000.

Jackie Robinson's Son Faces Narcotics Charge

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Jackie Robinson Jr., who showed early signs of being able to fill the baseball spikes worn by his father, has been released in $5,000 bond pending a hearing on a charge of possessing narcotics.

The 21-year-old son of the first Negro to break into major-league baseball, was arraigned Monday after detectives confiscated several packets of heroin and a pouch of marijuana in the young man's apartment.

"We have obviously failed somewhere," Jack Sr. told reporters after the arraignment before Judge George Dicenso of the circuit court.

In the courtroom earlier, Jack Jr. had tried to plead guilty to charges of possessing narcotics and carrying a concealed weapon. The police said they also found a .22-calibre pistol when they arrested the suspect early Monday.

But Judge Dicenzo told young Robinson that he would be able to enter a plea later. Date for that hearing was set for March 11.

Jack Sr. told reporters that he blamed himself for his son's predicament. An adviser to New York Gov. Nelson Rockfeller, Robinson said he has been away from home too often and too long.

Jack Jr., who was returned from Vietnam last year after receiving shrapnel wounds while seeing action with the U.S. Army, lived in his own apartment, his father said.

Jack Jr. had admitted smoking marijuana in Vietnam, the elder Robinson said.

Farm Labor Leader On Spiritual Fast

DELANO, Calif. (AP) — Farm labor leader Cesar Chavez today entered the 20th day of what he terms a "spiritual and penitential fast."

Chavez, who had his last meal Feb. 13, has lost 20 pounds and is so severely weakened he can no longer walk without assistance.

But he refuses to end the fast despite warnings from his doctor that his health may be permanently impaired and the pleadings of his supporters, including Senator Robert Kennedy, that he return to active leadership of his union.

Chavez says he has undertaken the fast "for non-violence for the union membership, its friends and supporters, the growers and their families and farm workers everywhere that all might rededicate and reaffirm their commitment to non-violence."

He appears in public once a day to attend mass in the union chapel.

To the growers Chavez is anathema. To his dedicated followers he is something of a saint.

California's Central Valley stretches northward from the Tehachapi Mountains for 505 miles. The area is flat, drab and hot.

The beginning of the Chavez fast coincided with the filing of contempt of court charges against him and the appearance in Delano of militant farm labor leader Reies Tijerina from New Mexico.

As head of the United Farm Workers organizing committee, Chavez is being held responsible for alleged violations of court-imposed restrictions of picket line activity around the 14,000-acre Giumarra Bros. Fruit Co. ranches near Delano.

Giumarra also contends its workers are happy and none belong to the union.

Chavez appeared in Kern County Superior Court twice but was ordered to return April 22 by Judge Morton Barker, who said the labor leader should not be asked to stand trial until his fast was ended.

Chavez's tactics of non-violence and economic boycott resulted in the granting of 11 union contracts by such firms as Schenley Distilleries, Di-Giorgio and the Christian Brothers. The contracts provided for an increase in the wage scale to $1.80 an hour from $1.20 and a boost in piece work rates.

Bolivia Ousts Britons

LA PAZ (Reuters) — Bolivian military authorities have expelled two British correspondents from the oil town of Camiri, where French intellectual Regis Debray was tried and convicted late last year for links with the Bolivian guerrilla movement.

Richard Gott of The Guardian and Reuters correspondent Christopher Roper, normally assigned to Lima, Peru, were held for two days, beginning last Tuesday, then expelled.

They were taken to Santa Cruz, 300 miles north of Camiri, and released Thursday.

No reason was given for the expulsion.

Roper and Gott were the only English-speaking journalists in the town of Vallegrande on the day last October when the body of Cuban revolutionary Ernesto (Che) Guevara was brought from a single helicopter and lashed to the runners of a helicopter.

The two newspaper men also covered the trial of Debray, who was sentenced to 30 years in prison for connections with the guerrilla movement.

Atom Power Station Soon in Full Use

TORONTO (CP) —The 200,000-kilowatt Douglas Point nuclear power station may be operating at full power sometime in April, S. C. Horton, superintendent of the station, said Monday.

Mr. Horton told the joint annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities of Ontario that the generating station is in the last stages of commissioning.

"We have a few measurements and tests to do to explore problems which may arise as we raise power," he said. "We have an outage planned for three weeks following March 18 to make some modifications and we anticipate reaching a full power shortly thereafter."

The plant, located on the east shore of Lake Huron, has been operated at 50 per-cent capacity since Dec. 15.

Mr. Horton said the Canadian-style nuclear power plant, which uses natural uranium fuel and heavy-water moderated reactors, will ultimately be adopted by most countries unless an entirely new concept of energy production is developed within 19 years.

BLOT OUT RECORD

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indian customs officials are blotting out parts of some encyclopedias, even when they are in the personal effects of foreigners, the Hindustan Times reported. It said the blackouts are on pages showing Kashmir territory as part of Pakistan.

Huge Oil Slick Spreads On Puerto Rico Beaches

SAN JUAN (CP) — A huge oil slick from the wrecked tanker Ocean Eagle continued to spread along the tourist beaches of San Juan today, defying detergents and reducing Puerto Rico's tourist hotel operators to helpless despair.

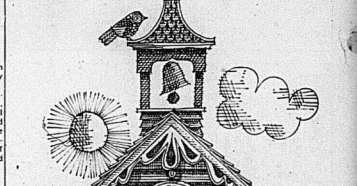
"The problem is getting worse," a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said Monday night. "With each hour that passes the oil is spreading farther and farther."

The 12,065-ton Liberian-registered tanker split in two early Sunday just outside San Juan Harbor and 6,000,000 gallons of crude oil began spewing into the area.

Thousands of tourists packing the luxury hotels along the Condado Beach "golden mile" woke Monday to find their beaches and the surrounding water blackened by the smelly oil.

Five hotels closed their beaches. Other hotels west of the spreading oil slick reported their beaches still unpolluted today.

There were reports that some hotels were getting cancellations, but there was no indication that these were running to any great number.



The island earns $270,000,000 a year from tourism.

Five boats spent Monday pouring hundreds of gallons of chemical coagulant—flown in from the U.S.—onto the oil in an attempt to sink it, with little success.

Three tugs late Monday night gave up trying to tow the bow section of the wrecked tanker away from the harbor mouth. The coast guard said it had sent for two more tugs to aid them today.

The afternoon of the tanker was aground in the harbor, but out of the main channel.

Marine biologists said "no matter what is done, we have serious problem on our hands." One expert said beaches would be polluted for months. By late Monday the slick covered about 10 miles of water.

McRuer Lists 559 Ways To Protect Civil Rights

Recommendations

TORONTO (CP) — Highlights of the Ontario royal commission recommendations on civil rights tabled in the legislature Tuesday:

Discretionary powers to stop and detain should be abolished except in cases involving public safety or health.

Power to search the person ought not to be conferred under provincial law.

Arbitrary powers of investigation ought not to be conferred in any statute.

Judicial authority should always be a condition of the right of entry and search, including of private dwellings.

Coroners should be restrained from entering into public debate on matters that have been the subjects of an inquest.

All magistrates should be appointed on a full-time basis, and all except the chief magistrate should receive the same salary.

The province should assume responsibility, including financial, for administration of juvenile and family courts.

Appeal division of the Supreme Court should be reorganized, and all appeals should be heard by at least five judges.

A self-governing council should be established to discipline the press and other news media for publication of pre-trial information that could be prejudicial to the accused.

Powers of expropriation should be tightly controlled, and the right of compensation secured in the constitution.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Fair cool weather prevailed throughout Ontario during the night as an Arctic high centred over extreme northwestern Ontario continued to settle slowly southward. Generally fair weather is forecast for Ontario today and Thursday. Milder temperatures are expected Thursday.

Inquiry Finds Many Abuses

TORONTO (CP) — The state "is the guardian of the right to be free," says a royal commission report which advises a massive overhaul of laws that affect the civil rights of Ontario citizens.

In tabling the report of former chief justice J. C. McRuer Tuesday in the legislature, Premier John Robarts said an intens've study of its 359 recommendations will begin, at once and will lead "to the application of the principles and recommendations embodied in it."

Principal recommendations:

—More control of police methods;

—A full review of land expropriation procedures;

—A shakeup of the system of Justices of the peace;

—Compensation for those hurt while trying to help police;

—A redrafting of the Public Inquiries Act;

—A self-governing press council;

—A more efficient court system.

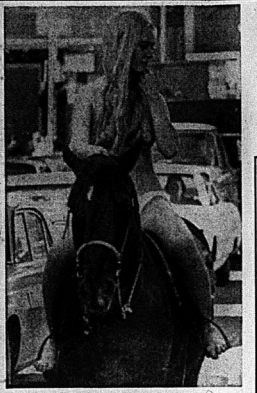
Implicit in the recommendations of the three-volume, 1,331-page report of the commissioner is a constant emphasis on the possible abuse of power vested in the government.

"State power is something in the nature of a trust conferred by the people on all those in positions of authority," said the report, which took the 77-year-old former chief justice of Ontario four years to prepare.

In pleading for greater protection of the individual and more control of the power of government and police, he said his inquiry, involving hearings in all parts of Ontario, had uncovered a number of "shocking abuses" in which laws infringe on citizens' rights.

Powers which allow police and other officials to stop and search individuals and to enter their premises to inspect and carry away personal property are a violation of civil rights, he wrote.

The report said the Liquor Licence Act provides "an extreme example of reckless legislative indifference to the rights of the individual."



It said that under the act, the Liquor Licence Board of Ontario may make any investigation it deems necessary in the case of a person holding a liquor licence "or any of his servants, agents or employees."

When such an investigation is

French Airliner Crashes on Isle

POINT-A-PITRE (CP) — An airline captain radioed he was landing in 1½ minutes but instead his Air France Boeing 707 jet plunged into a rocky mountainside on the French island of Guadeloupe, Tuesday night, killing all 63 persons aboard.

A revised air line list showed 49 passengers and a crew of 14 were aboard. Originally 53 passengers were reported aboard.

Among the passengers were two newspaper men from the popular French magazine Paris-Match—reporter Hubert Herzog, 43, and reporter-photographer Tony Saubier, 42. They had been on an assignment in South America.

Herzog was a brother of Maurice Herzog, a well-known mountain climber and former minister in the French government.

Mrs. William Zeckendorf Sr., wife of the New York real estate man, was believed to have been aboard the plane. Zeckendorf's secretary in New York said she was to have taken the flight.

Rescue teams found no survivors when they reached the burnt-out hulk of the giant jet on the mountainside near Le Camp des Anglais (English Camp).

Guadeloupe lies about 400 miles off the Venezuelan coast and is surrounded by several smaller French territories.

Ontario Deficit Forecast

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the treasury department has forecast a $61,000,000 deficit for Ontario to March 31, 1968.

Ontario had a surplus of $33,000,000 last year.

The newspaper says department figures show a revenue-spending deficit of $222,000,000 before federal funds, interest on loans and other non-budgetary items come to the rescue.

Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton will make his budget address next Tuesday in the legislature.

The paper says there has been a desperate budget-cutting scramble leading to Mr. MacNaughton's address.

It says that treasury department officials are worried because the $222,000,000 overspending has occurred despite recent spending cuts.

Education, health and what it describes as "startling debt costs" are the major facts in the deficit, the newspaper says. It says that Mr. MacNaughton likely will announce a raise in health-care premiums when he speaks next Tuesday.

Rhodesia Hangs Reprieved Africans

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Three Africans convicted of murder — central figures in a new Anglo-Rhodesian constitutional drama — were hanged here shortly after breakfast time in defiance of reprieves granted by the Queen.

The three Negroes were the first to be executed in Rhodesia since Prime Minister Ian Smith broke away from Britain in November, 1965. More than 100 other Negroes in the country are under sentence of death.

The first official mentions of the executions were notices posted at the heavy grey gates of the prison, on the outskirts of Salisbury.

The notices announced that Victor Siferani Mlambo, James David Dhlamini and Duly Shadreck were hanged at 9 a.m. (2 a.m. EST.)

Mlambo and Dhlamini were convicted of killing a white farmer in a gasoline bomb attack and Shadreck was condemned to death for murdering a tribal chief.

In London today, the British government said it deplored the hanging of the three Negroes.

Their hanging was the strongest challenge yet to the British government by the breakaway, white-ruled colony and plunged the two countries into the biggest head-on clash since Rhodesia declared unilateral independence.

The Queen commuted the sentences on the three Negroes Saturday after the Rhodesian Appeal Court refused a stay of execution.

Smith and his government previously said they still recognized the Queen while claiming full independence from Britain.

Britain warned this week that all Rhodesians concerned in any executions in defiance of royal clemency would face the gravest responsibility.

Many Rhodesians, some of them well-placed, now predict today's hangings could quickly lead to a final break with Britain by declaring a republic here.

Africans Enraged

By REUTERS

Bitter criticism from many African Commonwealth countries was heard today in the wake of Rhodesia's execution of three convicted Negro murderers despite the granting of a reprieve by the Queen.

Vice-President Daniel Moi of Kenya said in Nairobi that Rhodesian defiance of the monarchy gave Britain the ideal opportunity of crushing the breakaway Rhodesian regime of Ian Smith.

In Zambia, a banned Rhodesian nationalist party, the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union, said those involved in the execution would be shot on sight when the opportunity arose.

A statement from the party's offices in Lusaka said Rhodesian Chief Justice Sir Hugh Beadle "must understand that he and his henchmen who have ganged up to execute or carry out this series of murders will be shot on sight when the opportunity presents itself."

A ZAPU spokesman added: "They have by this action condemned themselves to death."

An Indian high commission spokesman in London said in view of the Queen's reprieve the executions of Rhodesia were tantamount to murder.

Britain May Lay Murder Charges

LONDON (AP) — Britain is urgently considering bringing murder charges against key Rhodesian rulers and the hangman who executed three Negroes reprieved by the Queen, the government disclosed today.

Pound In Demand

LONDON (Reuters) —The London foreign exchange market opened in confusion today.

The pound was almost unobtainable after the huge demand by recent sellers trying to recover their oversold positions.

The rate against the U.S. dollar shot up at one stage to $2.4075 — more than a full cent above the lowest point Tuesday.

Kingston Prisoners Test Effects of Pesticides

OTTAWA (CP) Prisoners at Kingston penitentiary have volunteered to be human guinea pigs to study the effect on humans of agricultural pesticides and other chemicals.

Up to 30 prisoners may be involved, on a strictly voluntary basis, in the study being carried out by the federal food and drug directorate, the Canadian penitentiary service and Queen's University pharmacology department.

A statement Tuesday by Health Minister MacEachen and Solicitor-General Pennell said the studies will assess how the human body alters and excretes small amounts of chemicals found in food as a result of farming and processing practices.

The amounts of chemicals used would be similar to those found in foods already on the Canadian market.

The announcement coincided with a statement by Dr. Harry Hurtig, pesticide research coordinator for the federal agriculture department, expressing concern that the international controversy over pesticide safety could have serious repercussions for food exports.

Dr. Hurtig warned that permissible levels of pesticides in food could be set unreasonably low, jeopardizing pest control programs in developing nations and erecting barriers to exports from Canada.

Viet Cong Shell Ten Bases

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong shelled at least 10 southern allied bases and airfields today, the third straight day of widespread bombardments, but the U.S. command said damage and casualties were light and the Communists did not follow up with ground attacks.

One of the targets today was Ca Mau, the provincial capital at the southern tip of the country which the Viet Cong invaded Tuesday. The Southern allied command said South Vietnamese troops killed 275 guerrillas in 15 hours of fighting before the remnants of the Viet Cong force were driven from the town.

The government said the Viet Cong killed 20 civilians and wounded 50 when it seized the provincial hospital. It reported 10 government soldiers killed and said more than 1,000 houses and huts were destroyed.

The Viet Cong shelled Ca Mau again today, destroying a building in the hospital compound.

U.S. spokesmen said other targets of the Viet Cong bombardment today were three other provincial capitals, five airfields, a U.S. Special Force camp and six American base camps.

U.S. forces killed 110 guerrillas in three sharp clashes Tuesday and today, U.S. spokesmen reported.

About 75 miles north of Saigon, paratroops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division ran into 150 Viet Cong holding a village.

Along the coastal lowlands below Da Nang, men of the 1st American Division reported killing 50 guerrillas in three sharp clashes Tuesday and today, U.S. spokesmen reported.

Speaker Blasts Belleville Businesses

BRUCE NICKSON

Bruce Nickson, Purchasing Agent for H. Corby Distillery Ltd., told members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club yesterday at their weekly luncheon meeting that Belleville's wholesale situation was not ideal for industries.

He told of purchasing troubles in the city and of picking up a commodity which he was trying to buy outside the city.

"Many local houses" he said, "refuse to give us reasonable discounts."

"Many hundreds of thousand of dollars leave the city because of situations like these."

Mr. Nickson explained that there was only two reasons for buying locally — quick purchase of the commodity and public relations.

According to Mr. Nickson because of certain problems with local houses he is forced to buy outside the city.

"Several months ago we ordered something. It wasn't delivered after two and a half months."

"Some of our merchants don't seem to be able to maintain products"

Mr. Nickson told of the problems that arise when a purchasing agent needs a product in a hurry.

"An outfit says it sells it, but does not have it on hand. If they're going to sell it they should stock it."

"In order to supply industries, merchants will have to provide wholesale facilities."

Mr. Nickson told the Kiwanians that after talking to purchasing agents in the area, he had found, "everyone of them agrees that they are not receiving the services needed and that they have money to spend on these services."

Another lacking service in the area was adequate sales representation. "No one locally calls on us but outside representatives call at least once every two months."

Mr. Nickson summarized by stating that all the agents agree that they wanted to buy locally but they couldn't get what they want.

Loyalist College

Kneisel Heads Business Department

The Board of Governors of Loyalist College appointed Ernst Kneisel acting chairman of the Business department of the Applied Arts and Business Division at a meeting this week.

The appointment was made in the light of the increasing importance of the business courses now established at the college and the resignation of J. Gilbert Burrows, who will be leaving Loyalist June 30 to resume his studies for a Ph.D in education.

"Mr. Kneisel's intimate knowledge of the industrial and business community of this area will be invaluable to the College in the development of special options leading out of our first year business courses," stated J. K. Bradford, President of the college.

"In addition, we are now preparing to initiate an increased number of evening courses in related fields for the fall semester. It is urgent that we establish the relationship between our day and evening programs for the coming year now, when we are selecting staff who have the diversity of expertise that is necessary to cope with modern business practices," he said.

Mr. Kneisel, formerly Industrial Commissioner for Belleville, has been acting as administrator of the college during the complex and demanding initial stages of its development...

IN MEMORIAM

AYLESWORTH — In loving memory of our dear wife and mother Cheyriene Margaret, who passed away March 6th, 1966.
Two little hands are resting,
Two little feet are still,
A little sister we loved is waiting,
For us at God's will.
Sadly missed by sisters Jean and Wilma, brother Wilfred and Glenn.

AYLESWORTH — In loving memory of our darling daughter Cheyriene Margaret who was instantly killed on March 6th, 1966.
There is a gap that can never be filled,
And time long since you left us,
We think of you daily and hourly,
The world forgets but memories linger on.
Sadly missed by Mom and Dad.

MARACLE — In loving memory of our dear son and grandson Levi Maracle, who passed away March 6th, 1967.
In tears we watched you sinking,
We held you hand and cried,
Our hearts were nearly broken,
When you said goodbye.
But when we saw you suffer,
So peacefully free from pain,
We knew it was God's will to take you home Dad.
To enter that again,
Somehow remembered and sadly missed by Sister Jean and brother-in-law Stanley and grandson Jim and family.

Controversial Fish

Ontario Hydro employees Jim McKenna of Belleville and Jim Prince of Frankford recovered this dead sturgeon at No. 2 Powerhouse on Highway 33, north of Trenton Monday. Controversy developed as they couldn't decide whether the 57 inch monster was a sturgeon or a channel cat. It turned out to be a "relatively small" sturgeon.

Two Persons Out of Three Suffer From Hunger Today

The Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace has been commissioned by the Catholic bishops of Canada to establish a program of aid for underdeveloped countries and is currently undertaking a campaign to make the public more conscious of the problem of hunger in the world.

In 1967, the affluent countries spent more than 200 billions of dollars for military budgets and less than 10 billions to aid underdeveloped countries. 20 times more for armament than for aid.

Last year, the Vietnam war alone cost 30 billions or 4 times more than the total amount granted to foreign aid in the world.

In 1967, each Canadian contributed an average of $15 to help the underdeveloped through foreign aid and private channels. The average smoker spends about $200 on cigarettes each year.

The gap is widening between the poor and affluent countries and the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace gives every Canadian the opportunity to do his share in this fight against hunger during the Lenten Campaign which it is presently holding.

To put it plainly, two persons out of three in the world today suffer from hunger. We can help them, if we do without something to share with them.

From March 17 to 24 the Organization for Development and Peace will be taking up a collection in most churches for the hungry of the world. Donations can also be forwarded to the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace, 1452 Drummond Street, Montreal 25, Quebec.

City Will Build Half Mile Of 'Missing Link' Roadway

Construction this year of close to one half mile of "missing link" roadway in the unopened section of Tracey Street between North Front and Lemoine Streets, will provide a much needed east-west artery in the north end of the city.

City council Monday gave first and second reading to a bylaw authorizing construction of the double surface treated roadway at a total estmated cost of $50,000.

The work is to be done under Section 8 of the local improvement act with $43,203 of the cost to be assessed against landowners and $6,796 to be paid by the corporation.

Ten year debentures will be issued to pay for the work.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds said the street construction was included in the city's capital works program for this year, but early approval was necessary to allow for the necessary advertising.

One of the reasons for early completion of the roadway is that a new Catholic Separate School is to be built in the area. Also this week council passed a bylaw authorizing construction of an overhead bridge to carry the Bay Bridge Road over the right-of-way and track of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Cost of the overpass (phase one of three phase Dundas Street roadway and bridge project) is estimated at $448,000 of which the city's share would be about $73,000.

Both road construction bylaws still have to receive approval of the Ontario Municipal Board.

OPP Win Trophy

TWEED — Seven officers of Madoc detachment OPP obtained perfect scores in the annual in-service training shooting program.

Thirty-five marksmen of district 9, which includes eight detachments located at Bancroft, Madoc, Kaladar, Sharbot Lake, Kingston, Napanee, Belleville and Picton, shot perfect scores.

D. E. Wellesley, superintendent of the district, was presented with the Ontario Revolver Association trophy for the winning district.

Madoc detachment officers who obtained perfect scores were M. W. Schultz, D. A. C. Bjorndahl, D. L. McMaster, R. S. Lawrenson, J. E. McCormick, R. V. Bonter and E. R. Brown.

Napanee

Fire Levels Home

NAPANEE — Fire levelled a two - storey frame house on the northeast outskirts of Napanee and sent the 80-year-old owner to hospital Monday night.

Russell York, who lived in the house with his wife and a grandson, Gordon, 20, was taken to Lennox and Addington County Hospital for observation and treatment of a burn on his head.

Napanee firemen, called about 11 p.m., arrived at the Camden Road residence to find the building "full of fire," Chief F. W. Patton said.

Spectators said the York family were unable to save any furniture or personal effects from the fire.

BCI Students Protest Increase in Price of Cafeteria Milk

A petition signed by 200 angry students at Belleville Collegiate signalled a wave of student protest over a rise in the cost of milk under a new catering system now in effect at city secondary schools.

Beaver Catering Service has taken over the preparation of cafeteria meals from the Board of Education, and has increased the price of milk bought independantly from the hot meal served in order to turn a profit.

At BCI, for instance, the price of milk under the old system was 7c for 7 ounces. Under the catering service, the amount of milk has been increased to 10 ounces, and the price to 12c. The price of meals remains at 35c, the former price.

BCI principal William McKay blames the student complaints on poor communications on the part of the catering service, who gave no notice that the amount and price of milk was to be increased.

"Students rioting in with their 7c suddenly found that the price had almost doubled," stated the principal, "and they did not immediately realize that the amount of milk had been increased as well."

Mr. MacKay said that, under the circumstances, he was not surprised at the students' reaction. "It was a natural reaction," he said, "and, in a way, I was pleased to see it. The students didn't act like a bunch of sheep and accept the increase outright."

Mr. MacKay also pointed out that the 20% increase in the price of milk was not had considering the much wider variety and high quality of the meals. And, he added that the catering service must make a profit somewhere to make the contract worthwhile.

Nonetheless, BCI students will have an opportunity to vote on the milk question through the Student Council. It the majority of students want a smaller amount of milk at a lower price, the question will be put to the catering service.

Communications by the catering service at the other schools were better, and no complaints such as those voiced at BCI were received at Moira, Quinte or Centennial.

Moira principal Linton D. Read said that a few students had come to him for an explanation, but he felt that they had gone away quite satisfied.

Mr. Read pointed out the higher quanity and greater variety of the meals as a counterbalance to the increased price of milk. And, he added, a glass of milk is available with, and included in the price of the meal. Only milk bought separately of the meal is at a higher price.

W. J. Musgrove, at Centennial, said that he had received no complaints on the new system. "They haven't been running this service long enough for people to judge them fairly one way or another," he stated.

John Hayman, Quinte's principal, said that he had received no formal complaints, but that the students were concerned about the increase in the price of milk. As indication of this, he added, was the fall in the sale of white milk.

Mr. Hayman acknowledged that the catering services must make a profit. He further stated, however, that the caterers might make some adjustments in their prices to accommodate the students.

Board Conducts Survey

James Clarke, chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Board said this morning a survey will be conducted into the milk situation at Belleville Collegiate.

It appears the students are complaining about an increase in the price of milk and the use of a larger carton, he said. "We're conducting the survey to find out what type of carton the students want."

The change from a seven ounce container to a ten ounce container was made Monday when Beaver Foods took over cafeteria operations. The high school board had been losing $15,000 per year on the cafeterias in four Belleville schools.

During negotiations cafeteria committee chairman, Stan Wiggins said: "We have asked them (the operators) to hold the price line for the remainder of the school term but an increase of from six to eight per cent per meal is expected next year."

"The caterer agreed to hold the line on the price of meals and this has been done," Mr. Clarke said.

"Once we find out what type of carton the students want we'll consider the matter further."

Microfilm Unit Sold For $300

TRENTON — A seven-year-old microfilm unit will be sold by the town to the Children's Aid Society headquarters in Belleville for $300.

Town council agreed to the sale of the machine, which had been purchased for $750.

Clerk - comptroller O. W. Larry said the unit had been purchased with the intention of microfilming town assessment rolls, but that it was now used "only rarely."

"It's easier to send particular items like council minutes to the company to have them microfilmed," Mr. Larry told council.

He said the machine had been used to microfilm town council minutes from 1853 to 1962 on four rolls.

Magistrate Gives Accused 15 Months

TRENTON — A 25-year-old area man was sentenced to 15 months in jail for passing $300 worth of phony cheques.

Raymond Thompson of Brighton pleaded guilty to 15 counts of false pretences by passing worthless cheques.

Magistrate R. C. Jackson sentenced him to one month consecutive on the charges.

The cheques were passed in Trenton and Brighton.

Percy Edward Brunton, 29, of Queen St., Trenton, pleaded guilty to joy - riding and was fined $100 and costs, or 15 days in jail.

A charge of driving while under suspension was dismissed.

Council Concurs In Cornwall Resolution

Higher municipal licence fees for out-of-town operators of refreshment stands selling vittles could be in the offing if a resolution endorsed Monday night by Belleville city council is acted upon.

The resolution from the city of Cornwall asks that the municipal act be amended to permit a municipality to levy a higher licence fee for out-of-town operators of refreshment trucks.

"Sounds like a reasonable request," commented one alderman as council voted to concur in the resolution.

Firemen Get $120 Per Week Under New Wage Contract

The ten per cent salary boost for members of the Belleville Fire Department approved this week by city council puts fourth year firemen into the $120 per week category.

The increase gives probationer firemen $5,610 per year with a fourth year man to receive $6,600.

The salary scale approved ranges up to $7,590 for a captain instructor.

Under the terms of the two year contract firemen will receive a further five per cent increase in 1969.

Also under the contract firemen will go to a 42 hour week effective July 1, 1969 necessitating the hiring of five additional firemen.

The salary increase will cost the city $32,670 additional this year with next year's salary costs for firemen costing a further $33,677.

The budget for city firemen's salaries last-year was $324,000.

New wage scales for city hall clerical staff workers and for public works employees have also been aproved by council.

Under the schedule effective January 1 of this year a grade 1 clerk starts at $3,012 and ranges up through six steps to $3,912. A grade six clerical worker starts at $4,810 and ranges up to $5,710.

Administrative, technical and professional positions call for a starting range of $3,722 for grade one workers and up to a maximum of $6,668 for a grade five worker.

City works department employees got a 25 cent per hour raise across the board bringing their minimum to $2.25 cents per hour.

The combined cost of the entire wage package and fringe benefits received by works employees will cost the city an additional $34,162 this year. Increases to go into effect in 1969 will cost the city a further $24,868.

Seven of 30 Stores Represented at Meeting

TRENTON — A second meeting to organize a local confectioners' association adjourned inconclusively last night, with only seven of an estimated 30 "area corner stores" represented.

At a meeting last week six confectioners were present.

Interim president Don McCallum told those present most area confectioners had shown interest in an association, but a different approach would have to be taken to get them out for meetings.

Organizers say an association will provide a forum for the store owners and will bring them in contact with manufacturers and wholesalers.

Hopefully, confectioners would learn new methods of presenting their products to the public.

A third meeting was decided upon at an unspecified future date.

Trenton Council Supports Authority

TRENTON — Town council has gone on record as supporting a conservation authority to serve the Lower Trent Valley watershed.

On the recommendation of Councillor Paul Tripp, chairman of council's Industrial and Economic Development Committee, council agreed to petition the Minister of Energy and Resources Management about establishing an authority.

Councillor Tripp said he had been "lukewarm" to the idea, but became enthused after attending last week's information meeting in Castleton attended by representatives of most of the 17 municipalities in the watershed.

He had been told Trenton's share of the first year's operation of an authority would be in the $1,000 to $1,500 range, and that the town, with two members, would have more representation on the authority than any other municipality in the watershed.

"We shouldn't sit back and wait until we're forced into this type of program. Let's be one of the original joiners, and not go in the back door by compulsion."

Councillor Tripp said he had been impressed by the number of grants available under the Conservation branch of the Department of Energy and Resources Management to assist in municipal projects—some as high as 90 per cent of the total cost.

An organizing committee has already held three information meetings on the proposed Lower Trent authority in the area, and is awaiting a government reply to petitions sent by watershed municipalities to J. R. Simonett, Minister of the Department of Energy.

The Minister can call an organization meeting on the basis of petitions by three municipalities if he is satisfied, but Trenton council decided to add theirs to the others as a gesture of support for an authority.

Education Week

Education Week has got off to a significant start with an important speech by assistant deputy minister of education, Dr. M. Johnston, and a meeting of public school teachers.

In Mr. Johnston's address and that of assistant regional superintendent Peter Torrance to the teachers one thought stood out. It can be summed up in the theme, "Change and Adaptability."

The assistant minister quoted some words of the late General Douglas MacArthur. "We are in a new era. Old methods and solutions no longer suffice. We must have new thoughts, new ideas, new concepts. We must break out of the straitjacket of the past."

Mr. Torrance for his part said, "The educational program is never as good as it ought to be and too many teachers are willing to settle for the way things are. The dedicated teacher seeks improvement and improvement starts with dissatisfaction."

The challenge is clear. But the thought occurs, are teachers given their head? In other words, does their experience — gained at the classroom level — have the influence it should in the Department of Education, or do they have to stick with the regimentation of outworn methods until Ottawa gets around to making its own decision in this regard?

Students and MPs

A letter sent to MPs by Grade 13 students of St. Catharines high school complaining of their parliamentary conduct during the recent defeat of the government tax bill has upset members.

Well, as so often is the case there are faults on both sides. If the dressing down has "ruffled the feathers" of many MPs, as the report has it, then the cap likely fits.

The students' letter stated in part, "We are writing as concerned young Canadians . . . disappointed in the extent of unwarranted absenteeism, the placing of party loyalties ahead of loyalty to the people of Canada and a general lack of responsible conduct leading to a misinterpretation of the mood of the Canadian people . . . and worried about the great number of personal attacks that have unfortunately been too much a part of the latest crisis."

The sentiments of the St. Catharines seniors must ring a chord in the thoughts of many Canadians. If there is a loss of confidence in the conduct of affairs in Ottawa, and in the Government's bending of traditional democratic procedure to suit its own purposes then it is only to be expected in the light of events.

What about the students' method of voicing their complaint. A wrapped lollipop accompanied each letter sent to the 262 members of parliament. Some MPs, resenting the implication they are "childish," said they would return them.

And who can blame them. Such foolishness on the part of the students reflects their own immaturity. Moreover, while the tenor of their letter was responsible enough, the communication had in fact been edited by the head of the history department because it had contained some strong words.

Thus, young people, while their views in these days of total involvement are of growing importance, need to temper their barbs, however valid, with some degree of respect. The temptation to be cynical and/or sarcastic is strong in the young. However, the most positive side of the whole issue is the fact some MPs are thinking of sending the students copies of Hansard containing their speeches during the crisis. Knowledge of what was said will go far toward enlightening students and public alike.

They Walked

No one goes for walks in the country any more. At least if they do we never see them around. Even city avenues are deserted for the most part in the evening when a stroll around the block might be enjoyed.

It is a pleasure then to see a picture of a group of Grade 11 geography students of Ancaster High School taking a walk along the Dundas Valley.

The picture is one of The Hamilton Spectator's excellent front-page presentations in color. The young people are trekking Indian file along a grassy bank. Behind is the snow-filled bed of the valley and beyond that again a great sweep of lonely hills, covered with pine.

It is good to see the young people making use of the beauty that is so close at hand in that area. Here too, in the Quinte region, there is no shortage of places students can visit both for recreational and educational purposes.

Reds, Though Split, Will Arrange World Conference

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

BUDAPEST (AP) — Moscow has abandoned hope of reuniting the fractured world Communist movement, a week of speeches by Communist parties meeting in this Hungarian capital has shown.

But why is Moscow determined to have a world Communist conference that will exhibit the disunity by attracting representatives of only about half the world's Communist party members?

The Budapest meeting of 66 parties—67 before Romania walked out charging that the Russians rigged the meeting and prevented free discussion—will end in a few days with appointment of an all-partist committee to arrange the conference.

The conference will be held in Moscow by the end of this year. It will issue a political declaration of attitude "to the present-day questions of the struggle against imperialism and jointly formulate tasks of concentrating anti-imperialist forces."

It also will issue a solidarity declaration and peace appeal on Vietnam.

But the Vietnamese Communists, the front-line troops in "the struggle against imperialism," boycotted the Budapest meeting and are most unlikely to appear in Moscow. The same is true of the North Koreans and the Cubans, who by Communist definition are directly threatened by "imperialism."

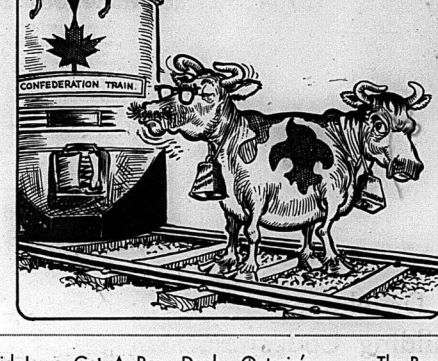
The North Vietnamese and North Koreans have refused to go along with Soviet plans because the Soviet brand of unity is regarded as unity against China. So is the Moscow-Peking split. They cannot afford to antagonize China, which angrily rejects the Soviet conference plan.

Eleven other parties were invited to Budapest but did not show up and are unlikely to be in Moscow.

The result is that the Moscow meeting will talk about the problems of those who do not want to attend.

Other abstentions are likely to mean only about 65 of 89 Communist parties in the world will attend and many of them will be tiny groups from such places as Reunion, Martinique and Luxembourg.

So why have a meeting?



Perhaps the Polish Communist party newspaper Trybuna Ludu provided the answer recently.

"Without international conferences," it said, "the Communist movement would lose its international character and, therefore, one of the main sources of its strength."

The Russians, for all their concentration on seeking prosperity at home rather than taking risks to spread communism abroad, cannot admit that their ideology is a hollow thing which has lost Marx's and Lenin's gold worldwide outlook.

When he reached the latter place he could not walk and it was decided that he should return home. He says that he will undertake the trip to the Klondike later if he recovers sufficiently to do so. The rest of the party which includes Messrs. Charles Robert Bogle, S. S. Moore, Ed Sprague, Alf England and Dr. Robinson (Consecon), were in excellent health when he left them. Did Iowa Get A Raw Deal In Louisiana Purchase?

(Letter to The Globe and Mail)

It occurs to me that you might be entertained by the enclosed, a copy of a letter I, as president of La Ligue Des Fils De La France Perdue, have written to General Charles de Gaulle requesting aid in liberating the State of Iowa, a part of the Louisiana Purchase, from Anglo-Saxon tyranny.

"We the undersigned, as founding members of the League of the Sons of Lost France, greet the Head of the French Republic and respectfully present to him our patriotic homage, the loyal wishes of true children of a forgotten France, torn from the homeland 150 years ago. We are the sons and the inheritors, stripped of our rights, of the explorers who came on a civilizing mission to build a new world for France, to build the beautiful French province of Louisiana. Since the time of the shameful sale of our little country — a phony deal, because one cannot sell one's nationality — our fathers, like ourselves, have been subject to the harsh tyranny of a cold, hard and foreign race.

"Victims of Anglo-Saxon power we are obliged to see the barbarian and nefarious hordes crush the magnificent plains of our Iowa, a French country scattered with rivers and old cities of which often nothing today reminds us of their native and heroic past except their names: Dubuque, Des Moines, Prairie du Chien, Des Plaines, and near us, in another martyred country, the great city which still bears the name, a symbol and a hope, of St. Louis. We see our children bogged down in a vulgar culture, obliged to go to schools where French is not taught. We are deprived of everything which gives life tolerable for true Frenchmen, and last in a country which really belongs to us. We can only keep our memories and, after so many years, our hopes. We may lack strength, but we do not lack courage. We beg you to hear our cry. Help us. If you come to visit us, we shall be here: in spite of everything, we remain erect and proud, conscious of our duty and our destiny. General, sir: we are at your orders. We stand in the service of France.

"Vive la Louisiane francaise!
"Vive La France!"

Farm Woodlots Still Vital

Windsor Star

In highly productive agricultural areas such as Southwestern Ontario, there is little incentive for the planting, or even the preservation, of farm woodlots. Together with a woodlot, the farmer may ask, when the same land can be used for quick and good returns from cash crops? Trees take several decades to mature to market size, and the farmer who plants trees is generally planning for the next generation.

Yet the loss of forest cover has a rious effect on a farmland area. Erosion, dropping of the water table, and flooding may result, and there is evidence that the cutting of woodlots interferes with rainfall and temperature cycles.

Governments give some aid to farmers interested in woodlots and their long-term benefits. Under fairly strict conditions, there is a tax concession for woodlots, and assistance and advice are available for planting and management of new forest lots. The conditions are not too severe, and short-term attractions of seasonal crops so great, that there is far from full interpretation in Southwestern Ontario.

A review by governments of the programs to make tree planting and woodlot preservation attractive is called for. It should include consideration of the particular problem in highly productive areas, where the incentives to reforestation are low but where the need is just as great.

Ontario's Attractive Parks

Kingston Whig - Standard

Clearly, one of the great assets Ontario offers the summertime visitor is a wide variety of attractive provincial parks. For proof of this one need only examine recent statistics from the Department of Lands and Forests. The figures indicate a tremendous upswing in the use of Ontario's park facilities during 1967.

With 94 parks in operation nearly 10 million people made visits during 1967. This is an increase of 4 per cent. over 1966. More than one million campers used the provincial parks during 1967, an increase of 16 per cent. over 1966. In addition, 500,000 park users attended "interpretive programs" (museums, conducted hikes, nature trails, lectures, films, etc.). This was an increase of six per cent. over 1966.

It should be noted that park use during 1967 exceeded the 10 million mark for the first time in the history of Ontario's provincial parks. There is no doubt that Expo '67 in Montreal helped bring more visitors to the province and hence to the parks. Heavy use was made of parks during the main route to Expo and the trend to more trailers and tent-trailers continued. Next summer campers, fishermen and day visitors will enjoy four provincial parks just opened in 1967. Another four parks are expected to be open for during 1968 or shortly there after.

It is generally agreed that Ontario contains one of the finest provincial park systems in Canada. One might think that near 10,000 parks is a sufficient number to accommodate all those who wish to visit such recreation areas. But there is every reason to believe that many more will have to be provided in order to keep abreast of the swelling public demand for park facilities. Considering the obvious trend toward urbanization this demand is not likely to lessen.

The Baron Is A Boilermaker

Christian Science Monitor

The elevation of a working man to Britain's House of Lords is always deemed good for a story. But should it be? After all, what is there unusual in a man of drive, leadership, and shrewdness attaining the honors of nobility? How else down the centuries have nobles and nobility generally arisen?

Take that historically noblest of all true English titles after that of king—an earl. Whence came the Anglo-Saxon "eorl"? From the chance of birth? Certainly not in the beginning. It came from the strength of his sword-arm, the cunning of his leadership, the sleight of his statesmanship. It came because he had something inborn which drove him up over the herd of his fellowmen. Either as a reward for services to one mightier than he or because he had the strength to seize it, he won a seat in the ranks of nobility.

When we read that Edward James ("Ted") Hill, former head of the Amalgamated Society of Boilermakers, Shipwrights and Iron and Steel Ship Builders Workers, had become Baron Hill of Wivenhoe we felt that this type of king-on earl. The Shoplifting Problem

Christian Science Monitor

Lawlessness is one of the greatest of America's shames. Any thinking American knows this. Any feeling American is saddened by it. Any patriotic American yearns to do something about it.

A group of California housewives have now made up their minds to do just this, to do something about one of the widest-spread aspects of crime in the United States — shoplifting. In the community of Pacific Beach such a group has banded together under the name of "Housewives Alert". When they see they keep their eyes open for shoplifters. If they see one, they notify the store manager and he decides what course to take.

The housewives hope that the idea will spread across the country. It does seem as though something out that it was time for the individual citizen to do something about the tidal wave of American crime. These housewives are willing to do their bit.

Of course, it is not easy. People shy away from talebearing. There is the possibility for a number of highly unpleasant consequences, perhaps with a light-fingered neighbor. Great care must be taken not to make mistakes. But not only is shoplifting a garden for greater lawbreaking, it also steals, from everyone's pocketbook by driving prices up. The women of Pacific Beach may have found an answer.

Snuff Anyone?

Vancouver Sun

Isn't anyone going to say bless you to those thoughtful Hilton people down at Hotel Vancouver for introducing the passing of snuff with the liqueurs?

We can only presume that's snuffing snuff — no one invites it anywhere! — and not plug. If we were the sort that goes around freeloading snails and things — why don't they use invite us anywhere? — we'd know it was snooze by the pocket in the lip and the clang of the cuspidor.

Somehow we can't see the Hilton people carrying the logging-camp theme that far. Unless who ever heard of offering Copenhagen to a lady?

So it must be powdered snuff.

Thomson Forced to Reduce Control of Scottish TV

LONDON (CP) — Lord Thomson has proposed a scheme to reduce his control of Scottish Television Ltd., including the write-off of common shares with a current market value of about $2,500,000.

The proposal, put to shareholders today by the STV board, is the first step towards complying with a requirement laid down by the Independent Television Authority, which governs commercial television in Britain.

In awarding regional licences last year for a six-year period beginning next July 8, ITA agreed to renew STV's licence for central Scotland on condition that the Thomson organization reduced its holding of both preference voting shares and ordinary non-voting shares to not more than 25 per cent from the present 53 per-cent control in each case.

Thomson, who won the inaugural Scottish licence in 1957 and subsequently netted up to $5,000,000 a year, helped found the expansion of his British publishing empire with STV profits.

The Canadian-born publisher's original 100-per-cent control was reduced under ITA orders to 55 per cent in November, 1965, when 12,000 of the 28,000 voting shares of £1 value were distributed and 2,700,000 of 6,000,000 ordinary 2s shares were sold publicly.

The ordinary shares had a nominal value of five shillings each but were issued at 22 shillings. The issue included guarantees of a minimum dividend of 25½ per cent of the nominal value and agreement to buy back the shares at 22 shillings in the event of STV winding up business.

With Thomson required to relinquish control, the new proposal is designed to compensate shareholders for the loss of the 1965 guarantees.

Cancellation of the guarantees is subject to approval by the courts, which sanctioned the original arrangement.

Main points of the proposal:

—Ordinary shareholders will receive a cash payment of three shillings a share, a total of £405,000 (about $1,053,000) on new Thomson conditions—and face value of the ordinary shares will be reduced to two shillings.

—The Thomson Organization will divest itself without payment of 25 per cent of its ordinary STV shares to leave Thomson a total of 2,475,000 shares, or almost 48 per cent.

Current market value of the ordinary shares is about 24 shillings, which gives the 825,000 shares being written off a potential present value of £405,000.

Toronto Stocks

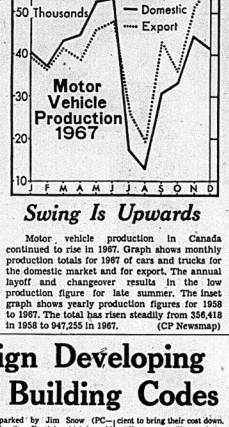
TORONTO (CP) — Gold prices fell in moderate mid-morning activity on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The gold index tumbled 15 points to 238.74 despite reports of a continued buying rush on gold bullion in European markets.

The drop, speeding up a profit taking reaction that set in Tuesday, puts the average almost back to the level of last week when the latest devaluation-scare boom started.

In golds, Dome Mines fell 6 points to 78, Campbell Red Lake fell 2¼ to 41, Giant Yellowknife 1¼ to 12¼ and Kerr Addison ¼ to 16.

Among the smaller issues, Merrill was off 35 cents to 2.25, Camflo 30 cents to 5.85 and Dickenson and Lamaque 25 cents each to 4.90 and 3.90.



Campbell Chibougamau, a copper producer with a sideline in gold, fell 50 cents to 9.25.

Industrials and oils rallied.

CPR advanced ¼ to 34 and Imco 1 to 112. Pacific Pete and Husky Oil gained each to 16¼ and 19¼.

On index, industrials were up .35 to 147.35 and oils up .15 to 173.82. Base metals slipped .30 to 98.52.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 971,000 shares compared with 1,311,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Regional Government

County Opposes Provincial Boundaries

Hastings county council today went on record as being opposed to the proposed new boundaries for regional government as outlined in the Smith Report and will not willingly accept any change from the present county boundaries.

This is the feeling set out in the report of a special council committee named to study regional government and municipal reform. The report was adopted at a special meeting of county council today.

The committee report said that it objected to the concept of regional government as recommended by the committee on taxation.

The committee also felt that county boundaries should be retained and that the separated municipalities should be re-united with the county.

The feeling was that the county of Hastings with its 2,000 square mile area, including Belleville and Trenton with population of 95,000 was large enough to support any regional type of government for the future.

Inclusion of Prince Edward County was felt a matter which could be endorsed for study and negotiation.

Any such union, it was felt, should be voluntary.

The county still urges the Ontario government not to implement the Ontario Report on Taxation where it affects Hastings. It will also request the province grant counties "permissive legislation" allowing the county to assume any of the present functions of constituent municipalities so that it may continue to re-organize and advance within an effective county system.

Also at this morning session, county clerk treasurer Carl E. Bateman was voted a new title with added administrative responsibilities.

Mr. Bateman will become Clerk Treasurer — Administrator of the county and a deputy clerk treasurer will be hired to assist in his duties.

McRuer Makes 559 Suggestions

about to be undertaken, the board may authorize and inspect or seize "any documents, records or other property belonging to, in the possession or under the control of any person that the board considers may be relevant to the investigation. . . .

"All concept of civil rights is abandoned," said Mr. McRuer. "No tribunal should be invested with the powers that are conferred on the liquor licence board."

The power to arrest without a warrant under the Highway Traffic Act and the Liquor Control Act should be restricted and warrants should be issued only when there is evidence a summons will not be effective, said the report.

Mr. McRuer's dozens of recommendations to provide the citizen with safeguards against the exercise of arbitrary authority included a proposal for appeals from the decisions of investigating officers and a careful statement of the rights of persons under investigation.

Conditions for granting bail should be made easier and "where there is little likelihood that the accused will not appear to stand his trial, the requirements of bail should be kept to a minimum."

A seven-man lands tribunal should be created by the provincial government to set prices for expropriated property, the report said. Its decisions could be appealed by affected property owners.

The report, which called the power of expropriation an infringement of civil liberties, made 533 recommendations aimed at curbing abuses.

The report recommended that all justices of the peace be dismissed and those qualified be reappointed.

In recommending an overhaul of the courts, it said the province should assume responsibility, including financial, for administration of juvenile and family courts. Only lawyers should be appointed magistrates.

Compensation should be provided for persons imprisoned for crimes of which they are subsequently proved to be not guilty. Compensatory payments would go to claimants whose innocence was clearly established by a tribunal to be comprised of Ontario Supreme Court judges.

In suggesting a self-governing press council to police irresponsible, unjust and unfair publication of news and comment, the commission urged that all news media come under its control.

It would have the specific objective of protecting the right to a fair trial of anyone whose guil, is indicated in the media before charges are laid.

The report made no suggestions as to the council's makeup, beyond suggesting that it be "self-governing."

Boozy Weddings

LONDON (AP)-A Church of England minister has banned boozy weddings at his church. Rev. Gavin Barker has had enough of red-eyed bridegrooms tottering to the altar.

"I'm going to tell couples I won't marry them if I smell drink on their breath," he said. "It's illegal anyway. The law says that people have to be in their right minds before they get married."

The rector of St. James Church, Bournemouth, also criticized the traditional bridegroom's stag party, usually held the night before the wedding.

Campaign Developing Against Building Codes

TORONTO (CP) — Another campaign is developing against the existing hodge-podge of building codes across Canada.

Builders and, to a lesser degree, mortgage-lenders have complained recently but unsuccessfully in the past about the multitude of building codes, imposed under a variety of national, provincial and municipal regulations.

Many have suggested recently that some degree of uniformity could reduce cost of housing in the country, especially in metropolitan areas where the housing shortage is most critical.

Some have said the lack of consistent regulations adds $500 or more to the current cost of new houses.

Because the varying codes set up different specifications that must be met, builders say it is impossible for them to adopt mass-production methods of turning out and assembling housing sections.

They also claim the regulations cost taxpayers unnecessary money since municipalities which have their own standards must pay for legal and technical assistance in establishing their codes.

It also adds to the builders' costs, since they have to make sure they are not breaking local rules if they begin operations in a new municipality.

The latest attack on this confusion came this week in the Ontario legislature in a debate sparked by Jim Snow (PC—Hamilton East) in which he said it should be mandatory for municipalities in the province to adopt the National Building Code.

The national code also has won support in recent reports to annual meetings of some trust companies, closely connected with the mortgage market.

Although it now provides the basis for most municipal codes in Canada, builders say many local authorities have revised it at least to some degree.

Commenting on the Ontario debate, W. J. Mitchell of Hamilton, president of the Ontario council of the National House Builders Association, said the wide variance of building codes across the country "adds materially to the price of housing."

Establishing a uniform code is so important in the face of Canada's housing shortage that support should transcend party lines, he said.

"Under present conditions the builder must be prepared to provide and to use materials not commonly produced or regularly supplied in quantities sufficient to bring their cost down.

"He must utilize techniques peculiar to only one area and for which special training and attention must be directed. This is especially costly to builders working in metropolitan areas such as Toronto where each borough may have its own peculiar regulations.

"The manufacturers of building materials are likewise unable to achieve the lowest possible costs through mass production of common articles.

"What they can sell and what can be used in one community is prohibited in another. This is wasteful as it requires high inventories, high transportation costs and often slows up the whole building process through supply difficulties."

Certain aspects of the national code have been criticized for being inadequate, such as its acceptance of three-storey wooden apartment blocks.

Builders contend, however, these objections could be met on a provincial level—or changed in the national code—and so permit a larger degree of uniformity.

Timid types, that's who.

It's funny what you hear about Mellow 83. Like, it's the whisky for old fogeys. Or, only timid types drink 83. We know different. All kinds of people are drinking 83 these days — and for the best of all reasons. They like the mellow, mellow way it tastes. Who are these individuals? Well, they weren't born in 1883. And they certainly weren't born yesterday.

U.S. Urged to Root Out Corruption in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top U.S. civilian adviser says the United States must boldly take the initiative to root out corruption in South Vietnam's government because, he insists, there aren't enough honest Vietnamese officials to do the job.

"Corruption is permeating all echelons of government and society, corroding the vitality of this nation, eroding the framework of government and unnecessarily prolonging the war," the adviser said in private reports from Vietnam.

The reports were made available to The Associated Press on the condition that the adviser, chief of the 22-man team in Vietnam, not be identified.

The adviser declared: "Vietnamese officials are so involved that very few have hands sufficiently clean that they can make an immediate major independent contribution."

An Agency for International Development spokesman in Washington told a reporter Tuesday:

"When you get into the business of trying to make another government clean, under International law you get into the question of sovereign nations."

The U.S. adviser sent a copy of the report to his superiors in Washington along with another complaining that he had previously proposed stern measures against graft only to encounter opposition in the U.S. mission.

His report to AID recommended that the United States:

—Create an anti-corruption office within the U.S. mission, Invite the South Vietnamese to set up a corresponding office, and offer rewards to Vietnamese citizens for solid evidence of corruption.

—Confront the government of South Vietnam with examples of corruption as they develop and "insist that law enforcement and revenue collecting officials go to jail and be publicly disgraced for involvement in graft and corruption."

—"Abandon our present devotion to the fiction that corruption is the special field of lower- and middle-echelon government officials. Instead place the blame squarely where it belongs —right at the top."

Hill views told of corruption extending to the top of the Vietnamese customs collecting organization and said unknown millions of dollars in revenue had been lost. He gave examples ranging from police shakedowns to custom smuggling.

Senator Ernest Gruening (Dem. Alaska), chairman of the Senate subcommittee on foreign aid expenditures, and a long-time investigator of corruption in Vietnam, told a reporter "our efforts are not effective because some of our agencies aren't concerned about corruption."

Last week Gruening, after seeing copies of the adviser's reports, told the Senate of a gold and opium smuggling operation which he said involved the highest South Vietnamese government officials."

Wishart Plans Statement on Horsburgh

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart was involved in a shouting match Tuesday in the legislature over Russell Horsburgh, the former Chatham minister acquitted of contributing to juvenile delinquency after a long battle in the courts.

The "tre-up occurred after Mr. Wishart announced he will give the legislature facts which led the government to decide against compensating Mr. Horsburgh for 107 days he spent in jail on charges of which he was later cleared.

Mr. Wishart did not say when he would give the facts.

He was replying to Stephen Lewis (NDP—Scarborough West), who asked if the minister had explored the possibility of providing compensation for the former minister of Park Street United Church.

Mr. Wishart said "no" and added that there are many facts perhaps not known to Mr Lewis and the public.

"What does that mean?" shouted. Mr. Lewis. "He is a man who was acquitted. What is not known? Are you challenging the judiciary?"

NDP Leader Donald Mac-Donald interjected: "The attorney-general should either explain what he said or withdraw it, one or the other."

"I welcome the opportunity now that this matter has been raised to relate to the house many of the facts which were not known . . . because certain statements have been made by the reverend gentleman with respect to my integrity," Mr. Wishart said.

Colored Lights to Come Down

Belleville's downtown Centennial year — Christmas season lighting is finally to be taken down.

This was decreed yesterday by city council after it was advised that the downtown businessmen's association no longer had any interest in the colored lights and that they were running up a monthly bill of $38 for power.

City purchasing agent Gerald Hyde said the overall cost of the lights including maintenance runs between $700 and $800 per year.

Last year the lights were taken over from the downtown merchants by the city's centennial committee and the power costs are being charged to the city's street lighting program.

Downtown merchants are said to have other plans for Christmas lighting this year and for this reason have no further interest in the present colored lighting.

Sharp Plans to Outline Economic Situation

OTTAWA (CP) — Declining farm income in 1967, falling wheat sales and prices, problems in the dairy industry and rising farm costs were the theme in the Commons Tuesday as a par de of Conservative MPs continued to rap government agriculture policy.

However, parliamentary attention outside the House was fixed on a major speech that may be made by Finance Minister Sharp today.

Government House Leader MacEachen said late Tuesday the government wants to wrap up the agricultural debate to allow Mr. Sharp to make his statement at the outset of the debate on the finance department's supplementary spending estimates.

However, the Opposition gave little sign that it wants to cut short the debate on $3,000,000 in supplementary estimates for the agriculture department.

The finishing touches were being put on the speech Tuesday. It is expected to cover the whole economic situation and perhaps set the stage for the announcement of "difficult, perhaps unpopular" actions—the term Mr. Sharp used Monday—to maintain confidence in the economy.

They would arise in part at least from the Commons defeat Feb. 19 of a bill authorizing a five-per-cent surcharge on personal income taxes and a speed-up in collection of corporation taxes.

Meanwhile, the Senate returned to work Tuesday instead of March 11, to debate amendments o the Unemployment Insurance Act. It sits again today.

The prospect of the Sharp speech overshadowed the agriculture debate, now in its fourth day, but did not dilute the assault by rural back-benchers on Mr. Greene.

Aside from Mr. Greene and NDP Leader T. C. Douglas, all the speakers were Conservatives.

Mr. Douglas said agriculture is "rapidly becoming a depressed industry." All possible must be done to establish permanent wheat markets with the Soviet Union, China and southeast Asia.

This could only be done if Canada opened two-way trade to the Russians and Chinese to allow them to earn the Canadian dollars to buy wheat.

Mr. Greene had quoted 1962-66 wheat sales, made possible by the crop failures abroad, but had not mentioned the serious decline of Canadian sales in the last 15 months, Mr. Douglas said.

Lakefield Rink Wins Bonspiel

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Curling Club held their first bonspiel in the Community Arena on Saturday. 20 mixed rinks took part coming from Colborne, Peterborough, Norwood, Brighton, Apsley, Cobourg, Lakefield, Stirling, Havelock and Campbellford.

The bonspiel was sponsored by Campbellford Silos who donated the trophy and individual prizes.

The overall winner of the bonspiel was the team of B. Kindree, Helen Kindree, Donald and Betty McConky of Lakefield with 30 points. The men receiving double control electric blankets and the women vanity cases.

Second high was the rink of Arnold Harry of Stirling only ½ point behind the winner. The prizes were curling ware coffee pots and casseroles. Third prize went to Clarence Moore of Cobourg, the prizes, curling tote bags.

As this is the first bonspiel to be held in the new arena, Campbellford entered four rinks and the Campbellford club were enthusiastic of the success of the event which is planned to be an annual event.

Chairman of the bonspiel was R. A. Sparkes. Lunch was served during the day by ladies of the Campbellford Club and following the curling Bob Jackson supplied piano music for singing and dancing.

Hot Cross Buns Are Easy to Make

By MARY MOORE

After tasting my 1968 Hot Cross Buns I decided to give you the recipe at once so you could make and have them two or three times before Good Friday.

Girls who are hesitant about making yeast mixtures need hesitate no longer for these are easy and yield twenty buns for half the price of a baker's dozen.

HOT CROSS BUNS 1968
(yield 20)

1 package granular yeast
1 teaspoon sugar
½ cup lukewarm water
¾ cup scalded milk
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour (approx.)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg
1 egg yolk (save white for glaze later)
½ cup raisins
½ cup peel (all citron or mixed)

In large mixing bowl soak yeast and 1 teaspoon sugar in lukewarm water 10 minutes. Scald milk in saucepan. Remove from heat and add sugar, salt and butter and stir to dissolve them and cool to lukewarm. Sift 2 cups of the sifted flour with the spices. Add cooled milk mixture to soaked yeast liquid. Add the sifted flour-spice mixture and whole egg and egg yolk and beat until blended. Then add raisins and peel and 1½ cups of the remaining sifted flour. (Reserve remaining ½ cup flour for your kneading board later.) Beat and mix as well as you can. Scrape down bowl cover with towel and large plate and let rise at room temperature (or overnight in refrigerator.) Cut down dough and turn out on floured board and knead for 2 minutes. Shape into a 20" long roll. Cut into 20 even pieces and shape into 20 three-inch wide buns on your floured board. Place on two buttered baking sheets 1½" apart. Now mark crosses on tops half-way through buns with front edge of pancake turner. Mix 1 tablespoon water and 1 tablespoon sugar and leftover egg white and neatly brush tops. Let rise until very puffy and light. (Mine rose 3 hours at room temperature.) Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 18 minutes. But after about 12 minutes baking, when they begin to show signs of turning gold at edges brush again with egg white glaze to give them a professional shiny finish. Return to oven, switching and turning pans and finish baking until rich gold. Cool on cake racks. The crosses nearly disappear. Remark them with Plain Icing cross using a coffee spoon as your tool: mix ¾ cup icing sugar with 4 teaspoons milk.

Hot Cross Buns should be served fresh. If any are left-over split and toast them.

The Experts Say

Dog Is Proud; Likes to Be Respected

OTTAWA (CP) — You can love a dog but unless you respect him you aren't doing him any favors, says Judy Figg, who teaches a night school dog obedience class.

"A dog is a proud animal. He likes to be respected.

"He has always been a member of a pack and he looks to someone for guidance. He wants to know if he can go into a room or jump on furniture.

"A dog loves a routine—eating food in the same place, going for walks in the same area."

Mrs. Figg, who came to Ottawa 22 years ago from London, England, has been involved in training dogs since she got her brown and white springer spaniel, Randy, eight years ago.

"It's not a bad thing to keep a dog in an apartment, but it's unfair if people work and can't walk their pets.

One of the worst things the owner of any dog can do, she says, is to treat him like a baby. "I'm a nut about dogs being dogs."

A dog needs firm kindness and plenty of praise, even when he is made to carry out an order.

"Randy knows I'm the boss. When I tell him to do something, he does it because he knows he's going to have to do it.

A properly trained dog may eventually learn to obey hand as well as voice signals.

But the first thing any dog —future movie star or not— has to face is being housebroken.

The process takes a week, Mrs. Figg says.

First, keep the dog in one area, preferably a room with an easy-to-clean floor . . . perhaps the kitchen. Spread the entire floor with newspaper.

Much Info Obtained From Library

Dear Doris: I would like you to send the enclosed poem to "calling for the Author" and tell him that the public library is a good place to get information. I read books a lot and also use the reference room.

I made a speech last year on the Canadian Indians and found most of my information in the folder on North American Indians. The librarians are very helpful for people who are not sure where to find things. They know what they are doing and what else are they there for but to help?

This reader who wanted the poem could have found it in Canadian poetry books. Please tell him that he pays taxes to the library and it is there for the public, so use it. I consider our library the best building in the city. — Teen-Aged Student

Dear Student: Couldn't agree more. Where else does one get so much for the few cents a membership costs? For me, the public library is an indispensable right - hand helper.

• • •

Dear Doris: At a recent blood donor clinic I was informed that I have RH negative blood. My fiance has RH positive blood. What complications might arise if and when we have children?

We have planned on having more than four children. We expect to be living more than 70 miles from a hospital.

I enjoy your column, especially the poems published. — Concerned.

Dear Concerned: Chances are good that you will have no trouble at all. Few women do.

The facts are: marriage of an RH positive man to an RH negative woman rarely affects the first baby, and many such couples have large families with no trouble at all.

If the man is RH negative the woman may be either negative or positive without any complications.

Extra careful prenatal care is indicated, however, including a periodic check for developing antibodies.

• • •

Dear Doris: What would be your opinion of a situation like this: A girl of 24 wants to take a trip to Trinidad with a man of 33 who incidentally is a divorced man. I know this girl is decent and would try to behave herself (that is, have separate rooms and all) but I also know that she is madly in love with him and is relatively inexperienced.

Also, even if all this does happen and they do behave themselves, could you ever convince their acquaintances that it was OK? — Manny Tobe

Dear Manny Tobe: I would take a dim view. No matter how innocent her intentions, she is asking for trouble — not to mention the loss of a reputation through gossip, whether or not such censure is deserved.

Ask Doris for the information you need. If she doesn't know she'll find out from one of her consultants. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Ann Landers

Pregnancy Follows Adoption of Baby

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I tried unsuccessfully for six years to have a family. She became so depressed about her inability to have a child that our physician strongly recommended adoption and agreed to help us.

Six months ago the physician told us of an out-of-wedlock baby he was due to deliver and he asked if we wanted it. We jumped at the chance. The baby is now three months old, healthy, beautiful and has changed our lives completely.

Last week my wife began to complain of nausea in the morning and dizzy spells at night. Yesterday she went to the doctor. She is nearly three months pregnant. I was delighted with the news, but she is a nervous wreck. She insists she cannot manage two babies so close together and we must give up either the adopted baby or the newborn infant. She can't decide which, but she says it's got to be one or the other.

What do you say? — DOUBLE DAD.

DEAR DAD: Many women manage with two and even three babies less than a year apart. If you give your wife the encouragement she needs she will make it through this difficult period with flying colors. I promise you, a year from today she wouldn't take a million dollars for either of the babies, and please tell her I said so.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There are four children in our family, the oldest 17, the youngest 8. They all have different ideas when it comes to what to watch on TV. My husband is a sports nut. I like the documentaries and the good news programs.

Our 17-year-old says the best way to put an end to the nightly arguments is to let the majority rule, as this is the most democratic way. Naturally, this would assure victory for his choice as he and my husband and the 15-year-old boy would vote for the sports event. What do you say? — BATTLING BERTHA.

DEAR BERT: I endorse Sydney Hook's famous words, "The majority rule is not reasonable in a family of small children, a prison, or an institution of the feeble-minded."

Sunday, sit down with the TV listings and at a family conference decide on the week's viewing. No one will be completely satisfied, of course, but each will get his first choice at some point during the week, and the family will have a reasonably balanced TV diet.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A certain woman in this office (I will call her Mary Do-Good) is forever coming around asking for a dollar to buy flowers for the office manager's mother, or a shower gift for the cashier's daughter, or a wedding gift for the girl in accounting, or a retirement gift or a funeral wreath or heaven knows what. Anyway, the list is endless and I am sick of it.

Is there a gracious way to get out of this sort of thing? What does a person say — especially when others are giving, even though reluctantly? — BLED WHITE.

DEAR WHITE: There is nothing mandatory about kicking in for office collections. In fact I once heard it described as similar to "being nibbled to death by a duck." If you resent being asked for money so often, simply be truthful and say, "Sorry, but I'm not interested in this project. It's not the principle of the thing — it's the money."

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Kindergarten teachers spend hours every winter helping their little pupils put on and take off their wraps.

Teachers need their energy and time for teaching subjects that cannot be taught just as well at home. Putting on a coat is not one of them.

Teach your pre-school child how to put on his coat and button it up and how to fasten his boots.

DUNDAS STREET WEST, BELLEVILLE

Cunard's QE2 Will Not Match Luxury of Old Queens of Sea

LONDON (CP) — The rich will still, in Scott Fitzgerald's phrase, be different from the rest in Britain's, comparatively classless Queen Elizabeth 2. They have more money.

But the difference won't be nearly as marked as in the old triple-class Queens with their extremes of luxury and spartan accommodation in first class quarters. There will be no First Class Only gates, but five restaurants will be demarcated only by their price lists, and shows all the quality of the staterooms has been levelled in a manner undreamed of by oldtime ocean travellers.

At least some of the credit for this rubs off on Priscilla Lady Tweedsmuir, daughter-in-law of Canada's pre-war Governor-General. As a Cunard director who advised the 10-man design team for the 58,000-ton liner now filling out to sail next January, Lady Tweedsmuir brought a woman's practical eye to many of the furnishings and fittings.

"We've nothing like tourist class on the old Queen Elizabeth," she said, showing a reporter a mock-up of a tourist-price cabin at a London exhibition of the new Cunarder's decor.

Certainly the two-passenger cabin on show, with its yellow tweed curtains, white textured plastic walls, berths designed like day-beds, capacious wardrobes and private bathroom is far superior to accommodation in its price range—about $260—on the old Queens.

The QE2 will operate two-class on the Atlantic and classless on cruises, where she will spend two-thirds of her time. Fully air-conditioned, she has been designed to switch overnight from Atlantic to Mediterranean conditions.

Only one-tenth of her $78,000,000 cost has been spent on the interior, but the designers are confident she will be as impressive a showcase of British quality as the Queen Mary was in her day.

But the wealthy won't be able to live it up in such style as they did on the Mary with her richly-panelled, spacious staterooms and gilded public rooms. Times have changed and passengers no longer want to "show themselves off as in a theatre," said design chief Dennis Lennon.

The fact that the QE2 is 100 feet shorter and 25,000 tons smaller than her elder sisters, yet carries the same number of passengers, shows that space had to be sacrificed, though progress in ship design and modern compact machinery also helped.

The rare, inlaid woods, bronze ornaments and velvet drapes of the Queen Mary, epitome of 1930s luxury, have been replaced by the kind of furnishings you would find in a modern international hotel chain.

The 48 "de luxe" cabins have wood veneer, fabric and mirror-glass walls. The tourist lounge, which doubles as a night club, has walls covered in grey flannel like a man's suit. Other imaginative modern furnishing fabrics like suede are a feature.

The QE2 main lounge, like that on the Mary, is two decks high, but instead of the Mary's massive maplewood pillars, a curving staircase sweeps down from the upper tier of the room with its cabaret stage to the lower-level dance floor. The Mary's luxurious country-house armchairs are replaced in QE2 by red, geometric modern seating that recalls an airport departure lounge.

If the old grandeur has gone, an air of lightness and gaiety has replaced it. The public rooms are situated in the high aluminum superstructure, commanding wide views of the sea. At night the promenade decks will become extensions of them.

"When I go to sea, I like to see the sea," Lady Tweedsmuir told reporters at a preview—and three-quarters of the 2,025 passengers will be able to do that from their cabins.

The QE2 will have traditional wood furniture, and the metal fittings of American and Continental liners.

The new Cunarder will be as fast as the old Queens with half their power and half their fuel costs.

But with twin-screw engines, she will never beat the speed record of the 35-knot United States. The Blue Riband of the Atlantic has lost importance in the supersonic age.

Travel Questions, Answers

BY THE ONTARIO MOTOR LEAGUE

We like to put the following story in at least once a year. This is to remind people to drive with a safe and careful attitude. This is not a pleasant story.

Photographed at 1,000 frames a second, motion pictures were made of an automobile striking a tree at 55 miles an hour, a speed most motorists consider "safe".

It's the kind of a crash that would happen to anyone. It's the kind that can be prevented.

The story paints that picture of what happens in the split second when the car hits the tree.

For best effects, read it aloud.

One - tenth of a second — Front bumper and chrome fronting of grille collapse. Steel slivers penetrate tree one - and - a - half inches.

Two - tenths of a second — Hood crumples, rises, smashing into windshield. Spinning rear wheels leave the ground. Grille disintegrates. Fenders come into contact with the tree, forcing parts to spray out over the front door. Driver's body continues to move forward with a force 20 times that of gravity. His body now weighs 3,200 pounds. His legs, held straight out, snap at the knees.

Three - tenths of a second — Driver's body now off the seat torso upright. Plastic and steel frame of the steering wheel bend under his death grip. His head is near the sunvisor, his chest above the steering column.

Four - tenths of a second — Car's front 24 inches completely demolished, but the rear end is still travelling at 35 miles an hour. The half - ton motor block crunches into the tree. Rear of the car, like a bucking horse, rises high enough to scrape bark off the lower branches.

Five - tenths of a second — Driver's hands bend steering wheel shaft. Lungs and intercostal arteries are punctured.

Six - tenths of a second — Driver's feet are ripped out of laced shoes. The brake pedal shears off at the floor. Chassis bends in the middle. The driver's head rams into the windshield. Rear of the car begins falling.

Seven - tenths of a second — The entire body of the car is forced out of shape. Hinges tear, doors spring open, seat rams forward pinning driver against steering shaft.

He is dead.

KIT BAGGED

TOKYO (AP) — A kit bag Cuban Premier Minister Fidel Castro carried before he came to power in 1959 has found its way into Hanoi's Vietnam Revolution Museum, the Vietnam news agency reported. The North Vietnamese report said Castro presented the bag to Ngo Thi Tuyet, "an elite guerrilla woman" of the Viet Cong, when she visited Havana in July, 1967.

Winners Get Vancouver Trip

Teen Scientists, Hobbyists Get Set for Show

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

The wheels of the Rotary Club's Fourth Annual Science Fair and Hobby Show are in full motion as the show on March 29 and 30 draws closer.

Likewise, hobbyists are planning and readying their displays as potential scientists complete their projects.

Four science winners stand to receive all-expense paid trips to Vancouver to compete in the Canada-Wide Science Fair in May.

In addition, cash awards for primary school entries, secondary school entries and group entries will be presented.

Among the hobby exhibits that will be present at the end of the month in the Belleville Armories, are collections of stuffed animals from a Wellington-area taxidermist and a model assortment made by a 13-year-old Belleville boy.

Jake DeVries, taxidermist has been practising the art for 15 or 16 years, "going a little heavier at it since 1958".

His basement is well-stocked with birds, fish, and other animals. Some of them have been supplied by the Department of Lands and Forests.

Mr. DeVries collection of area ducks is quite extensive. About 20 different species are hung on the walls, some of them shot by himself.

He started his taxidermist's education by taking a course in the United States.

Standard in the operations of stuffing an animal is the removing of the intestines which are replaced by a mold.

Some of Mr. DeVries' work is so intricate that the body size is as large as a hummingbird's, "the size of a good-sized bean."

He still considers his art a hobby, working on it only on nights and weekends.

Therefore work on a bear-cub or wolf such as the ones Mr. DeVries has in his basement takes him quite awhile. These animals usually take about 25 to 30 hours, not counting the drying period.

On the other hand a duck takes only five hours although it needs two weeks to dry.

The pride of Mr. DeVries collection is a mute swan which he stuffed. The swan, generally found in Europe is a semi-domesticated bird usually found in parks. Mr. DeVries obtained it after it was shot.

For the younger set a 13-year-old boy, Fred Keegan, of Belleville, will illustrate the art of making plastic models.

Fred is a grade seven Sir Mackenzie Bowell student who started his hobby when he was "four or five".

Airplanes were his first interest due mainly to the fact that he lived on an airforce base. Fred finds that building such models instills a great amount of knowledge in his mind about the particular subject on which he is working.

He started on naval craft when he was eight and now has many large ships to illustrate his progress. Fred figures that by now he has made about 200 odd models, including airplanes, ships, tanks, and even dinosaurs.

A member of the Sea Cadets, here in Belleville, he learns information which has helped him in the corps.

Some of his models are not hard to complete, but most take a lot of time and energy, such as an atomic submarine which took him two months to finish.

What's more, keeping the collection in repair is quite a job as the materials are easily broken and the glue dries out after a period of time.

Fred has learned many tricks of the trade. He makes extensive use of body putty and ordinary wax to repair or modify many of his models.

Many of the science projects for the fair will come from the Belleville area public schools and high schools.

Among the Moira projects is a water purification illustration and construction, defining five processes which filter and purify water.

Built by Kenneth McCauley, 15, a grade ten student, the project contains five tanks, the first illustrates coagulation wherein "alum is added to the water to help settle the dirt in the bottom faster."

After dirt has settled a plug is pulled and the water is released into the next tank where filtration takes place.

In this tank the water passes through layers of sand and gravel and deposits dirt on the sand. The water then drains into the next tank through a screen in the bottom.

After it is filtered, water remains in the last tank where it is clorinated.

The project took Kenneth one month to complete.

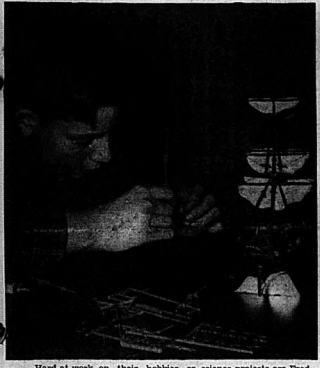
Michael Murphy, another grade ten student has built a phonograph apparatus, made simply of cans and nails.

The idea is to yell in the first can which is representative of a transmitter. The can is joined by a nail to a metal diaphram. The nail causes indentations in the aluminum foil on the diaphram. The noises are reproduced and sent back out another can which serves as a receiver.

Glenn Brown, also of Moira, has built a "midget Oudin-Tesla Coil" which is a high frequency generator used to change a low voltage direct current into a high voltage alternating current.

According to Glenn, current starts from a power pack and then advances to a T-coil where the spark jumps a gap on top of the coil.

Next in line is a capicitor from which the current is shot up to a primary coil and then to a secondary coil by the means of induction. There it jumps another gap. By then it is high voltage alternating current.



Heather Wood, a grade ten student as well, has constructed a simulation of an automobile ignition system.

A knife switch is pushed down and a contact wheel is turned which hits a copper strip causing it to touch a metal hook. Consequently there is a spark between the two electrodes.

The apparatus can be used to treat cigarette paper as well.

Hard at work on their hobbies or science projects are Fred Keegan, Kenneth McCauley and Glenn Brown. Fred will be exhibiting his model collection which he started when he was four years old. Here he works on one of naval projects. Kenneth

McCauley will be exhibiting a water purification project which took him one month to complete. The endeavor illustrates the five different methods of filtering and purifying water. Glenn Brown has built a device which changes low voltage direct current into high voltage alternating current by forcing it through a series of coils and over a pair of gaps.

Belleville Barber Retires

Way, Way Back -- When Haircuts Cost A Mere Two Bits

By ROY PEACOCK
(Staff Reporter)

Shave and a haircut, two bits.

So went the old ditty indicating going rates at local barbershops shortly after the turn of the century.

But with haircuts now costing $1.75 and shaves an equivalent rate, it hardly seems possible that at one time both could be had for a mere 25 cents.

However, that was the case and a local barber who recently hung up his scissors after 60 years at the trade well remembers cutting hair for 15 cents and giving a shave for a dime.

He is Arthur Skinner, 77, of 57 Dunbar Street, who at Christmas time bowed out as active partner in the Skinner Brothers barbershop at 338 Front Street. The other brother, Allan, will continue the shop and expects to hire a barber to man the second chair.

The original Skinner barbershop was on lower Front Street directly opposite Ed Thomas' tobacco shop.

It was here that Jim Skinner opened his first barbershop and where he trained three brothers-in-law in the barber trade.

But back in the 1880s lower Front Street apparently was not a good location for a barber shop and the trade passed him by to patronize shops further up the street.

A complete day's take of 10 cents for a single shave convinced the elder Mr. Skinner that it was time to move and he opened a shop further up the street at the site of the present Royal Bank.

Mr. Skinner taught his three sons, Arthur, Charles and Allan the art of barbering. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner lived at the back of the shop and it was only natural that their three sons grew up to be barbers.

That was in the days when barber chairs were stationary affairs standing solidly on their four legs, when customers' individual shaving mugs stood row on row in glass covered cases and when electric lights were still in the future.

Back in the "good old days" barbers put in long hours with 16 hour days not uncommon.

"Barbershops stayed open until 11 o'clock at night and there no Wednesdays off," recalls Mr. Skinner.

Neither were there any electric clippers and although hand clippers had been introduced most haircutting was still being done with comb and scissors.

Over the years the location of the Skinner Bros. barbershop has been changed several times but the present Upper Front street address is likely to be the last.

Brotherly Touch

Arthur Skinner, now retired after 60 years of barbering in Belleville, cuts brother Allan's hair. Skinner Bros. shop dates back to 1880's.

They say the shock was felt in the subways, the low flying aircraft and the earth quivered gently in Toronto's outer limits when the news broke that Frank Mahovlich had been traded to Detroit in a six-player swap between Leafs and the Red Wings.

Nothing has hit staid ole Tawrawuta so hard since Hurricane Hazel cha-cha'd through its innards a few years back.

The shock waves rippled far into the hinterlands where Maple Leaf fans dwell and left their impact on hockey fans all over Canada regardless of their affiliation with teams in the National League.

Here in the city, habitues of the watering-places, lounges, pool salons, drawing rooms, messes and wherever fans gather, the reaction at first was that of the Irishman viewing his first giraffe. "It's a dam lie — there ain't no such thing."

Fans are funny — and fickle. Not so long ago the Toronto faithful rose on their haunches and booed Mahovlich long and loud. Other times they cheered. But the boos had a permanent anchorage in the mental stream of the Big M.

When the news broke of his trade to the Red Wings, the Hogtown sportwriters at Maple Leaf Gardens rose in their wrath in protest. And likely many of them were the Joes and Janes who whistled and booed the Leaf superstar when he failed to live up to their expectations.

They jammed the Gardens' switchboards with protests. They milled around the entrance to the arena. They wanted to know who they could write letters of protest to.

However the deal did bring to light the fact, one suspected by hockey men and fans alike, that all was not honey, beer and skittles between Mahovlich and Punch Imlach, the abolished manager-coach of the Leafs.

Imlach is a hard taskmaster — and wants the best of his players at all times. As one wag quipped to me quite recently when talking about his prolonged Leafless slump, "What's wrong with the Leafs?" I'll tell you. Get rid of Imlach and you'll find out."

Mahovlich revealed after the deal was promulgated that he and Imlach were not exactly "blood brothers" or bosom pals on and off his ice. Perhaps this is partly the reason for the Big M's disappointing showing with the Leafs the past few years.

Remember, the Leafs need almost a miracle to get into the playoffs this year and and that fact doesn't rest entirely on the Imlach mind. If there is any sentiment in hockey, pro or amateur, there is no place for it when a club is battling for playoff survival and the glory and gold of the Stanley Cup.

It looks here as if the miserable scoreless showing of the Leafs the past weeks forced Imlach's hand, backed by the front office brass. The Toronto coach does not take the possibility of elimination sitting down. He is not used to it.

And remember, being out of the playoffs means not only loss of prestige and pride but the gloss and flood of dollars that run into the coffers of the club that survives the semi-finals and goes on to Cup triumph.

And remember this too, the showing of Mahovlich was not wholly due to existing conditions between coach and player.

As one writer puts it:— "Mahovlich has always had the physical equipment to become one of the greats of the game, but he has been a disappointment to the Leafs. He has looked so good at times that the Black Hawks' brass offered a million for him. But he has never developed into the leader the Leafs expected him to be."

"He is extraordinarily sensitive for a pro athlete. Everything he hears, every criticism by the press and management, the fans' boos and his own feeling of inadequacy when he is not scoring. It isn't that he doesn't care; he cares too much. Once he wound up in hospital. The one piece of equipment he lacks is a thicker skin."

Be that as it may. The Leafs' former scoring cocoon may turn into a sharpshooting butterfly with (no pun intended) a new set of wings. A mind is like a strong bark; take a load off it and the work becomes easier and faster.

I wouldn't be surprised to see Mahovlich in the new environment revert to the form that enabled him to score 48 goals some years back.

Speaking of scoring, I think the Leafs got the best of the six-man deal. Ullman, Henderson and Smith come with fine potting records, a heluva lot better than the Leafs they replaced.

Dealers' Choices On Spot Tonight!

Habs Whip Kings

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There may be more important games in the National Hockey League tonight, but the arm-chair coaches will be watching with interest the games in New York and Toronto.

The Rangers entertain Detroit Red Wings in their new Madison Square Garden while Toronto is host to Philadelphia Flyers in two of five games.

It will be the first chance fans have to see how players involved in the surprise Toronto-Detroit trade Monday fare in their new uniforms.

Frank Mahovlich, Peter Stemkowski and Gary Unger went to Detroit in exchange for centre Normie Ullman and wingers Floyd Smith and Paul Henderson.

Toronto coach Punch Impach, with his usual flare of flamboyancy, hinted Tuesday he'd play the Ullman-Smith-Henderson unit to start tonight's game against the Flyers.

There were reports that Mahovlich will line up with Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio to give the Wings, last in the Eastern Division, one of hockey's most potent scoring lines.

Other games on tap tonight have Montreal Canadiens visiting Oakland Seals, Chicago Black Hawks at home against Boston Bruins in a battle for third place in the Eastern Division, and Pittsburgh Penguins at St. Louis against the Blues. The Penguins trail St. Louis by two points in their bid for a fourth and final playoff position in the West.

The Canadiens will be looking to put their Eastern lead following a 6-2 victory over Los Angeles Kings Tuesday in the only scheduled game.

The Canadiens, who snapped a four-game winless streak with the victory, now lead New York by five points. Chicago is another two points back, one ahead of Boston.

Thursday night, for the second game in a row, a Philadelphia home game will be played away from home—this time in Toronto against the Bruins. Sunday they played in New York.

The roof of their $12,000,000 Spectrum had holes blown in it by high winds for the second time in two weeks Friday and city officials have closed the structure indefinitely.

Other Thursday games have Oakland at Los Angeles and Pittsburgh in Minnesota to play the North Stars.

The Canadiens spread their goals liberally Tuesday with Ralph Backstrom, Jean Beliveau, Bobby Rousseau, John Ferguson, Gilles Tremblay and Yvan Cournoyer sharing scoring honors.

The Kings got both their goals from centre Ed Joyal in the second period after the Canadiens had blitz a 3-0 first-period lead before 14,460 fans, the second largest crowd to watch a hockey game in the new Los Angeles Forum.

Clippers Clipped By Canucks

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Baltimore Clippers had any ideas about using Western Hockey League opponents to insure their American League playoff hopes, they've had a change of heart.

The Clippers, on a current Western road trip, lost their third in five west coast starts Tuesday night, 7-1, to Vancouver Canucks.

Baltimore trails the AHL's Eastern Division with 54 points, one behind Providence Reds, who are in the third and final playoff position.

Belinsky Says He Won't Make the Club

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Houston Astros' pitcher Bo Belinsky doesn't think he will make the team this season.

But the colorful left-hander thinks he might be traded in a deal that would be satisfactory to both Belinsky and the team.

"I got to really feel I won't make the club," he said. "It's pretty well set. They've got a lot of fine young pitchers in camp.

"But I think they have hopes some favorable deal might be worked out that would be good for both of us," he added. "Atlanta, for instance, could use some left-handed pitching. So could some others. This is how things stand. . . .

"I saw the handwriting on the wall," he continued. "I'm 31 years old and they put me on the Oklahoma City roster after last season. I can put two and two together."

Provost Blake In Court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Hector (Toe) Blake of Montreal Canadiens and player Claude Provost were arraigned Tuesday on charges of assaulting a Los Angeles fan with a hockey stick Nov. 19 last during a National Hockey League game at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Blake, 55, and Provost, 34, appeared in municipal court and were ordered by Judge Joan Dempsey Klein to appear May 20 for preliminary hearing.

The defendants were charged with one count of assault with a deadly weapon. The complaint was signed by Bernard Weitman, 30, a salesman from Northridge, Calif., who said he suffered head injuries.

Weitman and Margaret G Ottens, 37, of Granada Hills, also sued the two Canadians, the Montreal and Los Angeles hockey clubs, the National Hockey League and the City of Los Angeles. Weitman asked $400,000 damages and Mrs Ottens $250,000 in the civil action filed Monday.

Richest Harness Horse

Cardigan Bay Has Golden Hoofs

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Cardigan Bay became the richest horse in harness racing history Tuesday night by winning the $30,000 Provincial Cup at Windsor Raceway.

The New Zealand-bred pacer picked up $15,000 and boosted his lifetime earnings to $932,371, surpassing the retired Bret Hanover's earnings of $922,616.

It was the second straight Provincial Cup victory for Cardigan Bay, purchased by driver Stanley Dancer of New Egypt, Pa., and Ivo Berkemeyer of North Milford, N.J., in 1964 for $100,000.

The then 12-year-old gelding had earned $130,000 on New Zealand and Australian tracks and owned a time of 1:57.2.

Driven by Dancer Tuesday, Cardigan Bay covered the mile in 2:00 1-5 and won going away by 9¼ lengths. Last year, he was timed in 2:01.

A 1-6 favorite, he paid $2.80, $2.80 and $2.10 for the victory before 7,118 fans.

Jesta Hill, owned by A. B. Hanson of Santa Monica, Calif., and driven by Jacques Grenier, was second while Dancing David, owned in partnership by Farrington Stables of Richwood, Ohio, and the Arnold Cattle Co., of Geneseo, Ill., and driven by Pierre Filion of Montreal was third.

Pulling out of third spot in the eight-horse field, Cardigan Bay trailed Philip Brian, who moved into an early lead. Dancing David and Lynden Butler.

Dancer led Cardigan Bay to the outside, however, and he moved up into fourth lead by the time the horses hit the three-quarter pole.

Dancer, 46, was first discovered Cardigan Bay from a picture in a harness horse trade magazine, was enthusiastic after the triumph.

Fort Worth Beaten By Memphis

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Memphis South stars defeated Fort Worth Wings 4-1 in the Central Hockey League Tuesday night.

Pete Panagakis, Steve Sutherland and Germain Gagnon, with two goals, scored for Memphis in the first period and Doug Roberts knocked in Fort Worth's counter.

Whip Woodstock 6-1

Aces Grab 3-2 Lead!

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston Aces exploded for four goals in the third period Tuesday to defeat Woodstock Aleans 6-1 and take a 3-2 lead in best-of-seven quarter-finals in Ontario Hockey Association Senior series playoffs.

The Aleans, playing without six regulars, including goalie Al Bennett, ran out of steam in the final frame and allowed three goals in the last 10 minutes.

The six players were unable to make the trip because of work.

Al Culic - a former Cleveland Baron setminder in the American Hockey League, filled in for Bennett and held the Aces to two goals in the first two periods.

Eddie Long, Bob Collins, Charlie Convery, Bob Rawson, Syl Apps Jr. and John Ford scored for the Aces.

Wayne Boddy scored the Woodstock goal. Woodstock, now on the brink of elimination, return home for the sixth game Friday.

Knudson; Wait for Masters

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Will sudden success-consecutive victories on the money-paved professional golf road spoil George Knudson?

Not if that means that the pursuit of gold will ever replace the Canadian redhead's family as his first love.

A real homebody, he confessed during a warmup for this week's $100,000 Doral Open that: "When I walk out that door in Toronto, I feel like turning around and going right back in again."

Although he is the year's leading money winner, Knudson says he'll go right on with his practice of jumping the tour for weeks at a time to be with his wife and children.

In fact, after next week's tournament at Orlando, he'll go home to sit it out until the Masters at Augusta, Ga.

In successive victories at Phoenix and Tucson, the 30-year-old Knudson ran his bank account for the year to $50,310, including $45,000 in official tournaments.

Never before had he captured two tournaments in an entire season.on the main tour. In nine years as a pro, he had taken home the winner's check only four times. His biggest money season was 1967 when he won $40,832 in PGA events. »

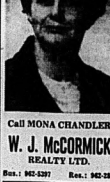
Petes, Nats Score Upsets

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes pulled off one of two upsets in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Tuesday and clinched the eighth and final playoff position in the 10-team league.



The Petes dumped Hamilton Red Wings 5-2 to move five points ahead of the Oshawa Generals, who only have two games remaining.

Oshawa and Ottawa 67s, in last place, are the two teams out of the running for the playoffs which start next week.

London Nationals took revenge on the first-place Kitchener Rangers by trouncing them 6-4. On Sunday the Rangers swamped the Nationals 9-3. London's upset victory snapped the Rangers' five-game winning streak.

In the only other game, Montreal Junior Canadiens moved to within one point of Kitchener with a 3-0 win over St. Catharines Black Hawks.

Ullman Joins '7' Greats!

TORONTO (CP) — No. 8, the sweater worn by most National Hockey League greats when he makes his first appearance with Toronto Maple Leafs against Philadelphia Flyers tonight.

Ullman came to Toronto from Detroit Red Wings with Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith in exchange for Frank Mahovlich, Peter Stemkowski, Gary Unger and the playing rights for defenceman Carl Brewer earlier this week.

The last Toronto player to wear the number was Andy Bathgate, who was traded to Detroit in 1965.

Other Leaf greats who have worn the number included Ted Kennedy and the late Charlie Conacher. It also is worn by Gordie Howe of the Red Wings, the NHL's greatest scorer, and Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks who holds the record for most goals in one season, 54.

Status Probe May Force World Top Skiers To Form Pro Body

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

French skiing ace Jean-Claude Killy's amateur status is being questioned by the International Skiing Federation.

But the federation's probings may see an exodus of the worlds top skiers for a more richly rewarding professional ski circuit.

Killy, winner of three alpine medals at this year's Winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, has long been a rumored recipient of prizes and money over and above the amount allotted under Olympic rules.

The federation alleged Monday that Killy had accepted money from a French publication, Paris Match, for exclusive use of his pictures and has given him until Friday "to show cause why he should not be suspended."

Killy and the publication both deny the charges being investigated by the French National Ski Federation. Maurice Martel, federation president, said in St. Gervais he was confident Killy could prove his amateur status and thus not be stripped of his international honors and not forbidden to compete in meets sanctioned by the FIS and its affiliates.

But it all became almost academic when French skier Leo Lacroix announced in Bijon, France, that he, Killy and Guy Perillat were turning professional next year anyhow.

Lacroix didn't go into details, but in Montreal Verne Anderson, coach of the Canadian team in Grenoble, did shed some light on the matter.

Anderson, who retired as team coach following the Games to devote full time to his duties as vice-president of a French firm manufacturing ski boots, said the Killy investigation could be decisive in launching a new professional skiing circuit next season.

Reviewing the future of alpine skiing in the light of the investigation, Anderson said that "the top amateur skiers in the world have been talking about forming a professional circuit for next season" and that the confrontation over commercialism "could just be the deciding factor."

Anderson said that, in fact, there are no amateur skiers in international competition. "Anyone who skis for nine months in the year has to be professional.

There is heavy pressure from the manufacturers to bring about pro racing. They have millions of dollars invested in the sport and under current amateur rules are entitled to little or no return."

Twin Show Big Success

Boxing Given Needed Shot - In - Arm!

NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing bobbled with revived spirit today and looked ahead to a series of top calibre matches.

The highly successful twin title show in the new Madison Square Garden Monday night, in which Joe Frazier stopped Buster Mathis, and Nino Benvenuti edged Emile Griffith, may have touched off a fresh boom in the often kicked-around sport.

Cassius Clay said boxing would die when he left. Well, the corpse had a lively time Monday night when 18,096 fans paid from $10 to $100 in contributing to a record indoor gate of $658,503.

Frazier collected $175,000 and New York, Massachusetts, Maine and Illinois' recognition as heavyweight champion while stopping Mathis with a short, jolting left hook to the temple in the 11th round.

The Philadelphia slugger's manager, Yancey Durham, talked about possible lucrative matches with the winner of the Jerry-Quarry-Jimmy Ellis World Boxing Association title fight April 27, and with Floyd Patterson, Boone Kirkman of Seattle, Wash., Manuel Ramos of Mexico and Argentine Eduardo Corletti.

Benvenuti, back at the top as middleweight champion, may take on Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, Luis Rodriguez of Miami, Fla., or Gypsy Joe Harris of Philadelphia in his next title fight.

Durham said the unbeaten Frazier, winner of 20 fights including 18 knockouts, would have to get at least equal terms with the WBA winner.

Harry Markson and Teddy Brenner, who head the Garden's boxing team, said they have signed light heavyweight champion Dick Tiger and Bob Foster, the knockout contender from Washington, for a title bout in the Gardens, possibly for May 24.

Worlds Fastest Yachts

"Red Sails In The Sunset"

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP-AP) — A whisper of a breeze gently nudged 96 of the world's fastest yachts toward the Nassau finish line Tuesday in one of the closest recorded Miami-to-Nassau races.

The 184-mile race, next to last of the six-race South Ocean Racing Conference series, began Monday with a Toronto yacht leading the series with two victories.

Moving up one yacht from her early Tuesday position of sixth in the fleet was the Class B Red Jacket, a 40-foot yacht owned and skippered by Perry Connolly of Toronto.

With a handicap of three hours 56 minutes, Red Jacket was making a strong bid for victory in the corrected-time standings.

At last report Tuesday, the fleet was averaging about four knots. Officials were predicting that it might be as late as today before the leading yacht—probably the Class B Bolero, a 73-foot yawl—would cross the finish line.

Quinte League Playoffs

Stars, Stinsons Stab Wins

Aluminum Stars shaded Grant Realty 5-4 and Stinson Construction shut out Belvedere Hotel 3-0 in Quinte Hockey League semi-finals action last night.

It was the Stars first win in the best of seven series. Grant Realty record now stands at three wins, one loss and one tie.

Belvedere holds a slight edge on Stinsons in the playoffs standing having won one, lost one and tied three.

The series is the best-of-seven or first eight points. The sixth games are slated for the arena tomorrow night.

Jim McGuire assisted by Rick Denard; Don Forsythe with help from John McKibbon and Leroy McBrien assisted by Pete Mitchell scored the Stinson goals.

The teams shared six penalties. Garry Genereaux of Stinsons was given a minor, misconduct and a match misconduct while McKibbon also drew a misconduct penalty.

A couple of fistic brawls marked the Realty 6-3 win over Aluminums.

Don Adams of Grants drew a major for battling with Albert Lestini drawing a major and a game misconduct for fighting.

Brian Musgrave of the Stars got a major as did Fred Polesky for brawling.

Court Brailey had a goal and assist for the Realtors, Doug Bolte, Roy Bunsten and Larry Stewart also scoring. Bob Ethier and Brian Allen drew assists.

The stars shared the scoring, Al Rutten, Jack Donovan, Hubert Pointer, Don Moore and Roy Post doing the honors.

Garry Cameron had two assists, Moore, Post, Donovan and Polesky getting singles.

BCI, Quinte Seek Honors

Three Belleville basketball teams journey to Oshawa this weekend to compete in the annual COSSA playoffs.

BCI fields two of this year's COSSA-bound clubs. BCI's senior and junior squads carried home the Bay of Quinte title in each of their respective divisions, the seniors with a perfect record, and the juniors with just one loss.

Quinte sends this year's bantam representatives. To reach the playoffs, the Quinte squad, which lost two regular-season contests, had to turn back Centennial in a two-game, total-point playoff.

Coach Rick Locke's Quinte squad has the earliest starting time of the Belleville clubs. They meet the top bantam squad from the Lake Ontario division at 9:00 a.m.

Coach Red Townsend's BCI juniors take on the second place Lake Ontario junior team at 1:30 p.m. Coach Wally Beevor's BCI seniors meet the top senior team from the Lake Ontario division at 3:00 p.m.

All games in the tournament will be played at Oshawa Central Collegiate.

Saskatchewan Heading For Title Timber

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Bob Pickering and is Saskatchewan rink from Avonlea look more and more like a sure bet to win the 1968 Canadian curling championship.

The Western rink defeated Alan Smith of Charlottetown 11-8 Tuesday for its third consecutive victory and set the scene for a clash today with Alberta's Ron Northcott and his unbeaten Calgary team.

"Ron and I have met a lot of times," said Pickering, "but I think we can beat him if we can keep up this steady curling. I'm getting used to the ice now and the boys are curling well for me."

Northcott, world and Canadian champion in 1966, was not quite as confident.

"Pickering and his rink are all curling well. I consider it a 50-50 game If we like the ice and get a good start, we should be able to fix well. But it will be close all the way."

The Alberta rink recorded two victories in the third and fourth rounds Tuesday, but didn't look nearly as impressive as the Saskatchewan team.

Northcott downed Bill Tracy of Bagotville, Qcc., 9-8 in the morning and Jim Ayer of Fredericton 7-6 in the afternoon, but in both games Ayer and Trace had a chance to win in the last end.

Tracy was heavy with a draw in the morning, allowing Northcott a clear shot at two Quebec rocks on the four-foot ring while Ayer was light on a split shot in the final end that would have given him two and the victory.

Northcott blamed it partially on the ice, but said he was having difficulty with his takeouts.

In other fourth-round games Tuesday, Burke Parker of Gilbert Plains, Man., racked up the biggest score of the 11-rink, round-robin competition over Bill Piercey of St. John's, Nfld., 22-5.

Dr. Don Gilbert of St. Thomas, Ont., defeated Don Fleming of Halifax 7-4 in a close fourth-round match while Bob McCubbin of Richmond, B.C., downed Tracy 10-8.

In the morning, Smith edged Ayer 8-7, Fleming downed McCubbin 8-6, Gilbert beat Piercey 11-6 and Parker swamped Herb Pile's Northern Ontario rink from Geraldton 14-7.

The results left Alberta with a 4-0 record while Saskatchewan is 3-0, Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, Ontario and Manitoba have one loss, Northern Ontario and Nova Scotia have two defeats while New Brunswick, Newfoundland and Quebec are without a victory.

Today at 2:30 p.m. PST, Ontario played Quebec, Manitoba met Nova Scotia, Alberta took on Saskatchewan, Newfoundland played Northern Ontario and New Brunswick met British Colombia. Prince Edward Island had the bye.

Arrest Without Warrant Should Be Limited

TORONTO (CP) — The power to arrest without a warrant under the Highway Traffic Act and the Liquor Control Act should be restricted and warrants under provincial laws should be issued only when there is evidence a summons will not be effective, the legislature was told Tuesday.

James C. McRuer, in his first report on a four-year inquiry into civil rights in Ontario, made dozens of sweeping recommendations to provide the individual with safeguards against the exercise of powers under provincial law or statute.

He suggested tighter controls over the powers of investigation by statutory bodies and restrictions on the power of search and seizure, of stop and detain, of searching the person and of requiring witnesses to testify.

He proposed appeals from the decisions of investigating officers, a re-drafting of the Public Inquiries Act, and careful statement of the rights of persons under investigation.

The power to create offences for which a person could be arrested without warrant should never be delegated to the provincial cabinet or any minister, he said.

Arrests without warrant under the traffic act should be made only when the driver of a vehicle does not identify himself and when he has no legal right to have the vehicle on a highway.

Under the Liquor Control Act, arrest without warrant should be restricted to persons who, when committing an offence, refuse to give name and address or in cases of drunkenness where the person must be protected from injury to himself or others.

Persons living outside Ontario should be able to pay money as security for the attendance in court, to be applied against any fine levied in the case. This recommendation, Mr. McRuer said, should apply to offences under the traffic, liquor and fish and game acts.

Only if an accused is in hiding or cannot be found should warrants be issued for offences under provincial law, and applications for a warrant should state why a summons would be ineffective.

Police officers should be enabled to release persons arrested for provincial offences once they have been served with a notice to appear in court, the report said.

Where bail is necessary, arrested persons should be released on recognizance unless there is clear indication that injury to the accused or others might follow his release.

Sureties and money deposits should be required only in exceptional cases, and pledges of real property as security without legal technicalities should be permitted.

In arrests under the Criminal Code, the report says, there should be a minimum of delay in securing bail pending arraignment.

"Hundreds should not be made to suffer because of the risk of an occasional fraud."

The federal government should be asked to make similar provisions for the release of those charged with minor offences on delivery of a notice to appear for trial. But failure to appear should be made an offence under the Criminal Code.

Where there is an appeal from a conviction, the report says, the attorney general should determine whether bail can be granted pending the appeal.

The Summary Convictions Act should be changed to permit appeal from all convictions for offences under Ontario statutes without the necessity of making sureties for payment of fines and costs.

If a person is imprisoned without option of a fine, there should be a right for release on bail without sureties pending an appeal unless the need for some guarantee has been demonstrated.

McRuer Recommends Vast Overhaul of Ontario's Court System

TORONTO (CP) — A vast overhaul of the Ontario court system, including greater provincial financial and administrative responsibility for the courts, is recommended in the report of the royal commission inquiry into civil rights.

The recommendations of the commission also include a reorganization of the appeal jurisdictions of the courts, greater efficiency and speed in handling of criminal cases and a shift in the work load between the county and Supreme Courts.

The report says the province should assume financial and administrative responsibility for juvenile, family and division courts.

The appointments of all justices of the peace should be cancelled and only those with proper qualifications reappointed.

The report recommends that certain cases now heard by the Supreme Court, such as automobile injury cases, be shifted to county courts which would handle all cases involving claims of up to $10,000.

Serious criminal cases now heard by county courts would be shifted to the Supreme Court.

The proposed shift in cases is aimed at reducing the cost and length of time it takes to have a case heard by the Supreme Court, and to be sure that serious cases are heard by experienced judges.

The report says there is an "interminable delay" in administration of justice and says much of it could be prevented if there were improved supervision of the work of the courts.

It criticizes the lack of proper records showing when an accused is committed for trial, arraigned, his plea taken and the verdict given.

The report recommends an uniform province-wide system be established recording the work of individual courts, with monthly reports sent to the attorney-general. These reports would be open to public inspection.

The report says it is concerned with the length of time it takes to have appeals heard before the Ontario Court of Appeal, the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

It recommends establishment of an appellate division of the High Court of Justice, normally the Supreme Court's trial division. Jurisdiction of the two appeal divisions would be defined by statute.

The report suggestions that grand juries, which consider at closed hearings whether there is sufficient evidence to proceed with a trial before a judge and jury, could be abolished with their powers of evidence review given to the Supreme Court.

The grand jury function of inspecting jails and courtroom facilities could be turned over to the sheriff and other officers, the report says.

The report is critical of judges and magistrates performing paid duties in no way connected with their judicial functions. These include serving on licensing boards, police commissions, royal commissions and arbitration boards.

It recommends that they not accept assignments that could interfere with their regular duties and that they receive only their regular salary and allowances.

In recommending provincial responsibility for lower courts, the report says the present jurisdictional boundaries related to municipal boundaries could be replaced with boundaries based on population, convenience and facilities.

Those Hurt Aiding Law Deserve Compensation

TORONTO (CP) — Simple justice demands that the province compensate citizens who suffer injury or property damage while enforcing the law, says a report of a royal commission inquiry into civil rights.

The report by J. C. McRuer, tabled in the Ontario legislature Tuesday, says compensation should go to persons who have either assisted police officers, or attempted an arrest on their own.

Where the right to compensation, or the amount, can not be settled by negotiation, it should be taken before the courts. The right of compensation should be extended to dependents in the event of a victim's death.

Redress for Innocent Urged

TORONTO (CP) — The McRuer commission on civil rights describes legal remedies currently available to persons imprisoned for crimes of which they are subsequently proven not guilty as "all but meaningless."

The commission recommends compensation for these persons saying the cabinet would be empowered to make compensatory payments to claimants whose innocence was clearly established by a tribunal of Ontario Supreme Court judges.

Ontario law permits civil actions for false arrest, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution. But the report says the law is hedged about with too many safeguards to make it effective for providing compensation to persons wrongfully charged.

If the province accepts the recommendation it would be the first jurisdiction in Canada to adopt a comprehensive statutory scheme of compensation for wrongful convict on.

It Really is "MAINLY BECAUSE OF THE MEAT." Here are the facts!

There is another way to get hamburg as good as DOMINION hamburg: ...mince it yourself!

But first... ask the Dominion meat man for his approved formula. That's right! Even you can mince hamburg as good as Dominion hamburg. But remember... it's the Dominion formula that makes the difference. Mind you, there's no secret about our formula. We're just mighty particular about what we put into it. We mince our hamburg the way you would mince it yourself. We take meaty cuts of beef together with just enough "finish" to preserve the full natural meat flavour and mince it freshly each day. Imagine... juicy, delicious Dominion hamburgers topped with your favorite garnish. OR — maybe you'd like to add some bread crumbs... a few spices... or a tangy tomato sauce — and serve up a delicious, taste-tempting variety of economical menu-makers that will have the whole family asking for more. You'll never have to make excuses for serving hamburg again if you shop Dominion, where you get hamburg "just as good" as if you had minced it yourself.

Waterborne Mower

This 15-foot-long paddle-wheel boat can cut as much as 20 miles of weed a day in marshes. Manufacturered by John Wilder Ltd., Wallingford, Berkshire, England, the glass fibre craft is powered by a nine-horsepower gasoline engine. It draws only 10 inches of water. (CP Photo)

TV-Radio Column

Bolshoi Ballet, Clark Gable Vie for Viewers' Interest

NEW YORK (AP)—It is a musical event of importance when Artur Rubenstein, David Oistrakh and the Bolshoi Ballet appear together in one concert.

The occasion Tuesday night was CBS's 90-minute special, S. Hurok Presents. The program was presented with complete simplicity. It opened with Oistrakh playing the Bach Violin Concerto. The Bolshoi Corps de Ballet and three soloists then presented a portion of Adolph Adams' Giselle. The final, longest portion was the 77-year-old Rubenstein playing Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4 in full.

During the final portion, the camera became more active and investive, moving from close-ups of Rubenstein's face to his hands on the keyboard, also doing some double shots and focusing on some of the instrumentalists in the orchestra.

Since the Telephone Hour started it last season, the business of slipping middle-of-the-show commercials has become something of a TV status symbol. The sponsors of the Hurok show, a mutual fund, had only the briefest, soft-sell statement at the program's end, and in a curious innovation, gave the home viewers an intermission of absolute silence for a minute between the three segments of the program.

Earlier, NBC presented a summary of the career of the late Clark Gable. MGM, the studio for whom Gable made most of his films during his long career, produced the program and tagged it a documentary. Actually it consisted of bits from many of his films, a sketchy biography covering his personal life, and, most brief, but hardly incisive reminiscences by people who knew him then and later.

Despite the gushy, superficial writing, it was a fascinating show to watch. We saw Gable the lover—he gathered into his strong arms all the great women stars from the early 1930s to his death in 1960—from Garbo to Ava Gardner and Marilyn Monroe. We even saw him as Rhett Butler in Gone With the Wind—just a few clips from a film that has been withheld from TV broadcast.

Tonight is a big night for specials and ABC, with them all, has pre-empted its entire schedule to make room. The first is The Savage World of the Coral Jungle, 7:30-8:30 EST—second in the undersea series of Jacques-Yves Cousteau. Then comes a half-hour called The New Generation, that has Ryan O'Neal of Peyton Place interviewing Mia Farrow on her life and ideas. Princess Grace will be a tour guide on a musical trip around Monaco—9-10. Then comes the first of a three-part adaptation of William L. Shirer's massive history of Nazi Germany, The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich.

British Soccer

League Expels Sir Stanley

LONDON (AP) —Port Vale, the soccer team managed by Sir Stanley Matthews, was expelled from the English League today for making illegal payments to players.

The sentence was handed out by the management committee of the league following a joint inquiry by the league and the English Football Association.

It was the first blot on the long career of Matthews, 53, who had the reputation of being the first gentleman of English soccer. He never was admonished by a referee or sent off the field during his 33 years as a player.

Matthews retired from playing three years ago and was the first professional soccer player to be knighted. He became general manager of Port Vale, a Fourth Division team.

Expulsion is the most extreme penalty possible under the league rules.

Port Vale can apply for re-election, and it would then be up to the other clubs in the league to decide by voting whether Matthews' team can compete again next season.

The last team to be expelled was Leeds United, 49 years ago.

Cobourg Squares Hoop Final

Cobourg squared the Quinte Basketball League best-of-three final playoff series at one game apiece as they turned back the Belleville Teachers, 72-55, in Cobourg last night.

The match was almost even at half-time, but the home team pulled away in the second half, led by high schooler Jim Young, who scored 18 points. Also in double figures for Cobourg were Bill Scribe, with 14 points, and Ravensdale, with 11, and Don Day, 10.

Bruce Faulds paced the Belleville Teachers with 20 points. Other high scorers for the Teachers were Bill Latchford, with 10 points, and Nelson Banting, with 8.

The third game of the series is slated for Centennial S.S. Monday night at eight o'clock.

Tweed

TWEED — At the recent annual meeting of the Thomasburg Cemetery Board, the officers were re-elected for another year, they are: Harry Sherry, chairman; Cecil Geen, secretary-treasurer, Wilfred McTaggart, Samuel Fisher and Herman Elliot, directors. The auditors are Mrs. Joyce Fisher and Mrs. Freda Morton and Thomas Ball was re-appointed caretaker. The financial statement showed $2,200 in the current account, and $13,200 invested in the form of the perpetual care account, with the Victoria and Grey Trust Company, acting as trustee.

At the recent meeting of the Victoria Cemetery Board, Tweed, John O. Sager, chairman of the Board since it was formed 20 years ago, retired from office, Arelha Sinclair jr., Tweed, was elected chairman to replace Mr. Sager. Other board members are: secretary-treasurer, Gilbert Colton; superintendent, Lorne Hobbner; Merritt Metcalfe, Roy Hall, W. A. Donnelly, directors; John O. Sager, Harry Sherry and Arelha Sinclair, honorary members.

Progress has been made on the proposed Land. O' Lakes Recreational Centre property on highway 41 at Cloyne. It has been surveyed, and there is now over $1,000 in the fund. An open meeting will be held in the Cloyne Community Hall to discuss arrangements for the cut, the timber on the property.

The Women's Institute of Tweed will sponsor a Tweed Girls' 4-H Club. The leaders are Mrs. William McDonald and Mrs. Ross Wilson.

A euchre party was sponsored by the Anglican women of Elzevas recently and the prizes were awarded to Stella Lemke, Earlene McInes, Greg McInes and Barbara Lemke.

The United Church Women, Unit 2, Queensboro, held their regular meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Harold Tokely.

At the recent card party held at St. Carthagh's Hall, Tweed, the winners were Mrs. George Vincent, Vincent Grady and Mrs. Fred Smith.

Reeve Barbara Allen, Tweed, attended the Ontario Good Roads Association annual convention at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

Marilyn and Delores Quinn of Toronto, are spending a week vacationing at Freeport in the Bahamas.

The Lutheran Church Women, Queensboro, held their monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. William Warden.

Derward Tebo, Flinton, has returned to work with English Mould in Kingston, after being off work for several days, due to injury he received in his hand while working.

Frank Lloyd, Flinton, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Lloyd is staying with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Lesard and with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lloyd.

Lloyd Rowland, Catherine St., Tweed, was named chairman of the Tweed-Hungerford Community Centre Board at a meeting held Feb. 27. Other officers appointed are: Percy Gaylord, Chuck Heeney, Philip Gaylord, Lorne Gunning, David Morton and Mrs. Gordon Hall. Councillors Mrs. Shirley Smith was re-appointed secretary of the Board.

Carl Vanness, R. R. 1, Kalador, snared five wolves in Kalador Township in a week's time. He brought the carcasses to the Tweed Office of the Department of Lands and Forests, where he filed the necessary bounty claims.

To Your Good Health

Tietze's Syndrome Will Cure Itself

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: My son is 25 and appears to be in good health. Recently he had pains in his chest while making certain movements or lifting something heavy.

His doctor told him he was suffering from Tietze's syndrome. Can you give me some information on the ailment? — Mrs. J. I.

Teitze's disease (or syndrome) is a painful swelling of one of the joints where the ribs articulate with the breast bone.

Cause is not known, but it usually occurs in younger individuals, usually on one side, and chiefly affects the second, third, or fourth articulations.

While the pain generally is localized in the involved joint, it may radiate to the chest wall or the arms.

Because other chest pains can be in the same general location, it is necessary to distinguish Tietze's from pleurisy, heart disease, or other ailments which can cause chest pain.

This is not too difficult as a rule because there will be swelling at the joint and it will be tender. Sometimes X-ray may be advised to rule out lung disease.

The disorder fortunately is self-limiting — it will get well by itself, but this may take weeks.

The patient needs reassurance that the disorder, although painful, is not serious. Treatment consists of medication to relieve pain, heat, and avoidance of movements which aggravate the pain. Injections of hydrocortisons or procaine may be used to accelerate relief.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain septicemia. Is it a fatal disease? If not, what medicine is used for it? Is it a disease of the elderly only? — K. M. R.

Septicemia is what is also commonly called "blood poisoning."

It is a dangerous disease and can be fatal if not brought under control. Or, again, a patient may throw it off — but it requires medical care.

It is not the result of any particular germ, but can be caused by many. Let's say a person has an infected finger. Ordinarily the body's defences — the white blood cells, chiefly — fight the infection, and keep it pretty well bottled up at the original point.

But if the infection overwhelms the natural defences, and the germs get into the blood stream, then it is septicemia.

Treatment, besides careful nursing and various measures to support the patient's natural defences, involves use of whichever drugs are particularly effective against the particular germ involved.

It is not specifically a disease of the elderly, but is more likely to attack people who are in frail health.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about rhubarb used as a laxative and where to get it. — R. E. L.

Powdered rhubarb is used as a laxative usually in conjunction with something else. It can be harsh in action and because of its astringency can cause constipation afterward. It is an old medication, not used much now. I do not recommend it, since others are superior and less harmful.

Note to Mrs. D. M. S.: A number of readers have written in response to your letter telling of having had Hodgkin's disease, and successful treatment for it. Two are still active and happy after 18 years!

Comment on Criminal Cases

McRuer Report Suggested Council to Control News Media

TORONTO (CP) — Establishment of a self-governing council in Ontario to "control and discipline" the press and other news media for unfair comment on criminal cases before charges have been laid is recommended in the McRuer report on civil rights tabled in the legislature Tuesday.

But the report also stresses that there should be no restriction on the fair publication of proceedings at preliminary inquiries after the laying of charges.

Under present law, proceedings of preliminary inquiries may be reported subject to the basic rule that nothing be published that may be prejudicial to the accused, such as admissions or confessions tendered by the Crown, until the accused is discharged or a subsequent trial has ended.

A new section of the federal Criminal Code, included in the omnibus bill introduced last Dec. 21 by Justice Minister Trudeau and given first reading, would prohibit publication of any evidence taken during preliminary inquiries, if the accused asks for such prohibition, until the accused has been discharged, or, if committed for trial, his trial has ended.

A federal justice department statement issued when the bill was introduced said:

"While the desirability, in general, that there be completely unfettered reporting of all proceedings before the courts is fully appreciated, it is considered that this amendment which is designed to ensure a fair trial for all accused serves the greater public interest."

J. C. McRuer, retired chief justice of the Ontario Supreme Court who conducted the one-man civil rights inquiry for the Ontario government, takes this view in his findings:

"Restriction on the fair publication of proceedings at preliminary inquiries would in large part nullify the right of the public to know, to criticize and to debate. It is in the light of this that the risk of unfair trials of accused persons must be examined."

He adds that "not only is it important for the public to know what is done, but it is equally important that the public should know how things are done in courts of justice."

"Not only is the public concerned with the way in which things are done in a particular case, but the rights of all citizens are affected by the way they be done in future cases."

The report, however, calls for safeguards to the individual of publication of prejudicial matter before a charge has been laid. At present, it notes, the only limitations are the civil remedies provided by slander and libel laws—"a remedy that is of little value to the protection of the individual's rights.'

"It would be most dangerous to attempt to put legislative restraints on news media which would limit their exposure of failure to enforce the law. . . ."

But the report recommends that steps be taken in Ontario to establish a council, as has been done in England, to impose a self-discipline that would restrain irresponsible, unfair and unjust publication of news and comment prior to the laying of a charge."

The report recommends that all news media should come under the control of such a council, but it makes no suggestions as to its makeup beyond suggesting that it be "self-governing."

Civil Rights Commission

Expropriation Powers Should Be Restricted

TORONTO (CP) — The power of expropriation should be strictly limited and its exercise tightly controlled, the royal commission inquiring into civil rights in Ontario said in its first report Tuesday.

The power should not be conferred on government bodies unless it is "inescapably necessary in the interest of good government," commissioner James C. McRuer said in a report tabled in the legislature by Premier John Robarts.

Mr. McRuer, a former chief justice of Ontario, said the right to compensation of an owner whose property is expropriation should be revised to check the purposes and necessity of each.

Complaints of inadequate compensation in expropriations were frequent at public hearings held during the commissions four-year inquiry. Most complaints were aimed at government agencies, municipalities, school boards and university authorities.

"The less responsible to public opinion the particular body may be, the more reluctance there should be in conferring a power of expropriation on it," the report said.

In most cases, persons affected by a proposed expropriation should have the right to be heard at a formal inquiry, P said.

Municipalities should also be subject to a procedure of inquiry and approval in granting expropriation, but school board expropriations should be approved by the minister of education.

Persons affected by expropriations should be given adequate notice, and a statement of the grounds for the expropriation.

The report lists detailed recommendations for the conduct of expropriation hearings, and says the inquiry should have written reasons for its decision.

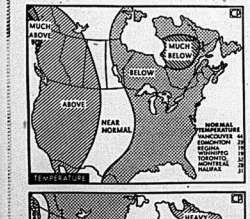
Expropriation should proceed within a time limit after reviewing careful legal safeguards, it said.

Compensation for expropriated properties should be determined by a lands tribunal, with a right of appeal to the courts.

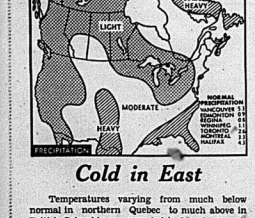
The report lists detailed procedures for arbitration of expropriation disputes, with provision for a stated case to be taken to the Court of Appeal.

It also suggests procedures for the disposal of surplus land from the expropriated area, including limitations on the right to sell the surplus.

Idea Receives Little Support



TORONTO (CP) — A recommendation by the McRuer commission that the Ontario education minister approve all school board expropriations brought unfavorable reaction Tuesday night from education department and school board officials.



Dr. J. R. McCarthy, deputy education minister, said the recommendation might be difficult to implement in some areas. Department officials might have to be sent out to investigate each case.

Very Rev. Percy Johnson, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto separate school board, said the need for prior ministerial approval could "bogie" the whole expropriation process.

"That would mean that if we wanted to expropriate even a couple of houses we'd have to submit our intention to the minister."

Barry Lowes, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto school board, said the effect of the recommendation "would be to delay the procedure considerably."

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Just this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if radiantly youthful inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way expound by many who have tried this plan and help bring back graceful curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how you better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

$20,000 Water Main Costs Accepted by Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Council accepted an estimate of $20,000 to $25,000 for installation of water mains to a proposed new motel on Trent Drive.

The estimate, submitted by Canadian British Consultant Engineers, was accepted provided the sewer is installed first and the proposed building would have a minimum value of $150,000.

Clerk E. M. Ibey suggested three ways of financing the water main installation. Council could raise the complete amount by mill rate on the town assessment, by getting the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board to amortize the amount on a straight debenture, or by levying a surcharge of the water bill.

Tenders for sewer and water mains for the new Hillcrest Public School are to be called in the near future and it is hoped the work will be completed by September, 1968.

Council decided to buy the Stillman property on Front St., demolish the house on the lot and establish a parking lot. The price of the property is $4,000.

Don Holmes' application for sewer and water services for a lot on Cromwell St. was left for further investigation. Campbellford Public Utilities Commission has limited further extension of services.

Because of the plan to build low rental housing in what is now a single building area, Council will seek zoning legislation for the town.

The Tavistock resolution of getting the proposed formation of countywide school boards was rejected by council.

Carl Johnston was given permission to operate a taxi service.

Energy Board Reserves Ruling

OTTAWA (CP) — The national energy board Tuesday reserved judgment on a Trans-Canada pipe Lines Ltd. application for permission to start a 1968 construction program costing $37,000,000.

It also made no immediate ruling on an appeal by the City of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., against a company plan to locate its terminal nearby six miles within the city's boundary.

The company said the location was fixed before the boundary was extended, and is part of a contract with Northern and Central Gas which can't be renegotiated.

D. M. Fraser, a member of the board, said Trans-Canada's prices should be examined in connection with the cost of export and its facilities. But Ian MacKinnon, board chairman, said Tuesday's hearing was not a case involving rates, which are subject to the board's approval later.

Trans-Canada proposes to start tripling some sections of its western line, now doubled from the Alberta-Saskatchewan border to Winnipeg. It will also begin doubling parts of its line from Toronto to Montreal.

The new construction in eastern Ontario includes additional compressors at Cardinal, Belleville, Cobourg and Bowmanville, and extra pipelines east and west of Belleville, and east of Bowmanville.

R. G. Wall, Trans-Canada treasurer, said the company has a $100,000,000 line of credit with four banks, two Canadian and two in New York. Negotiations are well advanced for issuing new securities to raise funds for the construction program, he said.

War Adds to Racial Strife

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In our complex society, the "chain-reaction" effect goes faster and further than we generally realize: What happens in one area of public activity acts like a billiard ball caroming around the table.

Take such apparently disparate factors as the Vietnam war, the racial conflict, employment rates, and scientific research. It is interesting, and instructive, to watch their effects upon one another, and their aggregate effect upon the society.

The Vietnam war consumes vast sums of federal money. One of the consequences of this huge expenditure has been a cutback in federal support for socially beneficial research and innovation, especially at the basic research level.

Now one of the prime elements in the racial conflict in America today is the unemployment rate among Negroes, which is roughly twice that of whites. We also know that a 1 per cent increase in employment results in a 3 per cent — or triple — increase in productive output.

Our inability to provide full employment, so that the least educated and least skilled have no jobs and little future is partly the result of poor federal government policy, and partly the result of damming up the flow of research and innovation.

How does this work? Full employment can be generated only when, first, the men are given adequate job training and, second, when we are making technical advances in large-scale scientific and industrial fields. Such advances are the surest way to expand employment needs.

Private industry cannot finance such basic research and innovation, for a variety of reasons, some realistic and some imaginary. Most firms have to be content with short-range profit within the existing economic framework. It requires government financing to create and move new areas of activity — such as our jet aircraft and atomic energy, both of which were financed in their early stages by government.

There are many inventions that could be turned into socially productive innovations, opening hundreds of thousands of job opportunities (as the recent invention of the computer, for instance, has some 50,000 men and women.) An aviation executive said not long ago: "We have a huge stockpile of technology just spoiling on the shelves."

If the federal government devoted even 10 per cent of our Vietnam costs to promoting such research and innovations, full-employment could become a certainty, and racial tensions could be appreciably reduced. Instead, we are cutting back on basic research to fight a war that can only result in a complete rupture of our domestic order.

Sydney Omarr's Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For March 7

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Communication or gift from friend brightens day. Gain is keynoted. Work; health figure prominently, but basic issues are resolved. More responsibility, greater rewards are also shown.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): You may not get results as quickly as desired — but general indications are favorable. Spotlight on getting what you need without being extravagant. Maintain principles. Stand tall.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Steer clear of legal disputes. Take new look at ventures, ambitions, desires. Dealings with men require caution. Individual who looks fine may actually lack substance.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Emphasis on the subtle. Direct action may not succeed as well as diplomatic contact. Means be patient, avoid scattering forces. Rise above petty details. See project as a whole.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Wait for others to make overtures. Don't be over-anxious. Analyze offers. Obtain hint from Gemini message. Look beyond immediate or superficial indications. Confusion seems to reign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Work to repair damage that occurred in recent past. Key is maintaining steady pace. Check details. Indications are that you will make changes and rebuild.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Much of this day seems devoted to planning and pleasure. You focus on changes, on romance and future vacation plans. Time to change pace. Relax without being careless.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): What appears heavy or formidable can be successfully handled. But watch out for persons, situations you tend to take for granted. There are adjustments to be made. Don't ignore them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Accent on marriage, partnerships, legal involvement. Avoid self-deception. See persons, situations in realistic light. What you think you know is subject to abrupt change.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You receive indications which bolster financial picture. Now is time to place realistic value upon your services Being a wallflower is detrimental. Instead, push forward.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Don't take lightly financial warnings. Individuality is key to risk savings. You have duties, responsibilities. Today you can face issues and find solutions. Do so.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Areas which previously represented blocks, challenges now open. Opportunity presents itself. Take advantage of solid clue. Follow through. Push while the opening exists.

If today is your birthday. . . you tend to be introspective, are subject to moods. You attract to you some who wish to take advantage of these qualities. Be discriminating in selection of friends. You have interest from trying two-year cycle and should now begin to garner rewards for efforts.

General Tendencies: Transportation, communication mishaps could be featured. Special word to Aries: Better to be a host than guest today.

Import Levy Viewed

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said Wednesday he and U.S. Treasury Secretary Fowler last week discussed the "possibility" of a surcharge on imports into the U.S.

But Mr. Sharp told the Commons he would not confirm reports that the U.S. government in fact intends to impose such a surcharge.

And he said Mr. Fowler did not deal with the hypothetical question of exempting Canadian goods from the surcharge.

Mr. Sharp was replying to questions by George Hees (PC —Northumberland).

Income Surtax Is 3 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Two new surtaxes, more spending cuts and a campaign of wage-price restraints are being prescribed as a broad remedy for defeat of the Liberal government's tax legislation last month.

The program, announced in a confusing sequence Wednesday, is designed to win in Parliament where its predecessor lost on Feb. 19. If successful, it will come within a hair of balancing the 1968-69 federal budget.

The main tax changes:

—A three-per-cent surtax on personal income taxes, designed to pinch only at an income level of $10,000 or more. It replaces the defeated five-per-cent surtax.

—A three-per-cent surtax on corporation taxes, regarded as a concession to New Democrat and Creditiste MPs.

—A speed-up in corporation tax collections similar in form to the provision of the defeated bill.

The government will also cut 1968-69 spending by another $75,000,000, freeze total employment in the civil service, and set up a "board of review" to discourage excessive wage and price increases.

It added up to Mr. Sharp's third budget in little more than 10 months but it came in extraordinary fashion.

The finance minister delivered a major economic statement to the Commons Wednesday afternoon, appealing for action to pass the measures, balance the budget and demonstrate the muscle in the Canadian dollar.

But he revealed details of the tax changes only when tax resolutions were placed with the Commons clerk Wednesday night to be printed in official Commons documents.

At one stage plans called for release of the details to a news conference today. Then officials discovered that the information could properly be available to

A-Powers Propose 'Guarantee'

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, Russia and Britain offered today to take joint action under UN Security Council auspices to defend any nation threatened with nuclear attack after it signs the proposed treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

The three nuclear powers put a joint resolution before the 17-nation disarmament committee for submission to the Security Council for approval. It also gives the nuclear powers a basis for protective action even before the 15-nation council acts.

U.S. delegate William C. Foster said the resolution will establish "a firm political, moral and legal basis for assuring the security of non-nuclear countries."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Clear skies are reported throughout a cold Ontario today, southerly winds have brought milder temperatures to northwestern Ontario and the trend is milder weather will spread slowly eastward across northern Ontario today and into southern Ontario Friday. Increasing cloudiness and some light snow are forecast for the far northern sections of the province Friday. In other regions fair weather is expected to continue.

Rhodesian Demonstrators Arouse Ire of Hecklers

SALISBURY (Reuters) — While demonstrators protesting the execution of three African murderers had their placards ripped to pieces and were hosed down by angry government sympathizers in a brief clash here today.

The anti-hanging demonstrators made no attempt to resist as one of the hecklers from a lunchtime crowd of jeering Rhodesians suddenly stepped forward, grabbed the placards from the demonstrators' hands and angrily tore them up.

Then he kicked aside a pile of flowers and wreaths which lay at the feet of the demonstrators. They had been placed there by sympathizers during the morning-long demonstration.

Police cars patrolled Salisbury's main streets as the demonstrators gathered in the city's main square.

Pro-government passers-by jeered as the demonstrators gathered in relays of three at a time. Public meetings of more than three persons in the street at the same time are prohibited.

Viet Cong Virtually Paralyse Mekong Delta

VINH LONG (AP) — The Viet Cong Tet offensive virtually paralyzed the Mekong Delta. Five weeks after the assaults, recovery is barely beginning and Viet Cong forces roam the countryside almost at will.

Hard-won gains in the pacification program have been lost in the 16 delta provinces containing 6,000,000 people, one-third of South Vietnam's population. The psychological benefits of last year's elections also may be lost.

The fear of a new Viet Cong offensive is so pervasive that a market has sprung up for empty sandbags. Once available for the asking, they now sell for about 10 cents each in the biggest city, Can Tho. People are building bunkers in their homes.

Nobody in a responsible position hazards a guess on how much time and effort will be required to repair the damage. All say it won't be quick and it won't be easy.

The delta's three biggest cities — Can Tho, My Tho and Vinh Long — and many lesser towns were badly shot up in the fighting.

About half of the once charming colonial-style city of Vinh Long was destroyed or damaged.

A tour of the cities and what one can see of the countryside raises little cheer. South Vietnamese and U.S. forces in the delta are largely buttoned up in cities and towns.

The Viet Cong have lapped over the low rice paddies like a flood. At best the South Vietnamese control major towns and nominally hold the Bassab and Mekong Rivers and much-scarred Highway 4, leading southward from Saigon.

Commercial traffic on the rivers, however, is only a trickle. The Viet Cong warned the people to stay off and most of the outposts along the river have fallen, many without a shot. On one 20-mile stretch of the Mekong River, 10 of 15 outposts fell. Elsewhere the picture is similar.

Trucks and buses are moving again on Highway 4 but elsewhere the roads are largely through Viet Cong territory and Viet Cong tax collection points.

"There are little Viet Cong flags everywhere," said a helicopter pilot who has known the delta since 1960. "Until now the Viet Cong would put them up at night and people would tear them down in the daylight. Not any more."

His reaction was typical of feeling among U.S. advisers. Rosy optimism is hard to find in the delta.

De Gaulle, Not Quebec, Is Blamed by Greene

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — French President de Gaulle, not Quebec, is causing Canada's problems, Agriculture Minister Greene said Wednesday night.

In an interview after speaking to Kingston area Liberal leadership convention delegates, Mr. Greene said the Canadian government's suspension of diplomatic relations with Gabon was not directed against Quebec.

"When you have a general who is such a power in his own country, and who is willing to exploit this country for his own benefit, you have problems," said Mr. Greene.

Mr. Greene, a candidate for the Liberal leadership, talked to about 25 delegates from the federal ridings of Kingston, Hastings-Frontenac and Leeds.

They heard Mr. Greene call for more autonomy for all Canadian provinces rather than for special status for Quebec.

He disagrees with the biculturalism and bilingualism report that French-Canada must be made a part of Canada as a whole," Mr. Greene said.

"French-Canadians must be made to feel they are a part of the country. But I part ways when it comes to special status for Quebec."

Pound Declines, Gold Rush Eases

LONDON (AP) — The pound sterling slid below its parity level today but a budding gold rush appeared to be easing in Europe's bullion markets.

Both the pound and the dollar were down sharply in Paris. In London the pound opened at $2.40125 U.S., 2½ points below Wednesday night's close. The rate soon moved down to $2.3965.

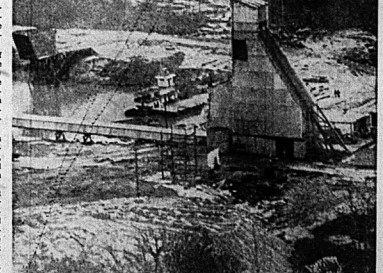
The gold rush appeared to have reached a plateau of steady, above-normal buying. Thursday is normally the heaviest day of the week but London dealers said sales were somewhat less than Wednesday's 40- to 50-ton level.

In the foreign exchange market, dealers said the weakness of the pound came from an almost utter lack of demand. The pound in Paris was quoted at 11.8075 francs against Wednesday's 11.8320. The U.S. dollar was down 60 points from 4.5275 francs.

21 Men Trapped in Salt Mine

CALUMET, La. (AP) — Two rescue experts rode a creaky, makeshift elevator 1,200 feet down a murky shaft to the area where 21 salt miners had been trapped more than 30 hours and brought back encouraging signs — a red glow, apparently a small fire, and the sound of a fan.

The two returned to the surface and prepared to immediately go back down with bullhorns in hopes of communicating with the men who could be anywhere in the massive, winding caverns of the mine.



Hints of the presence of deadly carbon monoxide in the shaft, stricken by fire early Wednesday that severed the main elevator hoist and communications lines, were detected on the first descent. Rescue workers did not immediately consider it a highly dangerous sign.

"From what we hear, things may not be too bad," said William L. Meadows of Sturges, Ky., head of one of two special six-man rescue teams flown in for the search.

The two men finally went down shortly before dawn after workmen overcame complications with the newly fabricated "man cage." The elevator affair snagged in the shaft some 300 feet down during a test drop.

The rescuers reported that once on the bottom they could feel some air movement, obviously from a fan. And, about the time they started up, they saw the "red glow" in the distant darkness.

The vertical shaft, about 10 feet in diameter, extends down into the huge salt dome for 1,200 feet. It is the only entrance to the 30-mile tunnel system branching off at various depths.

Official Tells Hastings Council Education Staff to Be Reduced

"The department of education will reduce its staff extensively when proposed legislation governing county wide school areas comes into effect next January."

According to Dr. J. R. McCarthy, deputy minister of education, the department's staff will be reduced by at least 2,100 persons.

The deputy minister was speaking to a joint meeting of members of Hastings County Council and school officials in Belleville yesterday.

In reply to a question from Carl Thompson, Reeve of Thurlow, Dr. McCarthy said most of the staff would be transferred to other areas in the educational system.

"For instance, it is the intention of the department to make 212 school inspectors employees of the new boards of education." At the present time these people operate through the department of education.

Other areas involved in the reduction include teacher college staffs, examination staff, and the registrar's office.

Dr. McCarthy arrived at the meeting about an hour late. He was accompanied by Clarke Rollins, MPP for Hastings.

The meeting followed a request from council for clarification on several points involved in the reorganization of the education system.

In his opening remarks, Dr. McCarthy said the general purpose of the new legislation is to equalize the quality of education throughout the province. "N o longer can we afford to provide fewer services because of a lack of financial resources."

"Some people are worried about a loss of autonomy, an increase in costs and various other problems. But these are the same arguments presented when the township school areas were formed 20 years ago."

He said the township bodies were incapable of solving present problems. "The explosion in the area of knowledge is difficult to keep up with."

"We must give every child the advantages offered those on the most favored systems," the deputy minister said.

"The units are now large enough so that boards can assume all the problems that are handed down. The Smith report suggested even larger units than the ones we selected."

He claimed the new boards would be able to plan educational facilities on a broader base. "Another factor is the present overlapping of bus routes. These will be used to capacity once the new boards are in operation."

"With the election rather than appointment of some trustees the public will have recourse on board policy. The function of the new units will be to establish policy."

Dr. McCarthy said the honorarium for board members would be increased.

He told council members an arbitration board consisting of two appointed members and a county judge will be set up to act on rating the value of school properties before the amalgamation is completed.

"Payment on existing debentures will be made by the new boards but the responsibility will remain with the municipal group."

In reply to a question from Belleville's acting Mayor Douglas Boyle, the deputy minister said school taxes would be collected by the municipality and that they would probably be reimbursed by the board for the costs involved in the billing. "But it will be on a separate section of the tax bill," he said.

Bay of Quinte School Board chairman James Clarke asked whether the department would increase the supply of teachers and specialists in education?

"We'd be the last ones to claim the additional programs the new units can provide will be available immediately. We are developing in-service training programs to overcome a lack of qualified personnel and these can be handled easier in the reorganized system," Dr. McCarthy said.

Ameliasburg

Problem Unchanged

Students from Ameliasburg will continue to attend Belleville Schools but will not have any representation on the board of education once the county wide board is formed next January.

Deputy minister of education, Dr. J. R. McCarthy said yesterday students will be guaranteed an education in Hastings County but the representatives will sit on the Prince Edward County Board.

The new units are being set up on a strict county wide basis and Ameliasburg is in Prince Edward County.

About 300 students from the area attend Belleville schools at the present time.

New Building

Speculation Halted

Speculation that a new administration building for the proposed Hastings County Board of Education would be built in Belleville this year was halted yesterday following a statement by Dr. J. R. McCarthy, deputy minister of education.

In reply to a question from acting Mayor Douglas Boyle, Dr. McCarthy said the department would probably not go along with such a cost.

"It could be a municipal advantage to defer such costs and one never knows what the motivations are . . . it could happen that another community might want the building."

The Belleville Public School Board and the Bay of Quinte High School Boards have been planning a joint administration unit for the past year.

It was thought the building could be constructed this year with costs deferred to the new County Board which comes into effect next January.

Clerk-Treasurer Presides

Hastings county clerk treasurer Carl E. Bateman as president of the Association of Ontario Counties, will preside over a county government works program to be held March 12 in Goderich.

The brief "Blueprint for Local Government Re-organization" adopted by the Association at its annual meeting last October, will be the basis for the workshop discussions with five county representatives to act in review as the most controversial aspects of the blueprint.

One of the speakers will be Stirling Reeve Donald Rodgers who will talk on county boundaries.

After supper was served at the Sports Ladies' Bonspiel held at the Quinte Curling Club yesterday everybody gathered around the piano to sing a few songs. Over 70 women were involved in the bonspiel that lasted most of the day and which was completely closed to the opposite sex.

Lady's Hold Bonspiel

Seventy - two good - looking women and not one man — what's the world coming to?

There wasn't a man in sight yesterday at the Quinte Curling Club when the female members of the club held their fourth annual sports ladies' bonspiel. (That's synonymous to "no men allowed").

Beginning their long day at nine in the morning it wasn't until eight at night, after three draws and two meals at the club, that the women finally went home.

The big winners for the day were Gwen Sutton and her team-mates, Betty Gorsline, Nina Gault and Rita McCoy. A large trophy from Gerry O'Connor was awarded to Mrs. Sutton by the president of the club, Grace Carruthers.

If all of the women weren't able to win trophies yesterday, at least they all felt like winners with the new interior of the club-house. As the women's project for the year, the entire interior of the clubhouse was completed and redecorated.

Money for the face-lifting was provided by the women and the redecorating was done over the last few weeks so that it was completed just in time for their annual ladies' day. "Let's see the men top that," laughed Mrs. Carruthers.

Bouncers at the clubhouse door reported they had no problem with men trying to crash the festivities.

Runners - up in yesterday's competition was the team of Jean Lennox, Marg Sainsbury and Pat Alexander who were led by Martha Booth.

After the last draw a big celebration was held while 72 husbands were at home eating "beans". However, their turn is coming with the Sportsmen's Bonspiel which also has an admittance stipulation and you guessed it—"No Women Allowed".

Bateman Named Administrator

County Clerk Treasurer Carl E. Bateman has been given a title — and the responsibility of administrator for county affairs.

Yesterday at a special session county council voted for the clerk treasurer's office to be changed to "Clerk - Treasurer and Administrator and recommend the hiring of a deputy clerk - treasurer.

Council was told that county budget had increased from one to three million dollars over the course of only a few years and they additional accounting and administrative items were low beyond the capability of one person to handle efficiently.

The county personnel committee recommended that the deputy clerk treasurer to be hired be a person with municipal and accounting skills to enable him to perform the duties of a top level county executive with a special emphasis on the accounting aspect and ability to prepare detailed financial statements.

Also the committee said more working space was required for the over - crowded clerk treasurer's office staff.

And last year's warden, Reeve William Shannon of Marmora, suggested that consideration be given to providing an office for the warden.

YMCA Golf School

The Belleville Family YMCA golf school is under way for the 12th year — on Friday evenings at Tobe's County Garden's Rossmore.

Fred Purcell, who is the pro at the Picton Country Club will be the instructor. Registration is already full for the 7.00 p.m. group, there is only one place open in the 8.00 p.m. group and a few more can be enrolled in the nine p.m. group.

Registration is limited to groups of 20 so that each student can get the maximum amount of individual instruction.

An added feature this year is the showing of golf films. Beginning this Friday at 7.05 p.m. there will be two hours of Canadian Open and Shell's Wonderful World of Golf films. The films are open to everyone and there is no charge for admission.

Beef to Be Prize In 'Steer Bonspiel'

BRIGHTON — Winning entries in this weekend's version of the annual "Steer Bonspiel" will be taking home the beef, instead of the proverbial bacon.

The third annual event will get underway in Brighton's Curling Club Friday evening, and conclude with award presentations Sunday night.

This year's 32 competing rinks include representation from as far afield as Elliot Lake in the three-event competition.

In previous years, first prize was a 1,200-pound prize steer "on the hoof."

Organizers this year decided upon a more practical award, and the four members of the winning rink will each receive a hind quarter of beef, a spokesman said.

The four prizes in each of the three events will be edible.

Beef — hind-quarters, loins, hips, and ribs will be the trophies won by some successful competitors.

Third and fourth-place finishers will win prizes such as "fowl" flavor — members of these rinks will take home turkeys.

Quick Action Saves Driver From Injury

BRIGHTON — Quick action by two unidentified truck drivers may have saved a third trucker from critical injury last night.

Provincial police said the two truckers, stopped at Horne's B.A. service centre, three miles west of the Highway 401 and Highway 30 intersection, spotted a fire in the cab of a tractor-trailer parked in the service centre lot.

They used portable extinguishers to douse the fire, and only then heard a man's moans from within the cab.

The driver, Rocky Massicott of Gatineau, Quebec was admitted to Trenton Memorial Hospital suffering secondary burns to his arms, face and hands. The 31-year-old man is reported in fair condition.

Police said no cause for the fire had been determined, but that no extensive damage was caused to the truck cab's interior.

The driver, police said, was apparently taking the regular trucker's nap in the cab sleep compartment at the time of the mishap.

Ireland Attends G.E. Showing

At a recent General Electric showing in Toronto, Jack Ireland attended a professional presentation at the Ryerson Auditorium of G.E.'s 1963 models. These included the very latest ranges, refrigerators, washers, dryers, air conditioners and dehumidifiers. Gifts were placed for these new models which are now arriving at the store.

Thinking of the budget mind ed, Mr. Ireland also negotiated a large block purchase of the entire "end of runs", of television ,dishwashers, ranges and refrigerators. These are each fantastic values and are arriving just in time to be included in Ireland's Mid-Winter Sale. Of course, Ireland's famous Installation and service is included at no extra charge!

Whether you're looking for the latest in appliances or for some terrific bargains on '62 models it will pay you to shop at Ireland's low overhead location, 330 Front Street — just south of the upper bridge.

Road, Mining Grants May Be Affected by Smith Proposals

Recommendations contained in the Smith Report on Taxation have much wider ramifications for the county of Hastings than the possible setting up of regional governments and the disappearance of present county boundaries.

They could also mean drastic changes in the amount of provincial road grants received by municipalities and in the amount of grants received by mining area municipalities in the way of mining grants.

This was the view taken yesterday by Hastings county councillors who voiced strong opposition to disrupting present county boundaries and adopted a special committee report with recommendations to be forwarded to the Ontario government.

Council also supported a brief from Marmora village protesting the possible loss of mining grants and authorized the county roads and bridges committee to draft a resolution protesting any reduction in road grants.

Reeve Thomas Burnside of Madoc village presented the report of the special committee which left no doubt as to the feeling regarding possible disappearance of county lines under the proposed form of regional government.

The committee said it "unanimously opposed" the proposed new boundaries for regional government as proposed in the Smith report and would not willingly accept them.

The feeling was that county boundaries should be retained wherever possible and that separated towns and cities be re-united with the county.

The committee recommended that Belleville and Trenton become part of the county system and left the way open for discussion on the possibility of Prince Edward County joining Hastings.

The report admitted that county governments of the future would have to concern themselves with such matters as planning, fire protection, water services, industrial promotion and tax collection.

Such services could be supplied and charged to those who benefit on a local improvement basis, it was stated.

"We know that county councils, as other governments, have their weaknesses and failures," the report went on.

At the same time it was pointed out that inadequate representatives unsound policies and planning were not unique to county council and objection was taken to the fact that critics tended to single out counties as the whipping boys.

The committee did not go along with many of the "experts" who feel that the county system must be revolutionized with the old counties being obliterated in the name of efficiency and economy.

"This sounds to us like a fairy tale, too good to be true. According to our experience, the formation of such a group would result in confusion, increased costs of administration, and diminished access by the ratepayer, in exchange for a very questionable increase in efficiency."

The report admitted that certain facilities such as welfare, public health, hospitals, cars for the aged and related services function best with the support of a larger unit.

But it pointed out that county thinking was already along these lines as was indicated by joint hospital ownership, and county health and welfare systems.

Also for years the area has had a regional executive committee composed of senior elected and appointed municipal officials, the purpose being to discuss endeavors where municipalities can co-operate.

The new regional detention centre being built in the Napanee area is the first of its kind in the province and was said to be an example of the progressive attitude of the area.

"We feel we can point with pride to the recent record of the county," the report continued, "a life line forced of an obsolete form of government only to be discontinued in favor of a system county neither tested nor proven?"

But at the same time the committee felt the county might re-assess the question of the county system to determine if there were some inadequacies.

It was doubted if a county council could justify some of the smaller municipalities and it was asked if representation on county council was fairly apportioned.

It was also suggested that planning and tax collection on a county basis were necessary measures that must be furthered considered.

The committee was strongly opposed to the proposed formation of a "Quinte" regional area composed of the south part of Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Belleville, Trenton, Prince Edward, Northumberland and a slice of Durham.

The claim was that neither Lennox and Addington identified with Hastings or the Quinte area.

On the other hand North Hastings was not the deserted wasteland as was the opinion in some quarters. Actually it was a vast potential tourist and recreation area and from the first days of county government had supplied quantities of raw materials to the towns in the south. The people of the north part of the county have a common heritage with the people in the south Hastings.

The committee said the Smith report suggests North Hastings be attached to a vast "no man's land."

"Obviously they didn't know what to do with this area so decided to turn it back to the province to administer."

The committee suggested the county did know what to do, with North Hastings — leave it attached to the rest of the county.

"We can and have been, providing all services common to the rest of Hastings to this area. We do not regard North Hastings as a liability, but as an asset and can see no merit at all in separating Hastings."

The committee wasted it clearly understood that it valued and appreciated the municipal co-operation received from Belleville, Trenton and Prince Edward and although suggesting possible amalgamation, said the intent was not to force the issue but rather provide an opportunity for discussion.

It felt that any such union, to be successful, should be voluntary. In conclusion the report asked that the province grant counties permissive legislation allowing by majority vote assumption of any of the present functions of constituent municipalities so that it may continue to re-organize and advance within an effective county system.

At least one North Hastings councillor Reeve Frank Peever of Herschel township felt there might be merit in the Smith report proposal for dividing the county.

"I'd like to see the county split right down the middle," said the northern reeve who felt the north part of the county might receive a better deal if it was administered by the province.

He couldn't see how Belleville and North Hastings could be in the same administrative set-up and both receive fair legislation. Areas with similar geographic and economic utilities should be in the same administration, was his claim.

But other members of council and particularly those members of the special committee, did not agree.

Committee chairman Thomas Burnside said that without more information and definite assurances from the province Reeve Peever's suggestion if followed out could mean North Hastings "jumping from the frying pan into the fire."

Bancroft Reeve J. N. Brown said the idea of a divided Hastings "just would not work." He said the idea had been discussed before and the finding was that there was not enough assessment in the North to make it economically possible.

Warden Calvin White said he had never considered his township of Dungannon (in North Hastings) had been slighted by the rest of the county.

Marmora Reeve William Shannon brought up the question of mining grants which he said might be eliminated if the Smith report was implemented.

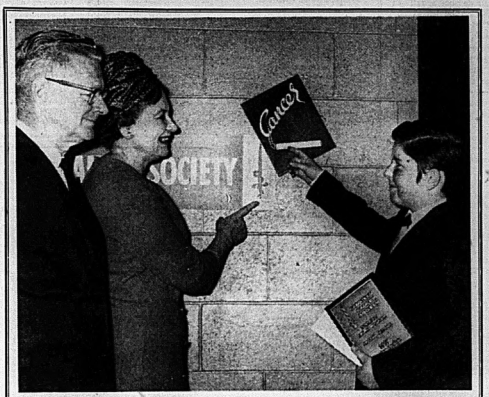
If so, he said his village could lose mining grants (from Marmoraton Mines) which would result in an increase of 12 mills on the tax rate. Present commitments were to be maintained and needed improvements provided. He said his village was a dormitory for mine workers and was thus required to provide services.

Marmora and Lake township, Bancroft village and Faraday township are in a similar position, the Marmora reeve said.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen said this opened up still another aspect of the Smith report with new suggestions she said she found "completely and totally unacceptable".

Hungerford Reeve R. Clarence Graham said implementation of the Smith report recommendations could also mean the loss of considerable provincial road grants.

Council declined to add a protest covering this aspect of the Smith report to the county report but authorized the road committee to draft and forward a separate resolution.



Thurlow Reeve Carl Thompson suggested that possibly Hastings had been partially responsible for the regional government proposal.

Explaining the reason for this line of thinking, he said everyone had been happy with the rural school section idea, but when the department of education proposed township school areas "we went along."

"Maybe we brought the regional government idea on ourselves by so readily accepting the township school areas," he said.

Now, he said strong opposition would have to be shown in the county was to retain its present boundaries.

To conclude the discussion on regional government, council authorized the clerk of the Association of Ontario counties which protests many of the aspects of regional government proposed in the Smith Report.

Holding his plaque under his arm, Robert Allore, 13, explains to Edward Follwell and Mrs. J. E. Marsh, how he combined the Cancer Society dagger emblem and a skull smoking with the warning, "Smoking Can Kill," to make the best poster in the area. Robert's poster is now in Toronto where it will be judged on a provincial level.

Council Voices Disapproval Of County Wide School Areas

Hastings county councillors don't like being told what to do and they also object to the "dictatorial attitude" of he Ontario government on its stand on county wide schools administration.

This was made clear Wednesday afternoon as council concurred in four resolutions asking that school areas be left as they are.

The action was taken as council re-convened following a two hours talk by Dr. J. R. McCarthy, deputy minister of Education for the province of Ontario, explaining in detail the county wide board of education proposal and plans for carrying it out.

The resolutions concurred in by the county fathers originated from the village of Tweed, the township of Hungerford, the No. 2 Hastings county school board, and the Oxford-Perth-Waterloo-Elgin school board.

Six other resolutions on the controversial school matter were ordered filed when it was decided the questions asked had been answered.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen moved concurrence in the opposing resolutions, her motion being immediately concurred by a recommendation from Stirling Reeve Donald Rodgers that they be referred to the county schools consultative committee for consideration.

Reeve Rodgers later withdrew his motion when council members felt open council was the proper place to deal with the resolutions.

Madoc village Reeve Thomas Burnside asked what the county hoped to accomplish by concurring in the resolutions opposing the county school board idea.

"Apparently we are going to have a county board of education. I don't agree, but I can't see any sense in continuing to oppose it," he said.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen immediately took exception to what she termed the "defeatist attitude" on the part of Reeve Burnside.

"Just because Dr. McCarthy says we are to have education administered on a county basis doesn't mean we have to be concurrent," she said.

"If the government will not accept our opposition, okay, but at least let us go down fighting."

Marmora Reeve William Shannon, as a member of the schools consultative committee, felt like Reeve Burnside there was little use in "whipping a dead horse" any longer.

He felt that the larger boards of education would have great future benefits and said opposition to the idea was evidence of a parochial feeling.

Bancroft Deputy Reeve Earl Hawley said he for one didn't agree with the government policy or the way it was done.

He said he didn't feel the county would have fair representation on a county school board and said council should have the privilege of objecting "just to give them to understand we don't like the dictatorial attitude".

Thurlow Reeve Carl Thompson said teachers and trustees in his area were opposed to the larger school area board and said they resented the fact they had not been consulted by the department.

"It think somebody is trying to build themselves a little pyramid to sit on — I'm not in favor," he said.

And Hungerford Deputy Reeve William McGee didn't like the compulsion being used to force the larger school board area.

He felt that the township school boards should have the right to choose their own destiny. The move to the larger school board should be a voluntary one.

Tweed Reeve Barbara Allen (chairman of the county schools consultative committee) said it would be the committee's intention at its next meeting to draft recommendations on the school question for forwarding to Toronto.

"That's just what I was suggesting when I moved for the resolutions to be referred to the education committee," interjected Reeve Rodgers.

Reeve Allen said she felt the present educational setup should be allowed to jell for a while.

"We have just been through a tremendous amount of school re - organization," she said. "I would like to see a complete halt no further re - organization until things can jell."

Student Takes Top Prize

Robert Allore, 13, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Allore of 45 Victoria Ave., has taken top prize in the Quinte Thousand Island District with an educational poster.

Robert, a grade eight student at St. Michael's Academy, topped all entrants in the Canadian Cancer Society contest.

He received a plaque and a $50 cheque from Edward E. Follwell, Q.C., president of the district.

The contest was open to all grade seven and eight students following exhibiting of pamphlets and films.

The posters were judged on artistic merit and message. There were 306 altogether.

Robert now has advanced to the provincial level where his poster will be entered.

Police Investigate Accident

BRIGHTON — Provincial police here are continuing their investigation into a late afternoon accident yesterday in which two vehicles collided head-on on a straight stretch of road in Murray Provincial Park.

An estimated $200 damage was caused to a 1963 coach driven by Arnold Goodrich, 36, of Presqu'ile, when it was in collision with a 1966 pickup truck.

Police said $100 damage was caused to the truck, driven by 34-year-old Donald Carr of Brighton.

The mishap occurred around 5.30 Wednesday within the boundaries of Presqu'ile Provincial Park, near the dance pavilion.

Mr. Trudeau Speaks

As a speaker Liberal leadership candidate Pierre Trudeau is by turn vague or refreshingly different.

A tendency to ramble or speak in generalities is the impression he leaves one minute, only to be succeeded by an observation that is of more consequence.

Now the Liberal government of Prime Minister Pearson is not one that is noteworthy for monochrist leanings. The monarchy is still with us, part of the fabric of Canada, but it is from within the ranks of the Liberal party, especially the younger members, that criticism of it and support for republicanism, is frequently heard.

An unlikely champion then is Justice Minister Trudeau. Unlikely also from the point of view of his French Canadian background — but there it is.

At Hamilton the other day, Mr. Trudeau had this to say: "The monarchy is certainly not harmful as a Canadian institution. Without it you would have to have something else, such as a president, which I can't see is any improvement. There seems little purpose in antagonizing a great many people to whom the monarchy is very precious when there are so many other important issues facing the country."

That was well said. On the same theme, closer to home — Port Hope — Mr. Trudeau said: "I don't think you should attack symbols or destroy them. I respect the attachment to those symbols as I want others to respect things I hold dear."

By expressing himself thus, Mr. Trudeau displayed wisdom and plain common sense. Canada is still in the Commonwealth. To consider any other status at this vital time in its fortunes would be folly. To view the issue is another light, in the positive way Mr. Trudeau has demonstrated, is a far better course.

Fiscal Policy

Trade Minister Robert Winters is another leadership candidate who holds views rather at variance with government fiscal policy of the last few years.

It was during the reign of the Diefenbaker government some years ago that Bank of Canada Governor James Coyne, at odds with the policies of Finance Minister Fleming, warned, "Canadians are living grandly beyond their means."

Today, under a Liberal administration, the country is still doing just that. Mr. Winters, who has spoken before on this theme, said the other day it is costing the country $1,000,000,000 a year to carry its debt.

In a radio address he said, "You can't always balance your budget in the public sector. However you have to make some repayment on it. You have to be able to balance it in good times."

Recently, Mr. Winters complained, the country had not been generating enough revenues.

The trade minister has touched on an important theme. Production must be increased in Canada. So too must revenue. At the same time there must be restraint in spending.

Summer Attractions

Slowly but surely the winter season is receding and there is promise of better days to come.

Preparation at the Outlet and other neighboring parks has been going on apace, as was illustrated in a recent Intelligencer feature.

And so too at the Expo site. It seems only yesterday that the great world exhibition in Montreal closed and its future became a subject of some controversy.

As is now well known, however, the "Man And His World" section of Expo will open again May 17 and run until October 14. At least 40 nations will present national exhibits and 15 governmental or private institutions will stage the same attractions as were seen last year.

The patrons of 22 other participants (countries or institutions) will be utilized by presentations conceived by Montreal. Most of the elements seen in the theme pavilions of Expo again will be on view. The La Ronde amusement area will offer more of the same.

These and other attractions are expected to draw a minimum of 20,000,000 to the exhibition.

It is another exciting prospect for Canadians. For Montreal, the Man And His World opening day on May 17 will mark the 326th anniversary of the founding of the city. Admission tickets, called passports during Expo, will be known as visas this year. The city has budgeted $28 million for the exhibition.

TV Putting New Face On Parliamentary Procedures

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — National politics, grinned Lester Pearson, has become one of the entertaining off-the-beaten-path week-end speech, he stood in one side and with a new perspective, took a fresh and different look at himself and Parliament.

It was a kind of strange interlude he shared with his audience then, and most of the things he said in his odd mood of introspection have all come true.

He saw — even feared — Parliament becoming more and more of a stage with the prime minister assuming the starring role in its tax-and-spend drama of government.

"Only Shakespeare could do justice to the tragic — or is it comic — possibilities of the role played by the leader of a majority government in Canada these days," he mused.

His problem, as star of the show, he went on, was "not so much learning lines, but legislation — especially the do's and don'ts of legislation 'acceptable' to Parliament . . . not so much with the cast as with the cost . . . not so much in the long runs as in the short counts."

The quote might have been tailored to the current trials of the government's defeat on its income tax bill.

The legislation simply was not "acceptable" to Parliament. The cost in revenue was some $675,000,000.

And the "short count" — Liberals, 62; Opposition, 84 — will bring down the election curtain on the government well ahead of the "long run" it expected into late next year.

At that time, he ruminated in his strange interlude as Parliament's leading man, "the most exciting applause these days comes from our Liberal benches with the announcement after a confidence vote: for the government, 127; against the government, 126."

It must have been even more exciting — although in an entirely different and agonizing way, — when applause came from the opposition benches after the vote defeating the income tax bill: for the government, 87; against the government, 84.

In that speech of only yesteryear, he went wryly on to wonder about the increasing intrusion of showmanship as he quite frankly called it, into the once sober and solid profession of politics.

He hoped then that the "antic art of acting" would not altogether replace the "serious craft of statesmanship" . . . that the socko performance on the campaign platform would not become the prerequisite of getting elected . . . and that the glib phrase and big image on television the chief instrument of retaining power. . .

If it did, then Parliament Hill of the future might end up with a cast in the Commons of Johnny Wayne as prime minister, Frank Schuster as finance minister and Don Messer and his Islanders as the federal cabinet.

In Lester Pearson's book then, the process had already gone far too far.

Well, in the days since that strange interlude of his, the process has gone very much further.

And he could have been making that speech while gazing into a crystal ball.

For just look what has happened.

The initial battles of the crisis of defeat — the war on only he won and lost, in the now onrushing election — were fought not in the Commons but on television in the lobbies of Parliament.

It got to the point that New Democratic leader Tommy Douglas — in all of Parliament the CBC has no firmer friend — cried out in angry protest that the government now seemed to be ruling by self-ordained divine right and the grace of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's news service.

And that was the way it was. For while the CBC news crews spoke repeatedly of "balance," they somehow managed to lure before their cameras three times as many government as opposition spokesmen.

On the crunch-day, in rapid succession: appointed a Lester Pearson, Mitchell Sharp, Ben Benson, Paul Martin and Bud Drury, before the opposition spokesman — happened to be Davie Fulton — showed up.

That's "balance." And was it balance that Lester Pearson received top air-time before the cameras six times to Robert Stanfield's once?

To old newspaperman Senator M. Grattan O'Leary who has been around Parliament Hill more than twice as long as even veteran Paul Martin, CBC gave Parliament the image of "a Dalles courtroom . . . Madison Square Garden on fight night."

To the Senator it was a "pitiful thing — a degradation of Parliament."

For Lester Pearson's fears of yesteryear were being overtaken in dreader measure than he could have dreamed — and if Parliament was in peril of finding itself "competing for TV ratings with the Smothers Brothers and Bonanza," mourned the editor-sarator, "then God help us!"

Britain Still Has Its Affluent Society

Branford Expositor

By financial comparison with an American millionaire (a person receiving at least $1 million a year and worth an average $35 million) the British millionaire is a poor relation on the accepted criterion of a minimum $200,000 a year. Both kinds are more numerous than ever — up in the U.S. by 34 per cent at last count — though their respective countries are deep in fiscal trouble.

On the heels of a UK government report that one million of the nation's children live in poverty comes a Treasury statement that between the tax years 1964-65 and 1965-66, the number of persons having incomes of $250,000 or more rose from 131 to 170, those with $195,000 to $260,000 from 130 to 161 and those in the $130,000-$195,000 bracket from 381 to 519.

This may portale people at a distance who have followed the worsening fortunes of Britain from an incomes freeze in 1965 to devaluation, huge taxes to prop the cheaper pound, abolition of free milk for public school pupils and sundry other cutbacks and have a picture of a country with its pockets empty and its back to the wall.

In fact, Britain and the U.S., like Canada, are patchworks of poverty and affluence. In Britain there are still many pockets of great private wealth. They are found less than frequently among the old families and more among the new rich whose industrial and commercial class that rises after every war. Evidence of this affluence can be seen in lush living and the income tax statistics.

Stories of savage taxation reducing the wealthy to austerity should be taken with a grain of salt. Last year the tax on capital gains, a very recent innovation, produced a mere $19,000,000, not surprising since avoidance is not difficult. Rates of death duty on big estates are penal, but with legal help the impact can be greatly softened and wealth transferred as tax-free gifts during life. The major act of avoidance lies simply in staying alive for five years after making the gift.

The other week a London newspaper, one of the Labor government's bitterest critics, was frothing that the country "is in a jam because of too much taxation." Too much or not, it did not prevent a 22 per cent increase in 1966 in the number of people with incomes over $130,000 a year, mostly from investments, a fact that tells much as to profit rates.

Planning Is the Key

Peterborough Examiner

The Seminar on community development at Trent University brought some fresh thinking to bear on Peterborough's future.

As the planners explained, there was no excuse for Peterborough to become ugly. Its development, which is only at the beginning stage, comes at a time when a great deal has been learned about the wrong ways to build a city. Peterborough can profit from the mistakes of others.

Vancouver was once described as being "graced by God, disgraced by Man." Peterborough must strive to avoid the same fate.

Negroes Go To Gallows In Rhodesia

Montreal Gazette

Although the white supremacy regime of Premier Ian Smith declared Rhodesia's dependence of Britain in November, 1965, British still officially regards the country as being under the Crown. The last British governor of the territory Sir Humphrey Gibb, still lives in Government House in Salisbury, although his role in government has been abolished.

Three Africans, and almost 100 more, are under sentence of death for sedition. A recent ruling by a Rhodesian court declared that Rhodesia has the authority to hang them.

The question of authority in the territory, between London and Salisbury, is thus brought to a head.

Mr. Smith himself has shown a great unwillingness, during the last two years to cut off all ties with London, or to go any further in extending white control policies. But there are strong elements in his party which disagree with him on both points.

They want an official policy of apartheid on the South African model and the declaration of a republic to make this possible. Last month one of them was suspended from Parliament for six months for declaring these goals would soon be gained. But he was given a vote of confidence by the white voters in his own electoral district.

The rebels claim that they, and not Premier Smith, represent the feelings of the white voters.

In Ontario French Gains A Foothold

Branford Expositor

The Ontario government is taking a French-withoutears approach to the commitment it made to linguistic equality at last month's federal-provincial constitutional conference. It will not officially declare the province bilingual, as recommended by the whole commission, but it will sanction the use of French in areas of government where it is considered warranted.

Premier Robarts told the legislature last week that where possible both English and French-speaking residents will be able to deal with their local and provincial governments and be educated in the language of their choice. This is not a guarantee that everywhere across the province French will have an equal footing with English. It merely means that where it is practicably possible to establish equal services they will be set up.

Anticipating a backlash to any compulsory form of bilingualism French wouldn't be forced on anyone. Civil servants will be trained to use French, but no government employee will be compelled to take a course or be penalized if he does not. This policy is almost the reverse of that adopted by the federal government which eventually will require civil servants in certain categories in bilingual areas to have a knowledge of both official languages.

In this province, with its less than an 8 per cent French peaking population, there are sure to be enormous difficulties in implementing even a low-key bilingual program. A soft-sell approach is more desirable than going wild - overboard trying to make the impossible. Mr. Robarts is also right in rejecting the "cultural coexistence" theory which is made up of people of many cultural backgrounds. They would rig itself resent any attempt to pick and two, the English and the French, for official recognition in a province to which so many races have contributed.

The U.S. Supreme Court handed down its decision in the Dred Scott case 111 years ago today—in 1857—and fanned flames of an anti-slavery campaign. Scott was a slave whose master had taken him to a free state where he married and raised a family. On returning with his master to Missouri he claimed freedom. The Supreme Court found the constitution's guarantee of property was inviolate, outranking personal liberty. This implied that federal or state legislation to free slaves would be found unconstitutional. It even denied freedom to Scott's free-born children.

Men of the Trees

Hartford Courant

It is satisfying work to chop wood. Since the first colonists landed on our shores, the ax has been an important tool. In fact, England's yeomen was forbidden to cut trees. Here in a new world, a man could cut trees, build his cabin with them, burn firewood, clear land for crops, and make woodenware utensils for his use.

The countryman enjoys the task. Today he cuts a little for the fireplace, but half a century ago it was a vital farm task. The woodburning kitchen stove and the sawmill were required many cords. . . .

A man cherishes his ax. It must be just the right weight, the correct handle length, and feel right in his hands. It is good to feel the sharp edge bite deeply into the wood. . . .

Children love to watch and chant their songs, woodpeckers rivet on dead limbs, and Shep chews a new stick from a brush pile. Featheredged tan chips make a futuristic pattern on the snow. Hour by hour the pile increases. When day is done, and the shadows are deep-blue in the valley, a man comes across the pasture slope. He knows he has had a good day. The pile cut wood is one harvest, but there is an intangible harvest, too, measured in working in the woodland.

700 Mile Pipeline

Japanese Firm to Begin Development of Alberta Oil Sands

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Japanese company expected to begin a major development in Alberta's Athabasca oil sands this year is looking to Kitimat, B.C., as a possible port and refinery site.

The Kitimat plan, one of several being studied, would ultimately involve a 700-mile pipeline, a products refinery at tidewater and shipping in 150,000-ton oil tankers to Japan.

A recent report by the British Columbia Research Council outlined the proposal by Japan Petroleum Exploration Co. (Japex).

Japex spokesmen were reluctant to discuss the development, but said:

"From a shipment point of view, Kitimat is an excellent harbor. Utilizing Kitimat as a terminal for a pipeline is not exactly a dream. There is quite a possibility."

Other sources said that while the Kitimat plan is only one of several, Japex is known to favor it because of lower cost estimates.

The Athabasca plans of Japex, reported working with Tenneco Oils Ltd., hinge on getting the oil to Japan at the same cost, or almost the same cost, as Middle East oil.

Japex hopes to accomplish this with large tankers and large-scale development.

Kitimat, a town 400 miles north of Vancouver that depends on the Alcan Aluminum Ltd., smelter for its living, is considered one of the best harbors on the Pacific—wide and deep, but undeveloped.

Kitimat is several hundred miles closer to Japan than Vancouver and has shore space for such developments as oil shipping.

The research council report, commissioned by Alcan, said that a forthcoming pulp mill in the Kitimat area will not mean much more shipping, now confined largely to incoming oil and outgoing aluminum ingots.

The plan would start with Kitimat as the tidewater terminal for a pipeline from a large treatment plant north of Fort McMurray, Alta.

From there semi-refined crude oil would flow at 200,000 to 300,000 barrels a day through a pipeline to a products refinery near tidewater. Large tankers of the 150,000-ton class or bigger would carry refined products to special Japanese terminals.

The report figures on the refinery within five years, but a Japex spokesman indicated it likely would be a few years later.

Such a refinery would be among the largest in North America and would employ about 1,000 persons.

Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. now is the only company producing in the rich oil sands 250 miles north of Edmonton. Its equipment could handle up to 100,000 barrels a day but present production is limited to 45,000 barrels.

Mines Minister A. R. Patrick of Alberta said recently he could see a start made this year by a Japanese company on an Athabasca plant producing "well in excess of 200,000 barrels of oil a day."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Golds rebounced from Wednesday's unprecedented plunge in active morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

This group average, down more than 20 points Wednesday, soared 10.5 points to 243.99 as Dome and Campbell Red Lake jumped 3 each to 80 and 40½.

Giant Yellowknife gained ¼ to 13 and Bevcon added ½ to 16.

Most of the smaller issues were off although declines were generally small compared with Wednesday's action. Dickenson fell 20 cents to 4.60, Macassa 6 cents to 1.86 and Madsen Red Lake 2 cents to 2.05.

Other sections of the market were up in moderate trading.

Iron and Double Hat each advanced 1 each to 113½ and 67, Ogama A and Shell ¼ each to 30¾ and 28.

On index, industrials gained .43 to 149.40, western oils 1.72 to 177.23 and base metals .59 to 99.32.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 943,000 shares compared with 871,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Wednesday, the bottom fell out of the gold boom.

The gold average nosedived an unprecedented 20.3 points or eight per cent to 233.45.

The index peaked Monday at a record 260.76 but backed off Tuesday in profit taking. The drop turned into a plunge Wednesday in active trading.

The decline took place despite reports of a continuing rush on gold bullion in European markets.

However, analysts said prices of most issues were heavily overpriced, even if the price of gold were to be doubled.

Campbell Red Lake tumbled 6% to 37, Dome 7 to 77, Bralorne and Aumor 25 cents each to 2.36 and 3.90 and Camflo and Dickenson 35 cents each to 5.80 and 4.80.

Industrials and oils, especially base chips, rallied in moderate trading under the pull of a strong New York market where the Dow-Jones industrial average jumped more than 10 points.

Standard Radio was up 4½ to 46½, Walkers 2½ to 32½, Oshawa A 1⅞ to 29⅜, Seagrams 1¾ to 40¾ and Imco ¼ to 11¾.

Dome Pete advanced 2⅜ to 20⅜ and Central-Del Rio ⅜ to 15⅜. Base metals slipped in quiet activity.

In golds, industrials advanced 1.64 to 148.97 and western oils 3.48 to 175.51. Base metals slipped .99 to 98.63.

Volume was 3,323,000 shares compared with 4,335,000 Tuesday. Declines outpaced advances 239 to 211, including a 134-87 ratio in the mines section.

PRISON COUNT RISES

South africa's prison population increased about two-thirds in one year. Figures showed 568,274 prisoners were held from July, 1966, to last June, compared with 339,000 in the same 1965-66 period.

Sharp Lists New Tax Levies

MPs Wednesday night — and thus, most likely, to reporters as well.

In the end, the resolutions were carried into an evening news conference and explained there by Mr. Sharp as a package "second best" to the legislation defeated in the Commons by a vote of 84 to 82.

Reporters quickly dubbed it "taxation by news conference."

The personal surtax raises $105,000,000 in 1968-69, the corporation surtax $45,000,000 and the speed-up in corporation tax collections $240,000,000. Both the old and new bills involve $50,000,000 in non-budgetary revenue, mainly for the old age security fund.

The total of $440,000,000 compares with $475,000,000 under the defeated legislation. Together with the spending cuts, it means an estimated 1968-69 budgetary deficit of $40,000,000, down from $80,000,000 in the original projections.

The first $100 in personal income taxes are exempt from the original surtax and it provided for a $600 ceiling on the amount any individual would have paid. No ceiling applies in the new formula and the exemption is increased to $200.

The new surtax will not apply to any person with a taxable income under $1,643. The married taxpayer with two children and a $7,000 income pays only $14 in surtax.

Even a single taxpayer earning $10,000 pays only $49.

The two surtaxes apply for the taxation years 1968 and 1969. They are therefore retroactive to Jan. 1 and the five-per-cent surtax already collected in effect provides a small credit.

Mr. Sharp said 2,400,000 of Canada's 6,600,000 taxpayers will pay no surtax. The previous budget exempted only 1,200,000 taxpayers from the extra five-per-cent levy.

The finance minister said the minority Liberal government will stand or fall on the new tax measures.

In his Commons statement Wednesday Mr. Sharp said the new program is essential "to restore Canada's financial name" to good international grace.

One source of recent speculation against the Canadian dollar has been "uncertainties as to the future action to be expected of the government and Parliament here."

Some People Allowed to Steal

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) Wednesday accused the Ontario government of allowing some people to steal millions of dollars and break other laws with impunity.

In his maiden speech in the legislature, Dr. Shulman referred to events surrounding the take-over of Canadian Oil Co. by Shell Oil to show "how some people can commit grand larceny, forgery and contempt of court without paying any penalty."

He also related events he said followed Canadian Breweries' takeover of Peller Brewing Co. as an example of "corporate theft."

He said E. P. Taylor "and his Canadian Breweries "bought control of Peller in 1954 and closed it because "he believes that competition is wasteful."

"... The directors of Peller's, and these are the same men who direct Canadian Breweries, just took the money and transferred it into another company which they controlled."

Dr. Shulman said he questioned directors about this action last month. "They said it was a loan, a $1,000,000 loan for over 13 years."

"I asked what interest rate was being paid on the loan. They said no interest was being paid."

He said this money invested in government guaranteed bonds would have earned almost $1,000,000 in that period.

Dr. Shulman also said the Ontario Securities Commission was aware that a forged letter played a part in the take-over of Canadian Oil.

"After the Toronto Stock Exchange began to investigate the Canadian Oil swindle, they quickly found that because of huge purchases of Canadian Oil, G. H. Rennie and Co. had fallen far below the required cash reserves," Dr. Shulman said.

"In fact, they had bought huge amounts of stock with no money to pay for it."

Dr. Shulman said the stock was purchased before the Sept. 25, 1962, take-over by I. R. Wookey, a partner at Rennie and Co.—a stock exchange member firm—as a result of information received from "his friend and personal confidential adviser" V. F. Graistrom, president of Shell Oil.

"If for some reason the deal had been prevented from consummation, G. H. Rennie and Company's partners and customers would have suffered losses of millions of dollars."

He said at this point Mr Wookey presented the exchange with a letter from Mr. Graistrom dated Sept. 11, 1962, which guaranteed Rennie and Co. from any loss in Canadian Oil.

"The letter actually had been written in October, after the whole thing was over, and was prepared in order to deceive the Toronto Stock Exchange.

"After being presented, however, Wookey suddenly realized the terrible implication of the letter in that it proved that he had advance knowledge of Shell's offer.

"Under these circumstances he found it easier to admit the forgery rather than the swindle."

Dr. Shulman said the exchange imposed a $15,000 fine and "the attorney-general thought the penalty was sufficient . . . to cover a $5,000,000 theft plus a breach of trust."

He said Mr. Wookey and Mr. Graistrom had used the company's credit to purchase stocks they couldn't afford and made a $5,000,000 profit.

"Even the $15,000 fine wasn't assessed against the culprits, but was charged to the firm. . . ."

Not only did the government not take action, Mr. Wookey was granted a new registration by the OSC".

Farris Alive

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman told the Ontario legislature Wednesday that Ralph K. Farris, released from an Ontario jail three years ago to die of cancer, is alive and prospering in Vancouver.

Mr. Flurris was sentenced April 24, 1964, to nine months definite and three months indefinite for perjury in connection with an investigation into Northern Ontario Natural Gas. He was released after five months.

"On September 4, 1964, Attorney - General Arthur Wishart said further charges against Mr. Farris would not be proceeded with so long as Mr. Farris was in his then serious state of health," Dr. Shulman said.

Penalized

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman told the legislature that during the 1967 provincial election campaign he received 4 complaints from a Mrs. W. Uberlash of Richmond Hill that the health department was paying only $3 a day for boarding mentally - ill patients.

Dr. Shulman said that in an election speech he "unwisely" mentioned the name of the complainant. As a result the daily rate had been raised to $4 and Mrs. Uberlash had been informed she was to receive no further patients.

"Then, when the election was safely past, the rate was again reduced to $3 a day and the extra October payment was deducted from their following cheques."

Wrong Body Examined

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) recounted in the legislature Wednesday details of a "disgraceful" case involving the Toronto coroner's office.

The former chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto said the case involved a Harold Rider who died in a Toronto hotel last September.

The post-mortem report sent to the widow showed that the victim had been five feet, 10 inches and weighed 180 pounds.

Mrs. Rider knew that her husband was five feet, eight inches and weighed only 165 pounds," the MPP said.

Dr. Shulman said the woman was upset and went to see Dr. Harold Cotnam, Ontario's supervising coroner, who suggested the variation in size could be traced to post-mortem changes since the body hadn't been found until several days after death.

Dr. Shulman said Mrs. Rider wasn't satisfied and came to him. He had investigated and concluded "that whoever that post-mortem was performed on most certainly was not Harold Rider, and even Harold Cotnam should have realized it."

"Anyone can make a mistake." Dr. Shulman said. "What is inexcusable in this case is Cotnam's refusal to admit the facts and his attempt to cover up this case."

"Either they have bungled by switching two bodies and doing a post-mortem on the wrong one, or else the body found in the hotel was not that of Harold E. Rider and the post-mortem was performed on some visitor to his room."

Adoption Reports False

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) said Wednesday a healthy baby born to an unwed mother in a Toronto hospital in 1963 was sent to Peru, "while hundreds of childless couples here in Ontario await such children."

Dr. Shulman told the legislature the adoption was handled by Ward Markle, executive director of the Catholic Children's Aid Society of Metropolitan Toronto with the approval of the provincial welfare department.

The NDP member said that when "some details" of the case were reported in the press, Mr. Markle said the child had been sent to Peru with the mother's knowledge, that the Peruvian adopting parents were related to the child and that the child was ill and thus couldn't be placed in Canada.

"All three statements are lies," Dr. Shulman said.

Medicare Would Raise Nova Scotia Sales Tax

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nova Scotia will have to increase sales tax to more than seven per cent to pay for the national medical care insurance plan, says the report of an advisory commission tabled in the legislature Wednesday by Health Minister R. A. Donahoe.

The present sales tax in Nova Scotia is five per cent.

The commission says the tax will have to be imposed on many items now exempt, not even then, a seven-per-cent tax would leave a deficit of more than $2,000,000 based on estimated annual medical care costs to the province of $18,000,000.

The present sales tax is applied to coats of Nova Scotia's hospital insurance program.

Mr. Donahoe told the legislature he would make no effort to deny his government was pledged to implementation of the medical care insurance program.

Noting that British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia were the only provinces that had not opted out of the plan, which goes in force July 1, Mr. Donahoe said before Nova Scotia decides to take part in the plan, the ultimate cost must be known.

Sessions in the eight other provincial legislatures sitting Wednesday were easier on tax-payers.

St. John's—Premier Joseph Smallwood hinted to the Newfoundland legislature that consideration may be given to permitting television coverage of the house. Speaking on a motion by Opposition Leader Gerald Ottenheimer, asking public video of some form of daily Hansard, Mr. Smallwood asked whether the Opposition leader would agree to admit television cameras "if we the government agreed."

Mr. Ottenheimer said he would, provided television coverage was complete each day throughout the session.

Fredericton — Premier Louis Robichaud told the New Brunswick house he and Gov. Kenneth Curtis of Maine would meet to discuss the proposed Corridor Road, particularly in the light of pulp mills closing at Lincoln and Brewer, Me.

The Corridor Road, primarily a shorter highway transport route, would link New Brunswick to other Canadian markets by way of Maine.

Quebec City—The Quebec legislative assembly defeated an Opposition amendment calling for a public inquiry into the municipal government of the Montreal suburb of St. Michel.

The amendment motion came during clause-by-clause study of a bill which extends the inquiry powers of the Quebec Municipal Commission.

The assembly later gave consent to an amendment to the bill which says any person requesting it must be given access to certified copies of testimony taken during municipal inquiries.

Regina—Agriculture Minister D. T. McFarlane appealed to Opposition Leader Woodrow Lloyd to help get approval of a new International Wheat Agreement.

Victoria—Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia announced establishment of a harbors board for the province.

The B.C. harbors board was set up to build and control the Roberts Bank superport 20 miles south of Vancouver.

Earlier, Prairie premiers, whose provinces will be shipping grain and potash through the port, said B.C. should not control the harbor.

Dog Saves Man

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — A German shepherd dog wagged her tail over an ice fishing hole and caught her master.

The tale started when Bernard Curtis, 41, a lands and forests conservation officer, and his dog Karla, went to check on ice fishermen on Skeleton Lake in temperatures of six-below zero.

Curtis plunged into a drifted-over hole. As he started to go down he grabbed the only thing available—Karla's tail.

"She was so shocked she just took off, taking me with her," said Curtis.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate

"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Mail is often received from readers who fondly recollect the good old days. Most of the time, the so-called good old days are nostalgic memories of a person anxious to relive the days of his youth and are not true in fact.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: As a boy, I remember that my father would use the first money from his pay envelope to pay the mortgage. After that, money would go for such necessities as groceries, clothes, and the church donation.

The result was wonderful. Every house in the block became mortgage-free in a short time. Today, on the block I live, over 80 per cent of the houses are mortgaged.

Something seems to have happened to the fabric of our country, or is it, perhaps, just an old man with failing memories? I would welcome your comment. — Mr. D. S.

ANSWER: The observations of our correspondent are correct. The number of mortgaged homes today is much greater. In 1890, only about 28 per cent of all homes in the U.S. were mortgaged, today it is almost 60 per cent.

The good old days, however, were not that good. There is a reverse side of the coin. Fewer people could afford to buy their own homes. In 1890, only about 48 per cent of U.S. families owned their homes; today it is higher at about 62 per cent.

One of the reasons fewer families had mortgages on their homes in the good old days is that it was difficult to borrow funds and terms weren't favorable. In 1890, a typical mortgage was from one to five years — 10 years was about the maximum.

The ratio of mortgage to value was usually 50 per cent or less. Effective interest rates were in the range of 10 to 12 per cent.

Under these conditions, mortgage payments were so heavy that a family had to literally strip itself of all available money to meet the payments. This is a part of the good old days with which you are probably not acquainted.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I'm now planning the coming summer. One thing I would greatly enjoy buying is a beach front home — one not very expensive, say, not over $10,000. Could you please tell me how much mortgage I could get? I want to find out if my cash matches my dreams. — Mr. P. D.

ANSWER: There is no cut-and-dried answer to your question. The amount depends on the type of property and location. In a wild, isolated setting, no mortgage money is ordinarily available. The only possible source would be from the owner.

In a built-up urban setting mortgages as high as 80 to 90 per cent are available.

In contrast to the two above extremes, for in-between locations mortgage amounts are usually 50 to 60 per cent.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am a widow, and my main source of wealth is a $12,000 mortgage which my husband left me. Two months ago at a party I inadvertently confessed that I had lost the mortgage. Since that time, I have received no payments. The buyers have told me they intend making no more payments because they say they are no longer afraid of me. I am worried. Am I in trouble? — Mrs. R. S.

ANSWER: The borrowers must be confused. They have been making mortgage payments in the past not because they were afraid of you, but because they owed you money. They still owe you the money, lost mortgage or not.

Your loss of the mortgage is not a serious matter. You can obtain a certified true copy of same from your county recorder's office at a cost of $2 to $5.

I would recommend that you notify the borrowers immediately that they must resume payments, including past delinquencies. If they refuse, turn the whole matter over to an attorney for immediate foreclosure action.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Twice as much is twice as good! That's the way I figure. My husband says this is not true.

We're insulating our house. I want to make sure it's warm next year, so instead of one inch of insulation, I want to make it two inches. Twice as good — isn't it? —Mrs. W. I.

ANSWER: Woman's intuition may be handy for solving marital problems and for training a husband, but it does not work when it comes to solving problems in physics. Double the amount of insulation, and you increase the insulating qualities of the material by about 50 per cent not 100 per cent.

* * *

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have the most unusual house in the block. After a snowfall, the snow on my roof will be gone in a day or two, whereas on every other house in the block, snow will be on the roof sometimes for two or three weeks.

This problem may not be earthshaking, but it has led to much discussion among our neighbors. The opinion seems to be that my house is located over hot springs.

Have you ever heard of anything like this? — Mr. F. M.

ANSWER: I admit you have the most unusual house in the block — your heating bill is the highest.

Apparently, you have a double problem. Your roof insulation is poor, and a large amount of warmed air escapes through the roof. Check these two things, and I'm sure your heating bill will drop at least from $150 to $200 per year.

Blackburn – Brough

Rev. A. Parsons performed the wedding ceremony in Foxboro United Church recently, when Barbara Mae Brough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brough of Foxboro was united in marriage to Allan Nicholas Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Blackburn of Eldorado. Mrs. Fern Spencer played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mr. Bill Fisher.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Empire styled floor length gown of white brocaded velvet, featuring a scooped neckline and long lily - point sleeves. Her appliqued lace headdress was encrusted with seed pearls from which flowed a floor length veil.

Mrs. Ruth Walker of Toronto as matron of honor and the bridesmaids Mrs. Judy Hurst and Miss Beverley Christie of Belleville and Miss Nancy Finale of Stirling were identically styled in American Beauty red velvet Empire styled floor length gowns with long sleeves and trains falling from the waistlines. Each wore a wedding ring headdress of red velvet and carried a colonial bouquet of red Yuletide roses encircled with white mums.

Donald Blackburn of Crookston attended his brother, while the ushers were Bill Angove, Belleville, John Walker of Toronto and Vimy Andrews of Newmarket.

The reception was held in the church parlors where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a sapphire blue brocaded crepe dress with matching jacket, Sapphire blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a brown nylon brocade dress with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

MR. AND MRS. ALLAN N. BLACKBURN

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to the United States and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a white Italian brocade dress with full length coat, blue and black accessories and a corsage of white and blue tinted carnations.

The couple reside at 157 Lorne Avenue, Newmarket, Ontario.

Hearing Mistakenly Identified

TORONTO CP - The child who is born hard of hearing may be mistakenly classified as retarded.

It might be months before his parents or doctor realize he is deaf.

By then, he is far behind in learning how to speak. The part of his brain related to speech, which develops between six months and a year and a half, lies dormant.

The Toronto General Hospital and the University of Toronto Wednesday opened a $75,000 out-patient clinic where parents may bring infants to be tested with the aid of a computer.

In a sound-proof room the patient receives controlled beeps at varied degrees of loudness through earphones.

Meanwhile an electro-encephalograph records his brain waves.

One eight - year - old boy, thought to have permanent brain damage, was tested this week and found to be deaf. This boy, who had been treated as a retarded child, will never be able to speak properly.

Dr. D. P. Bryce, specialist in diseases of the larynx and ear, says it is important to diagnose deafness early because even a one-week old infant can be fitted with a hearing aid

Suggests Nurseries For Industries

TORONTO CP - Industries employing women should provide day nursery care for their children, Professor Benjamin Schlesinger of the University of Toronto School of Social Work said Wednesday.

He told Metropolitan Toronto's social planning council that provision of tax money to defray day nurseries is a subsidy for private industry.

He suggested that labor unions could provide financing and make child care part of their bargaining requests.

Couple Celebrates 52nd Anniversary

FRANKFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil May entertained Mrs. May's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nicolson, 3 Scott St., Frankford, Saturday evening in honor of their 52nd wedding anniversary.

Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hollins and their daughter Gloria, Peterborough; Mrs. L. M. Hendrick, Trenton; Miss Betty Baggs and Richard May, Toronto.

Twiggy Turns to Movies

LONDON AP - Twiggy, sick of looking giggly, has decided to shuck the modelling stance she created, put on a new face and figure, and have a real slam at movies.

The 18 - year - old London Cockney said Wednesday: "I got a bit fed up with it, really. "I'm j sick of looking kinda young and pigeon-toed and r gsly," she explained as she lolled in maxi-culottes and 1930s makeup in the new London studio-apartment of her manager and boy-friend, Justin de Villeneuve.

In their first interview for many months, Justin declared solemnly: "Twiggy is going to break out as the biggest thing ever after her first movie, The Wishing Tree."

The new Twiggy is growing her hair long for the Beatles backed movie, based on a fairy tale by William Faulkner.

Engagement Notice

Miss Susan E. Wilson — Harry J. Lawrenson

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilson of Burlington, Ontario, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Elizabeth, to Harry John Lawrenson, son of Mrs. Doris Lawrenson of Tweed. Wedding will take place on Friday, March 29th, in Burlington, Ontario.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Johnny, I just scrubbed the kitchen floor. Can't you and your friends go someplace else instead of coming here every day after school?"

Mother: "Come on in. I just made some cookies. Take off your boots in the hall and put them by the heat so they'll be dry when you have to go."

Homemaking is not a question of how clean the kitchen floor, but of how sweet the smells from the oven and how warm the welcome from the cook.

Prayer Service Conducted By Residents

Approximately 85 residents and visitors, gathered in the auditorium for the service of the World Day of Prayer at Hastings Manor on Friday.

Mrs. F. Davidson, president of the Hastings Manor Auxiliary called the congregation to worship, speaking on "God's Love for us."

The rest of the service was given entirely by the residents of the Manor. Background and hymn music was played by Mrs. L. Adams. Scripture reading was given by Mrs. F. Dwyer, penitence and prayer by Miss P. Brown.

The theme of the service was Bear One Another's Burdens." Miss E. Latham brought this message.

Mr. E. Heidman sang an appropriate hymn, accompanied by Mrs. M. Farnsworth at the piano.

Intercession was given by Mrs. R. Benny, Mrs. C. Young, Mrs. B. Weese and Mrs. O. Moynes.

Mrs. Davidson thanked the residents for conducting the service and concluded with the World Day of Prayer benediction.

Club Activities

CONTACT CLUB

The Contact Club of Christ Church held its regular meeting Monday evening with president, Lillian Middleton, in charge. During the business, acting secretary for the evening, Betty Guthrie read the minutes and treasurer, Edith Pringle reported on the club's finances.

A new member, Mrs. Laura Stafford, was introduced and welcomed to the Club. Plans were completed for the social, March 18 at which time members and husbands will spend an evening together. Members were also reminded of the rummage sale to be held in March at the Church Hall and of the Corporate Communion in April. Lillian Middleton turned the meeting over to Rev. Allan Lauder who engaged the club in a question and answer period regarding involvement in the life of the church. Rev. Lauder answered all questions and open discussion followed. He was thanked by Jackie Gilbert.

Contact Club was fortunate in having another interesting speaker at a previous meeting, Mrs. Vince Castellano who spoke on social welfare work. As explained by Mrs. Castellano who is a social welfare worker they are a "body of knowledge and skill brought about by special training". After a most enlightening talk, open discussions followed.

Mrs. Betty Normington expressed thanks to Mrs. Castellano.

Two new members, Brenda Fargey and Marilyn Crouter, were introduced and welcomed by Mrs. Middleton.

Refreshments were served.

Orange Ring Mould Has Wonderful Flavor

By MARY MOORE

The heroine of this story gave her tacit permission for it to be told.

It is in praise of undaunted no-experience cooks who forge ahead and "try it anyway". Providence or good luck ruled after Jean. She made her Mother's Orange Ring Mould but did not wait until the first orange layer was "partially set". As soon as she had the second white layer ready she added it to the mould. Presto! The orange layer rose to the top. So she had the same combination but in reverse and no waiting for "partial setting".

When I tested this recipe following Jean's "no-waiting technique my orange layer stayed on the bottom (where it belonged) and the white layer stayed on top. Thus my orange layer was "pampered and the bright orange layer on top.

So folks you cannot fail. The flavor combination is wonderful and I picture this Orange Ring Mould on many a Church banquet table in Canada.

(serves 8 to 10)

1 orange jelly powder
1 cup boiling water
one 6-oz. can fresh frozen orange juice, thawed (undiluted)
one 10-oz. can Mandarin orange sections, drained
1 lemon jelly powder
1 cup boiling water (second amount)
one 4 - oz. package white cream cheese
5 oz. (half of a half-pint) 32 per cent cream (or whipped topping)
cottage cheese (see below)

Dissolve orange jelly powder in 1 cup boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add thawed fresh frozen undiluted orange juice and well drained sections Mandarin orange. (Discard syrup.) Pour into lightly oiled 5-cup ring mould. Cool until it begins to congeal in refrigerator or in large pan of cold water; or do as Jean did: put it in refrigerator until you are ready to add next layer.

Dissolve lemon jelly powder in second cup boiling water and stir until jelly crystals are dissolved. Cool. In beater bowl whip cream until stiff. In smaller bowl beat cream cheese until light. Combine with whipped cream until blended. Stir into cooled lemon jelly. Pour over partially set orange layer in ring mould and chill several hours or overnight until firm. To serve loosen edges and centre with slender knife, immerse bottom of mould in hot water and count steadily to 10. Invert attractive large round serving plate over mould and turn over and out. Fill centre with cottage cheese. I served this as a dessert but Jean's Mother serves it as a salad course. It is beautiful and popular and another cherished jelly mould to add to your collection.

Canadian Fashion Forecast

TORONTO (CP) — What is the Canadian fashion forecast for spring? What can shoppers expect to find already in the stores?

A sampling of Toronto and Montreal manufacturers indicates that the ruffles and frills of the New York and Paris collections are an accepted trend here, too. The shaped silhouette and soft colors are also in every Canadian collection.

On the other trends here are some findings:

Coats: "Fit and Flare" is the theme here. However a loose coat is also displayed. Berger-Swartz, a well-known Toronto coat house, has a bias full cut along with a belted style, a shaped tight bodice and a flared skirt. Most place the emphasis on the costume look of coat-and-dress or jacketed dress rather than the separate coat.

Often the fabrics and colors match or are sharply contrasted as a printed wool coat with its companion printed dress in silk, by Ruth Dukes of Toronto, a consistent fashion award winner.

Capes: Canadian houses are sharply divided in capes as are Paris and New York. Miss Sun Valley, an important sportswear and casual Toronto firm, introduces a few capes, including a full length one in authentic Prince of Wales check in soft fashion colors. The firm's president, Morris Watkin, believes cape will be more popular for fall.

Lydia Sperlich, one of the two first winners of the Canadian Coty Fashion Award and designer for Rainmaster of Montreal, is a firm believer in capes, as is Montrealer John Warden who has introduced a number of capes into his spring collection for Croydon Tailoring of Montreal.

Also on the side of capes, both long and three-quarter length, is Raoul-Jean Pierre, the dean of Canadian couturiers. Irving Samuel of Montreal likes capes over soft suits.

On the other hand, Michel Robichaud, a top Montreal designer, hasn't a cape in his spring collection. Nor is Ruth Dukes interested in them. She did a few last fall, found they weren't popular. She doesn't believe they are suitable for the Canadian climate. And two top Montreal firms, Lew Shedlack and Auckie Sanft, say that capes are not important this spring.

Boanie and Clyde: Here as in capes, the Canadian manufacturers a h a r p l y disagree over the gangster look a d a p t e d from the movie. Some have avoided it entirely. Others have included a few outfits. Only a few have made it a major trend.

The Shirtwaist Look: This new feminine approach to femininity is totally accepted by the Canadian manufacturers, although some houses have confined it to late-day wear. However, there are plenty of the slim shirt dresses around. They have been so popular no one could afford to drop them

Arkay of Montreal shapes his shirt style a l i t t l e, produces it in navy textured silk-and-worsted and adds a while jacket. Ruth Dukes is doing the shirt look in cotton brocades and voiles for daytime and in s h e e r s for evening.

Pantsuit: Not many firms are featuring the pantsuit. Highland Queen of Toronto introduces an A-line culotte, with skirt front and culotte back; Miss Sun Valley turns from the suit to the pants skirt. One is in beige, camel and grey plaid with Mao grey collar and grey self belt. This interest in what we used to call divided skirts may be more popular in Canada for street wear than the pants and jacket.

Skirt Lengths: Definitely little change. They remain short but many Canadian fashion houses are feeling out reaction to the mid-length. Says David Shedlack: "The mid-i look is not yet an established length. It's one of a wardrobe of lengths." He believes it's more suitable for summer parties than for spring street wear.

Colors: Most Canadian ready-to-wear houses agree on several top spring colors. Are orangy apricot seems a favorite. Of-white appears at the top, too, as does navy, white-with-navy-or-black, and mint green. For coats, Berger-Swartz likes yellow.

Another house combines ice cream blue in a dress with chocolate brown patent belt. In sportswear, Miss Sun Valley places navy and grey at the top.

CLUB 4-H NOTES

FOXBORO BEANIES

The fourth meeting of Foxboro Beanies homemaking club for the project "Accent on Accessories" was held at the Memorial United Church, Foxboro on Monday.

The president opened the meeting with 4-H pledge and minutes were read by Bonny Tanner.

Plans were made to hold a euchre party in the school and it wa decided to buy the prizes with club funds.

The next meeting will be held on April 1, again in the Sunday school hall.

Different types of bats were discussed and the home assignment was given.

Reader Shows Much Promise In Writing Haiku Verses

Dear Doris: I enjoyed the Haiku verses in your column at the first of January. I thought it would be fun to try some. What do you think of these?

1. Comforting, the voice
And the hand of a dear friend
In time of distress.

2. Poems and music,
Such joy and relaxation
To tired minds and hearts!
Angeline Mary Blanchard.

Dear Angeline: Lovely!

I showed all your efforts to Dorothy Cameron Smith, who wrote those I published before. She re'ys you show great promise; you have a sense of rhythm and a sense of humor. And ha: given me the names of resources for your guidance in writing and marketing your Haiku and other verses, which are going in the mail to you.

• • •

Dear Doris: What do you think of a daughter-in-law addressing us as "Mr." and "Mrs."? We are so upset and disappointed. Is that the proper way for young married to address their in-laws? We have been so good to her; gone out of our way to help them; and she is the coldest, most arrogant young woman I've met.

My son calls her parents Mom and Dad, and gives them the highest respect; and she probabl' feels it's beneath her to call us Mom and Dad.

Are we making a fuss over n o t h i n g? — Disappointed Mother and Father-in-law.

Dear Disappointed: I don't blame you for being disappointed.

But are you sure she is being arrogant? A young person may, yet on a front of formal courtesy in order to show that she's thoroughly grown up, capable, dignified, and able to manage.

Reflect, too, that if she seems distant, she probably has not e x p e r i e n c e d the warmth of heart growing up years that your son did. And it is simply beyond some young i:rleds to accept an extra set of parents to the extent of calling them Mom and Dad.

When the time is ripe, suggest that she is welcome to call you by your first names, if this is what you would like. Like any other friendship, the in-law ties take a while to bind.

• • •

Dear Doris: Since early fall I have lost 40 pounds. My age is 51, though I now feel 10 years younger.

I exercise each morning using the XBX plan (R.C.A.F.) and it has helped tighten slack muscles considerably. However, the loss of a big double chin has left a sore crepey sag under my chin and my upper arms till have a mlabby appearance, though I've been doing push-ups. — Problems.

Dear Problems: Anybody who has the gumption to struggle with exercise until it doesn't kill them deserves help with a crepey neck. I'm glad of your report about the X.B.X. Plan for Physical Fit, ness.

In the mail are two ten-cent leaflets: (1) Help for a Double Chin; and (2) Be Figure Perfect, which gives some specific exercises for upper arms.

(Please make letters as brief as possible — not more than two pages. And remember that stamped envelope.)

Ann Landers
Other Children Also Need Attention

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know of no better place to air this criticism. Please print it for the thousands of thoughtless people in the world who "mean no harm" but are guilty anyway. Even grandmothers.

When visiting in a home where there are children, it is natural to focus most of the attention on the baby. The baby is, after all, the newcomer and all babies are wee and cuddly and loveable. But please don't forget to at least acknowledge the presence of an older child.

ANN LANDERS

It's very sad when the new baby gets the gifts and is the centre of attention while the sister or brother is ignored completely. I have seen this happen so often, and it is heartbreaking. I'm sure these folks mean well, Ann, but a word from you might straighten them around. — CHAPEL HILL, N.C.

* * *

DEAR N.C.: Thank you for the reminder and now may I add a word of my own? If guests are thoughtless, the mother should turn some attention toward the older child by remarking on how helpful she is — any supportive statement will serve the purpose.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need an answer to this question and I don't know where else to get it. Is it possible to sell one's body to a medical school and collect the money while still alive?

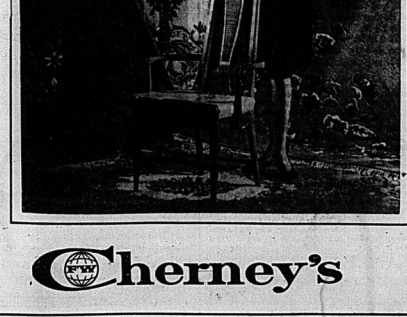
I need to know about this because I have two elderly parents who are in desperate need of medical attention and I am unable to help them. Also if you can tell me approximately what I could get for my body (I am male, middle-aged and in good health) I would appreciate the information. Thank you. — A.S.B.

* * *

DDEAR A.S.B.: In a number of states there are laws which prohibit the sale of a live body. Your best source of information regarding the laws in your area would be the County Attorney's office. And while you're on the phone, please make another call. Contact the welfare department and learn what type of assistance is available for your elderly parents.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year about this time I noticed my daughter's clothes seemed awfully tight on her. When I mentioned it Adella said, "It's the style." It wasn't long before I could see the girl was pregnant.



The boy was only 17 and Adella was 14. Marriage was out of the question. I sent her to my sister in Montana. The baby was put up for adoption.

Four months ago Adella returned home. I thought she had learned her lesson, but I was wrong. She has been sneaking out the back door at night to meet with the boy who got her into trouble — and I have reason to believe there are others. She assures me she will not get pregnant, again because she's a lot smarter than she was last year, but I am sick to think that my daughter is behaving like a woman of the streets. How can I be sure she won't get in the same fix again? Is the pill the answer? — R.

DEAR R.: You can't be sure of anything, except that Adella needs professional counselling. The pill is no answer for a 15-year-old kid.

Call the Family Service Association. They have psychiatric social workers who are extremely competent and have a high degree of compassion and understanding. And good luck to all of you.

Drop Outs Return to School--Education A Necessity

By STEVE BISHOP

For those who drop out of school, there is not always a second chance to get the education they are forfeiting. But such a chance is available to those in Belleville through the Ontario Manpower Re - Training Program

Formerly known as Program 5, this plan provides a chance for those who have dropped out to return to school and obtain their high school degree, as well as various technical skills.

The students attend evening classes, for which they are paid. Only in a few special cases does a student pay his own way.

The classes for the course are given at Quinte Secondary School, beginning at 5.15 every evening. There is also a centre which provides training in welding and drafting, located on Wallbridge Crescent.

E. J. Buckley, of the Adult Re - Education Centre, is in charge of the program. M. R. Moran is the principal of the night school at Quinte.

Mr. Moran pointed out that the course is by no means watered down to accommodate people and just get them through a grade.

He further stated that the course, which has now been in operation at Quinte for five years, is working well. "It's an excellent opportunity for those students who for some reason or other had to quit school, to get an education."

Mr. Moran also added that although the course was not geared toward university, the presence of six graduates of the course on university campuses is proof that such a possibility does exist.

The age limit in the course is, in effect, 19 since a student must have been out of school for at least three years to enter the course. In fact, the course draws students of all ages, with those in the 19-and-20 age bracket representing a minority of the students.

Among the younger students, however, the course is just as well appreciated as by those older students for whom the need for such training is more pressing.

James Patterson, 19, left school with a Grade 8 education. "School didn't agree with me," he said. "I thought it would be more interesting to go out and work and make money."

After holding a wide variety of jobs, he has entered the course at Quinte to get an education and a better job. His impression of the course. "It's better than working in a cotton mill."

He considered the course even better than that given in a regular school. "You learn more and in as short a time as possible."

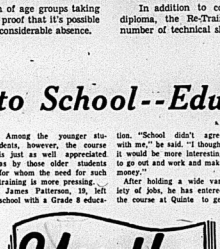
Phil Mintz, 20, left school in Grade 10 with the impression that it would be more fun to work for "40 bucks a week". He has worked at such diverse jobs as upholstery and on a pop truck.

He said he entered the course "because I figured I would never get ahead unless I did."

He recommends the course to any who are in the same situation that he was.

Robert Chesher, 19, left school in Grade 9 to work for his father, who needed the help in his roofing and maintenance business.

He entered the course at Quinte because there was not enough work for him and he wanted to learn a trade.



"It's a very good course," operation from the teachers, he stated. "There's good co-For anybody who wants to get ahead, it's a great opportunity."

Doug Harris, 19, quit school in Grade 9. The fault, he said, was "half mine, half theirs. I couldn't get along with the teachers."

After trying different jobs, he decided to enter the course to get a further education. Eventually, he would like to take a drafting course.

"It's a good course," he said. "It's not too hard for me. I'd certainly recommend it to others."

The Ontario Manpower Re-Training Program provides an excellent service in giving a second chance to those whose previous education, or lack of it, has proven insufficient. It is only to be hoped that as few all possible among the current high school crop will have to make use of it in the future.

Students Support School Uniforms at Nicholson College

By DONNA WHALEN

"I AM NOT going to Nicholson next year because I don't want to wear a uniform" This is a statement often echoed by grade eight students considering their choice of a future high school. In their minds, a school uniform would seem to pose a threat to the freedom and individuality which is supposed to be theirs in grade nine.

However the validity of this argument should not be overemphasized. Yes, it is important for younger people to show that they are "with it" by defying the laws of convention and sporting mod clothes. John's boots and Martha's peace beads are means of self-expression and symbols of non-conformity, although in a teenager's world, the latter usually ends up as uniformity.

Why then do the teachers at Nicholson enforce the wearing of a school uniform? Perhaps the advantages can be described better from a student's point of view. First of all, if everyone at the school wears the same outfit, then there is less distraction from school work and also the acquisition of status by expensive clothes is greatly limited.

The boys admit that they are in the mood to work if they have a shirt and tie on, and the girls say they are relieved not to have to worry about what they will wear each day. Yes, a school uniform is advantageous.

In a poll I conducted in the school, the students voted 80 percent in favour of the uniform. But in spite of the advantages and the regulations, there is still the occasional person sneaking down the halls in a pair of stove-pipes and trying desperately to pass unnoticed.

BRIGITTE KOESTLER, a Nicholson graduate, recently returned from her travels in Europe and came back to her "Alma Mater" to tell the students about her experiences. She attended the Universities of Strasbourg and of Cologne, for a semester each and was able to do some sight-seeing at the same time.

Her talk, which was illustrated with slides, was most interesting and enjoyable. Brigitte now has two honorable credits to her name. In 1964, she was the highest Ontario Scholar in the Quinte District and lately she has been named a Woodrow Wilson Designate. We at Nicholson are very proud of Brigitte and we wish her every success in her exciting career.

Another student in whom Nicholson takes pride is Janet Bonn. In the public speaking finals Janet finished first at Centennial School and first in Madoc for the regional competition. Her talk on 'Humour' was amusing and her efforts justly merited her success.

LAST THURSDAY and Friday, auditions were held for the forthcoming variety show and students came out "en masse" to display their talent. A rumor is circulating 'via the grapevine' that there will be everything from hula dancing to a modern version of "The Highwayman". A detailed account of this event will be published in the next column.

CONGRATULATIONS go out to Steven ("Crazy Legs") Shultz who led the All Stars on to victory against the Old Timers. Another floor hockey game was scheduled for the girls but the last one proved to be too dangerous. Instead, a broom ball game will be played.

Playing Chess on A Blackboard

By TOM THRUSH

ENTHUSIASM runs high in the BCI Chess Club. Members of the chess club play chess during luch hour in Mr. Hildebrandt's room. As you walk by the room you are struck at once by the sight of almost a classroom of students sitting facing each other staring seriously down at a chess board.

Sometimes when desk space has been taken up, you may see them playing chess on a window sill. What really gets to the observer is the fact that they play chess on the blackboards in the room. Well, this is not too hard to explain, considering, we have some real champions at the school

They will tell you that a system called chess notation is employed to play blackboard games.

LAST MONDAY the Lower School Basketball championship was won by 9J-H. They defeated the 9 boys by a score of 10-3. On Tuesday at noon the 13A and 13C boys battled for the Upper school championship. The game ended in a victory for the 13A boys with a score of 48-43.

This is the fourth year running a grade 13 class has won the Upper school championship at BCI.

STILL ON sports, BCI students, bored with T.V. on a Thursday night and having there homework completed, have found something interesting to do. They come down to the school and play badminton in both gymns from 7.00 to 8.30 under the supervision of Mr. Hildebrandt. The trouble with the whole set-up is that there are only six students coming out regularly of you think guys and chicks that play badminton are out of it, forget it!

* * *

THIS GAME takes just as much skill as most other sports. To make things worse, a big tournament will be coming up at the end of March with other schools of the Quinte area competing.

You can be sure there will be tough competition from other schools. Quit clamouring about lack of school spirit. Let's get out and take this tournament.

Moira Players Second

By STEVEN HUNTER

THE STORM clouds approach as the school readies for the next set of exams. Grade 9 through 12 are preparing to slog it out again and I feel a personal relief shared by most Grade 13's that we don't have to write.

The big news this week is the South Kawartha Drama Festival, held at Cobourg on March 1st and 2nd. The Moira Drama Club, with the play, The Lottery, by Brainerd Duffield, placed a very close second. Moira's John Slater won the award for best supporting actor, after a marvelous performance.

Other nominees from Moira were Bob Reynolds, best supporting actor; Sue Burns, best supporting actress; and Olivia Long, best actress. The whole cast did an outstanding job.

* * *

THIS IS the first time any school from this area has entered the festival. Special thanks go to Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, who did a fantastic job of directing and producing the play. Thanks also to Sue Brickwood, Doug McPherson and Jack Longstaff, who helped make the play a smooth production. Congratulations to all from all of Moira.

TWO WEEKS ago we had the honor of hosting a band from the Armed Forces Base at Trenton. The band entertained for an hour and played several selections.

It was a very enjoyable afternoon for all and on behalf of the school I would like to thank the band very much for taking the time to come out and play for us.

Well, that is it for this week, so for now, good-bye, and Good Luck in your exams.

Gymnastics at CSS

By SANDRA KINZEL

THE RADIO Club has been doing their best in the past couple of weeks. In the Quinte District all school radio clubs have been graded for their performance and ability on the air.

The past two weeks have proved successful for our radio club who obtained ratings of 80 percent and 91 percent. They will keep up with the good work as long as they know we are behind them.

* * *

THE GIRLS' Gymnastics Club have started on March 4, 1968. The girls will be tested on three apparatuses and finals will go to COSAA.

Since exams are so very close, tension is building up and up. Some students have been unfortunate to have started this week.

THE SCHOOL band will be holding their concert here in this school in our auditorium.

This weeks poem is by Sue Ellis of IIC.

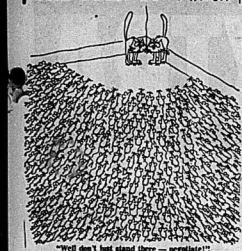
Song

I am happy as a blue jay;
My heart is singing.
How can I be so gay.
When death bells are ringing?
People are hurt and die.
But still I am not perturbed
It is they, and not I
My joy is not curbed.

LIKE FATHER — LIKE SON

They say history repeats itself and the adage definitely holds true in the case of the Michaud family. During the last few months both father and son (Robert Sr. and Jr.) have bought custom built homes by Don Keller from the Gerald Joyce Realty Ltd. Robert Jr, is pictured signing the final contract while his father, Mr. Joyce and saleslady, Mrs. Marguerite Cooke looks on. The sale makes the fourth transaction to be completed between the Michauds and the Joyce firm in the last year.

Achievement Award Presented



"And she did it again," said Gerald Joyce of the Joyce Realty Ltd. at a recent staff meeting to announce the winner of the 1967 Office Achievement Award.

Mr. Joyce was referring to Mrs. Marguerite Cooke, who for the past four years has sold over $1,000,000 of real estate annually. "It says a lot for the charm of the opposite sex," said Mr. Joyce.

Starting her record sales spree four years ago Mrs. Cooke outdid herself again in 1967 by selling in excess of $1,400,000 worth of property.

In addition to a plaque commending her achievement she was also awarded a Canada savings bond by company president Mr. Joyce.

Gabon Was Used

France Interfered in Canadian Affairs: Trudeau

QUEBEC (CP) — France used the small French-speaking African nation of Gabon to interfere deliberately in Canadian affairs, Justice Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau said Wednesday.

The Liberal leadership candidate made his allegations at a press conference here as argument bounced between the provincial capital and Ottawa over who said what during the prelude to the Gabon incident.

Canada has suspended diplomatic relations with the former west African colony for bypassing the federal government and directly inviting Quebec to take part in an international conference of education ministers in February.

In Ottawa, Mr. Pearson repeated in the Commons his assertion that the federal government had suggested the Quebec minister of education head a delegation to the Gabon conference.

The federal government had not made the suggestion a formal invitation to Quebec because Canada had not been formally invited to the conference by Gabon, he explained.

In Quebec City, a government source commented on Mr. Pearson's insistence that Ottawa suggested a Quebecer head a Canadian delegation to Gabon with the question:

"How could Ottawa propose to send a Canadian delegation when Canada wasn't even invited?"

Quebec Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal led the provincial delegation which attended the conference in Libreville, Gabon's capital, Feb. 5-10.

Czech General Defects to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military intelligence information indicates that Czech defector Jan Sejna rose spectacularly from farm worker to general, apparently without ever commanding troops.

"If he's had troop duty, it doesn't show," a Pentagon source said. "It looks like he's been a political general all the way."

In many Communist armies, political officers are more powerful than the line military types. And Sejna, now in the United States, is described as the most powerful political official in the Czech defence ministry before he fled last month.

It appears he could give U.S. satellites invaluable information on secret Warsaw pact plans.

The United States already knows much about the disposition of troops and aircraft and rocket forces of the nine-nation Communist pact group, counterpart of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But only a high-ranking officer like Sejna is likely to have the key to inner secrets of the Communist military alliance, including mobilization schedules and possible objectives of Communist offensives as spelled out in contingency plans.

Some sources suggested the Communist may have to undertake a drastic change in many of our secret plans now that Sejna has crossed over to the West.

Reaction Bitter Over Rhodesia

LONDON (Reuters) — The British cabinet scheduled an emergency session today to discuss a renewed constitutional crisis sparked by the execution of three Africans in Rhodesia.

Reaction both in Parliament and in public was bitter over the hanging ordered by the Rhodesian breakaway government in defiance of a reprieve issued by the Queen.

Britain's Prime Minister Wilson said Wednesday the government felt "a deep sense of shock and outrage" while some expressions of disgust in the House of Commons were the most violent in years.

Both government and opposition members heaped abuse on the Rhodesian government which declared unilateral independence from Britain in November, 1965.

A single opposition member, Patrick Wall, was shouted down with cries of "shame" and "racialist" when he attempted to defend the executions.

While denunciations rang in Parliament, angry demonstrators surrounded Rhodesia House—the Rhodesian information office here for prospective immigrants, tourists and businessmen.

Twenty MPs took part in the demonstration and five persons were arrested after students scuffled with police.

The execution of the three Negroes convicted of murder was seen here as a direct political challenge to Britain.

It was still unknown just what action the British government would take on the issue. It already has been condemned by African United Nations delegates for its "hesitant action" in the face of the Rhodesian breakaway.

Rhodesia's Prime Minister Ian Smith, his ministers and the hangman could be charged with murder for defying the Queen's reprieve. The charge would be made by Britain's director of public prosecutions.

The rebel ministers would then face arrest and hand-over to the British if they left Rhodesia to visit any country with which Britain has extradition agreements.

The call from some parts of the world for Britain to use force to end the rebellion will continue to be ignored, Britain has no inclination to become embroiled in what could be a long, costly and bitter war in South Africa which would involve fighting British people.

Commonwealth office officials here made it clear they have not ruled out further negotiation with Rhodesia.

SHUN JOINT DEFENCE

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Saudi Arabia says it has no plans or intentions to join a Persian Gulf defence system in the wake of the British decision to pull out of the area by 1971. "The Saudi government does not know of plans for any such system," a spokesman for the Saudi foreign ministry said on Mecca radio. Turkey and Kuwait have made similar statements.

IMMORTALS IN FICTION

Beyond Desire, by Pierre LaMurre.

Felix Mendelssohn, scion of one of the wealthiest banking families of Europe, was a noted composer and conductor at the age of 20. The story of his love for his beautiful wife Cecilia and the Italian prima donna Maria Scalla provide the basis for this novel. Mendelssohn's untiring efforts and dedication to restoring the music of Bach to its rightful place in the world gives another view into the life and times of this talented musician.

Clair De Lune, by Pierre LaMurre.

The haunting strains of Clair De Lune pervade this novel of Claude Debussy's life — a life plagued by poverty and uncertainty. His tempestuous love affairs between periods of creativity added to this turmoil. His death by cancer in 1918 ended the life of one of France's greatest composers.

Monsieur Moliere, by Michael O'Shaughnessy.

This novel presents a revealing description of the French theatre of the 17th century and is a record of the highlights of Moliere's career as well as the problems that beset most of his adult life.

Vincent, by Joost Polderman.

Written by a young Dutch writer, this novel of Vincent Van Gogh draws upon a great deal of fresh material — letters, diaries, reminiscences, never before used as a basis for fiction. This study of the famous Dutch painter makes an interesting comparison with Irving Stone's Lust For Life.

Rembrandt, by Gladys Schmitt.

This epic novel of Rembrandt's life by the noted authoress of David The King stresses the conflicts which were always present in this great artist's life.

The Agony And The Ecstacy, by Irving Stone.

The 15th-century Florence, the intellectual and cultural centre of the Italian Renaissance ruled by the great partron of the arts, Lorenzo de Medici, is born Michelangelo whose talents as an artist, sculptor, painter, poet, architect, and engineer have never been equalled. The story of the creator of the figure David and the beautiful artistry of the Sistine Chapel is powerful and moving.

Take Heed of Loving Me, by Elizabeth Gray Vining.

The title, one of the many famouse lines of John Donne, captures the essence of this truly great love poet whose inner conflict with the spirit and the flesh gave rise to such exquisite expression in poetic form. Donne's life is sensitively portrayed by the American Quakeress Mrs. Vining whose Windows For the Crown Prince provides an insight into the lives of Japan's royal family.

Naked Came I, by David Weiss.

Written at a time when Auguste Rodin is being reassessed and adulated after being neglected and disdained for the past forty years, this biographical novel expresses the feelings of this sculptor whose works bring life to the clay from which they are molded.

Song Without End, by Hilda White.

Clara Wieck, toast of Europe's musical world, was forced to break with her autocratic musician father to seek her own life with the man she loved. Robert Schumann. The vitality and charm of the music they created together is reflected in this novel. Their story bears a marked similarity to the life of another pair of lovers, Elizabeth Browning and Robert Browning whose love for each other found expression in poetry.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

There'll be a lot of time-tested ingredients, both old and new that will go into the golden ragout that is the main attraction for Minnie Menard Night here on Friday, March 22nd.

The hockey master chefs Floyd Crawford and Lionel Conacher are concocting a dish flavored with nostalgia and garnished with memories of the wonderful year of 1958.

That steel-girdered hockey "pot" of Maple Leaf Square will, it is hoped, be packed to its aging girders with appreciative humanity there to honor and aid a player victim of the whims and vagaries of a cruel fate.

The air that night will be redolent of reunion, reminiscence, of never-to-be forgotten camaraderie born on the hockey battlefields of the city, province, nation and the world.

It is expected the majority of the shock troops that won most of the battles and eventually the war on the Prague battlefield to bring home the world championship Ahearne powerware will be here.

A number of them, of course, will be in the Mo-Hawk trenches to cross rapiers with the friend and foemen of the halcyon days of the late "fifties".

Word has it that some of the members of the Whitby Dunlops the arch-foemen of the Macs in bath senior "B" and "A" eras will be here to lend a hand, Ted O'Connor, now a National Hockey League scout and a former Danny is rounding up some of the Wren Blair-led troops of those battling days. Bobby Attersley will be here for sure.

Bolstering the Mo-Hawks will be some of the younger players who saw service early in the season. These include Gary Darling, Steve Rexe, Gresdahl among others.

The tasty hockey repast will have a decided "pea-soup" flavor in the sweatered ingredients of Lammy Lamtrande, top defenceman of the 1959 world championship series; Jean-Paul Payette, Dennis Boucher, the likeable loveable Joe Lepine, the clown prince of the club and Rene St. Hilaire.

And heading the colorful coterie of homecoming imports will be the ever-popular coach of the former Macs Isaac "Ike" Hildebrand who piloted H. J. McFarland's "My Boys" to world honours.

The day Ike and the "Mad Russian" Russ Kowalchuk led the Macs to Allan Cup triumph in Kelowna, B.C., Ike was informed he had become the poppa of a bouncing Hildebrand heir. He promptly named him "Allan".

Johnny Muretich of Allan Cup fame will be on hand as will Keith MacDonald of Picton, and efforts are being made to bring the "Big Doo" Al. Dewsbury here from Toronto. Macs turned Mo-Hawks Wiener Brown, Lionel Bodly, Lou Smrke, Delbert Marlenat and Floyd Crawford will be on the "hometown" side as will Flori Goegan. As was noted the younger and newer members of the Mo-Hawks will be in uniform to help the cause.

Stan Smrke, brother of Lou, now retired from hockey who played with National and American League teams, has volunteered his services and will be in uniform to play wherever he is needed.

Naturally, Billy Reay coach of the Chicago Black Hawks who went overseas with the Macs as assistant-manager won't be here for obvious reasons, but Billy has sent his best wishes for a successful night for Minnie. He will be heard from later, he says.

And there is a possibility that representatives of the former Kitchener Dutchmen, Windsor Bulldogs and Chatham Maroons, will be here to help honor a former "foeman" of senior "A" and "B" battlefields.

And on the sidelines as a two-man welcoming committee will be Drury Denyes, who led the Macs to national and overseas honors and Hinnie Harvey J. McFarland the mayor of Picton who witnessed their triumphs and did much to help bring home the A'Learne bauble, symbolic of world triumph.

Pygmy Yacht Wins Race

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP-AP) — Nina, a 30-foot homemade sloop and the smallest craft among 88 of the world's finest and fastest yachts, was named the winner Wednesday of the 184-mile Miami-to-Nassau race.

Nina crossed the finish line in 62nd place but her big time allowance gave the sloop a corrected time of 30 hours 58 minutes and 22 seconds after a crawling race across calm seas.

Red Jacket, a 40-footer owned and skippered by Perry Connolly of Toronto, took Class B honors with a corrected time of 31:41:41. She was followed by Huntress, Stampede, Jolie Madame and Wando Lady.

All Score Goals — Rangers Whip Detroit

Three Ex-Wings; Punch For "Punch"!

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Score another one for Punch Imlach!

The stern Toronto coach has a habit of making late-season trades to stir up a complacent Maple Leaf offence.

He did it again Monday, announcing Toronto had obtained Norm Ullman, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith from Detroit Red Wings in exchange for Frank Mahovlich, Peter Stemkowski, Gary Unger and the pro rights to retired defenceman Carl Brewer.

Wednesday night the ex-Detroiters, playing as a unit, scored a goal each as the ex-Detroit romped to a 7-2 win over Philadelphia Flyers.

And in New York, only Mahovlich and Stemkowski made the score sheet with both penalties—as the Wings dropped a 6-1 game to the Rangers, who extended their win streak to six games.

Ullman also assisted on the goals by his wingers and moved into the list of the NHL's top 10 scorers with 58 points on 31 goals and 27 assists. He is tied with Alex Delvecchio of Detroit and John McKenzie of Boston Bruins.

In other games Wednesday the Bruins spotted Chicago Black Hawks three goals then roared back for a 5-3 victory, Montreal Canadiens blanked Oakland 2-0 and St. Louis Blues doubled Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2.

LORNE WORSLEY

With the Spectrum still closed by city officials, the Flyers remain on the road for their game tonight against the Bruins, playing in Toronto, while Pittsburgh is in Minnesota against the North Stars and Oakland goes against the Kings in Los Angeles.

Bob Pulford got two Toronto goals while others went to Mike Walton and Murray Oliver but the main interest for 15,821 fans was the performance of the three new players.

The fans were lavish in their reception of the new Leafs and after the game Ullman commented: "That round of cheers gave us a lift that stayed with us through the entire game."

Bill Sutherland got both Philadelphia goals in a game described by coach Keith Allen as bad.

"I don't think we have played a worse game.

"That second period was brutal. We tried to dipsy-doodle and they trapped us."

Toronto scored five times in the second period and twice in the third after a scoreless opening session.

The Red Wings were hardly in the game at New York as the Rangers got two goals from Bob Nevin and one each from Vic Hadfield, Phil Goyette, Don Marshall and Jean Ratelle. Pete Mahovlich scored the lone Detroit goals.

Stan Mikita scored once and assisted on two goals by Ken Wharram for Chicago, to move back into first place in the individual scoring race, two points ahead of Rod Gilbert of New York.

Ratelle now is third with an assist to go with his goal, one ahead of Boston's Phil Esposito and two up on Bobby Hull of Chicago.

The other Bruin goals were scored by Ken Hodge, Glen Sather, McKenzie and John Bucyk.

At Oakland, the Canadiens got goals from Henri Richard and Ralph Backstrom and made them stand up for goalie Lorne Worsley's fifth shutout of the season.

The Seals argued that two first period shots by Billy Harris had got past Worsley, but were over-ruled by the referee.

Ab McDonald scored both Pittsburgh goals, but they couldn't stand up against the varied scoring power of the Blues, who padded their fourth-place Western Division hold over the Penguins to four points on goals by Barclay Plager, Red Berenson, Gerry Melnyk and Jim Roberts.

Totems Nail Spot In Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seattle Totems nailed down a playoff spot Wednesday night as the leading Western Hockey League teams scored easy victories over San Diego and Vancouver.

In Seattle, Don Chic scored three goals to pace the second-place Totems to a 7-2 shellacking of the fourth-place Vancouver Canucks while first-place Portland Buckaroos rimmed San Diego Gulls 4-1 in Portland.

Bill Dineen also had a big night for the Totems, scoring one goal and assisting on four others as the Seattle club waltzed through the Vancouver defence and peppered Canucks netminder Tony Esposito with 49 shots.

Stan Smrke, former National Leaguer, and brother of Lou, will be here to play in the "Minnie Menard Night" game. Stan volunteered his services. Word was received today that Al Dewsbury and Pete Conacher will be here. (See Sports Column.)

Never Had Leafs Release

Rangers' "Cat" Now Free Agent!

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers can rest easy, Emile Francis is available for the playoffs.

The most famous goaltender North Battleford, Sask., ever produced finally has received his unconditional release from Toronto Maple Leafs.

"Yes," said Francis after his Rangers had stormed to their sixth straight National Hockey League victory beating Detroit Red Wings 6-1 Wednesday night. "I'm a free agent again."

Francis had remained on Toronto's reserve list after he retired from active hockey in 1960 and Punch Imlach, the Leafs boss, needed Emile about it plenty of times.

"A couple of years ago," Francis laughed, "he sent me a letter telling me to report to training camp and saying he'd fine me $50 for every day I was late and $50 more for every day I missed I was overweight."

Francis' name jumped from reserve list to reserve list within the Toronto organization until last week when he was notified that he had been cut free.

"I'm available," Francis grinned, "but I'll be tough to get."

Emile came a lot cheaper back in 1939-40—the last time a Ranger team spun off six straight victories.

"Let's see . . . 1939-40," he thought. "I was playing peewee hockey in North Battleford.

"They gave me a dozen eggs and a chicken to play goal and let me tell you, that wasn't bad then.

New York's romp over the Red Wings set a club record. It was the 32nd victory of the season—one more than any Ranger team in history has managed.

NHL Scoring

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stan Mikita regained the National Hockey League scoring lead for Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday night, but he needed three points to do it.

The shifty centre scored once and earned two assists as the Hawks blew a three-goal lead and lost 3-3 to Boston Bruins and now has 76 points. But it was enough to move him two points ahead of Rod Gilbert of New York Rangers with 74 points.

Gilbert assisted on one goal while linemate Jean-Ratelle got two goals and an assist as the Rangers bombed Detroit Red Wings 6-1 to take third place from Bobby Hull of Chicago. Ratelle has 73 points on 28 goals and 45 assists while Hull has a league-leading 42 goals and 29 assists for 71 points.

Phil Esposito climbed a point ahead of Hull with a goal and two assists in Boston's victory

Doral Open

Knudson, Nicklaus Square Off!

GEORGE KNUDSON

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Last year, Doug Sanders won the Doral open golf tournament for the second time, and the $20,000 prize launched him on the biggest money winning spree of his career.

This year, after a slow start, the dapper Georgian could again make the Doral a spring board—if he can stand off George Knudson, the redhot Canadian, and Jack Nicklaus, who plays Doral's "Blue Monster" course more consistently than any other pro.

Sanders, a former University of Florida player, needs the warm weather and the familiar course to get him off and running. In six tournaments so far on the winter tour, his best finish was a tie for 19th at Los Angeles. He has won only $5,330.

Sanders won no other tournaments during the year but took second in four and finished in the top 10 in nine others to win $109,455. He also took the 1965 Doral and went on to bank $72,182, his record at that time.

Knudson, the 30-year-old Toronto star who climbed to the top of this year's money winning list with successive victories in tournaments at Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz., was drawing big galleries here.

Billy Casper, the only two-time winner besides Sanders, skipped this year's Doral to entertain U.S. troops in Viet Nam. Arnold Palmer also is sitting this one out.

That makes Nicklaus again a popular favorite. He has not won the tournament, but the long, demanding course is made to order for his powerful game, and his six-year average score of 70.7 tops that of all players, including Casper and Sanders.

In a pro-am warmup Wednesday in calm sunshiny weather, the day's standout was Dudley Wysong, who shot a course-record eight-under-par 64 over the 7,028-yard course.

Sanders led the favorites with a 69, Nicklaus took a 71, and Knudson settled for 73.

All-Rookie Hoopsters Seek Title

HAMILTON (CP) — A rookie coach and a rookie team left Hamilton Wednesday, bound for Victoria and the Canadian junior basketball championship final against Victoria Chinooks.

Hamilton Quigley's, who made an unsuccessful appearance in the 1964 national final, face Chinooks in a best-of-three series scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Int. 'B' Playoffs

Napanee Stops Picton

Napanee halted Picton's bid for their fourth victory in OHA intermediate "B" playdowns last night defeating the Prince Edward entry by a 6-3 score.

Picton leads the best-of-seven series 3-2 with the sixth game slated for Napanee tomorrow night at 9 o'clock and the seventh if necessary to go at Picton on Sunday at 5 p.m.

The Picton-Napanee winner meets Whitby or Uxbridge in the next "B" round, and the winners of the Kingston-Trenton series for the league championship.

Napanee held an edge throughout the game leading 4-2 at the end of the first period and scoring the only goal in the second. The teams split a pair in the third.

The winners without Picton 27-25 on the night's play and drew six of the nine minor penalties, one a bench sentence.

D. Brady was the sparkplug for the winners with a pair of goals. Single markers went to E. Smith, M. Crulji and G. Conway with Willie Menard getting a goal and an assist.

Assists went to L. Barletta, R. Vanallen, Rick Grove, P. McGill and D. Fox.

Fred James scored a pair for Sam Mulholland's crew. Pat Asseltine adding the third marker.

Assists were credited to Asseltine, Bill Hopkins, Brian Beatty and D. Dafoe.

Londoner Named Crews Coach

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Maxwell McDonald, captain of the London, Ont., Rowing Club, will manage Canada's 21-man rowing team at the Olympic Games in Mexico this fall.

Appointment of the 34-year-old industrial engineer was announced Wednesday by Russell R. Wood, president of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, the governing body of rowing in Canada.

McDonald, a native of Hamilton, rowed for 10 years with Hamilton Leander and London crews before becoming an executive of the London club in 1957.

Selection of Canada's 1968 Olympic rowing squad will be made Aug. 1 following two days of trials here.

Minor Hockey Results

High-scoring games were prominent in BMHA action last night, featuring three Midget and six Tyke contests.

In Midget, the Bruins trounced the Canadiens, 6-1, behind the three-goal performance of R. Goulah. Glover, Prudden and Wilson scored the other Bruin goals. D. Irwin notched the lone Canadien marker.

The Elk Hawks downed the Rangers, 4-2. R. Mitchell paced the victors with three goals. Pope and B. Codling scored one apiece, and Drummond and Buckley one each for the Hawks. M. Goegan scored both Ranger goals.

The Bruins defeated the Leafs, 4-2. R. Woodley scored a pair of goals for the Bruins. D. Steer and R. Richardson scored one apiece. C. Bridge and A. Belch scored the Leaf goals.

In Tyke, the Mohawks blanked the Rangers, 4-0. E. Marineau and R. Richardson scored two goals apiece to account for all the scoring. T. Cook was in the Mohawk nets for the shutout.

The Seals edged the Canadiens, 2-1. P. Willman and M. Crawford scored the Seal goals. D. Jones scored for the Canadiens.

The Wings shutout the Bruins, 3-0. Cox scored two goals for the Wings, and Wilson one. Mike MacDonald was the winning goalie.

The Hawks bombed the Barons, 10-2. J. Jianopoules paced the Hawk attack with four goals. Barrett scored two, and R. Doornbos, D. Bennett, S. McChunry and D. Sager one each. Laidler and R. McBrien scored the Baron goals.

The Leafs nipped an unidentified team, 2-1. Barkholder and McKinny scored the Leaf goals. B. Bibby scored the only goal for the losing team.

The Kings downed the Flyers, 6-1. A. Horwood and W. Deighton paced the Kings with two goals apiece. N. Davis and B. White scored one apiece. J. Farrell scored the lone Flyer goal.

Ice Blamed For Saskatchewan Downfall; Unbeaten Alberta Tops

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Bob Pickering and his Saskatchewan rink fell apart bit by bit Wednesday as the ice at the Kelowna arena turned the Canadian curling championships into an endurance test.

The Milestone skip had a 3-0 record and a share of first place before Wednesday's afternoon round, but he was baffled by heavy, swingy ice and dropped games to Ron Northcott of Calgary and Bob McCubbin of Richmond, B.C.

"Nobody could curl well on that ice," said Northcott, who scored two consecutive victories Wednesday for a 5-0 record and first place in the 11-rink, round-robin competition.

"Bob just couldn't find the ice on the sides. We forced him into a draw game and it was almost impossible to hit the rings. His team was throwing well, but the rocks were getting away from them."

Northcott scored two four enders against Pickering and on both occasions the Saskatchewan skip was light on a draw attempt. Final score was 17-6 and Pickering was so disgusted in the final end, he reared up in the back and threw his rock through the house.

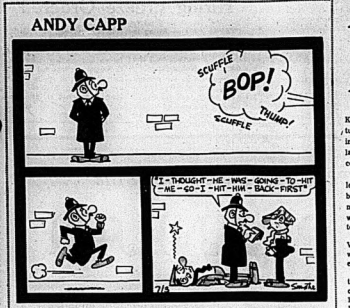
"I've played Pickering many times," said Northcott, "and it usually goes down to last rock. But today it was almost silly — not the same type of game at all. Every draw on the outside against the boards went crazy."

Pickering's nightmare continued in the evening round as he lost 10-5 to McCubbin. The ice was so heavy that Garnet Campbell, making his seventh appearance in the national final for Saskatchewan, bogged two takeouts and Pickering missed five consecutive shots.

"It was the heaviest ice I ever played on in my life," said McCubbin who shares second place after six rounds with Dr. Don Gilbert of St. Thomas, Ont. "It was definitely the worst it has been this week."

Asked what caused the deterioration McCubbin said:

"It's a combination of the crowd, the lights and the cooling plant. The machines just can't handle the changing temperatures. When we started our game it wasn't too bad, but it got worse and worse.



The ice affected every game Wednesday and scores mounted as the curlers extended themselves to make simple draws. Most sweepers were exhausted at the end of the day and maintenance men worked into the night scraping the five sheets.

In the sixth round, Don Fleming of Halifax, scored one in an extra end to defeat Herb Pile's Northern Ontario rink from Geraldton 10-9. Jim Ayer of Fredericton downed Gilbert 10-8, Northcott bombed Alan Smith of Charlottetown 14-8 and Burke Parker's Manitoba rink from Gilbert Plains beat Bill Tracy of Bagotville, Que., 14-8.

In the afternoon round, Gilbert edged Tracy 11-8, Fleming swamped Parker 14-5, Bill Piercey of St. John's, Nfld., defeated Pile 9-6 and Ayer nipped McCubbin 8-6.

The results left Alberta with a 6-0 record while British Columbia and Ontario were 4-2. Manitoba, Saskatchewan and P.E.I. had 3-3 marks and Nova Scotia was 2-3.

Kelly Top Rusher

NEW YORK (AP) — Leroy Kelly of Cleveland Browns captured the rushing championship in the National Football League last season, the final statistics confirmed Wednesday.

Kelly gained 1,205 yards and led in 10 other categories—best average with 5.1 yards, most touchdowns by rushing with 11 and most rushing attempts, 235.

Dave Osborn of Minnesota Vikings was second in yardage with 972 followed by Gale Sayers of Chicago Bears, 880.

The Browns took the team title with 2,139 yards. Then came Green Bay 1,915, Detroit 1,907, Los Angeles 1,906 and Dallas 1,900.

Faloney Quits Football

HAMILTON (CP) — Quarterback Bernie Faloney, who led Hamilton Tiger-Cats to seven division championships and played for three other Canadian Football League teams, announced his retirement Wednesday.

Faloney, 36, who had a disappointing season with the last-place British Columbia Lions in the western division last season, said he wanted to devote more time to business interests in Hamilton.

He became perhaps the highest paid quarterback in Canadian football history in 1965 when he received $37,500 from Montreal Alouettes.

Faloney said he has written British Columbia coach Jim Champion concerning his retirement.

Faloney went to B.C. last season from Montreal for Mike Webster, a 25-year-old Canadian lineman.

He came to Canadian football in 1954 from the University of Maryland—where he was an all-star—to lead Edmonton Eskimos to a 26-25 Grey Cup victory over Montreal. After a year's military service in the U.S., Faloney joined Hamilton.

Baseball Debut; Nats Versus Yanks

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major league exhibition baseball season opens today with New York Yankees opposing Washington Senators at Pompano Beach, Fla.

Five more games are listed for Friday with the remainder of the 20 big league clubs swinging into action Saturday. The regular season opens April 8 in both the National and American leagues.

Mel Stottlemyre of the Yankees and Bill Denehy of the Senators were named as the starting pitchers for the opening game of the exhibition season. Stottlemyre had a 15-15 record last year while Denehy was 1-7 with New York Mets and 3-3 with Jacksonville of the International League in 1967.

Slugger Mickey Mantle also is expected to be in the Yankee lineup, but, like most of the other starters, probably will play only a few innings.

Starting pitchers for some of the five games Friday also were named.

Ferguson Jenkins, from Chatham, Ont., will start for Chicago Cubs against Ray Sadecki of the Giants in the Chicago-San Francisco game at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Jim Lonborg of Boston Red Sox, winner of the Cy Young Award as the outstanding pitcher in the AL for 1967, had the cast removed from his right knee. It had been injured in a skiing accident near Lake Tahoe, Nev., last December.

The 22-game winner expects to be able to pitch before May 15 and asserted: "Skiing is out of my life in the forseeable future."

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Roaring Water from the H and B Stable, London, Ont., won the fourth race at Batavia Downs Wednesday night with Bill Harvey driving. It was the horse's second of the year, having won Feb. 24 at London.

WINDSOR (CP) — Tapdean caught French Guy in the final 100 yards to win the feature mile trot Wednesday night at Windsor raceway before 4,351 fans.

Tapdean, driven by owner Clarence Lockhart, paid $8.80, $2.30 and $3.20.

Bit O Gold and Skip McKlyo combined to produce a daily double payoff of $56.40.

Hughie Rosecraft and Senga Charm combined for an exactor payoff of $119.90 in the ninth race.

Test New Spitball Rule

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The new spitball rule in major league baseball which has come under attack before the first game was played, will be on probation during the spring training season that began today.

At most clubs open their Grapefruit and Cactus League exhibition schedules over the weekend, umpires have been instructed to enforce the new rule rigidly. It stipulates that a pitcher touching his pitching hand to his mouth is warned once and ejected from the game on a second offence.

"This is the place to test the rule," American League president Joe Cronin said Wednesday after a meeting with his umpires. "If any modification of the rule is necessary, then it should become apparent here during spring training."

Cal Hubbard, supervisor of the league's umpires and one of those critical of the rule, said he had told umpires to be strict in enforcing the rule.

Those who oppose the rule say that it will cause all kinds of enforcement problems.

Financially, That Is'

Tennis Tour In Trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the two major professional tennis tours is in financial trouble and the other hadn't started yet, but the pro market is still active.

George MacCall of Los Angeles, former U.S. Davis Cup captain who took over the International Professional Tennis Association, said Wednesday he hopes to sign between three and five more players before launching his European campaign next month.

Speculation centred on Roy Emerson, the veteran Australian who has studiously avoided a pro career, former U.S. Davis Cupper Martin Riessen and Thomas Koch of Brasil.

It is also reported women may be brought into the act with such celebrities as Billie Jean King, the U.S. and Wimbledon title-holder, Margaret Smith of Australia and Ann Haydon Jones of Poland.

MacCall's tour opens April 7 at Los Angeles with four veterans—Rod Laver, Pancho Gonzales, Andres Gimeno and Fred Stolle. Ken Rosewall joins the group later.

The World Championship Tennis, Inc., headed by David Dixon of New Orleans, La., got a head start with a galaxy of high-priced rookies, but ran into immediate problems.

The group has been forced to cut its schedule in half and cancel many of its dates.

Seek College Title

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — Five teams—one from the west, one from the east and three from Ontario—open a three-day tournament tonight for the Canadian college basketball championship.

University of British Columbia Thunderbirds and the Waterloo-Lutheran Gold Hawks will be competing in their second consecutive national tournament.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs from London, the Ravens from Ottawa's Carleton University and St. Mary's University Huskies of Halifax are the other entries.

The Mustangs won the powerful Ontario-Quebec basketball circuit championship. Western Ontario demolished the defending national champions, the University of Windsor Lancers, 84-62.

NDP, Socreds Prefer New Tax to Old

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp's new tax measure drew some lukewarm minority-party support and some cautious Conservative silence.

Spokesmen for both the New Democratic Party and Social Credit thought the new tax proposal fairer than the old one defeated Feb. 19 in the Commons.

In the immediate aftermath of Mr. Sharp's late-Wednesday announcement, leading Conservative MPs tended to decline comment until they have a better look.

One Conservative front-bench MP who did comment, Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West), said he wanted to reserve conclusive comment, but noted Mr. Sharp had retained an accelerated payment for corporation income taxes.

Mr. Lambert said he opposed that clause in the defeated bill and hasn't changed his mind. It would place a greater strain on business working capital.

He also doubted that the proposed three-per-cent surtax on corporations would be absorbed by them. The increase would probably be passed to the consumer in higher prices.

NDP Leader T. C. Douglas said the new measure represented "a real victory" for MPs who defeated the old bill 84 to 83 and killed it.

He thought the new tax more equitable because it reduced the five-per-cent surtax on individual personal incomes to three and put a similar tax on corporate profits. The old bill "let corporations off scot-free."

Mr. Douglas also said that the new bill improved on the old by removing the $900 ceiling on the personal income tax surcharge, thus hitting higher-income brackets. Also the payment floor was raised to achieve the same effect.

Over-all, Mr. Douglas felt that Mr. Sharp had not been tough enough in his tax and other fiscal measures to strengthen the Canadian economic position. Exchange controls should have been advanced to prevent the flight of capital from Canada.

Howard Johnston, Social Credit MP for Okanagan-Revelstoke, said the new tax is fairer than the old, partly because it was applied to corporations this time. It was more acceptable to him particularly because it was accompanied by government promises to freeze the growth of the civil service and make fresh expenditure slashes.

At the same time he doubted the new bill was different enough from the old to qualify for re-introduction into the Commons in the current session. The rules say that a defeated bill cannot be revised in the same form in the same session. He would be "amazed" if it did qualify.

Free Vote Is Suggested On Abortion Law Change

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Allan MacEachen said Wednesday he favors a free vote on proposed amendments to the Criminal Code to ease restrictions on abortions.

He compared the abortion proposals to a bill on capital punishment last year on which there was a free vote.

Prime Minister Pearson and Justice Minister Trudeau are both opposed to a free vote on the abortions issue.

Mr. MacEachen and Mr. Trudeau are candidates for the federal Liberal party leadership.

"I think members of Parliament should be allowed the same decision of conscience on this matter as they had on capital punishment," Mr. MacEachen told 100 members of a Toronto Liberal association.

Mr. MacEachen, a Roman Catholic, said the abortion clause is a great problem of conscience to him because of his religion.

He said capital punishment and abortion were similar subjects, in that each dealt with matters of life and death.

Hiring Freeze Ordered

OTTAWA (CP) — Hiring in the federal public service, already cooled by measures introduced last December, went into a deep freeze Wednesday.

A spokesman for the treasury board, agency in charge of personnel policy, said later the minister's reference to "public service" means about 220,000 federal employees, the majority in departments and agencies.

Some 100,000 in the armed forces and another 150,000 in Crown corporations and the uniformed members of the RCMP are not directly involved. However, in a period of hiring restraint it is unlikely normal growth will occur.

Viewer With Staying Power Had Special TV Treat

NEW YORK (AP)—The strong-eyed television viewer with stamina and staying power had a really special evening Wednesday night. ABC had four extraordinary programs in a row and each, in its own way, excelled.

Without so much as flipping the dial, there were the sight of sea anemones, which look like flowers but are not, trapping and devouring a passing fish; Mia Farrow was confessing she often retreats in a "little fantasy world" of her own; Monte Carlo in all its glamor and beauty was spread before the public and finally, there was an illustrated history on conditions in Germany that led Hitler to power and the Second World War.

First program on the schedule was the second in the Jacques Cousteau series about undersea exploration and experimentation. The oceanographer and his crew of divers and photographers this time explored the colorful and strange marine life of a coral atoll off the coast of India. The photography was marvelous and the glimpses of the ocean's flora and fauna exciting and exotic.

Miss Farrow came along next for an interesting and relaxed subject of a sympathetic interview by her former Peyton Place co-player, Ryan O'Neal. The young actress discussed freely her family relationships and explained her deep interest in Indian religion and meditation. She was not asked about and did not volunteer anything about marriage. The half hour special is apparently a test run for a future series and was called The Now Generation.

Monte Carlo . . . C'est la Rosé was an artful and imaginative combination of guided tour, variety show and fashion show. Our tour guide, Princess Grace, wore a different Dior costume in each of her many appearances.

The monumental task of adapting William L. Shirer's The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich—the book ran to almost 1,500 pages—began with an hour program, the first of three to be broadcast later this week. Researchers have done a thorough and imaginative job of rounding up appropriate material to illustrate the early events—old news reel film, still photographs, cartoons, and have also discovered some of Hitler's intimates and followers.

The first show told of Hitler's troubled early life, and then went into greater detail on his emergence in the Germany of the 1920s when the economy, political structure and morale were weak and disturbed. The narrative carried the Nazi chronology up to 1933 when Hitler became chancellor of Germany and the Third Reich was born.

It should be noted that all of the special programs on the network were produced by an outside packager, David Wolper, and it was an impressive showcase.

Recommended tonight: And Debbie makes Six, ABC, 8-9 EST, special program postponed originally because of a network technician's strike, with Bob Hope, Jim Nabors and Bobby Darin.

Grandstand View

Residents of the Maritime provinces will have grandstand seats for two total eclipses of the sun in the 1970's. The first eclipse will occur March 7, 1970, and will travel the length of Nova Scotia and pass through Newfoundland. Along the shadow path, nearly 100 miles wide, the sun will be blotted out by the moon for more than two minutes. The partial shadow before and after totality will last a couple of hours. On July 10, 1972, the moon's shadow will travel across the Northwest Territories, northern Quebec, Prince Edward Island and through Nova Scotia.

500 Combat Missions

New Plane Used in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military planners report a new navy plane has been thrown into the campaign to beat down North Vietnamese troops threatening the marine outpost at Khe Sanh.

It's the snub-nosed A-7A Corsair II, a workhorse attack plane which literally-carries its own weight in bombs and missiles.

The first 14-bomber squadron was sent to South Vietnam only last November but has already chalked up more than 500 combat sorties over North and South Vietnam, sources said.

A-7A project men just returned from checking on the plane's performance in the war zone give it top marks.

The A-7A was practically bug-free, which may explain why the navy was able to put it to use so quickly in rocket and strafing attacks on North Vietnam positions around Khe Sanh.

"This is one of the easiest planes to fly that we ever had," one navy official stated.

Among other things, the plane has an automated system which allows a pilot to land on an aircraft carrier practically hands off, the controls.

On bombing missions, a computer figures out when to release the bombs or missiles, which is done automatically once the pilot flips a couple of switches.

Although the A-7A weighs in originally at 17,000 pounds, its supersonic wings—which connect with the fuselage at cockpit level—plus a high thrust engine allow it to tote 10,000 pounds of fuel and another 12,000 pounds in ordnance.

The ordnance includes bombs and two Sidewinder heat-seeking missiles plus 600 20-millimeter cannon rounds weighing three-quarters of a pound each.

With internal fuel stores alone the plane can remain airborne nearly five hours—an unusual amount of loiter time for an attack jet.

In addition to the automatic weapons delivery system, the plane is equipped with a new computer-operated map system which spins a map like a reel on a screen for the pilot's viewing, and automatically displays his location.

The plane's 80-mile radar system shows a precise picture of the geography, even down to such minute detail as small rivers and hills.

The navy is buying 199 models at a cost of $1,400,000 each, and plans to purchase about 200 more of a slightly modified A-7B version.

The air force also is programmed for about 500 A-7D versions with somewhat different engines, and the navy is looking ahead to 400 to 500 follow-on A-7E models in the 1970s.

Householder Must Pay For Services

DESERONTO — If a householder henceforth requests the town to empty out his basement, or to open a drain which is blocked on his property, he must pay the town for that service.

The question of payment was rather hotly debated at the council meeting this week, some of the councillors taking the stand that it was a public service. But the motion at last passed, and now $8 per hour must be paid by the property owner for the use of the backhoe to open the drain, and $7 per hour for the pumping service. Until now this has been done at town expense.

The motion was made by William Higgins, chairman of the streets committee, and the seconder was Reeve Donald Armitage.

Councillor Higgins also brought up the question of the poor condition of the storm sewers pointing out that they were entirely separate from the pipes presumed to be installed by the OWRC. He recommended that a complete method of replacing the storm sewers, with a few to be done every year. The council agreed with this recommendation, and instructed Councillor Higgins to indicate the cost for the year in his budget.

A letter from a group of the western township voiced disapproval of county boundaries for school boards, especially the speed with which the Ontario Department of Education is bringing this about, and asked for the support of the Deseronto Council in objecting to this legislation. The Council gave instructions that such a letter be written, stressing the speed with which the change is being made without the public being sufficiently informed.

A letter from the Hastings Progressive Conservative Association was opportune. It stated that Hon. William Davis, Minister of Education, will address a meeting in Stirling Legion Hall which the group's second period will follow his address.

Both Business and Governments Are Under Pressure to Plan

By JANE BECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Across Canada the pressure on business and governments to plan is mounting.

Housing is bogged down largely because municipalities have no clear projection for releasing land, and construction firms know too little about tomorrow's mortgage situation to map long-term capital spending.

Industries, and sometimes towns, can fold overnight with notice of a plant shutdown, for which lack of planning is often to blame.

Most economists and many politicians advocate some kind of regional planning to smooth the peaks and valleys of industrial growth and help narrow the gap between Canada's affluent and not-so-affluent citizens.

But a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that except in Nova Scotia, where a 34-member Voluntary Economic Planning Board has submitted a four-year plan for the province, efforts toward planning are spotty and cautiously.

So far economic planning has been most advanced where industrial growth has been slow. The small financially-sophisticated planning body appears to be the Saskatchewan Economic Development Corp., set up by the CCF government in 1963 and continued after its defeat in 1964.

SEDCO has about $19,000,000 out in loans to businesses, a windfall income over the amount four years ago. Another $1,100,000 is invested in real estate.

SEDCO's stated aim is to help Saskatchewan industry develop. At last count 19 of its 62 clients were agricultural products firms. Others were chemical and food and drink processors, makers of construction materials and metal fabricating companies.

SEDCO is set up as a continuing corporation under the province's Industrial Development Act. Its nine directors are chosen from among Saskatchewan's business leaders.

Manitoba's attempts at economic planning have focused on studies and reports on the province's economic climate.

The Committee on Manitoba's Economic Future, set up in 1961, produced a 1,000-page report five years ago containing 135 recommendations for government and industry. Formed to help Manitoba adjust from a primarily agricultural to an industrial community, COMEF lists among its achievements a revamped steel industry at Selkirk, an expanded chemical industry at Brandon and the entry of a new firm, Churchill Forest Products, in the northern part of the province.

Today some labor-short areas have developed, and the government has organized a Targets for Economic Development Commission. Its aims are to pinpoint types of employment based on real increased productivity, determine effects of the Kennedy Round tariff reductions on Manitoba trade and advise how public money should be spent to foster business expansion through the province. It is to report by March 1 next year.

There is little economic planning as such in the other two western provinces. The Alberta Industrial Development Board acts mainly as a clearing house for economic information. In British Columbia the department of industrial development prepares profiles assessing the economic potential of specified areas and recommends what industries should be established.

"We've done about a dozen feasibility studies in depth, and we've got about as many new industries," says Ralph Loffmark, B.C.'s trade and commerce minister.

Newfoundland's economic planning is unique, so far centring around the small coastal fishing outports whose residents are gradually being moved to form larger, more viable communities.

This now is being done through the department of community and social development, headed by Newfoundland's fisheries minister. The department was established last year. Further economic planning is expected to follow a report of the royal commission on Newfoundland's economic prospects to the current legislative session.

Nova Scotia established its planning board in 1962. Its aim is to improve the living standard of Nova Scotia's people and work toward "an economic and political climate" which will encourage development of new industries and expansion of existing ones.

In its first report the board, all of whose members serve voluntarily, set specific goals for the province over a four-year period. Among them are an increase of 2,400 jobs annually and a 9.2per-cent annual gain in net capital investment.

In New Brunswick a department of economic growth has been set up with economic planning as one of its key functions. It encompasses several agencies, notably the New Brunswick Development Corp., which have done some economic planning, but a detailed program has not yet been worked out.

Planning in Prince Edward Island hinges on the problem of achieving real growth in agriculture. The Economic Improvement Corp., a Crown corporation, was formed by the province last year to prepare a development plan for the island and guide its implementation.

Quebec set up an Economic Planning Council in 1961 for study, research and consultation on economic matters. One of its aims is to develop an economic plan for Quebec. Its purpose also is to suggest to the government steps to keep the province's economy at a normal level.

The council consists of 15 representatives from various social and economic sectors.

In Ontario attempts at regional planning and some sort of regional government are still in the study stage. The Smith committee on taxation in its report last year strongly recommended regional governments to replace Ontario's southern counties. The committee said such a system could help equalize public services and make for a more even tax burden, as well as saving much money now being spent on duplicated municipal functions.

But the recommendation has run into opposition from many municipal and county officials who feel it will do away with local government. Meanwhile the Ontario government has announced its own regional development program, starting with a detailed study of Ontario as divided into 10 regions. The aim is to implement in 1969 a "firm development plan" that will enable all regions to attain their economic potential.

But despite a variety of organizations, the essence of economic planning may lie in attitude. In its report, the Nova Scotia Planning Board called for "an optimistic spirit and an aggressive determination to make the plan a success—from the cabinet level down."

Schools Will Get More Provincial Aid

TORONTO (CP) Education Minister William Davis Wednesday raised the foundation levels for elementary, high and vocational school pupils to provide more provincial assistance to school boards.

The foundation level is the minimum desirable expenditure for each pupil.

The department through a complicated formula pays the difference that may exist between the foundation level and what a school board can raise through a provincially-equalized mill rate.

The level for each elementary school pupil this year will be $280, an increase of $20, Mr. Davis said.

The level for regular high school pupils was increased by $15 to $465 and by $20 to $670 for each vocational pupil.

"Significant additional assistance will be extended for special educational programs and services," Mr. Davis said in a statement.

"This will be of special help to those classes for children whose mother tongue is not the language of instruction in the school.

"The amount approved for such language classes in elementary schools, in addition to all regular grants, will be increased from $3,400 to $5,000 per class."

Deficit Estimate Purely Speculative

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts Wednesday described published reports predicting his government will end its current fiscal year with a $61,000,000 deficit as "purely speculative."

He was replying in the legislature to Eddie Sargent (L—Grey-Bruce) who asked whether the provincial sales tax would be increased "in view of the projected $61,000,000 deficit."

Mr. Robarts said that if any such deficit had been announced "it was not announced by the government."

"I can only say this was a purely speculative report," he said.

The premier told the house the government is on record as promising not to increase the present five-per-cent sales tax this year.

The report said the $61,000,000 deficit would compare with a $53,000,000 surplus in 1966-67.

A senior treasury department official described the reports as "certainly erroneous" and said that the government hadn't shown a $53,000,000 surplus on its 1966-67 accounts.

The "surplus" shown in the provincial auditor's report for 1966-67 was only $346,150, but the figure is not considered significant since the government used current revenues to finance all its non-recoverable capital spending and in the process managed to reduce the net provincial debt by $20,000,000.

Strictly Personal

World Is Changed by Ideas

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

One of the last, hardest, most valuable lessons we have to learn in life is that, no matter what we do, there are still going to be some people who will not like us.

• • •

The world is moved and changed by ideas more than by any other single factor; and if we are turning into a nation (as many believe) where processes and products are more important than ideas, then we cannot safeguard our material advantages from the assault of ideology.

• • •

The layman is invariably scornful of what he calls "legal language" — until he is victimized by a will that was written so loosely and imprecisely that he loses a bequest.

• • •

Speaking of words, a true pedant, of an especially loathesome sort, is one who insists on referring to the plurals of "index," "stigma," and "opus," as "indices," "stigmata", and "opera". It is this sort of verbal prissiness that has given the disciple of "correct" English a justifiably bad name.

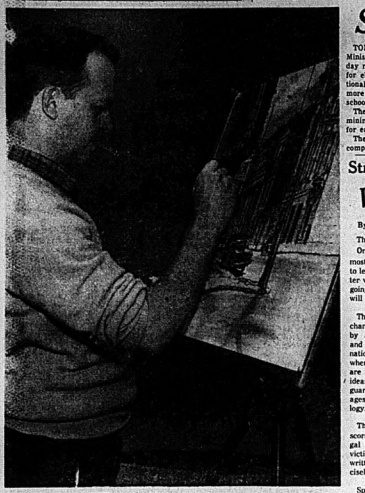
The three most influential figures of the last 100 years have been Freud, Marx and Einstein; yet not one person in a thousand could adequately sum up the doctrines any of these three men promulgated

• • •

About once a year, as the tide of bigotry of one sort or another begins rising, I cannot resist reminding readers of Jonathan Swift's most memorable quotation: "It is useless," he said, "to try to reason a man out of something he has not been reasoned into." Paste that one on your placards, friends.

• • •

The cost of unemployment is greater to society than in the victims of unemployment itself: we are now beginning to learn that, apart from the moral question involved, society simply cannot afford the poor, who must be turned into productive elements.



• • •

When will parents learn that to go back on a threat of punishment is as dishonorable as to go back on a promise of reward; and that a child's innate sense of fairness is as undermined by a promised punishment withheld as it is by a promised reward denied?

There are far more "immoral" marriages than there are "immoral" liaisons between unmarried partners: marriages without affection, which are simply a legalized form of prostitution, for comfort, for convenience, for status, or for a dubious "respectability."

• • •

We prefer our saints dead, cold and remote: a living saint among us would be as perpetually irksome as a pebble in the collective shoe of society.

Travelling Artist

Dick Wilson travelled 70,000 miles during 1967 to capture Canada on his sketchboard. The Montreal artist will take off again this month, travelling to Newfoundland to paint the province's changing face. Mr. Wilson says he will break with his tradition of black-and-white drawings and use pastel water colors for his latest project, which was commissioned by industrialist Arthur Lundrigan. (CP Photo)

Dairy Act Helps Only Big Farmer

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator J. H. Prowse (L—Alberta) Wednesday attacked the Dairy Commission Act as a measure that helps the big farmer get bigger.

He was speaking during debate on a bill amending the act.

The proposed changes would authorize subsidies to milk or cream producers on the basis of volume. Minimum quotas would be eliminated.

The act now requires a producer to deliver 12,000 pounds of milk or 450 pounds of butterfat between April 1, 1967 and March 31, 1968, to be eligible for federal dairy subsidy quotas in the following dairy year.

Senator Lionel Choquette (PC—Ontario) said in debate on a bill to amend the Unemployment Insurance Act, already passed by the Commons, that fraud at isties in the last fiscal year are "alarming."

There had been 24,486 detected cases of fraud and illegal withdrawal from the unemployment insurance fund of $1,-114,816.

"I am curious to know how much of that $1,148,816 has been recovered and at what cost to the country."

The bi'l was given second reading—approval in principie. It would increase the earnings eligibility ceiling to $150 a week from $105.

Cuba Mail Service Very Slow

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian postmasters have been asked to recommend air mail service to persons wishing to send mail to Cuba.

A post office directive released Wednesday makes the air recommendation because of lack of direct sailings between Canada and Cuba.

A department source said in an interview there now are some 3,000 bags of mail awaiting surface shipment to CUBA. The last such shipment was on Dec. 29.

He said the only vessels now operating between Canada and Cuba are Cuban-owned and their visits to Canada this winter "have been few and far between."

Canada Gets Access To U.S. Money Mart

Rapid Increase Of Funds Likely

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — American moves to aid the Canadian dollar should mean a rapidly increased flow of U.S. funds into Canada, U.S. monetary officials said today.

The officials were commenting on a treasury announcement Thursday it would exempt Canada from measures announced by President Johnson in January to protect the U.S. balance of payments.

This meant that new direct investments by U.S. firms in Canada would no longer be limited to 65 per cent of the amount invested during 1965-66.

It also meant U.S. banks could make new loans to Canada without regard to the ceiling on overseas lending provided for in the American payments balance program, Federal Reserve Board officials said.

The officials expressed confidence the new U.S. moves to help the Canadian dollar would not create trouble for the U.S. dollar.

Arrangements were made to cancel the effect on the U.S. payments of a stepped up flow of funds to Canada, which assured the U.S. it would not act as an outlet for U.S. firms trying to escape investment controls.

"A gold filling, please!"

U.S. Has Agreed To Lift Curbs

OTTAWA (Special) — Canada's traditional free access to the vast U.S. capital market has been fully restored.

This was implicit in Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp's announcement Thursday that the United States is exempting Canada completely from its mandatory controls over direct American investment abroad.

It was those U.S. curbs which caused foreign money markets, already disturbed by other developments, to begin unloading Canadian dollars, in the belief that the restrictions would hurt Canada.

When the United States clamped down on the outflow of capital on Jan. 1 there were three measures of principal concern to Canada.

U.S. corporations were told that their investment in Canada through subsidiary corporations must not exceed 65 per cent of the level in the years 1965 and 1966.

Canadian subsidiaries had to maintain dividend payments back to the United States at the average level in the years 1964-65-66.

U.S. residents had to reduce bank deposits in Canada to the level in 1965 and 1966.

When Mr. Sharp made a trip to Washington last Friday to argue against any imposition of trade taxes, he pointed Canada's traditional argument that it does not contribute to U.S. payments difficulties and therefore should be exempt from all restrictions. Somewhat surprisingly, in view of the fact that this is an old contention, he found U.S. Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler receptive to his pleas. On his return to Ottawa, he wrote Mr. Fowler undertaking to protect any U.S. concessions from abuse. Yesterday a letter from Mr. Fowler informed Mr. Sharp none of the U.S. restrictions would apply to Canada.

Ironically, on the same day on which this notification was received, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics released figures showing that the argument on which it was based was not as strong as in the past. In 1967 Canada's balance - of - payments deficit with the U.S. tipped $719,000,000 below the 1966 figures. Moreover, the deficit on Canada's world payments was only $425,000,000 in 1967, compared with $1,137,000,000 in 1966.

New Panic Hits Gold Market

Don't Copy Gabon

LONDON (AP) — A panic gold rush hit the London bullion market today and the pound sterling plunged to its lowest recorded level.

The price of gold at the fixing was 294 shillings two pence, up 9½ pence on Thursday. The U.S. dollar parity, however, remained unchanged at $35.19½.

Dealers on the bullion market said sales at the fixing were nearly double the sales for any one day of the last 10. This would mean that the final figure for today could approach last December's crisis level of more than 100 tons a day.

The pound opened somewhat firmer than Thursday's close at $2.39425, up 7½ points. But the rate began drifting fast in a thin market to $2.3800. The previous lowest recorded figure was Thursday's $2.3935 closing.

The cause of today's flareup of gold buying appeared to be a number of appraisals in British and continental journals of the chances of President Johnson's administration defending the $35 an-ounce price of gold it is committed to maintain.

Dealers also noted the lukewarm response from both France and West Germany at this week's meeting of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development in Paris to American appeals for help with the problems of its foreign payments deficits.

Furthermore, there seemed to be some expectation that the meeting in Basel, Switzerland this weekend of delegates of top central banks may produce a new policy statement on gold.

Pearson Backs Trudeau In Warning to France

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson by implication Thursday supported Justice Minister Trudeau's statement that Canada would break off diplomatic relations with France if that country invites Quebec directly to an international conference.

Canada suspended relations with the tiny African nation of Gabon last month because it bypassed Ottawa and invited Quebec to an international education conference.

"We don't make distinctions between small nations and large nations," Mr. Pearson said in a Commons reply to George Hees (PC—Northumberland).

Mr. Hees had asked whether Mr. Trudeau was stating government policy in Quebec City Wednesday night when he said France was behind Gabon's actions and that Canada should break relations with France if France acted as Gabon had.

Mr. Pearson added in a reply to Howard Grafftey (PC—Brome-Missisquoi) that it would be "normal" for France to invite Ottawa to an international education conference if one is held there in the next few weeks.

If Canada were invited it would consult the other provinces about provincial representation on a Canadian delegation, as in the past, the prime minister added.

Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) and Gilles Gregoire (Ind-Lapointe) said there have been reports from Gabon that Canada suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon because this country is in default on foreign aid commitments to the African state.

External Affairs Minister Martin said Canada is not in default.

No Decision by Paris

PARIS (CP-Reuters) — French officials were reported Thursday to be undecided whether to send an invitation to an education conference here next month direct to Quebec or through Ottawa.

But sources said it would be logical for Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal of Quebec to attend the conference of French-speaking education ministers.

Twenty Persons Die As Bus, Car Collide

BAKER, Calif. (AP) — An automobile which crossed over the median into the wrong side of the highway, collided head-on with a Greyhound bus Thursday on Interstate 15 in the Mojave Desert, killing 20 persons.

"The bus was passing another vehicle when the car came in sight," said Jim Almer, whose car was just ahead of the bus. "The bus driver couldn't get back into the right lane. Then it happened. All I saw was dirt flying in the air, and explosion, flames and smoke."

The bus, which carried 32 passengers, fell onto its side on the median of the divided highway and caught fire. Twelve persons were injured, including bus driver Kenneth Burkhardt, whose leg was broken.

California highway patrol officers said they believed the auto driver was thrown under the bus and killed. Apparently there was only one person in the car, officers said.

Rhodesia Plans More Executions

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The Rhodesian government today was reported preparing a new series of executions of African criminals despite a world outcry after the hanging Wednesday of three Negro murderers.

Reliable informants said Thursday night that Prime Minister Ian Smith's executive council had been studying the cases of six Negroes held in custody for about two years awaiting the death penalty.

Meanwhile, public hangman (Lofty) Jillon was reported to have arrived back in Salisbury from his home in Karoi, 150 miles away.

Milton hanged the three Negroes Wednesday despite a reprieve signed by the Queen.

About 116 Negroes are currently held in Rhodesian jails under sentence of death. Seven were sentenced Thursday.

Are We Like God?' Asks Bob Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators Robert F. Kennedy and J. W. Fulbright have sparked a new eruption of Senate debate on Vietnam with demands that Congress be given a say before any major buildup of U.S. forces in the war zone.

Fulbright started Thursday's debate by asserting President Johnson is considering a big increase in U.S. military forces in Vietnam.

Kennedy called current U.S. policies in Vietnam "immoral and intolerable." The New York Democrat said Congress should be consulted on military plans and he added:

"Are we like God? Are we empowered to decide which cities, villages as hamlets will be destroyed? Are we have the authority to kill thousands and thousands because we say we have a commitment?"

16 Missing Miners Found Dead

BULLETIN

CALUMET, La. (CP) — Rescue workers found 16 miners dead at the bottom of a salt-mine shaft here today.

CALUMET, La. (CP) — A four-man search crew scouted the still warm depths of a fire-ravaged salt mine today. They returned glumly, sweat-drenched, with no clue as to the fate of 21 miners trapped deep below two days ago.

"They found no one—nothing," said Robert Fahs, a Cargill, Inc., executive. "But there are many other areas of the mine to be checked."

Moving swiftly through tunnels 80 feet high carved in the huge dome of pure salt, the crew found a bulldozer, three jeeps, a truck, an overturned luncbox—and an empty lower level office.

"... The men went about 1,200 feet out from the shaft," Fahs added. "They made a dog-leg and went by the office to check it out.

"They shut off a bulldozer engine, which was idling."

The 21 miners were trapped at the bottom of the isolated mine when fire erupted at mid-night Tuesday night in the 1,200-feet-deep vertical main shaft.

The rescue workers, coal miners flown in from Madisonville, Ky., prepared for a series of descents and reconnaissance.

Men in the rescue teams had kept their oxygen masks on during all of the scouting trips, as a precaution against possible harmful gases—and their time below was limited by portable oxygen supply.

Through the night a compressor blew 2,000 cubic feet of air a minute into the bottom of the shaft to cool the baked salt in the fire area.

U.S. Goofs--Some Quinte Area Farmers Lose $30 Per Steer

A miscalculation on the part of USA government authorities who over-estimated beef requirements in that country, is to a large extent responsible for the present finalheid woes of feed lot operators in this country.

Mr. J. Hervey Cochran, district supervisor of the production and marketing branch of the Canadian Department of Agriculture, told approximately 300 farmers in Belleville yesterday that because of the unexpected over - production of beef animals south of the border Ontario feed lot operators cannot expect high prices for beef at least until next year.

Mr. Cochran was speaking at the beef day session of the Quinte Farm Conference being held this week at Club Canara.

More than 450 farmers from the four Quinte area counties Jammed Club Canara Wednesday for the opening session of the three day conference which was given over to discussions on the dairy industry.

The conference will conclude today when another large turnout is expected to hear discussions on crops and fertilizers.

The farm conference is being sponsored by the Quinte District Soil and Crop Improvement Association; the county milk committees and the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food.

Yesterday morning the topics under discussion included the management and selection of a beef herd and the proper feeding of beef cows. Charles Gracey, associate director of the livestock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture spoke on cross-breeding for commercial beef production.

Mr. Cochran spoke on the future of beef in Canada and said that because of last year's over-production of beef south of the border, Ontario feedlot operators were being forced to sell at American prices — traditionally several cents per pounds under the Toronto market.

Compounding the production problem is the fact that last year Ontario farmers moved more than the usual numbers of Western beef to the province for fattening.

In the words of Mr. Cochran, they did this because they had been making a little money on beef and also because the feed was available.

Currently beef is selling at between 26.5 and 27.5 cents per pound with a few sales topping 28 cents.

This is a lower price per pound than the young steers were purchased for and some beef lot operators have reported losing as high as $30 per animal.

However, Mr. Cochran felt better days were ahead. Population increase would mean that 40 per cent more beef would be required by 1980 and said this additional production would have to come from Ontario.

Ontario, he said, was in a favorable position for beef finishing because it can grow corn. The province had a better climate than did the West and the freight on young cattle being moved east was not a big factor.

He said that Ontario farmers could finish beef at a lower cost than their counterparts in either Alberta or Iowa — but whether they can make money at it is something else again.

IN MEMORIAM

SEBO — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother who passed away March 8, 1961. Surrounded by friends we are lonely.

In the midst of our joys we see a blue,
With a smile on our face we have a heartache,
Longing for a mother, for you,
Lovingly remembered by daughter Marion, son-in-law Dan and family.

CUNNINGHAM — In loving memory of our dear sister Polly Rifle and pistol shooting and debating have been incorporated into the annual weekend in subsequent years. While the U.S. cadets have yet to lose a single international competition, the fast - talking RMC-ers have split debating honors with the West Point in over the 16 years the traditionally humorous contest has been held.

This year's awards will be presented by Honorable Joseph W. Scott, Minister, Embassy of the United States, hopefully with a large number of the invited military and civic dignitaries on hand.

"Beat the Point" make appearances in RMC corridors and, although the annual match is usually the last of the season for the West Point Black and Golds and RMC Red and Whites, the varsities do more than go through the motions.

The rivalry went onto its 16th year in 1936, when West Point won its first match. Since then, the U.S. cadets have won 15 of the last 20 encounters, including last year's 9-1 route.

Host teams have won the last five games in the alternating home-and-home series.

Nobody really loses. A unique situation finds each team possessing a companion challenge cup.

It seems the Canadians gave West Point permanent possession of one trophy in 1923 as a goodwill gesture when it appeared the U.S. team would never beat RMC.

When West Point finally managed "the impossible," and edged the Canadians 3-2 in 1939, they reciprocated with a goodwill presentation cup of their own, to remain in the permanent possession of RMC.

The trophies will be THE big competition of the year," says Lieut. Gerry Stowe, RMC publications officer, responsible for co-ordinating many of the elaborate preparations for the tradition-linked event.

'Beat the Point' Is Battle Cry at RMC

KINGSTON — Military rivals of 37 years' standing again confront one another here this weekend. But the battles will be of a competitive nature, and the rivalry will be friendly.

Following the prestigious hockey game, the RMC cadets will don their brilliant scarlet tunic formal dress for the much-anticipated ball in the new college gymnasium.

"Date-recruiting" for their West Point guests is a function vital for the weekend's all-round success.

An official program sets the cadet ball closing at "0300 hours" — plenty of time for a good time to be had by all.

A separate ball is now held for staff members of the two colleges. The need for this arrangement was brought home several years ago when 1200 persons crammed onto a dance-floor obviously intended for no more than half that number.

Despite the varied and full program, it's still the original drawing card — the annual hockey game — that attracts most of the attention.

"We look on it as THE big competition of the year," says Lieut. Gerry Stowe, RMC publications officer, responsible for co-ordinating many of the elaborate preparations for the tradition-linked event.

Bata Union May Demand Safety Equipment at Crossing

BATAWA — A spokesman for 350 Bata Shoe workers says his union is prepared to "demand" installation of adequate safety equipment at the village railway crossing that has recurringly been the scene of car - train accidents.

William Larcombe of Trenton, president of Local 715, International Boot and Shoe Workers Union, said by telephone from Toronto last night his union is considering the use of a petition to plead their case.

The petition would also be circulated to members of Bata's machinists' union local, and among the 800 permanent residents of the company community, Mr. Larcombe said.

In all, some 1,350 persons are employed at Bata's shoe manufacturing and engineering operations between Frankford and Trenton. An estimated 1,000 cars daily pass over the crossing, on the road providing access to the village from Highway 33.

"Feelings among our union members are quite high about this," Mr. Larcombe said. "We are now considering circulating a petition in the near future to demand — I repeat— demand that proper automatic signals be placed at the crossing."

The union spokesman said the petition would be presented to "to all parties concerned." At this point, this would include the Bata Company, Sidney Township Council, the CNR, and the federal Railway Transport Committee.

Cars driven by Batawa residents were involved in three serious accidents at the crossing in recent months, each colliding with a daily - scheduled CNR ore freight from Marmora to Picton.

Camera Club To Participate In Festival

On Wednesday evening 20 members and guests attended the regular meeting of the Belleville Camera Club in the Kiwanis Centre. Tentative plans were discussed for participation of the club in the visual arts display at the forthcoming Arts Festival in April, and members were requested to submit any suitable material at the next regular meeting.

Following the business part of the meeting a movie "Shipboard Holiday" was shown. Through this film the members enjoyed a relaxing cruise to the sunny Caribbean with stops at a number of picturesque ports.

Conservation Officers Named

PICTON (Staff) — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority this week set up committees and announced, that Henry Leavens, vice chairman of the authority would be appointed on each of the advisory boards as an ex-officio member.

Members of each of the four advisory boards were appointed during the meeting Finance Advisory board chairman William Smith chose Donald Bond, Ivan Bell and Henry Leavens for his committee.

Wildlife advisory board is led by Keith Parry and his members are Arthur Rychman, Terry Sprague, Jack M. Noble, Ted Wallwork, Bruce Marsin and James Moore, the conservation officer for the county based in Napanee.

Land use advisory board is headed by Donald Bond and contains 11 members, Mr. Bailey, county engineer Donald Clark, Mr. I. Bell, Richard Sutton, Misha Sally Ross, Kenneth Hicks, Robert Marchington, Lyle Vanclief, James Alexander and Robert Williams.

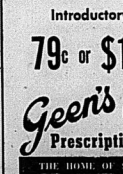
Water advisory board chairman is Ralph Margetson and his members are engineers Allan Reveille and Robert Quick. Heading the new education and public relations advisory board for the coming year is Arthur Rychman. No members chosen as yet for this board.

Prince Edward County Planning Board has set up a liaison between itself and the authority. Planning board chairman Allan Ralley, agreed to set on the land use advisory board, headed by Donald Bond, for the year. Mr. Bond feels assured that there will be no fear of duplication of effort on behalf of these two boards.

Home Saved In Rawdon

RAWDON - Shortage of water last night hampered the efforts of two fire departments as they waged a successful fight to save the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Russell, 6th concession of Rawdon township.

The stile of the two storey brick house was badly damaged and part of the roof was burned off, but the living quarters area was saved. Heavy water damage resulted to the lower floors, but much of the furniture was moved to safety.



The fire was noticed in the attic about 11:30 and the alarm was turned in to the Rawdon volunteer fire department. However, firemen soon ran out of water and a call was made to Stirling for mutual aid assistance.

Again water ran out and a call was put through to Campbellford for a tank truck owned by Wally Wagely. The fire was brought under control about 3:00 a.m.

The loss is said only partially covered by insurance.

Fair Board Decides Against Use of Tents

Members of the Belleville Fair Board have all but decided against the use of tents for accommodation of commercial and manufacturers exhibits at this year's Belleville Fair.

Fair President Cam Bunnett said today the feeling was that tents would not be satisfactory as a temporary replacement for the two old fair buildings torn down last autumn.

Mr. Bunnett said the absence of commercial exhibitors who normally exhibited in the old Commodore's and Manufacturer's buildings would cost the fair money in both space rental and gate receipts but under the circumstances felt this was unavoidable.

A tent rental will be considered to provide accommodation for the women's group which cater meals for the five days of the fair.

Planning for other phases of the fair program is going ahead and members were told last night that arrangements had been made for a professional variety show in the first night attraction.

Eventual replacement of fair accommodation space lost through razing of the old Manufacturer's and Commodores' buildings, will depend on city action with respect to the proposed new arena complex for the fairgrounds.

Tenders for the new arena building will be opened Monday, March 11, at the city hall.

Psychologist Sees Pitfalls In School Reorganization

"School area amalgamation has its points — and pitfalls, A. E. Brown, chief psychologist for Toronto Board of Education stressed last night.

His speech, to the Children's Aid Society, came while Hastings County Council debate on the amalgamation controversy was only a day old.

However, Mr. Brown steered off the politics of the dispute, confining his advice to a specific working area: special services.

"Amalgamation presents you with opportunities, challenges and dangers," he told the CAS annual meeting at at Club Canara.

One big advantage will be provision of students who cannot be accommodated in normal classrooms, he said.

He estimated that perceptually handicapped students are 10-12 per cent of enrolment.

This part of the school population calls not only for proper/staff diagnostic services but adequate facilities.

"The children must have adequate provision to actualize their potential despite their handicaps," said Mr. Brown.

E-en then, there are dangers in segregating such students he warned.

"While for many, children special class placement is their educational salvation, for many others it is quite the opposite."

"You have to balance the effects of remedial teaching against segregation from (a student's) peers. A child should be retained in the normal classroom when possible; segregation should be the last recourse," the psychologist advised.

Amalgamation presages expanding special services — and Mr. Brown had a caution for administrators:

"Special services depends on staff. . ."

"I would suggest to you it is useless to hire a psychologist as window dressing," he warned. "It's useless to have a psychologist service unless it's large enough to make a significant difference in the schools."

He believed "it's better to have an adequate service for part of the system than to take a staff which is too small and try to spread it all over the (school) system."

For greater effectiveness, psychologists should work closely with the teaching staff who are able to assess students readily through daily contact.

Pause That Refreshes

Newly-elected FCS president Tom Burnside pours cool water for guest speaker A. E. Brown, chief psychologist for Toronto schools. Both men took time out for chat during annual meeting at Club Canara.

Madoc Reeve Heads Family Services Body

A veteran of county municipal government is the new president of Hastings County Family and Children's Services.

He is Tom Burnside, reeve of Madoc, and former county warden.

Reeve Burnside was elected at the FCS annual meeting in Club Canara last night.

His election also marks awareness of the wider role being played by the FCS — a fact indicated by outgoing president Thomas Colden of Belleville.

Mr. Colden said the organization has progressed from a "small, rather insular rural organization" to a social agency active in Ontario's child welfare programs.

"A concerted effort is being made to bring the same standard of service to all members of the community," he said.

The county's rural dwellers form 46 per cent of the population served, but received only 29 per cent of the service.

"This is, in part only, our fault," claimed Mr. Colden. "A majority of people using the services . . . are self-referred. But we've found over the years that people will not use a service that's not readily available to them."

For this reason, said the outgoing president, the FCS has opened a Trenton office and will shortly move into new quarters at Bancroft.

But, he cautioned, "all these things cost a great deal of money and require a numerically larger staff."

Treasurer Oriel Griffiths reported 1967 operating costs at $292,500.

The province shared $193,-260 of the cost with Belleville, Trenton and Hastings County paying $81,500.

Child care services cost $117,750 and administration almost $55,000.

Expenditure exceeded revenue by $15,700, chiefly absorbed by providing more foster home care than was anticipated.

Other FCS executive elected were: Douglas Kinney, Trenton, vice-president; Joel Mazer, Belleville, treasurer; Mrs. W. J. Musgrove, Belleville, secretary.

County appointees — Kenneth Holland, Crookston; Charles Gordanier, Deloro; Ross Sprevett, Gilmour.

City appointees - Councillors Enos David and Mrs. Roy Jeffery.

Lay appointees — Gerald Boyce, Belleville; Mrs. D. G. Burr, Belleville; Mrs. F. E. Burrows, Belleville; Gregory Butler, Trenton; Rev. Peter Teti, Bancroft; Donald Lockyer, Belleville; Msgr. J. A. Carley, Belleville; Harry J. Trepanier, Belleville; Glenn Watson, Bancroft, Mrs. W. W. Weaver, Trenton.

Increase Noted In FCS Services

More unwed mothers than ever before, sought help from Hastings County Family and Children's Services in 1967.

The increase was noted last night by FCS director Bruce Kerr at the society's annual meeting in Club Canara.

In all, 46 pregnant girls sought CAS arrangements for confinement and care of their babies.

"Although the figure is not high in relation to the population of the area served, this is the greatest number of cases handled in the recorded history of the society," said Mr. Kerr.

Some 34 of the young mothers relinquished their babies to CAS care.

Mr. Kerr's annual report also revealed these statistics:

A total 530 incidents involving children and families were referred to the service in 1967. More than 200 families and 800 children were under its supervision, or being assisted, at the year's end.

Some 19 children were admitted because of "real neglect." These included three from Hastings (Lots 30 and 40,974); six from Belleville (pop. 22,954) and 10 from Trenton (pop. 13,807).

Exactly 199 families sought family counselling — a majority of them with marital problems. However, the next largest group wanted guidance in "establishing a better relationship with their children."

Belleville had the greatest number of problems in this area — 55 per cent — with the remainder from the county — 29 per cent — and Trenton, 15 per cent.

Mr. Kerr briefly pondered future problems posed by school-area amalgamation.

His organization already provides school attendance counselling services to a majority of county education boards.

"Whether or not we'll continue when the large, single unit of administration comes into effect (in 1969) is not yet known," he said.

"If we continue we'll be responsible for more than 25,000 children scattered over an area 100 miles in length and 25 miles in width — a formidable assignment."

However, Mr. Kerr added, if school authorities desire to retain his organization he "will recommend that we continue, for as long as services are required."

Parks Board: Areas Required Immediately

The need for park development in the fast growing west end of the city was emphasized at yesterday's monthly meeting of the city parks board.

The board was told that action must be taken as soon as possible to acquire parks area needed for the fast growing area.

At the same time, however, the board said the Breault property in the Academic area was not desired for parks development.

The owner of the property has applied to the city for approval of sub-division plans for the area but planning department sanction was held up to see if the parks board required the property for parks development.

The board will consider acquisition of a property in the Centennial Secondary School area south of Dundas East as potential park property. The property is now owned by the Ontario Government.

Members of the now closed Hillcrest United Church have no objection to their church being used for recreational purposes by the city but final details of the transfer are still to be worked out by the organizations involved.

Members of the recreation-arena committee decided against a request from the Quinte Figure Skating Club for ice time during the last two weeks of April.

The proposed close-down date for the arena has been set for April 13 and the prospects of renting over and above the time Quinte skaters requested were felt to be slim.

Board member Donald Joss in a written submission to the board said that the in the near future the city parks board will have to confine itself to the development of large multi - purpose parks and abandon the small neighborhood parks and recreational concept.

Use of the arena on May 26 by local girl guides and boy scouts in connection with their annual parade and service was approved.

And arena manager Bob Burrowes was given the go-ahead to make arrangements for the Don Messer and Hank Snow groups as part of the arena's summer program.

Justice Often Balance Between Serious, Comic

TRENTON — Hastings County Crown Attorney John Pringle, Q.C., proved to local Kiwanians last night that the scales of justice often balance the serious with the comic.

Guest speaker at the regular Kiwanis dinner-meeting in the Gilbert Hotel, Mr. Pringle maintained a humorous pace as he recounted some of the less grave courtroom moments he had encountered.

Self-control for a prosecutor was an invaluable asset. It wouldn't do to be like the emotional prosecutor seeking the electric chair for an accused, and who blurted out to the jury "Give him the juice or turn him loose!"

Traffic Lights Installed

Installation of new traffic lights at three city intersections are being carried out this week by Stacey Electric of Toronto.

The intersections at which lights are being installed are at the corner of Catherine and Coleman streets; Bridge and Church streets, and at the corner of Farley and Victoria.

A city engineering department spokesman said today that none of the installations are yet working as the necessary wiring is still to be completed.

Miniature Depot Proposed For Zwick's Island Park

Zwick's Island Centennial Park could become a miniature depot commemorating the city's importance as a railway divisional point, if proposals of Belleville's civic railway committee are realized.

In addition to the locomotive already positioned on the park, the railway committee not only suggests moving the old Shannonville station to the park — but also a caboose, freight car and a water tank.

Yesterday Nick Mika the committee chairman outlined the proposals to members of the city parks board who received the suggestions with certain amount of reservation.

The feeling was that Zwick's Island Park was indended for the people and that the positioning of the additional structures could make it too cluttered.

The parks board called on parks director Lloyd Syer and engineer Ken Bird to completely review the site and to study the feasibility and desirability of moving the proposed added attractions to the Island.

Also the railway committee was asked to prepare complete details of their proposals and present them to the parks board at their earliest convenience.

Justice Holiday Creates Problem For Authority

The new policy for Easter school holidays to be observed during the third week in March could put a slight crimp in the Moira River Conservation Authority plans to provide a sugar bush visit for school children this spring.

In other words school holidays are for the week March 17 to 23 and depending on the weather this could be right in the middle of the maple syrup season.

The Authority has made arrangements with Wilmer Collins of Moira for visits by school children to his sugar bush as a break from regular classes. However, classes won't resume after the Easter holidays until March 25.

Mr. Collins hasn't tapped his sugar bush yet and unless the weather warms up next week it is doubtful if much sap runs next week. But the syrup season lasts only for about two weeks.

Plans call for school children in grade 3 and 4 to be bussed to the sugar bush area where they will be shown the syrup making procedure. More than 1,200 pupils are already lined up for the outing.

On weekends the general public and organized groups are being invited to the sugar bush.

The sugar bush visitations are all part of the Moira Authority educational program.

For the past two years one day conservation schools have been staged at the Vanderwater Bank at Thomasburg which the grade 6 pupils visit the park area in June for nature studies.

This year the conservation school will be extended to include an autumn visit as well.

The Authority educational advisory committee will recommend holding of an Authority Picnic this summer and also is planning to investigate provision of litter bags bearing the Authority crest as a means of publicizing the conservation program.

Tax Proposals

Last month's Government defeat over the five per cent surcharge on personal income tax has had a mollifying effect on the Liberal administration.

Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp, in yet another of his stopgap efforts to curb inflation and maintain a healthy economy now proposes a three per cent surcharge instead, together with a three per cent surcharge on corporation tax.

The new taxes would produce $150 million in the fiscal year 1968-69 starting next month.

At the same time Mr. Sharp said the Government plans emergency cuts in spending of $75 million.

While raising money on the one hand, Mr. Sharp indicated the Government plans to make further savings as well. He said there would be cuts in spending totalling $75 million. A freeze in the number of civil servants is also planned.

What effect the latter move will have is difficult to gauge without knowing how many are involved. For some time, however, a considerable number of additional staff have been taken on by the civil service.

The proposed review board to keep watch on prices, wages, costs and income should be beneficial. Anything that encourages restraint in these inflationary times is a good idea.

U. S. Strategy

In a recent editorial we suggested the American command in Vietnam is inviting trouble by establishing fixed bases that with the best will in the world are still vulnerable to attack.

Now we find the same thing being said — by none other than the French general whose army was defeated at Dien Bien Phu 14 years ago.

General Rene Cogny, in an interview in Paris, referred to the U.S. base at Khe Sanh, adding, "The Americans should not leave the Khe Sanh troops alone as if in a boxing ring, taking the punch. Immobility, that's the enemy."

There could be no better illustration of this situation than an Associated Press wirephoto from Vietnam. It shows a solitary American sentry on duty in the trenches. U.S. marine starting his day in the trenches. He is having a shave, and while it is encouraging to know there is time for such niceties even in the front-line the general impression is reminiscent of a scene from the first world war.

Gen. Cogny should know what he is talking about, and while he does not anticipate another Dien Bien Phu the advice that attack is the best means of defence should be taken seriously. And that apparently is the U.S. view too. By coincidence, a senior U.S. military source in Vietnam was telling newsmen the allies were about to resume the offensive.

They Seek Asylum

Political asylum has been the goal of many over the years. A high-ranking Czech officer, Maj.-Gen. Jan Sejna is the latest to come over to the West. He was accompanied by his son and the latter's fiancee, and they are now in the United States.

Meanwhile, in this country, Cuban gymnast Manuela Ponce, 24, is awaiting word whether she may stay in Canada.

Asylum is not automatic, as an immigration spokesman has indicated. Miss Ponce went into hiding after competing in the North American gymnastic championships in Vancouver. There she was told it would be two or three weeks at least before her application would be finalized.

The spokesman said: "We want to know everything about her, her background, her associations in Canada, so we can decide if she should remain here."

This is all to the good. While Miss Ponce is likely genuine in her desire to stay in Canada, any affiliations she may have had in Cuba with the communist party would naturally have to be checked out. Political asylum is an easy way to infiltrate spies into a country. Hence the precautions.

In Vancouver, district administrator of immigration Ray Corbett said, "We will be as free as anyone else. We have literally scores of persons waiting to see if they can stay in Canada... Of course not too many of them give the reason they want political asylum."

Are these "scores of persons" prospective immigrants in the usual sense (even their screaming takes a considerable time)? Or are they people who somehow have managed to enter the country, say on a visitor's visa, and are now seeking permanent residence?

Strain on Reserves

U. S. May Tap NATO Forces for Vietnam Conflict

ARCHER MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—The most difficult decisions of Lyndon Johnson's troubled presidency appear to confront him.

They consist of suggesting demands for more men and money for the Vietnam war and for the domestic front.

He is expected to continue to say the U.S. can afford both.

But the executive will be another matter, with broad domestic and international ramifications. The task is being made no easier by the U.S. election campaign pointing toward this November's election of a president.

Take manpower. It is generally assumed the military have requested at least another 100,000 men for Vietnam, where more than 500,000 now are located and the existing ceiling is 525,000.

If President Johnson agrees, it is expected the additions would be called up. Manpower supplies are growing short. The president last month called up the first reserves, 14,500 men, despite reluctance to push the national war footing that far.

There are 225,000 American troops "still committed to NATO in Europe. The removal of more men for Vietnam have stirred previous political demands that the NATO forces be tapped.

The U.S. has earmarked 35,000 of these forces for "redeployment" but is reluctant to further weaken the alliance muscle—and perhaps further erode the alliance itself—by withdrawing more when the Soviet Union has some 20 divisions still poised in Eastern Germany.

Then, last week's detailed analysis of last summer's city riots outlined vast new demands for funds to deal with the problem. A downer effect of thought—not so uncommon—is that the need for reserve-force manpower may be another indented neat summer in American cities.

The president's dilemma politically is illustrated by the fire directed at him from left and right.

Segregationist George Wallace, a third-party candidate, hits consistently at "violence in the streets."

Democratic rival Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota seems to have picked up some steam as an anti-war candidate and Richard Nixon leading the Republican field again, has begun hitting Johnson's war record in a way that demonstrates he has lost none of his political adroitness.

Without any specifics, Nixon the president will possibly grounds and holds out prospects of peace when he says:

"If in November this war is not over, after all of this power has been at their disposal, then I say that the American people will be justified to elect a new leadership. And I pledge to you that the new president will end the war and win the peace in the Pacific."

A new manifestation of anti-war sentiment, said emerging in the business community, could be more serious for President Johnson. This sentiment says the war is immoral or non-winnable.

The Wall Street Journal says signs are "unmistakable" that the market rises on peace rumors and falls on portents of more war.

Despite increased activity and profits from war industries, it concluded, the burden of Vietnam is aggravating certain economic ills as inflation and the balance-of-payments deficit and it raises the threat of an economy shackled by government wage-price controls—the greatest of all investor fears at the moment."

A "Tired Canadian" Speaks Up

The following letter from a Vancouver woman has appeared in a number of newspapers throughout the country.

I am a tired Canadian. I'm tired of the "ob and the mob; of the "Yankee - hater and Bible - baiter; the Peacenik, Vietnik and other silly who think it's clean break the law and get a medal for doing so.

I'm tired of newspapermen who dish up the news as if they were throwing swill to the pigs; poets and playwrights who haven't progressed beyond four letter words; TV producers who inspire by raking in the muck instead of pointing to the stars and writers who continually dangle the bogey of Fascism in front of us while dressing communism up like Santa Claus.

I'm tired of fat-cat Union bosses crying poverty while grinding their thumbs into the eye of the fixed income consumer; of pulpit pundits who preach as if they had a direct "Hot line" to heaven and a divine mandate to dictate the political philosophy of the Church — who proclaim "love thine enemies" so long as they don't relate the State and Repression.

I'm tired of being the scapegoat for every last punk who ever stole a hubcap, beat up an old man or mugged heroin. I'm tired of supporting families who've made welfare a way of life for three generations and Hippies who use it to support their sloth.

I'm tired of professors who fawn on "servants of the people" in order to get hold of the national cash box and who then proceed to spend taxpayers' money like a prostitute let loose at a perfume counter!

I'm tired of kitchen comrades who dominate "open line" radio shows and political commentators who try to dominate our Universities. I'm tired of an apathetic John Doe who seems to have spaghetti where his backbone ought to be.

Vancouver, B. C.

Today in History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

March 9, 1968 . . .

John Charles Fremont reached Sutter's Fort, Calif., 120 years ago today —in 1848—completing the second winter crossing of the Sierra Nevada, after losing 11 men in a blizzard attempting to find a new route. Freemont was one of the chief explorers of the American West and was associated with successionist attempts of American settlers in Mexico. When he reached the huge California estate in 1848 he was greeted with news that gold had been found. He became a multi-millionaire but was penniless again in 1870, after a collapse of his railway empire.

1849—France granted Vietnam independence.

1957—The new African state of Ghana was admitted into the union.

First World War

Fifth years ago tonight—in 1918—British troops repulsed a German attack over a mile front south of Houthoulst Forest in the Ypres sector. 13 persons were killed and 50 injured in a German night raid on Paris. French chasseurs pivoted confidence in the Clemenceau government.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—Finns continued fighting against Russian attacks—a Viipuri; the Russian-Finnish peace negotiations at Stockholm were reported to have reached the final stage; British forces reported the capture of four German auxiliary vessels off the German coast.

Well, Boys Will Be Boys!

Letter to the Globe and Mail

I was intrigued by the letter from Mrs. Patricia Hartnett (Go-Go Bye-Bye" — Feb. 27).

I wonder how long she intends to hide her four sons from such photos of dancing girls, and at what age they will cease to be "impressionable". I am amazed that her under-12 boys have actually been impressed by this picture of a partially clad girl. Had a photo of Lester Pearson appeared on the same page, I am sure he would have got the same attention from the child rest unless, of course, the mother pointed out the "immorality" of the cheesecake photo.

It is quite naive to believe that her children should not see this type of article in that The Globe and Mail should not print them. What better place for the boys to learn these pictures than at the breakfast table, with their parents, rather than secretly in the backalley? I don't doubt that many of our peeping-toms and other sex deviates developed up in the type of background which Mrs. Hartnett feels is "broadminded". Had a father's Playmate of the Month, pinned up behind the bar in our recreation room! (Mrs.) Marian Crow

Rhodesia Executes Three Negroes

BY HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — The Commonwealth office today declared the hanging of three convicted Africans in Rhodesia, but a Commonwealth office official said he does not believe this will have any effect on British attempts to reach a negotiated settlement with the Ian Smith regime.

While London newspapers headlined the story and predicted the Ian Smith defiance of the Queen will end all remaining links between Britain and Rhodesia, the official suggested Smith is unlikely to make any early move towards a republic.

This would be considered in London as an illegal act, just as Smith's 1965 declaration of Independence was considered illegal, he said.

Though Smith's men had defied the Queen when she ordered a reprieve for the three Negroes, the Commonwealth office said the Rhodesian decision was based on an interpretation of the law.

And while this judicial argument is heard, it is also possible that the Smith regime may order the hanging of more than 107 Negroes under sentence of death.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home, former Conservative prime minister, who was recently in Salisbury conferring with Smith, said today he received news of the hangings with "a creep sense of shock and outrage."

British newspapers predicted the anger of the British government may fall on Sir Hugh Beadle, Rhodesian chief justice who had been living in the isolated home of Sir Humperey Gibbs, the British governor no longer recognized by the Smith group.

Sir Hugh, who ruled that the Queen's order had no effect, has moved out of the governor's home.

Sir Hugh's ruling was apparently based on the view that the Smith regime had full de jure authority and that the Queen could only act on the advice of that authority and not that of the British administration on Rhodesian matters.

Minimum Wage in U.S.

Dallas Morning News

The federal minimum wage has gone up from $1.15 to $1.30. Supporters who pushed the increase through Congress a couple of years ago will no doubt laud the increase as another step in "eliminating" poverty. After all, a man earning $1.40 an hour Jan. 31 is now making $1.60 an hour. If he puts in a 40-hour week, theoretically he'll be $8 further from poverty. But there is another side to it, economically.

Every time the minimum wage increases, many of the nation's so-called marginal workers — those with few skills who are worth only the minimum wage — didn't get the raise. Instead, they lose their jobs. Just because the Congress says any worker is entitled to earn $1.60 an hour doesn't mean he is (1) worth it, or (2) has an employer who can afford to pay it.

The one had result of enforced "minimums" is to foreclose opportunity for the poor and untrained who cannot get jobs where they could learn the skills that would enable them to earn more than the minimum.

Check the crime statistics and the studies of our big-city riots to see where the minimum wage drives these refugees from Federal beneficence.

Three Per Cent Surcharges

Finance Minister Sharp Modifies His Tax Proposals

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp appears to have taken suggestions from both the main opposition parties in drafting his new tax proposals, without retreating far from his original intentions.

When he introduced his mini-budget last Nov. 30, with its five per-cent surtax on personal income taxes, Mr. Sharp ran into criticism from the opposition which culminated Feb. 19 in defeat of his income tax bill.

The criticisms were that the tax was excessive on the lower income brackets, that corporations should be taxed more and individuals less, that a real attack wasn't being mounted on inflation, and that the government was too soft on price increases.

Behind the five-per-cent surtax plan was the government's belief that it had to increase federal revenues to at least approach a balanced budget.

It did not want to raise taxes in such a way as would lead to still higher prices and costs.

So, it chose the surtax, rather than a sales or corporation tax increase.

Another non-inflationary way of increasing revenues was to accelerate the speed of paying corporation income taxes. They were to be—and will be—paid by corporations within two months of the end of a company's tax period, rather than three months.

This provision is being retained in the new tax plan.

The five-per-cent surtax on personal income taxes is being replaced with three-per-cent surtaxes on both personal income and corporation taxes.

Here, Mr. Sharp retains the philosophy of his original proposal but adopts the Tory opposition's cry for new tax on corporations.

The $600 ceiling on what any one taxpayer would pay is being removed, and the floor at which the surtax starts is being raised to $200 of personal income tax from $100. This reduces the tax on lower-income taxpayers but substantially increases it in the brackets above $50,000.

Mr. Sharp frome total government employment and will trim some $75,000,000 from government spending in the new fiscal year starting April 1.

The New Democratic Party has long advocated establishment of a prices review board to control unwarranted price increases.

Mr. Sharp, saying the federal government hasn't the constitutional power to control prices in peacetime, went at least so far as to say the government will establish a board to serve as a watchdog on unwarranted price and wage increases.

Florida-Bahamas Racing

Morch Skippers Elektra to Class Win

A Belleville - built yacht with a well - known city skipper at the helm has created a big stir among the world's top yachtsmen in the 1968 Southern Ocean Racing Conference completed today off Florida and the Bahamas.

Elektra II built by Belleville Marine Yards, skippered by Ian Morch and owned by Gordon Stonehouse of Port Credit, came first in her class and 24th in a fleet of 80 yachts in a 25 - mile race off Miami last Saturday for the Governor's Cup.

In her second race of the conference, Elektra finished second in her class and second in the overall fleet. She finished the 184 - mile Miami - to - Nassau race in 38½ hours. In doing so she finished ahead of the much heralded Red Jacket of Toronto which came in eighth.

Today the yacht was entered in the 30 mile Nassau Cup race.

Owners and skippers of what are said to be the "world's fastest yachts" eyed the Canadian - built "Elektra" with raised eyebrows since she is the second smallest craft in the participating fleet.

She is a corvette class boat 31 feet in length. The rest of the fleet ranges in size from a 73 - foot yawl to a thirty-foot yacht, which is headed for the grand prize of the conference.

Mr. Morch is an experienced skipper who has won many events in his own craft the "North Star".

"Elektra" is crewed by owner Mr. Stonehouse, boat designer George Cuthbertson of Port Credit, George Hinterholler of Niagara Falls and Bruce Kirby of Chicago, formerly of Ottawa.

The Southern Ocean Racing Conference attracts the best competitive yachts from all over the continent.

It is a series of six races with points awarded for each race towards the over-all championship.

Yachts of all sizes compete and are rated in four classes according to size and handicapped to provide equal performances.

Over the years, this competition has become the high point of long distance racing in North America.

A number of Canadians are competing this year and the 45-foot sloop "Red Jacket" owned by Perry Connolly of the RCYC of Toronto has been a top contender in races so far.

Monthly Seminars

Police Discuss Drug Problem

Belleville is the focal point for area policemen when it comes to discussing and learning about specialized areas in police activity.

A program initiated by Chief C. D. Crosby of the Belleville police force to keep his force up to date on new developments boomeranged into an all out police seminar when it was made open to all area police.

Over 80 men involved in police work throughout the Quinte area showed up for the first session held this week at the Belleville police station. Not only were municipal police forces represented but RCMP were present along with members of the Ontario provincial police, CNR police — even service police from the Canadian Forces base in Trenton attended.

RCMP officers were the lead off speakers discussing drugs and methods of controlling drug problems. Chief Crosby said that the seminars, held once a month, will have both land and out of town speakers. Coming up will be representatives from the attorney general's office and the Centre of Forensic Sciences in Toronto (the police lab).

"As crime is becoming more and more sophisticated," the Belleville police chief pointed out, "police have to become more knowledgeable and increase their knowledge of all phases of crime and police developments."

Seminars will be held once a month with the exception of a few months during the summer and it is expected that attendance will increase even more.

The bearers were James Harrington, Gordon Johnson, Asa Cook, John Sexton, Thor Jensen and Charles Bedson.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Golds continued to soar in active mid-morning trading today as reports from London said that the rush on gold bullion was assuming panic proportions.

The gold index shot up 8.19 to 249.72 as Campbell Red Lake jumped 24¼ to 424¼ in light trading and Dome Mines 2 to 82 on sales of about 5,000 shares.

Kerr Addison advanced ½ to 16¾, Giant Yellowknife 4¢ to 13½, Camflo Mines 6.40 and Dickenson 15 cents to 3.05.

Campbell Chibougamau, which produces both gold and by-product to its copper operations, climbed 62¼ cents to 10¼.

Industrials were mixed Standard Radio, which proposed a five-for-one stock split Thursday, rose 1¾ to 43¾ and Noranda 1¼ to 47¾. Falconbridge fell ¾ to 94¼.

Oils were generally stronger. Central-Del-Rio gained ½ to 16¼ and Canadian Superior and Home A ¼ each to 37¼ and 21.

On index, industrials slipped .05 to 148.85. Oils were up 2.03 to 178.58 and base metals 51 to 100.00.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,015,000 shares compared with 913,000 at the same time Thursday.

Thursday, devaluation-scared speculators began to buy back gold shares as prices recovered a large part of Wednesday's tumble. Volume was light.

The volatile gold index closed at 241.53, up 2.08 points.

Campbell Red Lake closed at 20, up 2. Dom-Expl was jumped to 80.

Most active gold issue was Camflo, which advanced 35 cents to 6.15 on sales of 48,000 shares.

Wright-Hargreaves rose 55 cents to 3.55 in a 35,000-share turnover.

Industrials were mixed. Canadian Westinghouse climbed 1½ to 17, Noranda ¾ to 48¼ and Auto Electric ¼ to 10¾. Seagrams dropped 1½ to 40¾.

Base metals and western oils rallied. Canadian Superior Oil advanced ½ to 37¾ and Highland-Bell ¼ to 13¼.

On index, industrials edged up .02 to 149.00, base metals .86 to 99.49 and western oils 1.04 to 176.55.

Volume was 2,700,000 shares compared with 3,323,000 Wednesday. Advances outnumbered declines 227 to 213.

This should also strengthen confidence in the Canadian dollar.

Besides exempting Canada from controls over American direct investment abroad, the U.S. government has also authorized a $500,000,000 standby credit by its export-import bank to be used if needed to defend the Canadian dollar against devaluation.

The Bank for International Settlements, and the central banks of Germany and Italy, have also agreed to support the standby poll of Canadian credit and even more is available from other sources if required.

These announcements were made less than 24 hours after the finance minister unveiled a new surtax plan and a cut in government spending designed to bring the federal budget almost into balance.

The Thursday agreement with Washington was reached in return for two promises by Canada. They are:

—The government will ensure that Canada is not used by American firms as a back-door escape route for direct investment in other countries, still tightly controlled by President Johnson's New Year's Day mandatory guidelines.

—The government will invest its U.S. dollar reserves in 'interest-bearing American investment bonds, similar to those used to finance the Columbia River Treaty. Hitherto most of Canada's cash reserves have been invested in U.S. treasury bills and other short-term securities.

One of the side effects may be to reduce short-term interest rates in Canada. Hitherto, the New York market has been open to Canadian financing only on long-term new issues, driving interest rates in Canada up to some extent.

Mr. Sharp said he thought the new moves clearly demonstrated Canada's ability to deal with its own problems.

He traced the world's problems to the U.S. involvement in Vietnam, the drain on U.S. gold reserves abroad, and President Johnson's inability to get a tax increase through Congress.

These developments had made the world nervous about Washington's ability to maintain the value of the U.S. dollar—in other words, the price of gold—and a steady rise in interest rates in Canada, the underlying strength of the Canadian economy," he added.

"All doubts regarding our access to capital from the United States now have been removed.

Canada's credit rating in international banking, "are in the interests of both countries and in the general interest internationally."

"There is no doubt about the

Country Club Set For Curling Action

TRENTON — The Country Club should be the scene tonight of a battle of curling experience.

In this hark, we have Bill Hope's high school foursome, fresh from the exhilarating experience of winning Dominion Schoolboy curling honors.

Tonight's opposition for the Hope rink nave had a bit of hospital experience themselves.

Lyle Carr's Ontario Senior Men's finalists will meet the popular schoolboy curlers in an exhibition for the benefit of those who may not have seen either title - winning team in action.

The seniors will only admit to being "55-plus", but promise to show their teen competition which end of a broom is up.

Tickets are available at the Country Club tor at 50 cents, with the invitation for an entertaining evening extended to everyone.

Student - age spectators will have a good seating area on the ice, in keeping with L.L.B.O. regulations.

Award pre-stations and piping - in ceremonies are included in the program, which gets under way at 8.30.

Posing Pointers for Interesting Photos

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

Did you know that one out of every 13 girls enters a beauty, modelling or talent contest before she reaches her 23rd birthday? Many of these pageants require a background resume, plus a snapshot. Whether you plan to enter such a competition, or simply enter a picture in the family album, here are some posing pointers that can make your photos more interesting. The suggestions, illustrated by Kathy Caselton, Kodak's Most Photogenic Smile Girl, start with the word "simplicity." As the snapshots show, same girl, same clothes, same pose, but note how too many accessories steal the scene.

Nowhere does the wrong hair style and make-up show up more clearly than in the X-ray eye of the camera. Even clown-around candid shots can be pretty revealing. Kathy, a sophomore at the University of Oregon, prefers the coed's natural look in cosmetics — foundation base, never more than two shades darker than skin tone; medium-hued lipstick; and eye make-up that's softened with the fingertips. Hair that's shiny and casually styled keeps the spotlight on Kathy's luminous eyes and hair. When you look at a snapshot of her, you see her!

Many shutterbugs like to experiment with unusual camera angles for spontaneous and dramatic results. Whether you are posing for a funny, fashion or family picture, there are certain body positions that are more flattering. Tilting the shoulders gives more action to the shot, while turning the torso slightly from the lens does wonders in slimming the silhouette. Also, if you want a come-alive smile, but usually find lips too tight or grin too big, try placing the tongue behind the upper teeth. This controls smile, keeping it balanced and beautiful.

P.S. Would you like to know the secret of excellent pictures? Our brand-new booklet illustrates how to pose, how to get more action into candids, plus make-up and fashion tips. For a copy of this photo-filled pamphlet enclose 25c and a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Reba and Bonnie Churchill, Picture This, c/o The Intelligencer, Room 1310, 80 King St. W., Toronto, Ontario.

Kathy Caselton, Kodak's Most Photogenic Smile Girl, illustrates that 'simplicity' is the key.

Too many accessories tend to steal the show from an interesting subject.

Contest Open to Women Writers

TORONTO (CP) — Deadline for this year's annual Canadian Women's Press Club awards is Sunday, March 31. The contest is open to all women writers in Canada.

A medal and $100 will be awarded the winner in each category, a certificate and $50 to those given second place.

Categories include a news or feature story under 1,500 words, a feature story 1,500 words or more, a column, including editorial or critical comment, or a script for a radio or TV talk.

Entries must have appeared in a newspaper or magazine or have been used on radio or television. Two entries are allowed in each category and three copies are required of each entry.

All entries must be in the hands of award chairman, Miss Jean Danard, 71 Albertus Ave., Toronto 12, by March 31.

WEDDING

BREWER — ATACK

TWEED — Nancy Elizabeth Atack and Robert Douglas Brewer, both of Kingston, were married in St. John's Anglican Church, recently with Rev. Arthur Thompson officiating at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Frederick Atack and Mrs. Atack of Kingston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brewer of Pickering.

Lt. Col. Leonard Atack of Ottawa, the bride's brother gave her in marriage.

Attending the bride was Miss Sharyn Lange of Trenton, as maid-of-honor, Kathryn Duck of Carleton Place and Susan Alford of Chaffey's Locks, as bridesmaids. The bride's niece, Ellen Atack of Collins Bay, was flower girl.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Richard Brewer of Trenton. The bridegroom's brother, James Brewer of Toronto, was usher. The bridegroom's son, Douglas Brewer, was ring-bearer.

Following a reception held in Queen's Faculty Club, the couple left on a trip to Western Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewer will reside in Kingston.

SOCIAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Insley, Trenton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne, to Donald Matheson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Major Matheson, Trenton. The marriage will take place April 5, at 7 p.m. at St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton.

CFB Women's Group Enjoys Fashion Show

The March meeting of the Women's Auxiliary, Canadian Forces Base, Trenton featured a fashion show of gowns and suits which included some beautiful evening dresses as well as casual wear ensembles. Each member modelled her own particular item.

Following the showing of fashions a short business meeting was held when it was decided that a bake sale would be held the latter part of March. It was noted that donations for same would be greatly appreciated. Members also decided that two bursaries to students of Canadian Forces' parents will be offered again this year amounting to $200 each.

Coffee and doughnuts were served during a social half hour. The next meeting is to be held in Breadner Public School on April 1.

W.I. Board Holds Meet

The Hastings East District Women's Institute board of directors' meeting was held recently at the home of Mrs. J. McLaren, Gilbert Street, Belleville.

During the course of business it was decided to send the district secretary to the officers' conference at Guelph on May 1 and 2. Plans were also made for a district birthday tea to be held in the Plainfield Institute hall in April. At this time each branch will be responsible for one table and contribute an item for the program.

The district annual meeting is to be held Thursday, May 16 at the Front Road Church at which time the Quinte branch will host the members. Plans were also discussed for this program.

Lunch was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Couple Marks 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Harrison were honored on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary at a gathering of friends and relatives at Plainfield Orange Hall.

Following a short program presented by Mrs. Harry Harrison and Allen Gibson, Rev. G. Fullerton spoke on the changes that had taken place in the last 50 years.

Ted Wilson read an address and Allen Gibson and Jack Skelly presented the couple with gifts on behalf of the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison received a scroll from the Province of Ontario and messages of congratulations from Clarke Rollins MPP, Lee Grills, MP, Robert Stanfield and John P. Robarts.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were married by Rev. R. T. Richards Feb. 27, 1918, at the home of the bride's uncle, J. H. Blakely, Thomasburgh. Mrs. Harrison is the former Annie Fisher. The only attendants were Helen and Bernice Blakely, now Mrs. Gerald Reid and Mrs. Reginald Reid, both of whom were present at the anniversary party.

The couple lived on a farm in Rednersville before moving to Plainfield. They have three sons, Johnny, 3rd concession of Thurlow; Roy, Peterborough; and Karl, Plainfield; 11 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Ann Landers

Sisters Make Fun Of Girlfriend's Lisp

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am going with a very nice girl. In fact she is the finest young woman I've ever dated. There is only one problem — and it really didn't bother me very much until lately. Sally lisps.

When I introduced her to my sisters they were very cordial to her face, but the next day they revealed me with, "Tony now, about that Thally — she's thum thweetie-pie."

I didn't realize Sally's lisp was so pronounced. One of my sisters said that in my case love was not only blind, but deaf as well. Now that they've made such a big deal out of it I am wondering if a person who lisps can be cured of it. Can you tell me? — CONCERNED.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR CONCERNED: A lisp can be corrected, but the method depends on what is causing the lisp. A speech therapist should make the determination. It could be the teeth, a malformation of the tongue or a faulty palate arch.

Your sisters sound as friendly as a pack of jackals. Has anyone ever told them it's in terrible taste to make fun of a physical disability? If not, may I be the first?

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been married to a professional man for 13 years. The first years were not easy, but now we are making real progress and the hard work is paying off. We have a lovely home and three children, and I'm beginning to enjoy life. I think my husband is, too. With another female.

My family and friends would probably be horrified at my attitude but I don't mind if my husband has a little fling, just as long as he doesn't appear in public with the broad. I view my 13 years of hard work as an investment and I don't want anyone else to cash in on the upcoming benefits, which promise to be considerable.

I've heard most men start to get foolish at 50. My husband is 15 years ahead of schedule. I don't want a lecture on morals, all I want to know is how to prevent this man of mine from roaming too far off the ranch. — THINK TANK.

DEAR THINK: The cash register in the background is making so much noise I can scarcely concentrate on an answer, but I'll do my best.

Don't nag. Don't play detective. Don't attempt to extract any confessions. And don't bug him. Try to figure out what he finds about "the broad" that is so attractive. Make your best effort to furnish him with something at least as good — maybe better.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you'll come up with the right answer to this and when you do it will look so simple I'll wonder why I couldn't figure it out myself.

My mother came to visit three months ago and became gravely ill. She is in her late 70's and the doctors have told me the end can come any time. She has said she wants to be buried in Oklahoma, near Dad, but I happen to know there is no plot available near him. If I bury Mother here I could look after her grave, which I could not do otherwise. I am reluctant to bury her here, however, because all her friends and a favorite clergyman are in Oklahoma. She would have a big funeral there and a small one here. I am so upset over this I can't sleep. What's the answer? — CONFUSED IRENE.

DEAR CONFUSED: Bury your mother in Oklahoma, where she has friends and a favorite clergyman. Select a plot as near your dad as possible, and please accept my deep sympathy, Irene.

Successful Living

Practical Joke Backfires; New Grandma Loves Soother

Dear Doris: I have a very close girl friend who became a grandmother today for the first time. For a joke I gave her a card and a baby soother.

To my surprise and I must say shock, she kept sucking on the darn thing most of the afternoon. Doris, can this be normal or have I just got a real kooky girl friend? Until now I thought she was great. — Just Asking.

Dear Just Asking: I'd say she was being kooky, which is more or less normal for certain happy people. Seems to me she was also savoring the idea of being a grandmother!

To suggest that she was at long last indulging an infantile urge to suck would be to be super-psychological. If she is a close friend of yours, you must be used to her impulses to clown a little — and why not?

* * *

Dear Doris: We are social outcasts! We are both in our late teens and nobody ever asks us out, they just come to us with their own problems. For example: There's one guy who has the gall to phone one of us up to tell her how much he loves his girl friend.

Even our families don't love us. They call us the "Lee sisters". Sweet and ugly. We are reasonably intelligent and aren't that bad looking (that is, we're nothing to write home about, but we'll pass.)

Our mothers say we are too "picky" about boys. However we don't know where they ever got the idea because around this neck of the woods there aren't many prospects to choose from. What we want to know is: How can you meet nice guys without being called pick-ups?

We are not the 4-H type. — The Two Lee Sisters.

Dear Sisters: If 4-H is the type that meets the boys, what about changing your style? Looks aren't everything but sociability and helpfulness leap right on drawing like a magnet.

Make the Lee Sisters stands for Friendlee and Kindlee; and just never, never act scornful and superior about your particular neck of the woods.

Dear Doris: Do you know the poem "When Pa Was Sick"? Or one where the wife needed many things from town but the husband didn't have time to go so she bid his tobacco and soon he was on his way?

My humorous poems would be appreciated. — Grade Five Teacher.

Grade Five Teacher: Both sound intriguing. Readers have produced many old favorites for us, so perhaps they will come in too.

* * *

(Try turning your trouble into triumph by getting help from a trained social worker. Doris can put you on the right track.)

ANSWER: We have had so many requests for this we decided to repeat it.

MEAT AND VEGETABLES
BABY FOOD (4 average servings)

one-third cup chopped cooked meat (packed)
½ cup cooked vegetables (broccoli, peas, spinach, beans, carrots, squash, etc.)
2 tablespoons potato water (from boiling potato)

Measure all ingredients into blender goblet. Buzz on high speed for 30 seconds. Turn off power and scrape down sides with rubber spatula and push mass down into blades. Buzz on high speed one minute until mass is a smooth puree. Fill to the brim for success of a freshly washed ice cube tray and freeze solid. Do better still use four individual plastic ice cubers. When frozen solid transfer to double plastic bags and store in freezer.

OAT CEREAL BABY FOOD
(4 to 6 servings)

½ cup quick-cooking rolled oats
1 tablespoon fresh wheat germ
2 cups boiling water

FRIDAY

Dinner Menus

Baked Tuna Loaf; Curry Sauce; Baked Stuffed Potatoes; Glazed Carrots; Shredded Cole Slaw; Marble Layer Cake; Coffee.

¼ teaspoon salt

Stir wheat germ into rolled oats. Into top of double boiler over direct heat measure water and salt and when boiling slowly add oats and wheat germ, stirring constantly until bubbling. Transfer to bottom of double boiler containing boiling water and cover and cook 1¼ hours, stirring 3 or 3 times during cooking period. Cool. Buzz in blender until perfectly smooth, stopping halfway through to scrape down sides. Pour into clean baby food jars cover and store in refrigerator. Or freeze if to be stored longer than four days. Amount in jars depends on size and appetite and age of baby. If you have a hungry big boy baby four jars full is about right. If you have a 5-month-old dainty little girl baby, above amounts would make six servings or six scantily filled baby food jars.

Points for Parents

Research by Oceanography Student

OTTAWA (CP) — A tall, tanned young woman clad in a bikini, a long knife at her hip, wanders along a sandy tropic beach, her long blonde hair blowing in the breeze.

A refugee from a James Bond movie?

Every man's dream of a shipwreck companion?

A model for a South Seas travel poster?

The last is true, although only incidentally, for Susan Morrall, 22, of Ottawa, who is a student of oceanography.

Working towards a career in water pollution research, Miss Morrall is one of about a dozen graduate students doing thesis research at Bellairs Research Institute of McGill University at St. James, Barbados.

Miss Morrall spends more than half her time in the ocean or on the beach, using her knife "for digging things off rocks and coral."

She carries a basket of water bottles, an underwater light metre, plastic bags of seaweeds and sand samples and a rusted old shovel.

But it's all in the interest of higher learning — specifically, the achievement of a master of science degree in ecology on shallow water algae — seaweeds.

In May, Miss Morrall will return to Montreal to write her thesis after a year's preparation at the institute, where field work is emphasized.

There is a close connection between Bellairs and the University of the West Indies where she is also taking a course in statistics.

She finds time to take Spanish lessons, teach biology at Queen's College, a private girls' secondary school in Bridgetown, and earn tuition fees and living expense money modelling for travel posters, boutique fashions and travelogue movies.

Miss Morrall began modelling in Montreal while attending Sir George Williams University. She did fashion shows in Montreal and also appeared as a bare girl in a National Film Board movie on youth.

Always interested in athletics, she has been on ski, basketball and track teams as well as studying piano and ballet.

The attractive scientist uses her scuba diving experience to study reefs and underwater plant life at depths up to 100 feet off the Barbados.

BEAUTY ON THE BEACH — Susan Morrall, 22, of Ottawa collects research samples on the beach at St. James, Barbados. The tall blonde spends most of her time on the beach, clad in a bikini and wearing a large knife for collecting specimens. Winkler Hits Back at Shulman in Legislature

TORONTO (CP) — Eric Winkler (PC—Grey South) delivered a slinging attack on Dr. Morton Shulman that tied the Ontario legislature in a knot for about two hours Thursday night.

New Democrats called on the former Commons debater to withdraw the remarks. Speaker Fred Case told him to explain or withdraw them and then accepted a motion to adjourn before enforcing his ruling.

Mr. Winkler rises in throne speech debate again today and has promised to give details of what some opposition members termed "innuendos" against Dr. Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park).

If he does not, opposition members are sure to press Speaker Cass to enforce his explain-or-withdraw rule.

Mr. Winkler put no flesh on his remarks about Dr. Shulman Thursday night.

He asked why the doctor, in the two days he held the floor in the throne speech debate, did not say something about "the financial losses of a druggist in Peterborough," about the "pull-and-call" business, about a bank manager who "came under the machinations" of Dr. Shulman, and about the "ugly circumstances" surrounding his appointment as chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto.

Dr. Shulman, meanwhile, was trying to protest but was ruled out of order by the Speaker.

He did manage to say that the charges he had made against the government during the debate were "documented" whereas Mr. Winkler's against him were not.

The Speaker, a lawyer, and a number of Conservative members questioned whether Dr. Shulman had documented his charges and Mr. Winkler said he was willing to provide details of his charges.

Dr. Shulman would have a chance to answer them later, Mr. Winkler said in refusing to yield the floor to him.

At this point NDP Leader Donald MacDonald called on Mr. Winkler to withdraw his charges or back them up and Speaker Case agreed with it this wasn't done he would have to decide "it's a case of innuendo."

Treasurer Charles MacNaughton and then Mr. Winkler started calling for an adjournment amid NDP hoots of "you are worried" and "you are trying to wiggle out of it."

Kingston Editor Backs McRuer's Proposal

KINGSTON (CP) — Robert D. Owen, editor-in-chief of Kingston Whig-Standard, said Thursday he agrees with the concept of a province-wide press council to police the publication of news and comment on court cases.

James C. McRuer, former chief Justice of Ontario, proposed a press council for the province in the report of a royal commission inquiry into civil rights in the province. The report was released Tuesday.

"The idea of a press council for Ontario seems to me to have some value," Mr. Owen said in an interview. "However, newspapers are generally most careful not to publish items which could be construed as implying guilt of a person or persons before trial.

"Perhaps some of the other media are less restrained."

Mr. Owen is president of the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference.

"A properly-constituted press council could, I suppose, be a further safeguard of the right of all to fair treatment by the news media in areas in which abuses have been found to exist in the past," he said.

He described as bordering "on the fatuous" Mr. McRuer's statement in his report that "not infrequently publishers and editors take the risk of libel action for the sake of promoting circulation."

"Publishers and editors are hardly in the business to risk libel action for the sake of circulation or any other reason," Mr. Owen said.

"I'm one of the fifteen and a half per cent who are still undecided."

Sunday School Lesson

Life Philosophy in a Seed

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

A young Chicago woman who lives in the high-rise apartment towers known as Marina City decided to have a "Bible Party." She secured copies of the Gospel of Mark and mailed them to several other residents in the towers. She explained that religious background made no difference. Each guest was urged to read the Gospel, and come to her apartment to discuss it.

One guest immediately raised the question, "How could Christ possibly be serious about serving rather than being served?" This question evoked such a spirited response, the entire evening's discussion revolved around it.

What is the chief goal in life? Is it to serve or to be served? To keep or to share? To look down on others or to lift them up? What should be a person's primary goal — to feather his own nest, or to help build a better world? To keep everything for himself, or to share? To put himself first, or to put the welfare of others first? Is it true that there is more real joy in sharing than in keeping? Should a worker's chief goal be to make higher wages, or to do a good job?

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for March 10: "Christ, The Humble Servant." John 12 and 13.

In some ways, the answer is obvious. A nurse who always puts herself first would be a poor nurse. A policeman who put his own safety first, could not protect others from criminals. If a mother put herself first, her children would suffer. If a husband always insisted on being waited on, he would make a poor companion. A soldier who put his own safety first could never protect his country. Jesus put it this way. A seed remains but a seed until it is planted. When it loses itself in the soil, its inner life is released, and it produces a fruit bearing plant. (John 12:24)

Jesus always put the emphasis on service. That He was deadly in earnest when He explained His philosophy of self-denial is shown by His own decision. Some Bible scholars think that the Greeks who came seeking Jesus (John 12:20-21), wanted to invite Him to teach in their homeland. This would have been an enticing lure, for would mean getting away from the animosity that was mounting against Him. It would even mean escaping the cross. But it would also have meant running away from His mission, and that Jesus could not do and live with Himself.

Jesus' words reveal His inner struggle. "Now is my soul troubled." He said, "and what shall I say, 'Father, save Me from this hour?'" (John 12:27 RSV)

But Jesus could not pray this prayer. For this purpose, He reminded Himself, He had come to this hour. So He concluded by saying, "Father, glorify Thy teachings of the Christian way. Whatever the cost to fulfill His mission, He must pay it. Even if it cost Him His life, He must go through with it.

Many people do not have this attitude today. They look out for themselves with little or no regard for others. If everyone put Himself first, who would champion -unpopular causes? Who would contribute to charity? Who would help the person who is down on his luck? Who would work for the good of mankind?

But is this always a practical Ideal? Does industry exist to serve or to make profits? What would happen if nations put service to mankind ahead of national self-interest? Is it not true that God helps those who help themselves?

The amazing thing about the Bible is its insistence that God Himself is the greatest Servant of all. He gives His sun and rain to all. (Matthew 5:45) Believing that He shared the very mind of God, Jesus took a basin and towel, and washed the disciples' feet. In doing so, He set an example of how God wants people to act in this self-centred world. (See John 13)

The church exists to serve, not to be served. Its purpose is not to exalt itself, but to exalt God by the way it serves mankind. This is one of the great teachings of the Christian way. It teaches people to be conscious of others. It teaches them to give. It challenges people to deny themselves for the sake of others.

All religions do not do this. Some lack an emphasis on care for others. In all religions, some people worship God for what they can get out of Him, not for what they can do to serve Him. To them Jesus would say, "Be a seed. Plant yourself in some worthy cause, and bear fruit."

Shulman Accepts Challenge

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman has accepted, under certain conditions, a challenge to step outside the immunity of the Ontario legislature and make charges of government wrong-doing.

Dr. Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) accepted the challenge with the stipulation that if he won any resulting libel suit, the government would compensate sole holders for their losses in the collapse of Prudential Finance Corp.

"Of course if I lose I'll have to pay up."

He said the challenge came from at least one government minister but didn't say who.

He had verbal clashes earlier in the afternoon in the legislature with Leslie Rowntree, minister of financial and commercial affairs.

One clash came when Dr. Shulman was explaining why he believed lawyer Harry Charles Dubin was a "hatched mat" for the government.

"Mr. Dubin is a lawyer of great talent who has been employed by the Conservative party on a number of occasions when it was necessary for them to run for cover."

He said the lawyer was a special counsel for the province in a highways scandal in the early 1950s, defence lawyer in the Northern Ontario Natural Gas scandal, and a lawyer for the royal commission of inquiry into Dr. Shulman's allegations that the government had interfered with coroners' inquests.

Dr. Shulman was fired by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart as chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto before he became a successful candidate in the provincial election last Oct. 17.

In his capacity with the royal commission, Mr. Dubin "broke every rule that I would regard as ethical, and I am curious to know how much the premier had to pay for that supreme service," Dr. Shulman said.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 8, 1968

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander
Staff Sportswriter

Belleville's fine young peewee and bantam hockey clubs are making serious bids to capture Ontario Minor Hockey Association titles again this spring.

Smith Pearl peewees hope to retain the provincial championship they won in '67 while the Rissmen bantams go looking for their initial crown.

The proud youngsters-on both clubs, and the hard-working men behind them deserve fan support.

Win or lose from here out, it makes no difference, all concerned can look back with pride on the 1967-'68 hockey season.

Also in line for congratulations are members of the Western Tire juveniles, Elks Pointer midgets and Food City novices.

Players, sponsors, coaches and managers should not look at their team's won and lost record to determine their seasonal success.

Any boy or man who knows he gave his best at all times in a fair and sportsmanlike manner can take pride in a job well done.

People in the sport who gave anything less or are in the game for personal reasons would be wise to take a long look at themselves.

In guiding the youth of our nation they are working with the greatest, most valuable product at a time when it is most easily influenced. It's one job we can't afford to blow.

* * *

Response for the Minnie Menard Benefit game here March 22 is just great and another feature was added this week.

Bobby Green, well-known city softball pitcher and former goalie, announced that the annual presentation of the Green Memorial Trophy in memory of Bobby's father, will be made at the benefit game.

The trophy will be presented to the Most Valuable Player on the 1967-'68 Mo-Hawk club. Norm Rezo was the winner last season but this year's winner will not be announced until the time of the presentation.

By the way, Minnie was released from the hospital March 1 but still remains under a spell of little or no activity at home before returning to an active everyday life.

* * *

Softball rumors are flying thick and fast as the small of spring arrives but no one seems to know exactly what is going to happen.

There are enough senior-class players to field two clubs in this city but some people close to the scene are wondering if there will be even one.

Belleville did not have a team representative at the Twin Valley meeting last Sunday but it's no secret that the league would welcome a city entry. .

Picton, still busy with intermediate hockey, has let it be known that the Rissmen would return to the Quinte-KASA loop — if there is one — but will come in the TVL if there isn't.

Trenton Carn's and Madoc Juniors have already entered the TVL but Point Anne appears doubtful, especially in an entry from Tyendinaga voters with the father-and-son pitching combo of Pat and Ron Maracle. Without Doughellis, Tyendinaga might not be accepted, however.

Meanwhile, what of the city Commercial League? We have been told on one hand that Point Anne would be welcomed back there and that senior players would be distributed among the teams; on the other that the Centennial can't get back in and that senior players will still be barred.

There was also talk, as the season closed last fall, that Black Diamond coach Lum Carson would take over the Hub Club juvenile reigns and that the team might enter the TVL this summer.

Apparently only time will answer all the questions.

Top drivers outside Formula I events will include Britain's Roger Clark and Sweden's Bengt Soderstrom and Ove Andersson.

Bruins Nip Flyers

Sanderson Injured

Shack, Zeidel Renew 10-Year Feud!

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boston Bruins won the game but their drive toward the top of the National Hockey League's Eastern Division may have been costly.

Derek Sanderson, their outstanding 21-year-old rookie, was struck by a puck near his left eye in the first period of a game played in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. It required 12 stitches to close the wound and it won't be known until after x-rays today if there is any damage to the eye itself.

The Bruins, meanwhile, edged Philadelphia Flyers 2-1 in a game that featured renewal of a 10-year feud between Boston's Eddie Shack and Flyer defenceman Larry Zeidel.

Only about 10,000 fans were on hand when the two engaged in a wild stick-swinging duel shortly after the injury to Sanderson.

Both were treated for scalp injuries and their hostilities resumed in the Gardens clinic when Zeidel attempted to get at Shack. Both had previously been banished from the game with match penalties which call for automatic $100 fines.

Later Shack said the feud stemmed from an exhibition game 10 years ago in Stamford, Conn., when he was with New York Rangers and Zeidel with Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League.

"He speared me and I said 'Spear me again and I'll bit you over the head.' He speared me again so I let him have it over the head."

Both were tossed out of that game and then into jail when they resumed their dispute in the stands.

EDDIE SHACK

It was the first game since 1946 that the Gardens has not been sold out for a National Hockey League game. The Flyers, using the ice as home base, have been forced out of the Philadelphia Spectrum for repairs to the new arena's roof.

In other games Thursday, Pittsburgh Penguins and Minnesota North Stars played to a 2-2 standoff while Los Angeles Kings exploded for a 9-2 victory over Oakland Seals.

The Flyers aren't expected to get back into their new $12,000,000 home for the remainder of the season and Sunday take their next scheduled home game to Quebec City where they meet the North Stars Sunday.

Saturday games have Chicago Black Hawks against the Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings at Toronto, New York in Minnesota, Los Angeles at Pittsburgh and Oakland at St. Louis Blues.

Other Sunday games have Toronto in Chicago, Los Angeles in New York, Detroit in Boston and St. Louis in Oakland.

Boston got goals from Ken Hodge and Gary Doak while Pat Hannigan replied for the Flyers.

The loss left the Flyers, Western Division leaders, just two points ahead of the North Stars and Los Angeles. Minnesota got both their goals from rookie Sandy Fitzpatrick while Paul Andrea and Wayne Hicks scored for Pittsburgh.

Lowell MacDonald scored twice to pace Los Angeles. Ted Irvine, Real Lemieux, Brent Hughes, Howie Menard, Terry Gray, Doug Robinson and Bill Flett got the others.

Bill Hicke and Larry Cahan scored for the Seals, only a step from mathematical elimination from the Western Division playoff race.

Pappin Says

TORONTO (CP) — Right winger Jim Pappin said Thursday he may report to Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League this weekend.

Pappin, one of the key players in Toronto Maple Leafs' drive to the Stanley Cup in the National Hockey League last season, was suspended by Toronto coach Punch Imlach Feb. 9 after he did not report to Rochester.

Pappin gave no reason for his decision to report to the AHL club.

French Ski Body

"Nobody Here Gifted Killy"!

PARIS (Reuters)—A French Ski Federation spokesman said today accusations that triple Olympic gold medal winner Jean-Claude Killy accepted gifts for skiing were completely unfounded.

"There is no reason why Jean-Claude Killy should be disqualified," the spokesman said.

He said the inquiry was conducted by federation president Maurice Martel at the request of the International Ski Federation—FIS.

Killy, an idol here even before he won three gold medals at the Winter Olympic Games in Grenoble, was accused of having accepted money and a car—thus breaking the rules of amateur sports.

When the reports of the threat to Killy's amateur status first appeared in newspaper reports here, FIS president Mark Hodler of Switzerland demanded a letter from Killy "swearing on his honor he had not received any money."

Later he was reported to have said in Switzerland that he would also send Killy's word he had not received any gifts.

The French Ski Federation spokesman said today that all these conditions had been fulfilled.

A decision by FIS on Killy is expected to be announced within the next 24 hours, informed sources here said, because the next world championship event is at Meribel in the French Alps Saturday.

Helped Crippled Youngsters

Bower Just "Kidding"

TORONTO (CP) — Johnny Bower, veteran National Hockey League goaltender, defended goal—with a broom.

Paul Picard, 14, of North Bay, who wears an artificial arm, was in the nets for the opposition.

Between the nets was a collection of high-priced hockey talent and crippled kids.

The event was a floor hockey game Thursday between Toronto Maple Leafs and youngsters at the Ontario Crippled Children's Centre to help promote the Easter Seal campaign which gets under way March 14.

The Leafs got trounced 4-0

The fans, some on mobile beds, others in wheelchairs, many wearing artificial limbs, cheered themselves hoarse.

The Leafs replaced Bower in the nets with Bruce Gamble in a bid to stop the opposition, but Cathy McPherson of St. Catharines slipped the puck—a big blue ball—past Gamble.

Before the game, defenceman Allan Stanley and goaltender Gamble's Centre to watch Norm Ullman, Mike Walton, Dave Keon and the rest of the Leaf club signed autographs.

Dickenson Leads Doral

Knudson Skids; 11 Strokes Back!

MIAMI (AP) — For two happy weeks, George Knudson rode smoothly along golf's glory road. Then came the detour.

The lanky, red-haired Canadian had won two straight tournaments. He had a chance in the $100,000 Doral Open to make it three in a row—a feat last accomplished in 1960 when Arnold Palmer racked up the Texas, Baton Rouge and Pensacola opens in succession.

But in Thursday's opening round, Winnipeg-born Knudson veered onto a sideroad rough with over-par holes.

"It was a terrible effort," he said after posting a 76 and winding up 11 dismal strokes behind the leader, Gardner Dickinson.

Knudson, now playing out of Toronto, had come here bubbling with confidence after his victories at Phoenix and Tucson made him the year's top money winner. In less than three months, he had earned $50,310, more than he had ever banked before in an entire year.

He didn't realize it then, but the pressure was beginning to get to him.

Shortly after starting his round Thursday he said he realized that "I was getting pretty tied up—all on edge." Suddenly, the ball wasn't going where he aimed it.

"It was awful from the first shot to the last," he said. "I was never with it all day long." There were no birdies along the road.

When the shock wore off, Knudson decided that, "it's a relief actually."

"I knew I couldn't keep it up," he said. "I've broken a string and now I'll just have to try to start a new one."

Dickinson, with no problem of pressure, fired a record-tying, seven-under-par 65 and went into Friday's second round with a two-stroke margin over Lionel Hebert and Howie Johnson.

Ontario Rink Scores Major Upset; Topples Unbeaten Alberta

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — A long guard in the 12th end Thursday night ended four days of frustration and dejection for Dr. Don Gilbert of St. Thomas, Ont., at the Canadian curling championships.

"This makes the trip to Kelowna all worthwhile," said the 37-year-old dentist after he pulled the major upset of the competition by handing Ron Northcott's Calgary rink its first defeat.

"For a while there, we were wondering what we were here for. But we finally put a game together and came up with the big one . . ."

Thursday was a black day for the blonde-haired Ontario skip. He dropped consecutive losses to Bob Pickering of Milestone, Sask., and Jim Ayer of Fredericton.

But in the evening, the Ontario foursome shook out the wrinkles. The 12-end match ace-sawed and at the end of 11 was tied 8-8.

Northcott ignored an Ontario rock sitting on the four-foot and called his third, Jim Shields to set up a long guard. When Ontario third Al Zikman threw his last rock, Northcott had two guards in front.

Zikman dropped another 10 feet in front of the house. Northcott played a long raise to the Ontario shot—and was inches wide.

Gilbert's first rock was played perfectly to guard against another raise attempt by Northcott, forcing the Alberta skip into a desperation raise which went five feet wide. Gilbert counted one and Gilbert won "the biggest game of my life" without having to throw last rock.

Despite the loss, Northcott retained first place in the 11-rink, round-robin competition with a 7-1 record. Pickering has a 6-2 mark. Both have two games to play today.

Gilbert, meanwhile, dropped two games earlier in the week to go with his two losses Thursday and has a 5-4 record with one game to play.

Three rinks are tied for third place after nine rounds. Alan Smith of Charlottetown, Ayer and Bob McCubbin of Richmond, B.C., all have 5-3 records.

Burke Parker of Gilbert Plains, Man., Don Flemming of Halifax and Bill Tracy of Bagotville, Que., have three victories each while Bill Piercey of St. John's, Nfld., has a 2-6 record and Herb Pile's Northern Ontario rink from Geraldton is 1-7.

Today at 9 a.m. PST, Ayer was scheduled to play Fleming. Northcott met Parker, Smith played Pile. Gilbert went against McCubbin and Piercey played Pickering. Trade had the bye.

The final round was scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Northcott had to play Pile, Pickering met Fleming, Ayer went against Tracy, Smith played Piercey and McCubbin met Parker.

Shields, making his third trip to the Dominion final, was non-committal about Alberta's chances for two victories today and a berth in the world curling championships March 20-23 at Pointe Claire, Que.

"We played well tonight and we lost. We could play just as well tomorrow and lose again. I just want this thing over—the pressure is a little heavy."

Pickering maintained his record Thursday by defeating Parker 12-6 in the afternoon and beating Pile 7-3 in the evening. Ayer's N.B. foursome drubbed Newfoundland 14-4 in the ninth round.

"We're not really curling that well," said the 200-pound Fredericton electrician. "We're just reading the ice a little better than the opposition. We are all curling well on this heavy ice."

In other eight-round matches Tracy downed Piercey 11-8, Smith nipped Gilbert 7-4 and Northcott swamped McCubbin 14-5. Flemming lost a 10-7 match to Tracy in the evening while Smith downed Parker 11-5.

Vancouver Went Wild Over Nancy!

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Thursday used the color green to paint itself red for Nancy Greene.

The city and province piled honors on the ski queen from Rossland, B.C., already feted by Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

The 24-year-old Rossland tiger wore a never-fading smile as at least 15,000 roared a welcome in the courthouse square and hotels estimated by police at 70,000-100,000 lined a downtown parade route.

Downtown had the green for her. Thousands wore stickers proclaiming: "I like B.C.'s Greene." The ice water at a civic luncheon was tinted green. Many women wore green coats, dresses and hats.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced the cabinet had awarded Miss Greene the provincial Order of the Dogwood and will set up five scholastic-athletic scholarships in her name for advanced education.

City council entered her name in its merit book. Vancouver school children—75,000 of them—were given half the day off.

A mob of children leaped on the 16,000 green sports car in which she was riding and tortured the springs.

Miss Greene collected a trophy as British Columbia's Athlete of the Year and three other trophies as top athlete.

Then Miss Greene was off to be feted by West and North Vancouver and given the freedom of the north shore. Part of a road to the Grouse Mountain ski area was to be named Nancy Greene Way.

Olympics Boycott

Brundage, Mexico Stand Pat!

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians are threatening to pull out, along with about 40 other countries, but Avery Brundage and host Mexico contend there is no change in plans for the October Olympic Games.

"Everything is still as is," Brundage, the president of the International Olympic Committee said in Chicago Thursday after the Russians had delivered a sharply worded demand that South Africa be omitted from the Games.

And in Mexico City, site of the Games, lodging control officer Ramon Alatorre said none of the nations that have announced their boycott have yet cancelled their room reservations.

The Russian demand, presented in the form of a resolution by Soviet Olympic Committee, said:

"If the International Olympic Committee refuses to convene an emergency session and insists on its decision about South Africa, the USSR Olympic Committee will be impelled to reconsider the question of participation of Soviet sportsmen in the Summer Olympics in 1968."

Forty nations including 32 from Africa—have announced their intention to boycott the Games because of readmission of South Africa, barred since 1963 because of its apartheid policy.

The boycotting nations complain that South Africa has not completely abandoned apartheid.

The Russian action was expected. The Soviet Sports Federation had taken a similar stand earlier in the week.

Brundage, at the urging of Mexican officials, has called a meeting of the nine-member IOC council to reconsider the situation. The meeting is scheduled in Switzerland, probably in May.

Tobin Bronze Eyes Rich Santa Anita

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Last Saturday, Australian-bred Tobin Bronze won a race named after Irish-bred Ancar. This Saturday, Tobin Bronze will try to do something Ancar did in 1935—win the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

The six-year-old Australian champion will carry high weight of 124 pounds in the expected field of 15 for the 1¼-mile Santa Anita classic.

Tobin Bronze will be part of a three-horse, Charles Whittingham-trained entry. He will be coupled in the betting with Tumble Wind, who will carry 122 pounds and figures to be one of Tobin Bronze's toughest rivals, and Duncan Junction, assigned 114 pounds.

Orioles Nest Robinson For $115,000: Yanks Weak At Plate

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore's Frank Robinson and Philadelphia's Johnny Callison finally set pen to paper Thursday, but New York Yankees still are having trouble putting bat to ball.

While Robinson was signing for about $115,000 with the Orioles and Callison was wrangling more than $40,000 from the Phillies, the best the weak-hitting Yankees could manage off a trio of Washington hurlers was three hits in sqeezing out a 1-0 victory over the Senators in the first Grapefruit League exhibition.

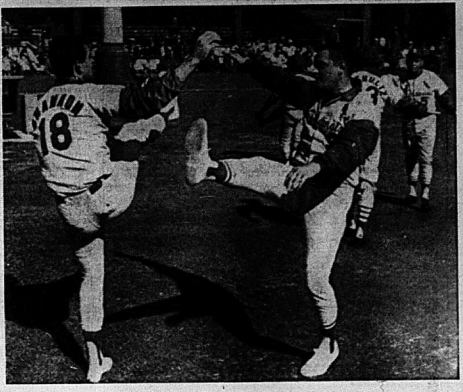
"I didn't get exactly what I wanted, but I'm satisfied or else I would not have signed," said the 32-year-old Robinson, who won the Triple Crown while leading the Orioles to the 1966 world championship.

Robinson missed a month of the 1967 season with double vision after a base line collision but still batted .311, second best in the American League.

Harry Dalton, Baltimore personnel director, said Robinson's contract makes him "one of the highest paid players in baseball history, probably the highest in the American League today."

Like Robinson, who had asked $125,000, Callison also had to compromise a bit.

"I didn't get what I wanted," Callison echoed, "but then, I didn't sign for what they wanted me to, either."



The right fielder, who slumped to a .261 batting average, 14 homers and 64 runs batted in last season, said he was in good shape.

The Yankees, meanwhile, looked much like last season's ninth-place good pitch-no hit club. The run came in the eighth inning on a delayed steal of home by outfielder Andy Kosco, drafted from Minnesota Twins.

Kosco reached third on a single, infield out and wild pitch. When Ruben Amaro, who had walked, broke for second base, Washington catcher Bill Bryan tried to nail him and Kosco, not noted for his speed, beat the return throw home.

Right-handers Mel Stottlemyre, Bill Monbouquette and Jim Bouton scattered five Senator hits. Bouton, in what almost certainly is his last chance to regain the form that made him a 21-game winner in 1963, went three perfect innings and was the winning pitcher.

Five exhibition games are scheduled today with the rest of the teams swinging into action Saturday. Today's slate finds the American League champion Boston Red Sox playing Chicago White Sox, Cincinnati Red vs. Philadelphia, Houston Astros vs. Detroit Tigers, all in Florida, while Chicago Cubs meet San Francisco Giants in Arizona.

Dallas Shades Omaha 5-4

OMAHA, Neb. (CP-AP) — Oscar Gaudet scored on a long shot at 18:39 of the third period to give Dallas Black Hawks a 5-4 Central Hockey League victory over Omaha Knights Thursday night.

It was Gaudet's second goal. Also scoring for Dallas were Geoff Powis, Chico Maki and Al Lebrun. Omaha marksmen were John Wilding, Al Osborne, Joe Johnston and Ray Burnet.

College Hoop Championship

Huskies Reach Finals

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — St. Mary's Huskies of Halifax, winners of the Maritime intercollegiate basketball conference came up with a dramatic effort Thursday night.

The Huskies gained a berth in the finals of the Canadian intercollegiate basketball championships with a comeback 78-74 victory over University of Western Ontario Mustangs of London, Ont., in a game that was in doubt until the final minute.

SMU will play either University of British Columbia Thunderbirds or Waterloo-Lutheran Golden Hawks Saturday night.

UBC gets its first taste of action in the tournament tonight against the Golden Hawks, who posted an easy 78-53 victory over Carleton University Ravens in the opening game of the single-knockout tournament Thursday night.

Hawks Win

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — Waterloo-Lutheran University Golden Hawks swamped Carleton University Ravens 78-53 in the opening game of the Canadian intercollegiate basketball championships Thursday night.

Bears Hug Hold On Top Spot

QUEBEC (CP) — Hershey Bears strengthened their hold on first place in the American Hockey League's Eastern Division Thursday night by downing Quebec Aces 4-1 before 6,328 fans.

The Bears now have 71 points, a seven-point lead over Springfield Kings, while Aces hold down third place in the Western Division with 64.

Ballet in Baseball

St. Louis Cardinals' Mike Shannon, left and Roger Maris trip the light fantastic during calesthenics drills at their first day of spring training in St. Petersburg.

Bobby, Grant Helped Team Capture Cup

Bobby Boyle and Grant Hagerman, this city and district's hockey representatives in Europe have just concluded a successful season overseas.

The boys played for the Dutch Den Bosn Hockey Club and helped it win the International Cup. Since then they have taken part in other international games.

Tomorrow they take off for a vacation in Germany and Switzerland.

Boyle, the playing coach of the Dutch champions, will coach minor hockey there until some time in April when the boys return home.

Tweed Wins Group Title

TWEED — Tweed Midgets continued their winning ways on Tuesday by trouncing Marmora 11 to 3 to sweep their group finals in two straight games.

The contest was never really in doubt as Tweed dominated play from the opening faceoff. The Marmora players are to be commended as they never gave up and were still fighting for the puck at the final whistle. It was another solid team effort for Tweed with every man from the goaltender out giving his best during every shift on the ice.

Scoring for Tweed were Brian Greenough 4; Mike McCormick and Niel McPherson 2; O'Colo, Lessard, and Spencer with 1.

Marmora goal from Wayne Cassidy, Noles and Leonard.

Tweed now advances to the Eastern Ontario championships against Norwood Schedule of games will be announced later.

ORGANIZES YOUTH SQUAD

WINNIPEG (CP) — Police Chief George Blow hopes to have his Youth Squad in operation this summer. To cost an estimated $152,000 during its first year, the squad will be headed by a sergeant of detectives, have 13 policemen and a secretary. Its objective is to reduce the growing incidence of crime among juveniles.

Quinte Hockey League

Point Off the Finals

Grant Realty and Stinson Construction are but a single point away from the Quinte Hockey League finals.

Last night the Realtors were beaten by Aluminum Stars 5-2 with Stinsons blanking Belvedere Hotel by a 1-0 score.

The Realtors lead their series with three wins, one loss and a tie in the best-of-seven or eight points while Stinsons have two wins, one loss and three ties.

A win or a tie for the Realtors and Stinsons will clinch the finals berths. The seventh game is slated for Tuesday, March 12th, Stinsons and Belvedere starting at 8 o'clock, the others at 9 p.m.

Ron Urch led the Stars with two goals and an assist, Al Ruttan, Don Morre and Ron Post getting the other goals Morre and Brian Musgrave had assists.

Larry Stewart and Bill Latimer scored for the Realtors, Bob Ethier getting an assist

Leroy McIlroy was the hero of the Stinson win scoring the only goal of the game at 7.10 of the first period assisted by Garry Genereaux and Don Bishop.

Firemen Win Opener 6-2

The Gas House League opened its best-of-seven final playoff series 1st night with a 6-2 victory for the Firemen over the Mustangs.

Fallot led the Firemen's attack with three goals and an assist. Manmert notched a pair of goals. A single goal went to Hurst, who also had three assists. Single assists were picked up by Patterson and Soules.

Meeker scored a goal for the Mustangs and assisted on another by Woodley. Hoffman picked up a single assist.

Baron Destroyed In Sheffield Fire

(TWEED) — A barn, six miles south of Tweed, belonging to Harold Carleton, was destroyed by a fire Wednesday afternoon.

Lost in the blaze was a quantity of grain; and hay; two ponies; 42 sheep, including 18 thoroughbred ewes, one registered ram and 23 lambs and five head of cattle, including three cows and two bulls.

The Tweed Volunteer Fire Department answered the call about 3:30 p.m. By the time they arrived the roof had already fallen in.

According to a fire department spokesman, the fire was well underway before it was noticed.

Mr. Carleton, away at the time, did not learn of the blaze until 6:30 p.m. that evening.

The cause of the fire has not been ascertained as yet.

Mr. Carleton was partly covered by insurance. Damage figures have not been assessed.

New Directors Elected at CNRA Meet

At a recent meeting of Club Canara shareholders there were five members elected to the board of directors for the year 1968-69. These included Mrs. L. Reynolds, H. Bawden, L. Wilson, A. Shepherdson, H. Gray, R. Stewart and A. Meagher bringing a total of 15 members to the board of directors.

At this time also officers were elected as follows: J. Campbell (re-elected) president; Mrs. Shepherdson (re-elected) 1st vice-president; G. Vanderwal 2nd vice-president; H. Wardhaugh (re-elected) recording secretary, and W. Adams as treasurer.

Following the election of officers, chairmen of the various committees were also appointed and include G. Fitzgerald, A. Storms, A. Vanstone, H. Bawden, L. Reynolds and L. A. Courtemanche.

Several Drugs Help Ulcer Patients

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Do people with duodenal ulcers need to take any kind of medicine other than an anti-acid along with a bland diet? Is there any way to remedy constipation without bulk-forming laxatives? Is it harmful to take aspirin to ease the pain?

Can an ulcer in the duodenum be healed if the patient is 67 years old? — M. H.C.

Let's take your questions in rotation. Yes, medicines other than antacids are used for ulcers, although the antacids are essential to reduce the hyperacidity that usually is present.

The ulcer patient as a rule is tense, nervous, overactive, aggressive, driving-type individuals in the form of barbiturates (as phenobarbital) or the non-barbiturate tranquilizers are commonly used.

Finally, the motility, or activity, of the gut may be great enough to be a part of the problem, and drugs are used to reduce this.

If spasm at the outlet of the stomach is causing trouble, relaxants of the belladonna type are commonly used.

You'd do well to get and read my booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed" (Send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of this newspaper, for a copy.) It will give you a better understanding of

"Let me rephrase it this way—It's five years from now—what will I be kicking myself for not having bought?"

Stanfield Declares New Taxes Not Different in Principle

OTTAWA (CP) — The opposition lost no time in opening fire on Finance Minister Sharp in the Commons Thursday night after he introduced a resolution proposing a three-per-cent surtax on personal and corporation income taxes.

Opposition Leader Stanfield said the government failed to justify the measures.

He could not see how they were any different in principle from the five-per-cent surtax rejected Feb. 19 in an 84-to-82 vote that precipitated a parliamentary crisis.

Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) said the government has failed to deal effectively with low productivity, the main yardstick of currency stability.

The minister told the Commons 3,400,000 of Canada's 5,600,000 taxpayers will not be affected by the new surtax.

Mr. Stanfield said the additional taxes levied now will tend to slow down economic growth, already lagging, and add to unemployment.

Charles-Arthur Gauthier (Creditiste—Roberval) described the tax measures as "surprising and stupefying." His party thought the government had learned its lesson in the Feb. 19 defeat of its previous tax measure.

At the outset of the day's financial debate, NDP Leader T. C. Douglas described as "sheer balderdash" a statement by Mr. Sharp Wednesday that the upward thrust in Canada's economy is continuing.

Mr. Douglas said the opposite conclusion is to be drawn from the prevailing conditions of slow economic growth, rising unemployment, a rising cost of living, and lack of sufficient houses at prices people can afford to pay.

Canada Will Continue Role In Defence Against Bombers

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin said Thursday renewal of the North American Air Defence agreement with the United States would not in any way commit Canada to taking part in construction and operation of a defence against missiles.

But he told a joint meeting of the Commons defence and external affairs committees that Soviet bombers continue to threaten North America and "the government believes it would be irresponsible to ignore such a threat," particularly as it is a threat that Canada can help to meet.

Mr. Martin and Defence Minister Cadieux told the committees that Norad is designed to counter the bomber threat, not the threat of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The NORAD agreement expires May 12 unless it is renewed, but renewal negotiations are in process between the two countries.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto-Greenwood) said the present defence system contributes nothing to the protection of Canada "in the missile world."

"That's a personal opinion," Mr. Cadieux said.

"Shared by Robert McNamara, the former U.S. defence secretary," Mr. Brewin countered.

Mr. Brewin asked Mr. Cadieux whether he thought the Bomarc bases could be obliterated in a few hours, or even a few minutes, by intercontinental missiles.

Mr. Cadieux said this is why efforts are being made to enable earlier detection of an attack. The distant-early-warning line might gradually be superseded.

Mr. Martin said Canada is participating in development of an airborne radar system, announced by the United States a month ago, that should provide more warning time and more certainty of interception far north of the continent's major population centres.

Strictly Personal

Why First Books Often Best

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In New York a few weeks ago I met a young author whose first book had made a big spash in the intellectual and academic community. Suddenly he had found himself the new darling of the Deep Thinkers.

After a few libations, he confessed, that, two years later, he was having trouble finishing his second book. "I knocked off the first one in about six weeks," he said, "without ever missing a stroke. On this one, I've been blocked for months at a time."

We chatted about the well-known "writers' block" for a while, and then he said something that made the whole problem come clear: "You know, when I wrote the first book, I didn't believe anyone would read it — now I'm painfully aware of all the people who are expecting the second one to be even better, or at least as good."

And this comment, I think, explains why so many "first" books are superior to their later ones; why so many "promising" authors fail to meet the payments on their promissory notes — the thought of the audience gets in the way of the work itself, and the author is no longer writing to fulfill his own needs but to satisfy the expectations of the outside world.

When I speak to journalism classes, students will often ask me whom I have in mind when I write the column every day; to what audience am I addressing myself? And no doubt they think me self-centered and arrogant when I reply, "I write it only for myself."

But, in simple truth, writing cannot be done any other way, if it is to have substance beyond mere entertainment value. When the young author wrote his first book, he didn't think anyone would read it — and so he felt free to express his deepest and most authentic self. As soon as he thought of a vast and multifarious audience — and began worrying about how to please or satisfy such diverse tastes — he was no longer his own man, but turned into a kind of "merchandiser."

Even in practical terms, it is quite impossible for a serious writer to please all, or even most, of his potential audience. As soon as he becomes anxious about the public, or about the critics, or about scholarly reactions to his work, he begins unconsciously to try to satisfy all these elements, and usually ends up gratifying none of them.

This was, in large part, the tragedy of Hemingway's professional life. The finest natural talent of our time, Hemingway confused his private and public selves. He was so exquisitely aware of his large audience that he began posturing like an actor in his later books, and totally lost touch with the inner man who had written "The Sun Also Rises."

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For March 9

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): You may be torn between desire to act quickly and responsibility which dictates otherwise. Don't aggravate family. Not wise to trade something of value for flash in pan.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Results of efforts apt to be delayed. Too much has yet to be sealed within group organization. Your restlessness doesn't help matters. Avoid argument with relative. Take it easy.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Friend could be ill-advised concerning money affairs. Know this. Be cautious. Don't risk possessions based on assurance from charmer. Do your own checking. Then double check.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): One in authority or with power could offer taunting challenge. Not wise to accept. You are being tested. If you exhibit self-control, you impress. Takes discipline. Display it.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): In effort to obtain solid information you may be skipping essentials. Realize this. Maintain sense of balance. Study Gemini message. Accent on what happens behind your back.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): You could find genuine bargain in luxury item. Fine day for presenting family member with gift, token of affection. Give of yourself and you will also receive. Act accordingly.

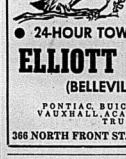
LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Don't assume authoritative role. Instead, stress experience, willingness to accept responsibility. Then what you seek could be presented on silver platter. Realize this. Act wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Headlong approach works best today. Applies especially where favors, special privileges are concerned. Don't press, push or attempt to force issues. Be receptive and charming.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Reactions, feelings are intense. Nothing appears to occur halfway today. Realize that you pay for what you receive—don't ask for more than you can afford. Highlight: maturity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): A legal issue affecting property could be spotlighted. Know where responsibility begins and ends. Strive to assert yourself in constructive manner. Strengthen ties of affection.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): You might find that those close to you make unreasonable demands. Don't compound the error. Be understanding. Find the reasons why. By so doing you avoid foolish conflict.



PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Those who depend on you, including children, may express financial requirements. Wise to be considerate. Creating friction today could backfire into double trouble. Act accordingly.

If today is your birthday . . . you attract others to you with their problems. You're a natural physician, teacher, counselor. You are due to complete major cycle, project. Recognition is deserved — and you receive it.

General Tendencies: Tradition is upset. The past fades in light of new discoveries. Lunar position makes this excellent day for fishing, planting.

He's A Girl

Jackie Warner, star of Stop the World — I Want to Get Off, tries out Centennial stage before curtain-time last night with littlest cast member Matte Bruno. Matte plays star's grandson in touring Broadway musical. But, onstage, things are rarely what they seem. Matte is actually a girl, and a seven-year-old theatre veteran.

'Stop the World' Plays To Packed House

Belleville Theatre Guild marked up a first before a full house last night.

With Stop the World I Want to Get Off, the Guild was presenting the first touring Broadway show to play Belleville in many years.

Bellevillians showed their enthusiasm and curiosity by packing the auditorium at Centennial Secondary School.

What they saw was a show which is now entering its seventh year of stage life — and still entitled to its billing as a "new-style" musical.

Its style is still sufficiently novel to keep an audience undetermined of response in its early moments.

However, by now, at least the score is familiar as yesterday's hit parade, and the favorites — What Sort of Fool Am I, Once In A Lifetime, Typically English — were instantly recognized and warmly received last night.

Stop The World is an allegory, scornfully witty, of 20th century life, as evolving around its most ordinary common denominator — the little man.

It's the chronicle of a commonplace man's entire life, from birth to courtship, rise in riches and social elevation (by way of a peerage).

It is ingeniously played out by a cast of ten — including one man, and eight girls, against a simple, simple set.

The male role is an actor's dream — albeit a demanding one, since he rarely leaves the spotlight.

In the touring production, the part with which British actor - writer - composer Anthony Newley wrote himself into international success is played by Jackie Warner.

Versatile in pantomime, acting and singing, Mr. Warner strides through the evening - long demands made upon him by the presentation.

The cast of 9 dies is led by Katie Anders as the love of the little hero's life.

With humor ranging from satire to broad fun in the old English music hall - pantomime tradition, the story follows the opportunistic rise of its mediocre hero from beginning to end. ..

Its brittle moral is emphasized in its hit song as he evaluates the emptiness of success in What Sort of Fool Am I?

However, disillusionment didn't carry over to the audience which gave the presentation a warm reception at the final curtain.

Part of the applause should be tributed to the Theatre Guild's initiative for giving its audiences an opportunity to see a full - fledged professional musical.

COURTESY WINS ROLE

NHA Loan Limit Raised To 95 Per Cent of Cost

Move No Help Here

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The Federal government move to lower the down payments on new houses is fine as far as it goes but lower monthly carrying charges and more speculative money are required to boost house sales in Belleville.

This is the consensus of Belleville realtors, one of whom said this morning that the amortization on housing loans should be increased to 35 or 50 years, from the present 25 years.

According to Gerald Joyce of Joyce Realty the problem is that with 25 year 8¼ percent mortgages, the monthly payments are so high that few would be house purchasers in Belleville can afford them.

Increasing the amortization period would reduce shelter costs and at the same time would be a hedge against inflation, according to Mr. Joyce.

The housing bill approved yesterday in the House of Commons increased the maximum NHA mortgage from 90 per cent of the first $13,000 of the cost of the house to 95 per cent of $18,000.

The effect of the legislation will be to reduce the down payment on an $18,000 home from $2,150 to $900.

But Mr. Joyce says this does not tell the whole story.

The trouble is that the loans are made on the "appraised" value of the house, but unfortunately appraisals run anywhere from eight months to a year behind sale prices.

And in periods of increasing housing costs, this' means that a house "appraised" at $18,000 for mortgage purposes, can actually cost the buyer $19,000 or more.

The buyer does not qualify for 95 per cent mortgage on the additional $1,000, so it works out that his down payment still amounts to ten per cent, instead of the five per cent indicated by the government.

Increasing the amortization period to 35 years could reduce mortgage payments on an $18,000 house by possibly eight to ten dollars per month from the present $146 a month plus taxes.

But according to Mr. Joyce the big need is the provision of speculative money for house building.

Benson Expects More Houses

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation passed by the Commons Friday does nothing to cut the cost of new housing but it makes it easier to scrape up a down-payment.

The Commons took about an hour to approve amendments to the National Housing Act easing restrictions in the ratio of down payment to loan.

The amendments now go to the Senate.

Treasury Board President Benson said housing starts this year will likely run about 175,000, compared with 164,000 in 1967.

The minister, who has held the housing responsibility only since January, said he has been informed "we will be able to reach the economic council's objective of 585,000 homes to be built over tre next three years."

Mr. Benson said he is particularly concerned about "how we provide a house for the fellow earning between $3,000 and $7,000 a year."

He said the idea of establishing a federal-provincial council of housing and urban development has not been abandoned. He had been considering this proposal with his adviser.

Under the new formula, a home buyer may borrow 96 per cent of the assessed lending value of a property to a loan limit of $18,000. On a $19,000 home he could borrow the full $18,000 leaving a down-payment of $1,000.

The government now insures mortgage loans by institutional lenders using a formula under which the home buyer may borrow 95 per cent of the first $13,000 of the assessed lending value of a property, and 70 per cent of the balance up to a loan limit of $18,000.

On a home with an assessed lending value of $19,000 the existing formula would provide a maximum loan of $16,550, leaving a down-payment requirement of at least $2,450.

Opposition members were almost unanimous in passing the legislation but most took a slap at the government for not going far enough to make housing available to more Canadians.

New Tax Certain To Pass

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal minority government faces rough seas but sure passage of Finance Minister Sharp's latest tax bill after a debate that begins in the Commons Monday.

The bill, which levies a three-per-cent surtax on personal and corporate income taxes, got first reading on a voice vote Friday.

In preliminary sparring that preceded introduction of the bill, A. B. Patterson, acting Social Credit leader, indicated his party will support the measures.

"We do not believe that a perpetuation of a climate of uncertainty and of political chaos would be in the interest of the country," Mr. Patterson said.

Social Credit MPs voted with the government when the Commons passed a resolution, 124 to 101, that gave Mr. Sharp leave to introduce his bill.

Mr. Patterson chided his support of the tax measures with criticism of the government for a past record "of costly programs and projects requiring exorbitant outlays of public money."

Spokesmen for the Conservative, NDP and Creditiste parties all indicated an intention to oppose the tax bill.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul today deplored the hanging of three Negroes in Rhodesia and voiced his "deepest hope" that Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime would avoid future executions.

6 More Negroes To Hang Monday

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Lawyers today worked on last-minute appeals for the lives of six Negroes, scheduled to be hanged Monday, as Rhodesian leaders prepared for new fury abroad at the prospect of more executions.

Reliable sources said the six men will mount the gallows, three at a time, shortly after 8 a.m. in the small execution room at the Salisbury central prison.

Two of the condemned men, Francisc Chimsoro Chiresa and Takuzgare Heromiah have lodged appeals for clemency against their sentences, imposed for the shotgun killing of an African tribal chief.

Appeals for the other four also are expected to be lodged during the weekend.

Observers said Prime Minister Ian Smith and his cabinet were clearly determined to press ahead with the executions —barring successful appeals— despite the new wave of condemnation they can expect from abroad.

All six men have been imprisoned for three years or more.

Three of them—Amen Chikwakwata, Herbert Samba and John Makuzo Ndhlovu—were sentenced for gasoline bomb attacks on houses, a charge which carries a mandatory death sentence. The sixth man is Samson Majengwa.

Appeals for clemency this time were being lodged with Clifford Dupont, the officer administering the government.

In London, Bernard Sheridan, the lawyer who petitioned the Queen to reprieve three men hanged Wednesday, said he did not think a similar petition would be made to her for the six.

Grocery Probe Ordered

WINNIPEG (CP) — Consumers Affairs Minister Turner says he has instructed the federal combines branch to look into the grocery retailing business on the Prairies.

It follows a Prairie-province royal commission on consumer problems and inflation recommendation that special attention should be given to the dominant positions of Canada Safeway Ltd. and the Weston companies —which control Loblaws food stores.

The commission said it was convinced that the predominance of the two organizations "led to the current unsatisfactory performances of the retail grocery business on the Prairies."

Cambridge Students Stage Riot

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Violence erupted Friday night when 1,000 students battled 200 police fighting to protect Defence Minister Denis Healey.

Healey was trapped in his cab as it was kicked, and pelted with eggs and tomatoes by a screaming mob of left-wing demonstrators.

Police and students clashed as demonstrators fore into the cab, battering the roof, sides and hood and ripping off wing mirrors. A window was shattered.

Bicycles were hurled in front of the cab and several parked autos were lifted off the roadway and dumped on the sidewalk.

Healey, who sat grim-face in the cab during the seven-minute siege, had addressed the university's Democratic Labor Club.

When he left he was confronted by students waving placards denouncing the Vietnam war and the Greek military regime.

The protest was organized by the University Labor Club, the Radical Students' Alliance and the University United Nations Association.

'Keep Law' U.S. Warns

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The U.S. warned Israel Friday to abide by international law in Arab territories seized during last June's Middle East war.

Without levelling direct criticism, the state department strongly implied that the Israeli Army violated an international agreement by dynamiting homes of suspected Arab terrorists in Jerusalem this week.

A spokesman said the Israeli government and its armed forces were "obligated" to abide by provisions of the 1949 Geneva convention on the protection of civilian persons in time of war.

Johnson Eager to See Gabon Dispute Shelved

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson indicated Friday night that the Quebec government would like the Gabon incident shelved, at least until Canada gets a new prime minister.

Mr. Johnson, speaking of the Quebec-Ottawa dispute over international relations before a national audience of doctors, said:

"Our diagnosis should not be definite at this time because the patient is in a state of crisis."

"The crisis will last until the afternoon of April 6," he said, in reference to the closing date of the federal leadership convention to choose a successor to Prime Minister Pearson.

Canada suspended diplomatic relations with Gabon, which Canada maintains violated international law by directly inviting Quebec to an international conference. The small African nation a former French colony, bypassed the federal government in inviting Quebec's education minister to the conference at Libreville, capital of Gabon, Feb. 5-10.

In his speech to the Canadian Association of Radiologists, the premier left the impression that Quebec is wary of damaging relations with French-speaking countries.

Speculators Eye Meeting of Bankers

LONDON (AP) — The gold rush picked up momentum Friday in European markets, climaxing a week of rumors and doubts about the U.S. dollar and other paper currency.

Bankers in Zurich, Switzerland, said the gold rush was due to a lack of confidence in British and U.S. measures to overcome their deficits in balance of payments.

Since the current gold rush began a week ago, dealers estimate about $225,000,000 worth of gold has been sold to private speculators and possibly some smaller nations' central banks anxious about their dollar and other currency holdings.

In the London bullion market, interest centred on the weekend meeting of central bankers in Basel, Switzerland. William McChesney Martin, U.S. Federal Reserve Board chairman, flew to the monthly gathering of government bankers.

Zurich bullion dealers said both the U.S. and British representatives would be sharply questioned on what measures they propose to overcome their unfavorable payments balances.

To some in the gold market, the trip by Martin seemed to signal some important development at Basel.

Some gold buyers were betting that the United States would stop selling gold to foreigners at the official rate of $35 an ounce, and that the result might be an upward price spiral on a free market.

They shifted from paper money to gold on the gamble that this might be the last chance to buy gold at the price it has been pegged to for more than 30 years.

But in Brussels, a U.S. treasury official repeated President Johnson's statement that the United States does not intend to change the price of gold.

"The United States had not the slightest intention of changing either the price of gold nor its pledge to convert dollars into gold," Frederick L. Deming, undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs, told a dinner of American and Belgian businessmen."

Unitarians in Quinte Area Mark 400th Anniversary Sunday

Quinte area Unitarians, together with members of the fellowship throughout the world, celebrate their 400th anniversary tomorrow.

The local group will mark the occasion by singing a 16th century Transylvanian hymn when the members meet at the YMCA in Belleville Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

The Quinte Fellowship meets every Sunday at the YMCA. An important concern is the school of religion in which children and young people are helped to build their own religion through their "wonderings" about the universe and the family of man.

Comparative religion is introduced and the young people visit the various churches in Belleville.

More concern is shown about the problems of living and understanding in a very complex world rather than in theological questions which are still a matter of personal belief.

There are no Creeds of affirmations of belief in the Unitarian fellowship. Each person is free to interpret his own idea of God and the eternal questions that men have always asked.

The Quinte Fellowship sponsors a foster child in Seoul, Korea, and works to pack clothes for the Unitarian service committee which has many humanitarian projects in all parts of the world. This aid is given to all, regardless of race or religion. Local interest is being shown in collecting books and magazines for the library in the new federal institution at Warkworth, 25 miles northwest of Belleville.

In spite of over 400 years of struggle and persecution, Unitarians now enjoy good relations with the laity and clergy of every denomination and faith.

On Sunday, the local group will join Unitarians in many places throughout the world in marking the event. In name a few, New Zealand, India, South Africa, Samoa, the U.S. and of course Canada.

Joseph Priestly, the discoverer of oxygen, was an active Unitarian and owing to his beliefs, his laboratory was ransacked and he was forced to flee for his life. He settled in America where he helped in the formation of the Unitarian Church there.

There were five Unitarian presidents of the United States, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, John Quincy Adams ,Millard Fillmore, and William Howard Taft.

In 1825, the American Unitarian Association was organized and in 1900, the International Congress of Unitarians and other Religious Liberals was formed.

Unitarianism and Universalism came to Canada via Britain and the U.S.A. Montreal's first church was organized in 1843, Toronto 1845, Hamilton 1859, Ottawa 1898, and Vancouver 1909.

Starting in the 1890s a group of Unitarian Churches was founded in the Prairie Provinces by Icelandic settlers, being held in the Icelandic tongue until fairly recently.

The first Universalist Church was in Halifax in 1842. The Unitarian and Universalist beliefs were similar. For many years there was talk of union and eventually, in 1961, various differences were resolved and the two merged to form the Unitarian Universalist Association, of which the Quinte Unitarian Fellowship is a member. There are over 20 churches and many Fellowships all over Canada.

Boys' Cap Gun 'Fight' Believed Cause of Fire

A spark from a toy cap gun was believed responsible for a fire which Friday afternoon partially destroyed an old Shannonville barn.

Belleville firemen were successful in extinguishing the blaze, but the upper loft and part of the metal clad roof were burned.

The barn on the east side of the Salmon river, was rented by G. L. Sager and was used only as a garage for the family automobile.

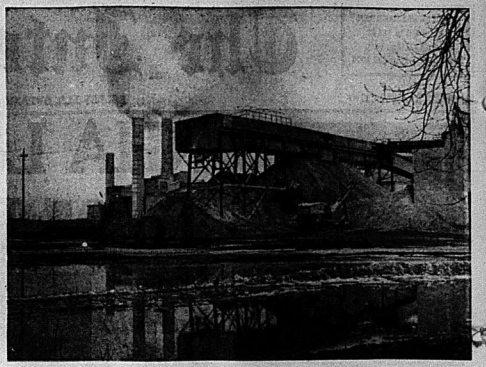
The Sagers' 12-year-old son Timmy and two of his friends shoved the car to safety.

Kennel Destroyed By Fire

TRENTON — An early morning fire destroyed one of the units at Karlston Kennels on the Carrying Place Road.

The owner, Mrs. Hilda Jones, was aroused by barking from a toy poodle "Petite" she keeps in the house. The one dog being kept in the kennel levelled by the flames, the Jones' expensive Pyrenees named Panda was rescued amid smoke and flames.

By the time firemen had travelled the considerable distance from the downtown station the fire was out of control.



Assessors Pass Course

Three practising assessors with the Hastings county assessment department have completed a three-year extension course from Queen's University and have received graduation diplomas.

The diplomas, presented by county assessment commissioners S. C. Jevons, were handed out Thursday night at a meeting of Hastings county assessors held in Madoc. Receiving the diplomas were Donald Armstrong, Millridge; Hgarth Sahine of Marmora and Donald Hass of Boulter.

Mr. Jevons congratulated the men on completion of their courses and on acceptance as members of the Institute of Municipal Assessors of Ontario.

The three-year extension course from Queen's is offered to practising assessors through co-operation with the Institute of Municipal Assessors of Ontario.

Belching Stacks Good Sign

Things have started to thaw around Point Anne — in more ways than one. While the surrounding countryside may be pitted with water pools they carry happy reflections these days. The Canada Cement kilns are bellowing smoke — signs of a return to normal production.

Canada Cement Plant Back in Operation

There's a sprightlier touch in the air around Point Anne and it all isn't due to Spring.

Spring may be just around the corner of the calendar, but there's a more positive reason for bouyancy in the company village.

It's being written in the sky — in the grey-white bellows of smoke gushing from the twin stacks of the Canada Cement Company.

Today, the company ends its first full work-week of production in two months.

The plant has been officially back in full-scale operation since Monday — ending a cutback period caused by a drop in market demand.

The Jan. 1 layoff idled more than 130 workers on unemployment and company benefits that totalled about 80 per cent of take-home wages.

"We're now back to normal operations," confirmed plant superintendent J. M. Legate.

He agreed the normalcy signified company optimism over market conditions.

Key disposal centre for the Point Anne production is the Metro Toronto sales region.

While no one was predicting the state of the market it "doesn't look too bad this year," said the superintendent.

PENTECOSTAL WMC

TYENDINAGA RESERVE

The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Council of the Tyendinaga Reserve Pentecostal Church took the form of a quilting bee. The women worked on a quilt which will be sent to the Eastern Pentecostal Bible School at Peterborough. Mrs. Perle Green was hostess for the meeting.

One Sunday in February was given over to this organization, with Mrs. Leslie Mann of Belleville bringing the message, and members taking over practically all parts of the service.

Several tables had been brought into the church, and on these were displayed the various articles which these devoted women had made during the winter, such as quilts, clothing, and layettes. All will be given to missions.

Stolen Safe Has Little Of Value

BRIGHTON — Village police and OPP of the local detachment have joined forces in the investigation of a safe missing from the medical building on Main St., since Thursday night.

Village chief of police Robert Thomson said today the robbers apparently "went to a lot of trouble" for little if anything. Among the articles in the safe were a number of cancelled cheques.

Investigation so far has revealed entrance to the building was gained through a cellar window. The safe was in the office on the ground floor.

IN MEMORIAM

CROSS — In loving memory of my dear mother, Minnie Cross who passed away on March 9th, 1944.

Time may not lessen the grief we have,
Since she left us gloomily shadow
Upon our home, where all was blest.
And took from us a shining light,
We miss that light and ever will,
Her memory is our treasure still,
We mourn but not in vain,
For in Heaven we will meet again.
—Sadly missed by her son Willie and wife and family.

HOLLINGER — In loving memory of a dear son, James Alexander Hollinger, who passed away March 9th, 1966.

Till memory fades and life departs,
You live forever in our hearts.
—Father and Mother.

RITZ — In loving memory of a dear husband, Lt. Carrying Place, Francis Ritz, who passed away March 9, 1964.

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by families and grandchildren.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank all my friends, neighbors and relatives for their cards, flowers, gifts while I was a patient in the hospital, and a special thank you to Dr. Crain, Dr. Hamilton and Dr. Tottenham. Thanks to staff nurses and Mr. Dylan Watkins.

Congregation Views Arctic Slides

NAPANEE — Following evensong in St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church last Sunday, members of the congregation were joined in the church hall by people from other churches to view slides and hear an informative talk on Arctic conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hunter of Hamilton last summer visited their daughter, Gloria, who has for two years been the senior nurse in a two-nurse hospital unit in Tuktoyaktuk, which lies on the shores of the Arctic Ocean.

Mrs. Hunter described the slides which dealt with domestic and social conditions, and Mr. Hunter, who is an engineer, enlarged on those which showed such things as the DEW line, which is only three miles from Tuktoyaktuk, and dry docks and kindred subjects.

This is the land of the midnight sun, where the thermometer sometimes registers 71 below zero, where hunting, trapping, and fishing are the sole industries. The women, however, are clever and command a good price for the articles they make, such as dolls and various things made of fur, even rugs with beautiful patterns. The soapstone and walrus tusk carvings are in great demand. The Hunters had a collection of handicrafted articles to show their audience.

As a graduate nurse, Miss Hunter was obliged to take several special courses before being allowed to assume her present position, courses such as X-ray work, midwifery, psychiatry and even dentistry. She and her fellow nurse must be prepared to treat many things which are treated only by doctors in other areas. They are hundreds of miles from a doctor, but can communicate by radio. A patient too seriously ill for them to treat is either flown out to hospital, or a surgeon is flown in. They make house calls, just as a doctor would.

There are a few other white people in the vicinity, and social life is limited to their get-togethers. A Roman Catholic priest, an Anglican clergyman and his wife, teachers for the school which takes its pupils only through grade five, a married member of the R.C.M.P., and a few technicians on the DEW line are the only white people.

Miss Hunter is a niece of Mrs. Harold Taffs of Napanee and Miss Tony Theiman, one of the teachers, comes from Deseronto.

Chief of Police Squelches Rumor

DESERONTO — A persistent rumor is circulating in Deseronto that Chief of Police Sid Moody has made application for the position of Chief of Police in Gananoque.

This rumor is absolutely without foundation, Chief Moody stated Thursday. "I am perfectly content with conditions in Deseronto, and so are the other members of the police department," he added.

In making his report to the council this week, Councillor Clayton Brooks stated that the communication system being installed for the use of the Police Department is almost ready to go into operation. Once this is in use, the Deseronto police can communicate with the Ontario Provincial Police and with other police departments.

Flexibility Is Preference

Tremendous Changes in Education: Horwood

In the spirit of Education Week, Robert D. Horwood, Inspector of Schools for the Belleville Public School Board, spoke to the Welfare, Health, Education and Recreation Employees of the Quinte Area yesterday at a luncheon meeting in the Hotel Quinte.

"Schools and schooling have evolved. From this evolution, I have attempted to select highlights which I feel have a bearing on education today."

Mr. Horwood reminisced about some of the first schools, like the one in Point Anne that originated as a fish shanty.

"The curriculum was the strong points of the teacher and the qualification was that he could do nothing else."

"Schools were doing for parents what circumstances wouldn't allow them to do."

Mr. Horwood stated what he felt was the second highlight in education — schools being brought under central control by the provincial government.

As characteristics of the new change, Mr. Horwood suggested teacher training institutions, compulsory attendance, compulsory finances, textbooks were suggested, courses of study and the graded system and the introduction of school inspectors.

In contrast he presented a list of rules presented to teachers by Inspectors in 1872.

Returning to the present he said, "Schools are searching for a means to provide for the individual differences of children".

"All children are different. We know that they don't grow at the same speed."

"Children vary in talents, interests, capabilities, experiences, and environment. Each child shows a wide range of abilities in each area of the curriculum, all this complicated by erratic growth patterns."

"Children are good when they are happy and they are happy when they are successful at work relevant to their interests or needs."

About teachers, Mr. Horwood mentioned, "at one time we thought that a teacher could present all the facts. A teacher can no longer do this. Knowledge is doubling every ten years."

"We can't rest until every child has equal assets to educational resources essential to his need."

Mr. Horwood outlined the meaning of the terfinology and "jargon" of modern education, such as team teaching, spiral curriculum, and discovery approach.

"In any school you will find, children happy at their study, principals searching for a way to report, teachers organizing a learning situation, desks arranged in an unorthodox manner and children moving from one classroom to another.

Concerning the ungraded school, Mr. Horwood described it as a preconceived idea. "I don't like the idea that we close and forget about the past. My preference is flexibility."

"I hope the school will be freed from looking backward in order to treat the student as a child today and contribute to preparing him for his world tomorrow.

"It's a real challenge, maybe even a pipe-dream."

Sunday School Groups Enjoy Several Parties

DESERONTO — Instead of having one party for all the Sunday School, with 76 children from three to 13, the staff of the Deseronto United church school decided this year to have several parties, with age groups together.

Intermediate boys and girls joined for two parties, one a sleighing party with Don Fingland as the driver, and the other at the home of Mrs. George Stuart, leader of the boys. Mrs. Ralph Aylsworth is leader of the girls.

Tom Shea, teacher of the junior boys, had help with the party for his boys, 16 of them from nine to 11. A skating party was enjoyed and later at the Church hall, Mrs. Thomas Jackson, superintendent, and Mrs. Ralph Jackson, served hot dogs, hot chocolate and cookies.

The junior girls had their fun helping with the party given for the two primary classes. The event was organized by their teacher, Mrs. Wilfred Kells with the primary teachers, Catherine Perry and Margaret Kells assisting.

The last day of February a newly formed Christian Education committee met at the parsonage and made plans, including some changes which the committee hopes will be for the better and will please the congregation.

Sewer System Rates Discussed By Council

DESERONTO — Deseronto is still trying to iron out problems connected with the installation of the sewer system. Rates are still under process of being decided, and any so far given have been estimates only.

Council asked the assistance of an OWRC representative in setting the rate for industry and particularly for a foods' industry which will be a heavy user of the facilities. A meeting was afterwards held with the president, and the tentative figure of $3,000 per annum was suggested. This is subject to negotiation.

Also, a letter from the OWRC was read at the meeting Monday dealing with the town's water supply. The town is badly in need of a new water tower and council has agreed that one should be installed. The Commission requested the report of the findings of the town engineers, Ilsley and Barrington, before giving its consent for the project. This report has not yet been received, as the engineers are continuing their investigation.

Reporting for the welfare committee, Councillor Robert Huffman noted that 28 heads of families with 116 dependents, as well as six single persons, are now receiving assistance from the town.

The Deseronto branch of the Canadian Cancer Society was granted permission to conduct a canvass of the town April 22.

Lunch hour is the time when most taxpayers throng revenue offices to seek advice on filing returns. Now, taxation offices in Belleville will stay open until 9 p.m. Monday and Tuesday to answer queries, convenience public.

Lends Helping Hand

Tax Collector--Man's Best Friend

Once upon a time — at this time of year — the taxpayer could lament his lot.

He could envision himself as weary, hard-pressed, even sore-afraid in the shadow of the tax collector.

Hard-pressed is a national norm these days. As for being sore afraid, that's a matter of conscience, between himself and his government.

But weary he needn't be — despite all the seeming intricacies of modern tax declaration.

This is where the tax collector is a man's best friend.

In Belleville, they're even staying open after hours to lend a helping hand.

Usually, the biggest rush for advice to the counters of the National Revenue offices comes at noon time.

This is normal, since most people can only make it during lunch hours. By the time they finish work for the evening the taxation division has also closed.

Last week, the tax people decided to convenience the citizens, remaining open until 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday. Few people, however, took advantage of the offer, apparently unaware it existed.

Now, however, there'll be a repeat.

Monday and Tuesday next week the Belleville taxation offices will remain open after 5 p.m. Until 9 p.m. both sights advice can be sought both by phone and in person from the local taxation employees.

And, by way of bonus, there will be similar late night openings April 29-30, just before the deadline runs out on filing 1967 income tax returns.

However, the sooner returns are completed the better—particularly for the lucky citizens who have oversubscribed.

"If they can get their returns in early, it means they get their refund more quickly", said a tax official.

Benson Anticipates More House Starts

George Chatterton (PC—Equimalt-Saanich) said the amendments do not help people most in need of help. Those earning less than $8,000 a year coun not qualify for NHA loans, thus two-thirds of Canadian wage-earners could not benefit. He suggested raising the ceiling on NHA new-housing loans to $24,000 from $18,000. This could be done by cabinet directive. It would not help those earning under $8,000 but others would benefit.

John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) said his party reluctantly supported the amendments. But they did not solve the problems of high cost and high interest rates now housing nor the housing shortage.

Buyers in urban centres where homes cost $25,000 or more must seekout secondary financing and pay exorbitant interest rates, Mr. Gilbert proposed a tenants' bill of rights to protect them against landlords.

Gerard Laprise (Creditiste—Chapleau) urged removit of the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials. Bert Leboe (SC—Cariboo) suggested the government follow British Columbia's example and pay $130 a year towards home taxes.

Schoolboys Display Homework

TRENTON—At the country club here last night it proven you can send boys on men's errands and get good results.

The boys, however, have to be the 1968 schoolboy curling champions of Canada from the Trenton high school.

Last night the Bill Hope skipped rink continued to show championship form by easily defeating the senior curling champions of the Eastern Ontario division 10-5 in a 10-end match.

The competition for the unofficial title of the Town of Trenton was sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce and attracted a large, enthusiastic crowd.

The schoolboys received wrist watches from the chamber as mementos to remind them of their winning performance in the national competition. The senior curlers for their effort last night took home to their wives a set of salt and pepper shakers in the likeness of curling stones.

Members of the senior rink were Lyle Carr (skip), Neil Ramsay (second), Jim Bowman (third) and Tom Bethertington (lead). The schoolboy champions were Bill Hope (skip), Brian Domney (second), Bruce Lord (third) and Dennis Gardiner (lead).

Civil Rights in Canada

Former Chief Justice J. C. McRuer's royal commission report on civil rights revives interest in the appointment of an ombudsman to guard against infringement of the liberties of the individual.

One or two provinces already have an ombudsman, and the people of Ontario similarly could benefit by such an appointment.

In pleading for greater protection of the individual and more control of the power of government and police, Mr. McRuer said his inquiry, involving hearings in all parts of Ontario, had uncovered a number of "shocking abuses" in which laws infringe on citizens' rights.

He said powers which allow police and other officials to stop and search individuals and to enter their premises to inspect and carry away personal property are a violation of civil rights.

From this stem such recommendations as: More control of police methods; a full review of land expropriation procedures (of particular importance in large centres like Toronto where the urban area is in a constant state of development and change); compensation for those hurt while trying to help police, and a more efficient court system.

With reference to the power of expropriation, the report called it an "infringement of civil liberties" and made 53 recommendations aimed at curbing abuses.

In all, the report makes no fewer than 559 recommendations and Premier Robarts has said a study of the report will begin at once. From the tone of the premier's remarks swift action may be expected toward implementing this important document. The abuses of personal liberties revealed therein are too glaring to be ignored.

Individual Freedom

Extraordinary are the areas in which the State — or the municipality — holds sway over the freedom of the individual.

Consider for instance Toronto's controversial "separate bedrooms" bylaw. This stipulates among other things that persons of the opposite sex who are over ten years of age must sleep in separate bedrooms.

The regulation governing bedrooms has actually been on the books since 1936 as part of the city's existing housing standards, but has rarely been enforced. A city official said he could recall it being enforced only once — against a father and his teenaged daughter living together in a one-room house.

The official may be taken at his word when he says there is no ground for fears that housing inspectors will swoop down on the city's bedrooms. On the other hand the bylaw is one of those "thin edge of the wedge" edicts which leaves the individual at the mercy of bureaucracy, the State, or whatever.

It is useful in this context to be reminded of former chief justice J. C. McRuer's comments in his royal commission report on citizen rights.

The report notes that the State "is the guardian of the right to be free," and goes on, "State power is something in the nature of a trust conferred by the people on all those in positions of authority."

Like the Golden Rule, the above is something that might be framed and placed on the office wall of everyone in authority in city and government in Toronto.

Easter Seals

On Thursday of this week the annual Easter Seal campaign opens in Ontario with the mailing of two and a half million appeal letters.

The campaign will raise funds for 16,000 needy children in the province. This year's target is $1,400,000. A large sum, it is needed to assist the society and 231 participating Easter Seal service clubs to finance one of the largest and most important children's rehabilitation programs in the world.

All donations, in what is anticipated will be the society's biggest campaign thus far, will help some crippled boy or girl.

Ottawa Offbeat

Battle of the 'Bobs' Looms for Prime Minister's Post

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Robert Henry Winters was the one man Conservatives hoped would not be running for the Liberal leadership.

Because Robert Winters, to hear many a now-troubled Tory tell it, is the one Liberal who could beat Bob Stanfield.

Could, mind you, not necessarily would.

At least that is the way many Conservatives are looking at it, although other, more impartial observers not emotionally involved in the next general election, might argue that the old maestro, Paul Martin, would not be exactly a Stanfield push-over.

But it is Bob Winters who has the Conservatives concerned.

For they, like a lot of Liberals in their secret hearts, and New Democrats in public statements, have been convinced that a Stanfield victory in the coming election — be it June or October-November — was so certain that it would be almost a waste of time and energy to bother campaigning.

Like the old New Democratic sage Stanley Knowles so neatly put it: "All Stanfield has to do is keep his mouth shut, his nose clean, and there he is — prime minister."

But now all that has changed with Bob Winters in the Liberal leadership race and instantly a front-runner.

Hesitate to mention it — but it was just five weeks ago this appeared in Ottawa Offbeat — "Think for a moment, what a draft of Trade Minister Robert Winters could mean to the Liberal leadership race.

"The handsomest face in the field, of course.

"But better than that — a fresh, as-good-as-new face that has not become a bore on the television screen, a voice not yet a yawn on the radio and ideas that have not become tiresomely profound.

"A vigorous, personable, talented candidate whose particular appeal has not been blunted and dulled by the over-exposure of too-early entry in the great race."

Well, now it has come about, and just such qualities of leadership and personal appeal have propelled Bob Winters instantly into the stretch drive with the two pace-makers, Paul Martin and Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Now both should shake off Trudeau and make it a two-man sprint to the last ballot and the prime ministerial prize.

The swinging Pierre was a bit of a mirage anyway, the kind of creation dreamed up in a charismatic vision by kindred spirits in the avant garde section of the CBC news and the metro—mostly Toronto—press.

His handicap in the leadership race was that most of the delegates at the convention will be mature adults not easily entranced by the dandified darling of the sophisticated swing set looking just peachy in sandals, ascot, casual jacket and slacks, and a thinning semi-Beatleized hair-do.

The solid things that Pelrre Elliott Trudeau has going for him — natural good looks, impressive brain power and captivating charm — Bob Winters has in equal, and with a little things, greater measure.

Just stand back and survey the Winters scene.

A six foot two, neat 200-pound package of blonde, blue-eyed physical fitness.

Simply a gorgeous hunk of candidate.

That clatter you may be hearing is all the girls jumping off that swinging bandwagon they were riding in such delirious joy with Pierre Elliott Trudeau now to go chasing off madly after the new sex symbol among the leadership candidates, the calm cool, courteous Robert Henry Winters.

For their boy-friends, husbands, fathers and grandpappies among the voting delegates Bob Winters projects the powerful appeal of can-do competence.

And after these Pearson-Diefenbaker years of crisis and confusion — Ottawa's Sick Sixties, Stan Knowles has dubbed them — isn't the idea of a can - do guy awfully comforting?

Bob Winters politically has been saying all the right things. He wants a balanced budget and a dollar that is a dollar and not a 60-cent facsimile of it — but he is not knocking Lester Pearson and Mitchell Sharp for not producing them.

He is for more social security, too — "when we can afford it." He is for foreign investment, especially American, and he is for strong defence a n d keeping the faith with our allies.

He sounds almost old-fashioned — but doesn't he sound good?

Like Bob Stanfield, Maritimers both, Bob Winters is convincing. You believe him, and you believe he can do.

A general election run - off between the two Bobs could do more than you think to restore the credibility of government and the prestige of Parliament.

City Merchant Answers Purchasing Agent's Criticism of Suppliers

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

As a Belleville merchant, and on behalf of all Belleville merchants and suppliers, I would like to register an objection to the remarks reported by your paper to have been made by Mr. Bruce Nickson of Corby Distilleries Ltd.

In past years, the nature of our business was such that we numbered a considerable portion of the area industry a n d commerce among our clientele. In almost every instance we were able to satisfy their needs at competitive prices, whenever we were given the same consideration and the same information as that which was given to out-of-town suppliers. In some cases, the volume of business that we obtained from local industry would run into many thousands of dollars annually, and we enjoyed excellent trade relations with all of our customers.

This is a sorry attitude on the part of Mr. Nickson, and one that he would do well to try and change. He may be one of those purchasing agents who would look down upon local suppliers no matter what their prices or inventories, and for reasons that are only known to himself. He may be one of those purchasing agents who ask for prices on hundred lots and then place an order for a single unit, expecting the supplier to deliver and invoice at the quantity price.

In most lines of business (excepting distilleries, of course) there exist graduated price lists based on quantity purchases. These scales are available to all legitimate buyers from legitimate suppliers on a legitimate basis. Belleville merchants and suppliers are not as those in any other locality. They carry comparable inventories and give comparable, competitive prices.

Why is there always somebody who wants to knock local enterprise? As a part of Belleville and district industry, Mr. Nickson should know better. It's much more effective to be a booster than a knocker.

One might even wonder what the people at Corby's think of the amount of goodwill that will be generated towards their own firm by such out - of - place "blasts" as that delivered by Mr. Nickson.

Wholesale Firm's Reply

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Regarding the speech of Mr. Bruce Nickson, purchasing agent for H. Corby Distillery, Ltd., to Belleville Kiwanis Club on Tuesday and reported in Wednesday's paper re the Belleville wholesale situation not being fair for distilleries, we have contacted Mr. Nickson and he states that this situation does not apply insofar as this particular firm is concerned.

We are glad that Mr. Nickson clarified this situation for us.

Automated Bricklayer

Stratford Beacon-Herald

After 15 years of tinkering, a West German mechanic has perfected an automatic bricklaying machine.

Similar machines have been developed before, but they could lay only smooth walls. His machine, says inventor Otto Lautsa, can be fed with five different programs, something like a computer, and can build not only smooth walls but corners, chimneys and many other structures. It even does away with the need for scaffolding and plumb lines.

Justus claims his robot can lay 3,000 bricks an hour, doing the work of 12 trained bricklayers, and reduce building costs by 33 per cent.

"Digger House" Is Toronto Haven for Hippie Derelicts

Ottawa Journal

Waves of shock ran through the audience of 500 in the shining auditorium of the National Library on Wednesday.

It heard first-hand accounts of modern orphans of the storm —the bewildered, often sick, people who go to Toronto's side, according to a witness, live in the gutter on what they can find in the gutter.

The witness at the meeting arranged by the Ottawa branch Canadian Mental Health Association, was bearded, gay-coated Don Riggs, 23, a Vancouver hippie who has been a leader in establishing in Toronto what is known as Digger House a residence operated by more responsible hippies for the waifs and strays. It is totally inadequate but remains a symbol of hope.

Information provided by Riggan and Miss June Callwood, a Toronto writer, was appalling.

Fifty Ottawa youngsters went to Yorkville the week before last, part of a long processive. They now are involved in a grimy society where according to Riggan, smokes tons of marijuana in a year. They are expused to some of the lowest, lack of proper food and shelter and the defiant code which rejects normal standards.

They knock at the door of Digger House, perhaps at 2 a.m. seeking the aid of their own kind. Digger House financed by churches and gifts from individuals, was to accommodate 12 persons; now it sleeps up to 90 a night. Often it is only a pause on the way to hospital for a no-mad. The recklessness of these broken children is such that, according to Miss Callwood, they will swallow a handful of any pills without asking what they are.

The largest concentration of these unfortunates is in Yorkville, but they are in every city, including Ottawa.

The estimate is that 20,000 youngsters will appear in Yorkville next summer. About 12,000 in the centre will return, little harmed, to understanding parents and happy homes.

The other 8,000 from all parts of Canada, will include boys and girls shattered by drugs, ill - health or mental illness. Among them will be vicious young thugs, ready with knife or gun, wolves in the fleece of gentle hippies. "They'll kill each other," said Miss Callwood.

A third speaker on the panel Wednesday night was Dr. F. R. Wake, professor of psychology at Carleton University, who observed their rebellion among the young is nothing new but today is different and more dangerous. Men such as he give good coun- l to arents nd teenagers both, but there is still an now the anguish of the boys and girls who sought freedom from their parents and found drug addiction and. grime.

The chairman of the panel was D. L. Sinclair, associate executive director of the Toronto Social Planning Council and former director of the Canadian Mental Health Association in Ontario. He knows the problem and the need. He could only agree that neither in Toronto nor Ottawa is there the necessary agency to rescue the broken hippie or save those in danger.

In Ottawa the Y and the Salvation Army and other agencies do their best to help but it is not enough. The Ottawa Youth Services Bureau soon will have a boys' residence for young delinquents, usually in the eight to 14 age group, but that alone cannot be the answer.

The hippies have a joke. Now they are a tragedy. To abandon them because they are rebellious or "dirty" would be inhumane as well as unintelligent. It appears time that provincial and municipal authorities combined to give this problem the attention it deserves. No, not "catering to a bunch of insolent kids," but examining a case where our society is breaking down — a society the old created but which the young are living in.

World Catholics Still Divided By Vatican Council Reports

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)- Three years have passed since the second Vatican council, but the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics still are divided over its recommendations.

Three issues have provoked the most dissension: Birth control, celibacy among priests and the use of vernacular language in the mass.

By their reactions, clergy and laity have been classified into two groups: The conservatives, hesitant to see any major shift in the church's thinking, and the progressives, who want the council's more liberal attitudes continued and expanded.

Many want action soon. Others are prepared to wait patiently for Pope Paul's authoritative decision to clarify the birth control issue—a decision which, they feel, will indicate how the church is evolving.

One of the major changes concerns the saying of mass in the vernacular instead of Latin.

Almost everywhere, mass now is said in the tongue of the area where the church is located.

While this and various changes in the liturgy now are generally accepted, the older generation and the young are divided.

In the Irish Republic, one of the most fervently and traditionally observant Roman Catholic countries, the intellectuals are pleased with the progress made. But the great majority of the rural population is reported to be confused by the changes and bewildered by steps which they regard as indications of a weakening of authority within the church.

Almost all Catholics everywhere welcome suggestions for reform of the code of canon law. They believe that if the church is brought into line with modern life, the training of priests must be liberalized to ensure they are thoroughly conversant with all its problems and can help to find the answers.

Priests themselves are divided. The older ones urge the retention of traditional disciplines while the young ones look for more practical studies.

In the United States, there is widespread unrest. On voyage, they boot one priest a day leaves the priesthood, usually to marry.

In Argentina and other South American countries, departures are seriously aggravating the shortage of priests. Here again, celibacy is blamed.

Relaxation of the celibacy vow is favored in some European countries.

For the laity, the main preoccupation is birth control. Catholics are forbidden to practise birth control by artificial means.

The advent of the pill—considered by those who favor it as being in a category apart from previously available methods—together with population explosions in many countries, has put the whole question of birth control in the spotlight.

In some countries, such as Portugal, the laity are content patiently to await the Pope's decision. In others the need for an early authoritative decision clarifying the position is being urged.

In overcrowded Italy, there is a growing tendency to interpret the church's teaching more liberally than in the past. Some confessors are reported to be counselling people to follow their conscience pending a definitive ruling.

Canadian and American nuns, ordered by the Pope to bring themselves up to date and adapt themselves to the modern world, are breaking out of their enclosures, exchanging medieval robes for modern dress and moving into the slums to work among the poor.

Their new spirit of independence has surprised and even angered some elder bishops.

Controversy continues among French Catholics about the use of the vernacular for the mass. But a recent survey carried out by himself indicated that 85 per cent of French Catholics approved of the change.

Priests report a more active participation in the mass since French was introduced.

There is, however, a widespread feeling in both clerical and lay circles that the church would benefit from an early pastoral statement on birth control.

The changes advocated by the Vatican council have started off a genuine religious revival in Spain. But, again, many younger clergy and lay people feel that the pace is not fast enough.

The liturgical changes have been fully implemented. But the government's law on religious liberty disappointed many Spanish Protestants. They consider it is opposed to the spirit of the Vatican council.

Britain's estimated 4,000,000 Roman Catholics mostly favor the church reforms, although many feel that too little is being done.

For many, the Vatican council gave rise to hopes which have not yet been fulfilled. Some show anxiety at what they regard as conservative attitudes and lack of leadership in Rome.

On birth control, British opinion is divided. Some argue that official thinking may not have had time to catch up with the attitude of most Catholic laymen. Others consider a speedy decision ending uncertainty is essential.

Mixed-marriage laws are another big problem requiring early solution, especially in countries with large mixed Protestant-Catholic populations, such as Britain, West Germany and the U.S., or in Poland, where a Catholic may want to marry a Communist.

The laws, however, are illiberal or no problem in largely Catholic countries such as Spain and Portugal.

The Vatican council's readiness for dialogue with the Communist regimes and the Pope's social encyclical have combined to create an improved climate in church-state relations in Eastern Europe.

In these countries, where the church is still under pressure, changes in liturgy, the use of the vernacular and the reform of canon law have lower priorities than in the West.

Grandchildren Are Also Grandparents

REGINA (CP) — Grandma and Grandpa are granddaughter and grandson themselves in the five-generation Alberts family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alberts of Regina have two granddaughters. Bobbi Walker, 3, of Regina, and Rhonda Wheatley, 2, of Kelvington, Sask.

At the other end of the family tree are Mrs. Alberts' grandfather, Frank Slaven, 88, of Moose Jaw, and Mr. Alberts' grandmother, Annie Bird, 100, of Calgary.

Mrs. Alberts' parents also live in Regina and Mr. Alberts' mother lives in Calgary.

That gives each of the little girls the usual four grandparents, three great-grandparents, a great great-grandmother and a great-great grandfather.

English Registry Mark An Easy Antique Identification

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

A diamond on the bottom of an old dish is often the clue needed to identify the maker and age of a particular piece. The English registry mark is one of the easiest antique identification emblems.

A group of numbers and letters an the letters Rd are inside the diamond. If the top corner of the mark has a letter in it, the piece was registered from 1842 to 1867. If the top corner of the diamond shows a number, the piece was registered from 1868 to 1883.

The registry mark show when the design for the dish was listed with the English government. It is not an absolute guarantee of age. It is usually true that the dish was made within a few years of the registry date.

Q. I have an old wooden snipe. Everyone laughs when I mention the name of my decoy. When were snipe decoys used?

A. "Want to go on a snipe hunt?" is the question asked most first time campers on their first overnight trip in the woods. The imaginary snipe is never found after a night of weird noises and motions furnished by the old-time campers in the know.

There actually is a bird called a snipe. It is a small shore bird. The conservation laws have prohibited snipe hunting since 1918. Because the snipe is an Atlantic Coast bird the decoys are most often found in states bordering that ocean. Many types of decoys were made to lure birds within gunshot. The old decoys are now part of the American Folk Art.

Q. I own a silver sardine box. How was it used?

A. The square silver sardine box was a creation of the Victorian silver designer about 1880. It was used to serve cold canned sardines at the table. The box usually had a design that included fish as a handle or a stand. The traditional sardine box was a glass box with a lid of silver or glass. The box was on a pedestal base.

Q. Did William Morris really design the Morris chair?

A. Tradition says that Morris personally designed the chair named for him, but researchers now believe that he did not. William Morris was an expert in many fields including writing, printing, textile and wallpaper designing, politics, and furniture making. He headed a company that made fine, trend setting types of furniture at the turn of the 20th century.

Two very influential chairs were introduced by the Morris firm. A Sussex chair with a rush seat was made about 1864. The Morris chair with an adjustable back was made in 1866. Both chairs were based on earlier versions of country chairs. The design of these chairs was encouraged by Warington Taylor, the firm manager.

Q. "The Prince and Princess of Wales" is the name of my print marked Currier and Ives, 125 Nassau Street, New York. How old is it?

A. Currier and Ives made their famous colored lithographs at 125 Nassau Street from 1872 to 1894. They worked from different factories before and after that date.

Teleplex insulators are among the newer collectibles interesting antique hounds. "A Guide for Insulator Collectors" by Tibbitt at 125 The Little Glass Shack, 2161 56th St., Sacramento, Calif. 95820) includes sketches and prices.

The "V" in the top corner of the diamond shaped English registry mark tells that the piece was registered from 1842 to 1867. The Roman numeral "IV" is the code name for pottery or porcelain. This mark was also used on glass and other wares.
